U.S. Trying To Keep Chinese Out

Fear Red Invasion Of Formosa If Chiang Aids Korea

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP) —The United States manoeuvred today to keep Chinese forces—both Nationalist and Communist — from becoming involved in the fighting in Korea.

In a note to the Nationalist government on Formosa, Washington warned Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek that before he dispatches any troops to aid the South Koreans, he should consider the defences of this own Communist-threatened position.

He was advised to consult Gen. Douglas MacArthur on Formosa's defence arrangements, and the note disclosed that plans for the consultations between Chiang's and MacArthur's representatives had already been made.

The published American attitude toward Nationalist China's offer of aid in the Korean fighting was based on "the threat of invasion" of Formosa by Chinese Communists. However, it was understood here that a major consideration was the possible reaction of the Communists to any such aid move.

Waiting For Excuse

Diplomatic and military authorities were represented as feeling that the entrance into Korea of Chiang's forces—he offered 33,000 men—would be seized upon by the Communists as an excuse for sending their own Chinese troops into the fighting on the side of the northern invaders.

Meanwhile, member of the United Nations which are co-operating in the efforts to roll back the Red forces from South Korea were reported generally to favor naming MacArthur, America Far East commander, as supreme commander for the U.N. in this struggle.

Train Knifes Bus 23 People Killed

BOURG-EN-BRESSE, France, July 3 (AP)—An express train carrying 90 children of French coal miners crashed into an excursion bus near here today, killing 23 persons on the bus. None of the children was injured.

Only one of the 26 bus passengers escaped with slight injuries. He and the other two more seriously injured survivors were taken to a hospital in nearby Lons-le-Saunier.

The crash occurred at a grade crossing near this town, 35 miles northeast of Lyon. Officials said the barrier, which should have been down across the road while the train passed through, was open. The speeding train caught the bus squarely in the centre, strewing bodies and tangled metal for some 2,000 feet along the track.

All the bus passengers were residents of Foissat, many of them war veterans headed for an outing at Lake Saint-Pointe. The train was a special express carrying the children from northern France to a vacation colony in the French Alps.

Pink And Green Roads Not Elephants In U.K.

LONDON, July 3 (Reuters) — British road-building researchers are experimenting with rainbow-colored roads.

A busy highway near London airport is being painted with gay shades of pink, green and cream. If the experiments prove successful the first colored roads may be laid on the Thames river Festival-of-Britain site to make things brighter for visitors.

The scheme may later be extended to the whole of Britain—as a safety measure.

The experimenters say pedestrians would be easier to see in the dark if the road surface were light, and roads shadowed by trees would be more navigable if painted a bright color.

Canada Names Trade Deputy As Delegate

Will Report On Methods For Best Co-Operation With Europe

OTTAWA, July 3 — (CP) — Canada today named the man to forge the first link in her new informal economic tie-up with Western Europe.

He is Sydney D. Pierce, Associate Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce and a key man in Canada's arms mobilization and production planning.

The External Affairs Department said he will represent Canada at the next meeting of the council of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation at Paris July 6.

He will report back on the methods by which he feels Canada could best fulfill her agreement to work informally with OEEC to bring about greater economic co-operation between Europe and North America and to solve economic problems generally.

OEEC is the international organization that grew up out of Marshall Aid. Both Canada and the U.S. recently agreed to share in its deliberations on an informal basis.

The announcement does not mean Mr. Pierce will be Canada's permanent representative on OEEC. His advice will have a large bearing on what form that representation will take.

The fact that he is the Trade Department's arms chief raises the possibility that he will carry-forward in Paris Canada's hopes to become an arms-producing country under the Atlantic Pact.

Thunderstorm Leaves Trail Of Fires, Floods

LONDON, Ont., July 3 (CP)— A sudden thunderstorm which hit London and most parts of western Ontario Sunday night left a trail of fires, disrupted hydro service, caused sewers to back up, flooding cellars and cut telephone service in some areas.

The storm was followed by a heavy fog which slowed traffic to a snail's pace throughout the district.

Hardist hit was the Bell Telephone Company here which reported cables were knocked out to Sarnia, Petrolia, Detroit, Hensall, Zurich, Grand Bend, Thedford and Exeter.

The storm sent city firemen to six separate blazes, all of which were believed to have been caused by lightning. Damage was slight in each case.

More than 100 residents reported their cellars flooded and a crew of city workers were kept busy throughout the night working to restore services.

Members of Rural Hydro Commission said most of their difficulty was caused by blown transformer fuses. The London Public Utilities Commission reported only small interruptions.

UK Press In Mourning For Rio Soccer Defeat

LONDON, July 3 (AP)—The British press was practically in mourning for English soccer today after Spain's 1-0 win over England at Rio De Janeiro in the world soccer tournament.

The Daily Herald put a formal funeral announcement, black-bordered and in old English lettering, on its front page. The text:

"In affectionate remembrance of English football, which died at Rio on July 2, 1950. Deeply lamented by a large circle of narrowing friends and acquaintances. RIP (rest in peace). The body will be cremated and the ashes taken to Spain."

Other newspapers adopted much the same tone.

Shaw Doesn't Want Birthday Reminders

LONDON, July 3 (AP)—George Bernard Shaw doesn't want to be reminded, by cakes, telegrams, flowers or letters, that he will be 94 years old July 26.

To head off as many congratulations as possible Shaw has been mailing unsigned, printed cards to persons who, on the basis of past performances, might be expected to pester him again. The mesage says:

"Mr. Bernard Shaw implores his friends and readers not to celebrate his birthdays, nor even to mention them to him."

Further Aid May Be Sent Without Calling Commons

OTTAWA, July 3—(CP)—Canada might send some further aid beyond three destroyers to fight Northern Korean aggression without recalling parliament, official sources said today. They were commenting on announcement that Australia's parliament has been recalled over Korea.

They said warships from the Atlantic, possibly including the aircraft carrier Magnificent, could be moved into the Pacific if the situation warranted that move. If needed in Korea, the Atlantic ships would be available.

So far, however, there are no signs that such a step will be necessary. Nor is there any sign that the three destroyers slated to leave Esquimalt, B.C., Wednesday for Pearl Harbor will be called on by the United Nations to sail on to Korea to join in U.N. police action.

Waiting Word

The government has told UN they will be available if wanted. The next UN move is expected to come Wednesday with a meeting of the Security Council to consider a formal link between UN headquarters and Gen. MacArthur's Tokyo command. Ottawa expects no word on the destroyers at least until then.

Officials here pointed out that Australia's parliament has been in recess and is being called back. Canada's parliament only prorogued Friday after sitting some five months.

RCMP Doubts Reported Crash

QUEBEC, July 3 — (CP) — RCMP said today their inquiry into reports of a plane crash near Ste. Apolline raises doubt that a missing naval Sea Fury is the aircraft involved.

RCMP said information obtained at St. Apolline was that a crash might have occurred near there Thursday evening but the missing naval plane took off from Quebec for Halifax Friday.

Quebec headquarters of RCMP said their agents at Montmagny last night questioned Louis-Philippe Bolduc and his son who reported the crash near the Montmagny county village, some 60 miles east of Quebec and near the Maine border.

Bolduc's son told RCMP they were fishing near Ste. Apolline Thursday evening when he heard the sound of a plane. He shouted to his father: "Look up and you'll see a plane coming."

They said when no plane appeared, they presumed there had been a crash.

Arrested After Chase

TORONTO, July 3 (CP) — James O. Leitch, 23, of suburban Mimico was arrested Sunday after a chase in which police allege he twice tried to ram a police cruiser with a stolen truck. Charged with theft of the truck, Leitch was released on $1,000 bail.

Belgian Golfer Leads 1st Round

TROON, Scotland, July 3 (CP) —Flory Van Donck, 38-year-old Belgian pro, today shot a record-smashing 65 for the Troon course to pace early finishers in the first round of qualifying play for the British open golf championship.

The tall, bronzed Belgian, wielding a hot putter, went out in 34 and came in in 31 for a five-under-par score.

A total of 244 amateurs and pros started out in the first round of the two-round qualifying affair.

Bobby Locke of South Africa, favorite with bookmakers to win the event fired a course record 68 over Loch Green's long layout. Locke is 3-to-1 favorite with the bookies.

The low 100 scorers qualify for the 72-hole championship starting Wednesday. Scorers in the two qualifying rounds won't count in the aggregate. Each contestant will play one round over Troon and one over Loch Green in the qualifying rounds.

Chinese Reds Plan Purge of Membership

LONDON, July 3—(Reuters)—The Chinese Communist party is to carry out a purge of its membership, a dispatch to the Soviet official news agency from Peiping received in London indicated today.

The purge will be conducted under a resolution which has been adopted by the central committee of the Communist party of China, Tass reported.

The central committee resolution said the "majority of the party's new members show a lack of political stability and discipline and have not received adequate training."

"Among many old party members and even among its leadership symptoms of conceit and complacency are much in evidence."

Royal Navy Unscathed Helps Sink 5 Boats

LONDON, July 3 (AP)—The Admiralty disclosed today that Royal Navy warships came through unscathed in their first fight with North Korean vessels.

Supplementing Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique—which said a combined United States and British fleet sank five of six motor torpedo boats engaged off the Korean east coast Sunday—the Admiralty released a message from Admiral Sir Patrick Brind, British naval commander-in-chief in the Far East.

The message said one torpedo boat got away. "Shore targets were also bombarded," Sir Patrick report. "No damage or casualties were suffered by the British or U.S. ships."

It was the first British official statement on action in the Korean war.

Appointed Ambassador

OTTAWA, July 3 — (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson announced today the designation of W. F. A. Turgeon, Canadian High Commissioner in Dublin, has been changed to that of Canadian Ambassador to the Republic of Ireland. Last April, Sean Murphy arrived in Ottawa as Ireland's first ambassador to Canada.

No Proof Counterfeiter, Langton Killer Same Man

TORONTO, July 3 (CP)—Ontario Provincial Police said today they have no proof the Langton murder suspect and the maker of counterfeit coins found Thursday in a Windsor garage are the same man.

Windsor police said during the weekend that a 37-year-old man named Herbert James McAuliffe, linked with the counterfeiting plant, and George Walker, charged with a double murder and armed robbery in Langton June 21, are one and the same.

They said a roominghouse operator had identified pictures of Walker, alias Frank West, as McAuliffe.

Walker was captured June 24 after a 75-hour manhunt. He is charged with robbing the Langton bank and killing his pursuers, Arthur Lierman and William Goddyn.

Windsor police found the counterfeiting plant and a small arsenal in a raid on a garage.

Inspector Alex McLeod, of the Criminal Investigation Bureau said RCMP fingerprint files in Ottawa, which first identified the suspect as George Walker, are being rechecked.

Rail Workers Vote For Strike

35,000 Men Ready To Back Up New Wage Demands

MONTREAL, July 3—(CP) —A vote to strike "if necessary" to back up wage-hour demands was announced here by one of Canada's two major railroad unions.

The announcement came from the Canadian Brotherhood of railway employees and other transport workers. (C.C.L.) and the Brotherhood of Express Employees (C.C.L.) which called for the strike vote among its 35,000 members after union leaders rejected a conciliation board compromise nearly three months ago.

The other union group consists of 15 international brotherhoods affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and numbering more than 90,000 members. This group has also sent out strike ballots which are returnable July 25.

Both unions asked Canadian railways for a 40-hour week to replace the current 48-hour week with no reduction in take-home pay, plus general wage increases

10-Cent Increase

In addition the CBRE asked a 10-cent hourly increase and union dues checkoff. The AF of L brotherhoods asked a seven-cent hourly raise.

The railways, the Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Ontario Northland and Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo, estimated the union demands would cost $84,000,000 yearly. The dispute involves only non-running trades employees such as express workers and telegraph operators.

Conciliation boards heard the dispute through the winter months. The boards recommended a 44-hour week and an increase in hourly pay, but not enough to give the same take-home pay as present in lal cases

The railways accepted the report but labor spokesmen rejected it and called for the strike ballot.

T. McGregor, chairman, and W. J. Smith, secretary, of the CBRE union negotiating committee, said any strike action would not be taken independently of the other unions.

They said the strike vote authorized them to take a strike if and when it was considered advisable.

The statement did not give the actual vote but said "results show an overwhelming majority of our members favor strike action."

Diamonds Stolen From UK Church

LONDON, July 3 (Reuters) — Police today kept watch at all port for £10,000 worth of diamonds ripped from the high altar cross at Exeter Cathedral, Devon, during the weekend.

They were expected to seek the help of Dutch and French police in the belief the thieves would try to get the stones out of Britain as soon as possible.

The six foot high silver cross, its diamonds expertly removed, was found in a field on the Exeter-London road Sunday morning.

A few hours earlier, vergers opening the bomb-damaged 13th century cathedral for early communion had found a side door forced open. The £20,000 cross had gone.

Britain Ready to Build Industrial 'A' Plant

LONDON, July 3— (AP) — Supply Minister George Strauss said today Britain is getting ready to build its first experimental plants to produce atomic energy for industrial use.

The research is being carried on at the government laboratory at Harwell.

Strauss told the Commons in reply to a question:

"A program for the construction of the first experimental power reactors now is being prepared. Until some experience has been gained it would be premature to estimate their proppects.

Food Supply Hit

LONDON, July 3—(Reuters)—Nearly 3,000 men who help to keep London's 8,000,000 citizens supplied with food stopped work today in protest against the use of troops to deliver meat held up by a strike of 1,400 truck drivers. Londoners' supplies of butter, eggs, bacon and other rations are threatened, though more than 2,000 troops and nearly 600 Army trucks have been thrown in to keep food rolling to the shops.

Pearson Denies Giving List Of Atom Spies

OTTAWA, July 3 (CP).—External Affairs Minister Pearson today branded as "completely untrue" the statement of a New York importer that Canada had turned over a list of 150 "Soviet atom spies" in 1945 to President Truman.

Mr. Pearson did not elaborate on his statement, issued through his office.

A Washington dispatch said the importer, Alfred Kohlberg, said in an open letter to Representative Frank Buchanan (De. Pa.) that President Truman received the list in 1945 from former Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

In a recent debate in the Commons, Mr. Pearson said that during the hearings of Canada's Royal Commission on Espionage in 1945 and 1946 some evidence came to light from a notebook owned by one of the suspects, who later was accused and acquitted.

The notebook contained some 400 names and addresses. Of those, there were 150 names of persons resident in Canada, 163 persons resident in United States and five of persons resident in the United Kingdom.

The names of the United States residents were turned over to United States security authorities with all the evidence available. The names of the residents of the United Kingdom were turned over to United Kingdom authorities.

Wants Repulse Of Red Troops

GENEVA, July 3 (AP)—Herman Santa Cruz of Chile, today opened the eleventh session of the United Nations economic and social council with a plea for the repulse of the Communist aggressors in Korea.

The seats of the Russian, Czech and Polish delegates were vacant. The Chilean president of the council told his colleagues that the organization was meeting "in a very difficult moment in international relations never before seen since the birth of the United Nations."

Santa Cruz said the aggressors in Korea have "put to the test the machinery of the United Nations" and urged his colleagues to seek fruitful results from the meeting. The council should show, he said, that the United Nations is not an "abstract and idealistic entity without contact with the realities of the world."

Premier of Iran Stoned Blame Ambitious Politicians

TEHRAN, Iran, July 3 (AP)— Riotous demonstrators threw stones and fought police with chairs Sunday in an effort to rush upon Gen. Aly Razmara, army strong man who was named Premier last Monday.

A number of persons were injured seriously, including three policemen, but Razmara drove away untouched. The demonstration occurred outside the parliament building, where the Premier had been defending his proposed program and cabinet of political newcomers.

Observers said the demonstration apparently was organized by the National Front, an opposition group of about 12 members of the 136-man parliament. This group chiefly old-time political leaders charged in the debate that Razmara has dictatorial ambitions. They recalled that the father of the present Shah reached the throne in the 1920's by stepping from army leadership to the Premier's office.

Parliament is to vote on the Premier's program this week and approval seems uncertain.

There is a widespread belief that Razmara's government will receive limited economic aid from the United States. Henry Grady, new U.S. ambassador who supervised American aid to Greece in the civil war, arrived here four days ago and presented his credentials to the Shah Sunday.

Events in Korea have made Iran more anxious than ever to receive such aid.

Meanwhile, a handful of United States soldiers is helping Iran forge a modern national police force.

It is an important mission for the 13 men who have come to do the job. Iran—the modern Persia—is the right flank of the belt of non-Communist countries skirting the Iron Curtain eastward from Italy.

Seven Australian Planes Strafe U.S. Troops In Attack On Village

Powerful North Korean Tank Drive Lags Under Heavy Pounding
Break Through Not Believed So Serious

TOKYO, July 4—(Tuesday)—(AP)—An Australian air attack on frontline positions in South Korea gave American troops an unexpectedly close taste of warfare Monday, but they still had not met the North Korean invaders on the ground. Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in a communique early today indicated the far-ranging American and Australian raids had helped bring the invaders almost to a halt. The communique did not mention the frontline incident specifically, but AP correspondent Tom Lambert, who was on the scene, reported an American sergent was wounded in the foot as five to seven Australian-marked Mustangs savagely strafed a Korean village in which an American command post was digging in.

Lambert said it was a 25-minute strafing and rocket attack.

MacArthur's communique described the invaders as strengthening their anti-aircraft around Seoul due to the stinging American and Australian fighter raids. U.S. B-29s also raided the North's Yonpo airfield for the second straight day.

It also reported the North Koreans were building up supplies and bases for a new drive southward but they were reported to have made no serious progress during Monday's sporadic clashes.

Spray Columns

American bombers and fighters in large numbers sprayed bombs, rockets and machine-gun fire at the Communists, four of whose tank columns were across the Han River. Another Red tank column had taken Wonju, 50 miles east of Seoul, captured South Korea capital.

American and Australian fighter planes wrecked seven North Korean tanks and 22 trucks and shot down two hostile planes Monday. The Communists were building up their anti-aircraft positions in the Seoul area and

Reds Cut Off Water But Wasting Time

BERLIN, July 3—(AP)—West Berlin functioned normally tonight with its own electric and water supply, completely independent of the Soviet sector and the surrounding Russian zone.

The east sector today shut off its water conduits to the west, carrying out a threat voiced a week ago in an argument over payments. Electric current from the east was cut Sunday, as an outcome of the same kind of argument over rates.

The changeover caused scarcely a ripple where once it would have been a catastrophe. The West sectors, with Allied backing, built up their own power and water sources to self-sufficiency standards as a direct lesson learned from the Russian blockade of 1948-49.

Queuille Forms New Govt., Socialists Angry

PARIS, July 3 (AP)—Premier Henri Queuille has formed a new cabinet whose right-wing tinge already has aroused socialist ire. The government may receive its first crucial test in the National Assembly tomorrow.

The new cabinet formed Sunday, eight days after George Bidault's government toppled, could be defeated tomorrow, if the assembly votes against Queuille on some technical issue.

The crisis which brought in the new government has had little to do with France's foreign policy. Foreign Minister Robert Schuman has been kept in his post, indicating that his plan to pool Western Europe's coal and steel has full government backing.

Recess Meeting

The meeting of six countries discussing the plan was recessed when the French crisis came. Delegates went home to get their government's opinions on the French proposal for an over-all international authority to control the pool. They meet here again today.

Complaints about France's new government are expected to come from the left side of the assembly. The Socialists, who refused to join, dislike two new ministers. They are former Premier Paul Reynaud, who takes the new post of minister of state for the associated states and the Far East and Paul Giacobbi, minister of state for civil service. The Communists like them even less.

Both men are right wingers. Reynaud is an Independent and Giacobbi a member of Queuille's Radical Socialist group.

Tourists Visit Queen's Home

GLAMIS, Scotland, July 3 (AP) —Tourists paying an admission fee can enter and poke around storied Glamis Castle, birthplace of Princess Margaret and ancestral home of Queen Elizabeth.

The public is being admitted twice a week for a price, said the owner, the Earl of Strathmore, because he has to do something to meet costs of upkeep and taxes.

Glamis is reputed to be one of the gloomiest castles of Scotland. It is the countryside in which Shakespeare laid his sombre tragedy, Macbeth. Castle records go back to 1033, when King Malcolm II was murdered there.

350 Death Toll Soars Over Holiday In U.S.

CHICAGO, July 3—(AP)—The holiday weekend accidental death toll in the United States climbed to 350 today as millions of motorists took to highways and beaches for the July 4 celebration.

Highways mishaps caused 236 death, there were 71 drownings, one fireworks fatality and 42 from miscellaneous causes.

The National Safety Council had said it would be the biggest four-day traffic jam in history and predicted that 385 would be killed before it ends, about midnight tomorrow.

The council estimated that 36,000,000 vehicles would be on the highways between 6 p.m. (local times) Friday and midnight Tuesday.

$6,000 Barn Destroyed By Flames

Big Bucket Brigade Saves House Of Manvers Farmer

BETHANY, July 3 (ENS) — A $6,000 barn was destroyed Saturday morning, together with 11 head of young cattle, 75 turkeys and a quantity of straw and hay, in a fire on the 200-acre farm of Ernest Gray, Manvers township.

The barn was one of the largest and most modern in the Bethany district, located about four miles west of the village.

A spark from a gasoline engine, the power unit being used to bale straw, is blamed for the outbreak. In a matter of seconds the spark had grown into a large-size fire, beyond the capacity of Mr. Gray and two other men to extinguish.

The 11 cattle were led out of the barn but panicked when they saw the fire and rushed back into the flaming building.

75 Turkeys Killed

Besides the cattle, 75 turkeys were killed and 300 bushels of wheat destroyed. Part of the first crop of hay had been stored away and it, together with a quantity of straw being baled, was also lost.

Also burned was the silo containing the ensilage crop, and a nearby implement shed. All the implements were removed before the flames got a hold on it, however.

Only the prompt response of nearly 100 neighbors saved the house from being burned to the ground as well. A bucket brigade was formed and as soon as a shower of sparks would fall on the house they were extinguished by one of the hard-working volunteers.

Several small fires started but they were snuffed out before they got a start. The intense heat made it impossible for the onlookers to salvage anything more of value from the barn.

Mr. Gray is only partly covered by insurance.

Train Pulls Detroit Car 65 Yards, None Hurt

Two Detroit men were uninjured early today when their car was dragged 65 yards after hitting a freight train at Downer's Corners.

Driver of the car, Leroy Williams, told police he had been driving west on highway 7 and stopped for the double-engined CNR freight. He said he was looking in the glove compartment, not paying much attention to the train, when the car rolled ahead, striking the seventh car from the rear.

The car, with Williams and his passenger, Walter Lewis, was dragged 65 yards.

The left side of the car was badly damaged, both fenders being crumpled, the hood bent, grill broken, and the bumper bent.

A ladder on the box-car was bent.

Boy Showing Off Shoots Himself

MADOC, July 3.—A 10-year-old boy trying to impress his sister shot and killed himself here Friday.

"I'm going to shoot myself," Clifford Gordon Casselman, told his sister Madeleine, 14. Pointing a .38 calibre revolved at his temple, he pulled the trigger. The gun fired, and the boy died almost immediately.

The gun belonged to a brother, William Carl Casselman, who was out picking berries at the time, according to Prov. Cpl. Jack Hatch. The weapon was a war souvenir brought from overseas. the brother told investigating police. It had been left in a suitcase where the victim apparently found it while playing.

Parents of the boy, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Casselman, were called from the barn by the hysterical sister.

Coroner Dr. S. Eagleson investigated with police and said that no inquest will be held.

He's Only Candidate Gen. Odria Re-Elected

LIMA, Peru, July 3—(AP)—More than 90 per cent of Peru's voters cast ballots Sunday in a national election in which there was only one presidential candidate—Brig-Gen. Manuel A. Odria. However, many cast blank protest ballots.

Returns from 600 out of 870 voting districts in Lima gave 71,995 votes for Odria.

In most areas it is estimated that more than 70 per cent of the ballots carried Odria's name, but in Arequipa, where a bloody revolt was stamped out some weeks ago, some 60 per cent of the voters were said to have cast blank protest ballots.

In both Arequipa and Trujillo—a well-known centre of the outlawed Leftist party—voting was orderly.

Australian Parliament Reassembles July 6

CANBERRA, July 3 (AP) — Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced today that parliament will reassemble July 6 to discuss the Korean situation.

Menzies also said the government has not decided whether to send Australian troops from Japan to Korea.

"We have had no requests," he said. "Consequently, there have been no decisions."

The Canberra correspondent of the Sydney Daily Mirror said, however, he understands that the government will not hesitate to sanction the use in Korea of its Commonwealth occupation forces in Japan if it is requested by the United States.

Falls Out Window Viewing Parade

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 3—(AP)—A man watching a parade fell out of a third-floor hotel window Sunday, grabbed a frail flagpole, switched to a sign bracket, dropped 10 feet to a chain support and then was rescued through a second-storey window.

The hair-breadth escape of Henry LeFeave, 46, occurred as hundreds along the route of a veterans' parade watched from the ground 40 feet below.

Police said LeFeave apparently leaned too far out of the window.

He suffered only minor head and back injuries.

Prices Index Released Soon

OTTAWA, July 3 (CP) — Canadians will get a look some time this week at the price road the cost-of-living index took during May.

The upward or downward route of that road is the big question for housewives, some of whom are paying the highest prices in Canadian history for food, rent, personal care and other items.

The monthly summary of living costs is due to be issued this week by the Bureau of Statistics, which reported the April index unchanged at an all-time high of 164.0.

Declines in prices of women's wear and anthracite coal off-set rises in beef and coffee prices during April to halt a four-month climb in living costs that sent the index up three points from the 161.0 level last December.

The index is calculated on the basis that 1935-39 prices equalled 100.

Rents may be a dominant factor in the May index figures.

The rent sub-index is at an all-time high of 132.7 after an unprecedented 7.7 advance in February which reflected increases in rental ceilings authorized by the government in December.

Buying Interest Lags Market Leaders Sag

TORONTO, July 3 — (CP) — Lack of buying interest allowed market leaders to sag slowly as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Activity slowed to a standstill and market leaders sagged. Industrial and gold stocks showed the widest losses.

Volume for the first three hours was 684,000 shares.

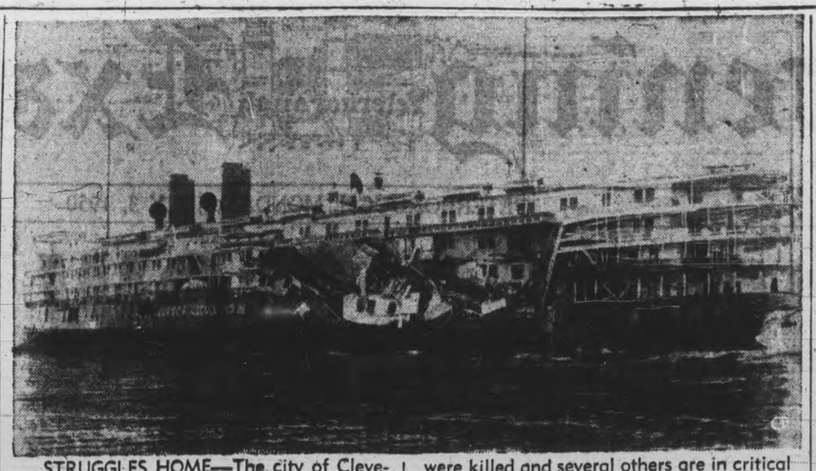
Traders sat out on the sidelines today, waiting until after the Independence Day holiday, tomorrow in the United States, before making any commitments.

Papers, utilities, steels, foods and refining showed wide lists of fractional declines in the industrial grouping. Caution was the market watchword following sharp breaks last week on news from the fighting in Korea.

Senior and Junior Gold Producers dipped over a wide front. Declines ranged up to 15 cents in Juniors and Seniors were down a fraction.

Base Metals opened higher but began to lose ground in midsession. Anacon lead and Ascot Corp. were traded briskly on the downside and Consolidated Smelters and Quemont lost fractions. Waite Amulet was a firm spot.

Western Oils also slipped from early firmness. Declines ranged up to 25 cents in key stocks.



STRUGGLES HOME—The city of Cleveland III, her port splintered, is shown here passing Sarnia, as she limped home after colliding last Sunday with a Norwegian freighter on Lake Huron. Three persons were killed and several others are in critical condition. The bow of the freighter, the Ravnefjell, bit through the light superstructure of the Great Lakes queen and crumpled a 40-foot swath 10 feet deep in the upper decks.

Jail Mayor's Son For Two Months

LINDSAY, July 3 (CP)—Douglas Lamb, 28-year-old son of Mayor Charles Lamb, pleaded guilty to two charges of shopbreaking and was sentenced at the week-end to two months in jail.

Two other youths, who pleaded guilty to similar charges, Floyd Bryans, 16 and Walter Hontoon, 18, whom Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan, claimed were led by Lamb, were given one and two-month jail sentences respectively.

Magistrate E. A. Gee said Lamb should have realized the difficult position in which he put his father and himself.

"If I did what the people on the streets say, I would be putting you (Lamb) in jail for a long time. I hope this is the last time I see you in court. If you keep away from this crazy wine drinking and keep out of trouble two months will be as good as two years."

The trio broke into a flour and feed store and a grocery store but obtained only 24 cents and $100 in groceries.

Bryans, a veteran of the army although not 17 until next month, said the mayor's son was drunk at the time of the offences. All three were questioned regarding a series of other break-ins but no charges were laid.

Couldn't Drive, But Tried In Effort To Save Husband

GREENWOOD, B.C., July 3—(CP)— Out of the rugged British Columbia interior today came a story of the courage of a woman who attempted to save the lives of her husband and another man trapped in the shaft of an old mine. The attempt failed, despite the woman's efforts to pull the men from the 60-foot shaft with a chain attached to a jeep.

This is the story as told by provincial police in this little community 175 miles east of Vancouver:

Leo Morris, 28, and Raymond Galloway, 23, were pumping water from the shaft at the Waterloo mineral claim Friday night.

Morris went into the shaft to rig the gasoline pump so it would operate through the night.

When he didn't come back, Galloway went to investigate. He saw Morris lying at the bottom of the shaft, overcome by fumes.

Gets Jeep

He summoned Morris' wife, Bette, 24, and obtained a jeep.

Galloway rigged a chain to the jeep and lowered himself into the shaft. The only light he had was from a flashlight.

Mrs. Morris said she couldn't drive.

"You've got to drive," Galloway said, Mrs. Morris recounted later.

At the bottom of the gas-choked shaft, Galloway fastened the chain around Morris. Then he signalled with the flashlight.

Mrs. Morris drove the jeep ahead. When a body reached the top of the shaft, she halted the jeep and ran back. Only one man was at the top. It was her husband.

Frantically, she tried artificial respiration. It was no use. Morris was dead.

Then she tried to go down the shaft to get Galloway, the gas made her weak and she crawled back.

She then walked three miles through the dark to a logging camp to get help.

Men with gas masks went into the pit, but they could find no trace of Galloway. He apparently had been overcome by gas as he chain raised the two men, lost his grip and fallen back.

Searchers found broken timbers at the bottom of the shaft. Galloway had plunged through them into a deeper, water-filled shaft. His body has not been found.

Morris married his Dutch wife while serving overseas. After the war he was mining in the Yukon when he was stricken with infantile paralysis.

His wife was flown to Canada to be with him and Morris recovered.

carrying out heavy bombing attacks on Suwon but they failed to dislodge the South Koreans still hanging on to the town and its airfield, 23 miles south of the fallen capital.

Two Red tank columns were reported 25 miles below the Han in a menacing break through outflanking Suwon and its airfield, abandoned by the Americans as an advance supply base.

No Serious Progress

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's advanced headquarters in South Korea said the Northern invaders had made no serious progress during the day, marked only by sporadic fighting between Korean forces.

A spokesman indicated the break through the Han River line at Youngdungpo by the two tank columns might have been less serious than first anticipated.

American pilots reported that most Communist convoys apparently were lying low during daylight.

The strafing and rocket attack on the Americans lasted 25 minutes. One foot soldier was wounded.

Attack Bogs Down

Advance headquarters in South Korea said the North Korean spearheads had failed to make any serious progress in a series of breaks through South Korean lines. The drive on Suwon, abandoned American forward base, appeared to have bogged down or collapsed. A spokesman said some of the tanks appeared to have pulled back.

American bombers today raided the North Korean capital twice and dropped more than 800 bombs, radio Pyongyang said tonight. The broadcast, monitored in Tokyo, said North Korean fighter planes intercepted the bombers and knocked two down.

The bombers also carried out strafing attacks on villages on the outskirts of Pyongyang, the broadcast added.

The tank-led columns on the west crossed the broad Han River over a repaired railroad bridge which had been blown up by the South Korean defenders. A pontoon bridge also had been thrown across the Han.

Suwon and its important air field was a no-man's-land as late as Sunday night. Ten North Korean Yak fighters attacked Suwon's air field. Observers there said four of the planes bore the red star of the Russian air force.

Russia has supplied the North Koreans with all their planes. It was possible that these were rushed into battle without painting over the Russian insignia.

Two Planes Shot Down

A US Air Force communique said two hostile planes were shot down, one with red star markings. The communique was cautiously worded, however, and did not mention Russia.

US B-29 Superforts also were again in action, flying 135 miles into North Korea and plastering the airfield at Yonpo. Pilots said the field was covered by smoke when they left.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that Maj.-Gen. William F. Dean had been named commander of all American forces in Korea. Dean, formerly commanded US occupation forces in South Korea, was the last military governor of that area, and since has commanded the 24th Infantry Division in Japan.

Chiang Asks UN Condemn Soviet

TAIPEI, Formosa, July 3 (AP) —Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek tonight called on the United Nations to condemn Russia as the instigator of the war in Korea.

Unless this is done, said the Chinese Nationalist leader, Russia will mass troop of other puppet states in Asia to "sustain a prolonged war of attrition with the United Nations."

Chinese Nationalists have expressed keen disappointment at Washington's rejection of their offer to send troops into South Korea to battle the invading North Korean Communist forces.

Chiang, speaking before a meeting of about 2,000 of his government's officials, hammered at the theme of Russian responsibility for the North Korean invasion of U.N.-sponsored South Korea.

Mrs. Jas. Elliott Celebrates 80th Birthday

ROSENEATH, July 3 (ENS) — A number of Roseneath relatives attended a surprise birthday party at the home of Mrs. James Elliott of Cobourg on Thursday on her 80th birthday.

A birthday cake complete with candles, made and decorated by Mrs. Everett Turk, Cold Springs, centred the dining room table, covered with an Irish linen cloth, a wedding gift of Mrs. Elliott's 60 years ago. This linen cloth was a gift of Mrs. Elliott's grandmother, the late Mrs. Thomas Bray, Cold Springs. A glass pitcher used on this occasion was another wedding gift.

In the early evening three life-long friends of Mrs. Elliott's, all past 80 years of age, called and the four friends had a good visit, reminiscing of the times when they used to "go and spend the day." The women were: Mrs. John Sandercock, Camborne; Mrs. Harry Bowman and Mrs. Wm. Brisbin, Cobourg, and Mrs. Elliott.

At 8:30 p.m. the near relatives and a few close friends came, for a surprise party, the conveners in charge being two nieces, Mrs. Clifford Timlin, Cold Springs, and Mrs. Hilton White, Colborne.

Among Guests

Included among the guests were: Mrs. Fred Comrie, Mrs. Copeland and Mrs. H. Bowman, Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bray, Mr. Thomas Turk, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Turk and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Timlin and Ewart, Cold Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Roy White and Clifford, Harwood; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Hilton White, Miss Audrey White, Colborne; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cowling, Misses Marlene and Doreen Cowling, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Down, Fenella; Mrs. Geo. Mouncey, Miss Nelda Brown and Mrs. Frank Brown, Roseneath.

Mrs. Elliott, nee Sarah Ann Pillage was born near Cold Springs June 28, 1870, the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Pillage. On January 8, 1890 she was married to James Elliott also of Cold Springs, by the Rev. Archdeacon Doxsie. The attendants were Jane Pillage (later Mrs. John White, Roseneath) and Geo. Avery, Cold Springs. Mrs. Elliott is the only surviving member of the party, and the sole surviving member of her immediate family. She has one son, Albert of Belleville.

She resided near Cold Springs until 1919 when she and her husband retired from farming and purchased the home where she now resides.

Russian Papers Blasting At U.S.

MOSCOW, July 3 —(AP) — The Moscow press said today popular indignation over American intervention in Korea is spreading throughout Russia.

The Communist Party newspaper Pravda said protest meetings were taking place in factories and office buildings all over the country.

(Much of the press comment on public reaction to the Korean crisis appeared to be a rehash of stories which appeared last week. At that time the papers said the public remained calm. Now they appeared to be trying to stir the people up against the United States.)

"The Soviet people," Pravda said in a front-page editorial, "and all progressive humanity express a decisive protest against American aggression in Korea and are strengthing the struggle for a firm peace in all the world against warmongers."

Charges Truman Let Spies Stay In Country

WASHINGTON, July 3 —(AP) Alfred Kohlberg, New York importer and publisher, said in a letter made public Sunday that in 1945 President Truman received the names of 150 "Soviet atom spies" in the United States from the then Prime Minister of Canada, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King.

"Not one has been arrested," Kohlberg declared. He said the names were listed in a secret report which the Prime Minister "brought in person" to Truman.

Kohlberg said last April that he had been supplying data to Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) for use in connection with McCarthy's charges that the State Department harbors Communists and fellow travellers. Freak Accident Causes Power Shutdown

CAMPBELLFORD, July 3 — (ENS)—A freak accident in the south end of Campbellford disrupted power throughout the town on Sunday afternoon, when a car owned and driven by Maurice Dowle of 330 Osler Ave., Toronto, clipped off a hydro pole.

The driver and passengers, Albert Hollings, Nancy Hollings, and Hazel Grills all of Campbellford were uninjured.

The car had come to a stop at a side street before turning onto the Grand Road, and when the driver attempted to make a right turn, the wheel would not turn back to straighten the car out and it proceeded about 50 feet striking a pole, breaking it off at the base. The top portion of the pole, suspended by the wires came to rest on top of the car. The grill, radiator, fenders and frame of the vehicle suffered heavy damage.

Workmen from the Public Utilities Commission had to cut power off in the town while a new pole was erected.

Chief Constable George H. Hardy said the accident was one of the strangest he had investigated.

Firemen Called to C.G.E.

COBOURG, July 3—(ENS)— A small fire in some waste material from the buffers brought Cobourg fire department out to the CGE plant here Friday. No damage was done. It was the second fire of its kind in the last 12 months and is caused by a spark igniting the fine waste blown out from the buffers to the roof.

Growing Pains

PETROZAVODSK, Karelo-Finnish Republic —(CP)— Building contractors here seem to be having a little trouble, says the Soviet paper Izestia. Windows showed up in the wrong places; two apartments in one building had three balconies apiece; one room had two balconies. In one hotel, showers had to be removed because builders forgot to install drains.

List 10 Most Boring Books Give Students Fiendish Joy

NEW YORK, July 3 —(AP)— What are the 10 most boring books in the world . . . that is, among the classics?

The dignified Columbia University Press, tired of taking votes for the 10 best books," decided to pin down the 10 most boring.

Through its magazine, "The Pleasures of Publishing," it polled hundreds of editors, writers, booksellers, librarians, literary critics and amateurs.

The results were printed Sunday.

They will bring fiendish joy to high school and college students —and little but pain to their teachers. Taken all in all, the "uninteresting 10" might be the required reading list of any well-conducted school.

A few votes went for the Old Testament. Some went for the Kinsey Report. Shakespeare was well represented—17 of his plays got the bronz cheer.

But none of these was the winner.

That plam, if you can call it a plam, went to that sturdy old standby — John Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress."

Then, in descending order, came the following literary monuments:

Melville's "Moby Dick," Milton's "Paradise Lost," Spenser's "Faerie Queene," Boswell's "Life of Samuel Johnson," Richardson's "Pamela," Eliot's "Silas Marner," Scott's "Ivanhoe," Cervantes' "Don Quizote," and Goethe's "Faust."

Shakespeare couldn't get near these. His most boring play—according to the poll—was "As You Like It," and it was only No. 41 on the list.

But George Eliot, who wished "Silas Marner" on generations of high school sophomores, managed to get three other novels inside the top 30.

"In fact," said Fon W. Boardman, the magazine editor, "every book that was ever on a high school readin glist was mentioned at least once."

Most of the winners, he said, were longer than usual, tended toward moralizing and created a "gloomy" atmosphere.

"Don't ask us what it proves," he said—and ducked.

The Problem Of The Drunken Driver

The matter of tests and penalties for drunken drivers came before the House of Commons last week and the Minister of Justice, Mr. Garson, said that he thought that a large number of convictions could be obtained under the existing laws, without recourse to such mechanical devices as blood, breath and urine tests. In support of his statement he mentioned that only 8 per cent. of people charged with drunken driving in the city of Winnipeg were acquitted.

* * *

This does not change the fact that comparatively few people are charged with drunken driving who might be expected to appear on that charge, because the police have found by experience that such a charge is hard to prove. Witnesses are reluctant to state on oath that a man was drunk; physicians disagree on the condition of prisoners whom they have been summoned to examine; there seems to be a growing reluctance in court to accept the testimony of the police themselves. It is easier to charge a man with careless driving and get a conviction than it is to charge him with drunken driving and fail to prove it.

* * *

Mechanical tests for drunkenness are not completely satisfactory and they may sometimes result in injustice. But are they not better than a system which contains so many loopholes that its value is questioned every week? The mechanical tests at least provide a deterrent to drunken driving; whatever a man may believe his tolerance for alcohol may be, he will hesitate to drive when he has been drinking if he knows that a test will be made if he gets into an accident, and that the test will be regarded by the court as important evidence.

* * *

There is reluctance at present to charge motorists with drunken driving because the charge is too easy to beat. But drunken drivers are a public danger and should be checked. No perfect check is available and the tests appear to be the next best thing. Why are the provinces reluctant to adopt them?

A Good $1,500 Blow Up

Saturday evening, as a civic climax to Dominion Day in Peterborough's centennial year, $1,500 of municipal money were exploded in firewords. It was worth it.

The occasion was worthy, the spectacle impressive, and ten thousand local people, the aged and the young, the serious and the flibbertigibbets, were drawn to it. When in the final ten minutes of the display, brilliant rockets illuminated the heavens and the lake and its borders below, the eye was drawn and the imagination most stirred, not by the pyrotechnics, but by the spectacle of Peterborough and its people thus revealed.

The crepuscular sky north of Little Lake, the softened silhouettes of houses and factories, the outlines of a thousand full-foliaged trees, the little boats quiet in the lake, and the ten thousand people and cars all round the banks. It was an hour of singular beauty and potency. There in the heart of Peterborough was the heart of Peterborough.

If there has been criticism of the city fathers for spending so large a sum on fireworks, lit and gone in a twinkling, it must have been stilled by the results. Never before have so many of our people been together, united by one event. The feeling of community was quietly vivid. And what a well-mannered crowd it was! Even after the display, when drivers were a half-hour untangling their cars, tempers were even. (The police department cannot be complimented on its traffic arrangements—whatever they may have been—even though the police, like others, pardonably underestimated the show's appeal, and although the entire force, even if it had been mustered, would not have been able to cope fully.) As for cost: fifteen or twenty cents a spectator head was not great.

It was the setting of the display, as much as the fireworks, which enchanted. Need any more be said than was made obvious Saturday night, of the unique value, the exquisite beauty, and the potential use of this natural lake in the very centre of the city? Not a single spectator of Saturday night but would approve every effort, every penny spent, to reclaim Little Lake from the pollution and disuse to which it has sunk. It is a pearl of great price.

The I.O.D.E. And Queen Mary's Rug

There will be general satisfaction that the needlework rug made by Queen Mary, which has been so widely shown on this continent, has been secured for Canada by the courageous action of the I.O.D.E. Courageous, we say, because the I.O.D.E. has not the money in hand to pay for the rug; that is to be secured by exhibiting it in Canada.

The price which the I.O.D.E. must raise is $100,000, and it will go to the British Treasury to assist with the dollar shortage. The Queen wanted the rug to be sold for the highest obtainable price for that purpose.

As such things go, it is not an exorbitant price for a rug of this kind, which is, we are informed, a remarkable and expert piece of needlework. It does not fetch its price because it is the work of a Queen—though that has something to do with it—but because it is a unique work of art of a type rare in our day, or any day. Let us hope that its exhibition in Canada will encourage a higher standard of needlework in our country.

An Exchange Of Teachers

Before our schools open again forty teachers from the United Kingdom will have crossed the ocean to take positions in our schools, and forty Canadian teachers will have gone to replace them in the United Kingdom. The exchange will last for one year. The exchange system was in operation before the war, but it has changed its character; until recently the British teachers came only to our private schools; the forty who come this year will teach in public schools and collegiate institutes.

What better plan could be devised to spread knowledge of Canada in Britain? What better plan to refresh our own schools? For although our provincial educational systems have many excellent qualities, they have also one great fault; they tend to confine teachers to their own part of Canada, and in this way to repress that interchange of ideas and points of view which is a necessary part of education. The British teachers who come to Canada will not know the ropes of our systems as well as local teachers; they may not, for that reason, push children through examinations so easily. But they will bring a breath of another country and another way of life with them, and that is invaluable. And our Canadian teachers will do the same in the British schools for which they are bound.

A Peterborough teacher, Miss M. F. Mutton of King Edward School, is one of the forty who will leave Canada for a year; she is exchanging places, we believe, with Miss Nellie Richardson, who comes from a girl's school in Derby. Good-bye, Miss Mutton, and enjoy yourself! Welcome, Miss Richardson, we're glad to see you!

Heed "Soft Shoulders" Warning

On Monday last a motor accident happened near Brantford in which a Windsor woman was killed and two women from Simcoe were seriously injured. The car in which they were driving was forced off the road, and there was a six-inch drop from the hard surface of the highway to the dirt shoulder; this drop was described as the direct cause of the accident.

The Department of Highways does its best, we are sure, to keep these shoulders from dropping dangerously below the level of the concrete road. But it is not possible to take care of all the road shoulders all the time. Heavy rains may soften them, and they sometimes subside simply because the earth beneath them has settled. And when there is a drop from the concrete to the shoulder it is dangerous for a car moving at any considerable speed to get a wheel off the road edge.

Motorists should heed the "Soft Shoulders" signs, and they should keep an eye on the shoulders of the road as they drive. Then, if they have to drive onto the shoulder suddenly, they can calculate their risk, and minimize it.

The Tartan Vogue

By IVOR BROWN

A SCOT recently in Paris reported with surprise that a third of the women were either wearing Tartan or had Tartan-covered handbags and accessories. Yet I am reminded by that learned connoisseur of the Kilt, Mr. Telfer Dunbar, that a visitor in Europe would have seen plenty of Tartan on the streets beside the Seine a hundred and thirty years ago. For the Scottish troops in Paris after Waterloo not only took every eye; they set a fashion for all and "la nouvelle mode" for the ladies must have stimulated weaving in Scotland—or imitation elsewhere.

* * *

WHENEVER Scots start arguing there are two historical topics which fill the columns or the air. One is 1745 and All That. The other is the origin of Tartan. Furthermore, there is a type of Scot, let us call him Peevish McKnocker of Glen Debunker, who is always ready to inform you that everything visible by tourists in Scotland is phoney, bogus and a racket. Highland Games and Highland Tartans are especial targets of his contempt.

* * *

MY own experience of Highland Games, which are just coming into season, are that they are happiest when smallest; like the little, local assembly; it is the lads of the village, not the touring professionals of the fashionable gatherings, who make the liveliest sport. As for Tartans, they were certainly organized in the early nineteenth century to suit a new, wide market.

The elaborate clan distinctions and the multiplication of its diversified patterns did not belong to medieval or even 18th century Scotland. The clansmen at Culloden wore what they could get and had not been carefully fitted out by the costumiers.

* * *

THE Scottish weaving firms, in the early 19th century, got to work on a large scale and created a Tartan Industry after the French ladies had gazed with admiration on the kilt and George IV had given a certain far-flung publicity in England to Gents' Highland Wear; but this does not disprove the fact that Tartan in general is a truly highland product and as delightful to the eye as it may be serviceable to the frame.

* * *

NOWADAYS the ingenious vendors, by employing the kindly word "sept" attach a clan to almost any one. My own case is a particularly amusing one: my mother was a Carnegie, as Scottish a name as may be, so that I would qualify for a Carnegie kilt; but I have never seen a Carnegie Tartan in the shops or the books of textile references: as a Brown, which sounds Lowland enough, I learn that I am a sept of the Lamonts and Macmillans and so qualifying as a Highlander in a septic way (if that is the correct term) for the Tartans of both.

* * *

IT occurs to me that all authors who have ever been published by the great house of Macmillan should be deemed septs thereof, and should be marshalled, in the Tartan, which is a gay one, by Harold Macmillan, M.P., as part of the Festival of 1951 (Book Section). Cabers might be a bit beyond their power, but Tossing the Folio would make a good tourney of all the talents and a spectacle for all the nations.

* * *

THE recent exploitation of the more blatant Tartans in gaudy little knick-knacks is, I suppose, popular or this hideous commerce would not continue to bedizen the tourist centres. I read that much of this tartanesque horror used to be manufactured in Switzerland and perhaps still is. (Another activity of Clan McAlpine?). I look forward to a time when Scotland can make seemlier gewgaws as "gifties frae yont the Border". I have been reading of the excellent and truly native craftsmanship at work on native horn; no doubt "novelties" of that kind—the gewgaw shops always call their wares "novelties" for reasons unexplained—would be expensive, but some specimens I have revealed taste and quality.

* * *

THERE is now plenty of good reason for Scotland to sell its tartan, as it did to the Paris of 1820. But history, as well as economics, justify the trade. The stuff came out of the hills, in wool and in dye; it has looked and worn well; that it can be abused is no reason why it should not be well used. It represents the likeable exhibitionism of the Highlander, who, in full rig, is the finest remaining specimen of human peacock. And why not encourage the peacock in a world where so many millions either choose to (or must) dress like sparrows?

* * *

SO I take small notice of Peevish McKnocker who continually groans over Scotland's Rackets. At the same time I have to admit that I have never yet plumed myself as a Lamont or Macmillan. One reason must be the good (and supposedly Scottish) one of thrift. How much does it cost nowadays to set up in the full glory of a best-dressed Highlander—ballroom uniform with all the accessories from lace-collar to a properly imposing dirk? With Purchase Tax in full blast I should guess £150 to be a minimum investment.

As a Brown, who can masquerade as a Lamont or Macmillan, my heart, but not my purse, is in the Highlands.

(Special to The Examiner from the London Observer.)

Little Red School House

(Guelph Mercury)

The little red school house of song and story was ordinarily badly lighted, badly heated and unsanitary. Its classes were conducted by an underpaid teacher who was lucky if he or she could keep one jump ahead of the more advanced students. It went out of service when good roads and motor cars came in—and for a whole flock of excellent reasons.

But it had one quality that did more than anything else to keep its memory green. It was in the country. There was room to play. Often the surroundings were beautiful. Sometimes the school building itself was beautiful in a simple way if only because the school district could not get enough money to make it ugly.

Adoption Verdict Should Not Cause Alarm

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

THE verdict of the Supreme Court of Canada which returned a two-year-old boy to his mother, after he had been adopted by a married couple in 1948, may have caused some uneasiness among foster parents. Many of them, perhaps most of them, will be reassured to learn that there is no reason for apprehension under certain circumstances. Foster parents who have adopted children through the Children's Aid Society, for instance, need have no fear, according to Mr. Frederick G. Gardiner, president of the York County branch of the Society. The system of adoption evolved and followed by the Society apparently precludes such an occurrence.

The case in which the Supreme Court handed its verdict was one of private surrender of a child by an unwed mother. The foster parents then prepared a petition for adoption, but a year later the petition was stopped by the mother taking an action to recover guardianship. The action was lost in the court of first resort, but won in the Ontario Supreme Court and the Supreme Court of Canada. It was held, apparently, that the law should continue to require parental consent before adoption, and that the foster parents had taken the risk that the young mother might change her mind.

The Children's Aid Society moves deliberately in such matters. It urges the mother to consider the step carefully, and as a rule requires an outright release. The Society further requires that neither party should know the whereabouts of the other. A two-year probationary period is also required, during which the Society remains the official guardian, and in most cases only its consent is required to make the adoption final.

The case should emphasize to all prospective foster parents the wisdom of going to the Children's Aid Society or some other official statutory agency when seeking to adopt a child. It may be less troublesome to seek a private surrender involving a minimum of official procedure, but that course may also involve far greater risk of a rude blow to affections and hopes.

The Island Of Pillars

This summer for the first time in eleven years tourists going to Scotland can visit the rocky little island of Staffa. On this island is Fingals Cave, known to all music lovers as the inspiration of Mendelssohn's beautiful overture of that name. Staffa, sometimes called "the island of pillars", gets its name from the towering and majestic basaltic pillars along its coast. The island, which is uninhabited, lies off the west coast of Mull and forms part of a chain of volcanic remains that can be traced from Skye to Ireland, all of which are noted for their peculiar pillared formations. At present three workmen are living the life of hermits on the island as they prepare for the summer, when the steamer will stop there on its trip from Oban to Iona.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

In those days came John the Baptist, preaching in the wilderness of Judaea, and saying, Repent ye: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand....

Then went out to him Jerusalem, and all Judaea, and all the region round about Jordan, and were baptized of him in Jordan, confessing their sins. But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees come to his baptism, he said unto them, O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come?... I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance; but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear: he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire: whose fan is in his hand, and gather his wheat into the garner; but he will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire.

Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him. But John forbad him, saying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comest thou to me? And Jesus answering said unto him, Suffer it to be so now: for thus it becometh us to fulfil all righteousness. Then he suffered him. (Matt. 3: 1, 2, 5-7, 11-15.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The court was silent except for the clear-cut tones of defending counsel. Everyone hung on his words, and many thought that he would easily win his case.

"And now, gentlemen of the jury," he said, "I ask you—where could the prisoner have hidden the watch? Not in his pocket. The constable has already told you that the man was searched. Not in his shoes—the watch was too large. Then where was it hidden?"

He paused dramatically for effect, and during the pause the prisoner ventured:

"Please, sir, I put it under my 'at."

"I have a most valuable work to sell, madam," said the book-agent. "It tells you how to do everything."

"Does it tell you how to get rid of a pestering book-worm?" asked the busy woman.

"It does, madam," returned the agent serenly. "It says you should buy a book from him."

* * *

He had arrived home late, and was being told all about it by his wife. At last he lost his temper, too, and said a few things back.

"I don't care," he said. "I mean exactly what I say. I'm a man who calls a spade a spade."

His wife snorted. "Maybe, James," she said icily, "you do call a spade a spade, but you don't call a club a club—you call that working late at the office."

All children present were served with ice cream and orangeade by Mrs. E. Flint, hospitality convener of the Home and School Association, assisted by Mrs. E. Davis, president, and members of the executive. Lunch was eaten —picnic style—but had to be curtailed when a shower forced all to seek refuge in the school. There they witnessed a unique performance by five junior girls from Peterborough, pupils of Mrs. Campbell, who has been instructing them in the art of puppetry for some weeks, at the YWCA. The first puppet show show was "Punch and the Dragon," followed by a fairy story, "The Frog Prince."

A vote of thanks to Mrs. Campbell and her talented pupils was moved by Mrs. E. Davis. Another vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. R. Hill on behalf of the pupils and teacher of Woodview School.

Oshawa Edge Petes, 2-1 In 11-Inning Ball Thriller

OSHAWA, July 3—The Petes were the victims in a sensational 11-inning battle of errorless baseball when they tangled with the Oshawa Merchants at the Stadium here on Saturday morning in a scheduled Viaduct Major League fixture. Viewed by the largest crowd of the season, the struggle was a thriller from start to finish as the two clubs reeled off brilliant fielding plays, twin killings and spectacular catches for 11 frames, without an error on either side. It ended 2-1 for the homesters.

Peterborough grabbed the first run when Joe Lowery opened the game by beating out a slow roller down 2nd base way. Garvey sacrificed to first, then Dalton grounded out but Pat Wilson drew a walk and Al Menzies came through with a single into right, scoring Lowery. After that George Davidson settled down to pitch superb ball for the rest of the distance. He struck out a total of 12 batters and gave up only three more singles in the remaining 10 frames, while issuing only one more free ticket to first.

Joe Got Two

Davidson's strike-out skill left the Petes from threatening, getting Lowery to 2nd base with two men out in the 5th being the closest they came to scoring another run. That was Lowery's second hit, the only one of them to get more than one safety. Bill Edger hurled a fine game for the Liftlock City squad, too, but the Bowmanville Boy, while he issued only one walk, didn't have the ability to put the 3rd strike past. He struck out only one and gave up an even dozen hits, though at that they were all singles, some of them scratchy.

Peterborough's snappy infield snuffed out Oshawa threats in the first and third frames with nifty double plays, Fred Garvey pivoting the twin killing in each case.

Harper and Ticcony both singled in the fourth and then in fifth Bitman opened with a single but was forced by Hanna. Rowland singled to advance Hanna to second. Davidson bunted foul on the third strike and then with two out, Barnes hit a roller to Stewart at first. Edger took the throw and sprinted to the base and umpire Norm Allen gave Barnes the benefit of the decision on the race as Hanna crossed the plate. Petes protested vigorously and while they were doing so, Rowland also came home.

Umpire Kellar ordered Rowland back to third, on the grounds that he had called "time," but that left the score at 1-1. On the next pitch, Rowland was "plucked off" by Menzies' good throw to Dalton.

Merchants threatened almost every inning after that, had a runner on third with two out in the ninth and Aaron Bitman, who grounded out to end the inning protested the decision so strenuously that he was ordered out of the game by umpire Allen.

Scores Big One

Ted Barnes opened the 11th inning with a single and he was called safe at second when Napolitano offered to sacrifice and Edger fielded the ball and threw to that base for the expected force-out. With two on and none out, Edger's wild pitch, only one of the game, let the two runners advance and Barnes sprinted home easily when Charlie Walch slapped a single through the box to end the game.

Barnes, with three for four, paced the Merchants on the attack, while Bill Harper, George Ticcony and Sherry Rowland each batted .300 with two hits in four trips to the plate.

The fielding of the rival teams was of big league variety, Garvey, Brown, Bitman and the rival first basemen, Stewart and Rowland, all being outstanding, while the work of the two batteries also was of very high order. Rival outfielders were also big factors in the scarcity of runs and hits, Baumgardner in right and Lowery in centre being to the fore for the visitors with Barnes and Harper in the limelight for Oshawa.

Oshawa Takes Easy Win Against Locals

Oshawa Transports celebrated July 1 by handing the Petes' intermediate baseballers a 19-3 defeat at the Motor City, before a large Dominion Day crowd. The Peterborough boys were minus three stars, which partly accounts for the off-day, in the persons of Red Sullivan, Jake Wade and hard - hitting Ray Fitzgerald. Nevertheless, Transports deserve full credit for victory behind the excellent three-hit flinging of Mike Mroczek.

Mroczek (pronounced Rockzec) showed a good fast ball with a neat change of pace to hold command throughout, aided by nice support afield. Jaquith started for the Petes, but yielded in the third to Wade. Oshawa took kindly to the offerings of both but "Cock" Pagett came in for the fifth and held his rivals to one tally for the remainder of the fame in a fine relief job. Sharing honors with him for Peterborough were Red Conway at third who drove in two runs and catcher McGrath, who turned in a very neat effort. McAllister and Brabin led Oshawa at bat.

Gamble-Martin Winners Of Ovaltine Cup

With entries from Port Hope, Cannington, Agincourt and Peterborough, the local club staged their annual tournament for the Ovaltine Trophy on Dominion Day. This is generally a mixed rink affair, but this year it was changed to mixed doubles, and after the three 15-end games were played and all scores handed in, the records showed that R Gamble and H. Freeman were tied with three wins for 45 points plus 7.

The two lady vices, Mrs. H Darling and Mrs. H. Martin, were asked to flip a coin to decide the winner. Chairman W. Moorehead tossed the coin and Mrs. Darling called heads, cut tails came up and Mrs. Martin and R. Gamble were declared trophy winners. Mrs. H. Darling and H. Freeman were second, and Mrs. F. Stanton and her son Harvey third (all three game winners.)

Good Bowling

The bowling was good with few one-sided scores, and one notable feature about the tournament was that there were 11 "Mr. and Mrs." pairs entered. It sure was a good way to spend the holiday.

Over in Lindsay, also on the holiday, R. Knox, F. Dearborn and W. Ashby came in first for three wins and, J. Fletchier, N. Routley and R. Downey won the prize for high single wins.

Winners

First and Ovaltine Trophy — Mrs. H. R. Martin and R. Gamble, skip.
Second—Mrs. H. Darling and H. Freeman, skip.
Third—H. Staunton and Mrs. F. Staunton, skip.
Fourth—Mrs. R. Hopkins and R. Hopkins, skip.

Canadians Place Well At Regatta

VALLEYFIELD, Que., July 3 (CP)—Canadian racers fared well in Canada's largest speedboat regatta held here during the week-end although they were outnumbered about 3 to 1 by United States entries.

More than 40,000 persons lined St. Francis Bay to see 15 Canadian drivers place in the top three of 14 class events.

Top speed for the meet was registered by Ken Dempsey of West Henrietta, N. Y., driving in the largest class—225 cubic inches Division I—his "Shamrock II" hit 67.5 miles an hour to take first place in that section.

In the second division of the 225-cubic-inch class John Haineault of Cornwall, Ont., braved Saturday's choppy water to win top honors. His best speed in three heats was 62.8 miles an hour.

The midget outboard class turned into a mother and daughter duel.

The mother, 39-year-old Mrs. C. Perkins of White Plains, N. Y., in competition for the first time beat her daughter, Jean, 16, who came third. Mrs. Perkins placed second behind Maetson Grevatte of Mont Claire, N. J. Jean has been racing for two years.

Lindsay Merchants Whip Whitby 9-2

LINDSAY, July 3 (CP)—Lindsay Merchants broke a three-game losing streak Saturday by defeating Whitby Merchants 9-2 in an OBA Intermediate Lakeshore League holiday game.

Doug Loucks struck out 11 and allowed but six hits for his fourth victory. Left fielder Jim McTaggart paced the winners at the plate with three singles.

Righthander Gord Neal, who hurled until the seventh, was the loser. Hank Debois and Dean Tompkins each smashed a double for Lindsay.

Bethany Triumphs

BETHANY, July 3 (ENS)—The local girl softball players defeated Yelverton 24-21 here Thursday night. Christella Rowan hit two grand slam homers to account for eight runs, and Audrey Mulligan hit a homer, also. They scored three in the first and fourth frames, seven in the second and sixth, with two each in the third and fifth. Yelverton chalked up four in the first and fourth, two each in the third and fifth, one in the second and seventh with seven counting in the sixth. Teams:

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Friday night at Miller Bowl in the downpour, one felt like saying give the country back to the Indians—if they'll have it. That was at the lacrosse game when Owen Sound beat the Petes 8-5. And speaking of Indians (the true natives of the country and the originators of lacrosse) there were two out there doing their stuff for the Creighton crew. Joe Nolan was checking in his usual rugged style. He isn't a dirty player but checks hard in this boisterous game, and he drew a major for cutting Don Campbell and sending him off. Young Rollie Roundpoint, a junior up from Cornwall, did okay in his senior debut here, scoring one of the goals and showing a lot of promise.

* * * * * *

A good, even scrap, but the loop leaders finished a bit stronger to earn the duke. And probably nowhere else in this senior boxla circuit would you see nearly 1,500 fans brave it out in the rain for most of the game. Three full quarters comprise an OLA game, if called then, but the refs let it go the limit—and our papers at the end looked like junior's hanky during a nasty head cold. Yet some fine lacrosse was served up by both teams in the drizzle, rugged but generally clean and very even till late in the tilt. The Petes have a home game 'gainst St. Kitts on Wednesday—their only one here this week—and it, too, should be a dandy duel.

* * * * * *

Whosis In Three-Hitter

Cobourg comes here Wednesday eve to take on the local intermediate baseballers in a Lakeshore League fixture at 6.30 in Riverside. The Petes were minus Jake Wade, Red Sullivan and Ray Fitzgerald as they dropped a one-sided tilt in Oshawa on the holiday. A guy, with a name hard to pronounce and a pitch harder to get, chucked a three-hitter at Len Symonds' squad, and that was that. Quite a few folks on deck to see the doings, and it's too bad we couldn't have had a holiday ball game. Lot of people stay in town and they look for some sports entertainment.

* * * * * *

The old senior ball rivals, Oshawa and the Petes, dished up a dandy duel for a large crowd in the Motor City on July 1. A real oldtime struggle which ended 2-1 for the Merchants in 11 innings. They don't come much closer, huh? Davidson threw five-hit ball and whiffed a dozen, while Bill Edger wasn't quite as effective but also pitched well and had perfect support. Some of the Petes didn't think they got any the best of it from the two Oshawa umps. Barnes, Harper and Ticcony were the main thumpers for the winners, while Joe Lowrey led the visitors at bat with two in five tries. Whole team sparkled in the field. A toughie to drop.

* * * * * *

Minors Start Off Well

Minor baseball got off to a start finally on July 1 with three tussles staged. And darned if two weren't seven-inning no-hitters! One no-hit hurler, Lafave of the peewee East Citizens, lost his game at that, a 3-2 heart-breaker to the southenders, Wade pitching four-hit ball. Walks and errors beat Lafave. Halliday didn't allow the northend midgets a bingle as the Ashburnham boys romped to a 13-1 victory, the losers kicking the apple all over the orchard. East City bantams pulled out a neat 3-1 win against the southend squad in another fray which saw the twirlers stingy with their safeties. A good start for the PMBA-ers.

* * * * * *

Girls' and men's softball on tap again this week. Lasses go tonight at the Bowl in a twin bill, CGE vs. Woollens, and Marines vs. the Electrics. The latter took a 10-7 verdict o'er Ashby's on Friday night with a hard-hitting attack. Westclox were leading Marines 6-0 with Marg Selkirk in nifty sfab form when rain called a halt at the end of the fourth frame. Woollens will be meeting Marines on Wednesday in one game and CGE in another. The men's double-header there on the morrow, starting at seven, is: East City vs. UEW, and Mutuals vs. Orphans.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The major league's all-star fireworks don't explode until July 11, but the rival American and National Leagues today had their big guns lined up and ready to boom in baseball's midsummer classic.

The Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Cardinals, each with three positions, dominated the nation-wide balloting for the 16 all-star starters—exclusive of pitchers — which ended last weekend.

A total of 3,167,326 fans participated in the poll for the 17th annual "dream game" at Comiskey Park. The 20-day balloting was conducted by 290 newspapers and radio stations.

Only three other clubs besides the fence-wrecking Red Sox figure in the lineup American loop manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees must start and play at least three innings. They were the Detroit Tigers and Yankees with two players each and the Cleveland Indians with one.

National League pilot Burt Shotton of Brooklyn has two of his own Dodgers and one each from the Philadelphia Phils, Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs, along with the Cardinal trio.

Boston Red Sox Sunday signed Phil Marchildon, former Philadelphia Athletics pitcher, as a relief pitcher.

Marchildon was released June 5 by Buffalo of the International League and became a free agent.

The veteran hurler, a native of Penetanguishene, appeared in five games for the Bisons and was charged with as many losses. Acquisition of Marhchildon extended the Red Sox roster to the 25-player limit.

Johnny Pierson, Boston Bruins' right-wing hockey player, Sunday turned in a surprising performance carding a 36-hole score of 147 to pace 13 other amateur golfers seeking berths on the Quebec Willingdon Cup team.

Bob Hall of Summerlea and Hampstead and Don Doe of Granby, Que., also won berths on the team.

Tied in fourth spot were Ken Ward of Summerlea and Joe Leblanc of Whitlock with 153s.

Donald Campbell skimmed over the glassy surface of Lake Coniston in Lancashire Sunday at 140 miles an hour in his 11-year-old Bluebird.

It was a trial run, and the top speed was not maintained over the full course.

But Campbell said he was pleased by the performance of the sleek old speedboat in which his father, the late Sir Malcolm Campbell set a world record of 141.74 miles an hour in 1939.

Roy Wouter hard-hitting Montreal middleweight, successfully defended his Canadian championship before 6,000 spectators at Glace Bay, N. S., Saturday by taking an easy 12-round decision from George (Rockabye) Ross from West Road, Cape Breton.

There were no knockdowns but it was Wouter all the way. The 26-year-old Montrealer constantly stalked the former titleholder and gradually wore down his defences.

Electrics Gain Girls' Win From Ashby's

C.G.E. girl softballers beat Ashby's 10-7 at the Bowl on Friday night in the only full game played, the Westclox-Marines' tilt being rained out early. Electrics played fine ball with M. Owens taking over from J. Hart in the third to stop Ashby's cold. The winners hit the ball hard and showed a lot of hustle in the field. It was a real good game as Ashby made it a fight, and CGE only pulled away in the last inning with five runs.

M. Owens and T. DeCarlo shone defensively for the victors, with E. McFadden and G. Dracup going best for the losers. M. Batley and T. DeCarlo led the Electrics at bat with four safe blows each, while J. Reynolds topped Ashby's at the plate with three safeties. Triples were hit by L. Jordan and M. Stewart. Teams:

Carleton Loses In Cricket To Peterborough

By C. H. IRESON

Peterborough defeated Carleton County cricketers 157 for nine wickets to 113 here Saturday in their county competition. Carleton batted first and even batting took the final score to 113, with D. Dervant getting 20 and G. Wilson 10. It was 65 for six but just reached 113. A. Pope was good to take seven wickets for 30 and Booth had three for 38.

In the local inning, Booth got 20 and Wright 15 for a start as it went to 62 to five. They fell fast to have it 68 for eight and the excitement began. Pope, who had gone in third wicket down, was joined by S. Jennings and the pair won the match without being parted, taking the score to 157 when Jennings was out for a valuable 14. He defended carefully while Pope combined careful defence with some hard hitting. The score grew with the excitement to 157, having put on 89 runs for the wicket, and time was called.

Pope's splendid inning of 75 not out, included four sixes and seven fours, and Jennings deserved credit for his strong defence. Pope has now scored in three innings 167 runs, an average of 83.5 a completed inning, and has taken 16 wickets for an average of 5.94. Club captain F. Booth was selected to play for a combined Toronto District Council team against Southwest Ontario during the holiday. His batting average for P-W is six completed innings 35.5 and his bowling 22 wickets average 7.13. Saturday results:

Helen Willis Moody won her eighth and last Wimbledon women's single title 12 years ago today with a 6-4, 6-0 victory over her injured arch-rival, Helen Jacobs. Miss Jacobs pulled a tendon in the ninth game of the first set and hobbled the next seven games without winning one. Miss Jacobs won her sole Wimbledon title in 1936, but had displaced Mrs. Moody as US champion from 1932 to 1935.

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the digestive tract. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Owen Sound and J. Pluvius Down Petes in OLA Contest

The league - leading Owen Sound Crescents beat the fourth-place OLA senior "A" Petes 8-5 here Friday night before 1,500 fans. It drizzled rain almost throughout and the fourth quarter saw many leave before the finish as the rain came harder. However, most of them stayed till almost the end as it was a keen, hard-fought and pretty even scrap.

The score was 2-2 in the first and still tied at 5-all at halftime. Crescents got the lone goal of the even third chukker, but they proved better in the slippery going to tally twice to nil in the fourth, even though shy three players in their lineup, one being Jack Foote. The Petes drew the only three penalties of a rather clean contest, Joe Nolan getting a major for slashing Don Campbell, who left with a cut on the nose.

Led The Way

Russ Slater led Owen Sound in sniping with three goals, Curly Mason getting a pair, and Harry Kazarian, Doug Gillespie and Bill Allum one each. Single assists went to Mason, Kazarian, Don Campbell, Marlow Woods and Don McWhirter. All the Petes' goals were singletons by Rollie Roundpoint, Cornwall Indian import (still a junior), Joe Nolan Lou and Dootch Vitarelli and Don Ashbee. Arn Dugan got two assists, as one each went to Ron Horton, Bob Thorpe, Mick Magee and Em Creighton.

It was a close-checking contest all the way and threatened to get rough in spots in the drizzle, but never got out of hand. Some slashing was let go on both sides, and plenty of interference as each team played cautiously, even though they turned it on for some prolonged spurts. The two goalies were tough to beat and the defensive work made for a low-scoring game, one which would have been enjoyed thoroughly by the fans but for the miserable weather.

Owen Sound— Goal, Wootton; defence, Allum and McWhirter; centre, Woods; wings, Smith and Kazarian; rover, Mason; alternates, Campbell, Slater, Bain, Jordan and Gillespie.

Petes—Goal Speck; defence, Fitzgerald and Horton; centre, L. Vitarelli; wings, Magee and Kinna; alternates, Creighton, Ashbee, D. Vitarelli, Dugan, Thorpe, Nolan and Curtin.

Referees—M. Burrows and W. Anthony.

The summary:

First Quarter

Owen Sound—Mason (Kazarian) 6:32
Petes—Roundpoint (Horton) 12:01
Petes—Nolan (Thorpe, Dugan) 14:20

Second Quarter

Petes—L. Vitarelli (Magee) 3:10
Owen Sound—Gillespie 4:23
Petes—D. Vitarelli (Creighton, Dugan) 6:43
Owen Sound—Allum 9:50

No penalties.

Third Quarter

Rochester Splits Twin Bill With Syracuse

By The Associated Press.

Little Jackie Collum, whose chief claim to fame is that he once struck out Joe DiMaggio with the bases loaded is a mighty big man in Rochester's bid for the International League pennant.

Collum, only five feet 7½ inches tall, is shaping up as manager Johnny Keane's top relief pitcher.

The lefthainder Sunday received credit for his fifth victory of the year and his third of the week as the league leading Wings split a doubleheader with Syracuse Chiefs.

Syracuse took the opener 10-8 but the Wings grabbed the nightcap 7-5 with Collum turning in three scoreless innings of relief pitching.

Collum, only in his third season of professional ball, set the Western Association on fire while pitching for St. Joseph in 1948. He won 24 games and lost two and in addition batted .280.

The parent St. Louis Cardinals took Collum south with them in 1949 and it was during an exhibition game with New York Yankees that Collum fanned DiMaggio. Collum was at Omaha in 1949 and won only three games while losing nine. Last year he won three and lost two for the Red Wings.

One Of Six

Collum was one of six Rochester pitchers that saw action in the opener, relieving George Copeland in the sixth with one out and retiring the side without damage. He bowed out for a pinch-hitter in the last of the sixth.

Rookie Ken Wild started the nightcap for the Wings and survived a five-run blast in the second but finally was lifted in favor of Collum in the fifth with the Wings in front 6-5. Larry Ciaffone was the Rochester batting star with a double and two singles.

The split enabled the Wings to retain their three-game lead over the second place Jersey City Giants. The Giants divided with Montreal Royals, winning the nightcap 1-0 after dropping the opener 7-4.

Pinch hitter Johnny Welaj socked a two run single in the sixth of the opener to break a 4-4 tie and give Tom Lasorda his fifth victory.

Red Hardy blanked the Royals on five hits in the finale in outpitching George Thomas and Clyde King. Stan Jok tripled home Pete Milne with the game's only run in the fourth inning.

Scheduled doubleheaders between Springfield and Buffalo and Baltimore and Toronto were rained out.

Phils Trip Dodgers 6-4 Cards Edge Pirates

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Bobby Feller racks up his 200th major league triumph. Joe DiMaggio becomes a first baseman. Philadelphia drops defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers into fourth place. Cleveland rookie Al Rosen ties Ted Williams for the home-run lead. Chicago Cubs thrash Cincinnati 16-0.

These are a few of the baseball headlines today following an action-packed Sunday on the diamond.

The Phils retained first place in the National League, whipping the Dodgers 6-4 in the first game of a doubleheader. The second game ended in a 10-inning, 8-8 tie, halted by Pennsylvania's curfew law. Held hitless through six innings by Curt Simmons, the Dodgers rallied to overcome an 8-0 deficit. The game will be replayed at a later date.

Edge Pirates

St. Louis Cardinals remained three percentage points behind the Phillies, edging out Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1.

Boston Braves climbed into third place, two games off the pace, sweeping a doubleheader from New York Giants 11-5 and 6-3.

Andy Pafko cracked a double, triple and homer and batted in five runs for the Cubs as right-hander Walt Dubiel held the Reds to only four hits. It was Cincinnati's most humiliating defeat in years.

Detroit and Cleveland divided an American League doubleheader and New York Yankees outslugged Boston Red Sox 15-9. Philadelphia Athletics defeated Washington Senators 7-4 and Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns divided a twin bill 5-2 and 4-3.

Salvage Game

A fine relief performance by Hal Newhouser enabled the Tigers to salvage one game of the four-game series from the red-hot Indians. Newhouser stopped a Cleveland uprising in the eighth inning and Detroit rallied for three runs in the ninth to win the opener 8-5. A five-run, sixth inning gave the Tribe a 5-3 victory in the second game.

Feller received credit for the second game, with help needed from Al Benton after the Tigers had put the tying runs on base in the ninth. Benton put out the fire. The 31-year-old Feller, with a season's record of 8-6, is the 42nd pitcher to win 200 or more games.

One of Cleveland's runs came on Rosen's 24th homer run of the season. This tied him with Ted Williams for the major league leadership.

Something Different

Home runs by Joe DiMaggio, Yogi Berra and Johnny Mize proved the difference in the Yankee-Red Sox slugfest. Berra got two other hits to drive in five runs. Allie Reynolds got credit for his seventh victory which pushed the Yanks back in second place, 3½ games behind the Tigers. The Indians trail by four and the Red Sox six.

Before the game manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees announced that he would attempt to solve his aggravated first base problem by moving DiMaggio from centrefield to first base. Joe was slated to take over his new first base berth today against the Senators in Washington. He has never played anywhere but the outfield except for three games as shortstop with San Francisco in 1932.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Associated Press.

Batting—Luke Easter, Indians: homered with two on in the sixth inning to gave the Indians a 5-3 victory over Detroit in the second game of a doubleheader. Easter also hit a home run and triple in the first game which went to Detroit 8-5.

Pitching—Walt Dubiel, Cubs: allowed only four hits as Chicago trampled Cincinnati Reds 16-0.

Church Elder's Funeral At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, July 3 — (ENS) —The funeral service for James Albert Brown was held in G. T. MacPherson's Funeral Home on Friday, conducted by the Rev. T. G. Husser, minister of St. Andrew's United Church, and the Rev. Preston Brown of Camborne Mr. Brown's nephew.

Mr. Brown, who was 78 years of age, died Wednesday in a Peterborough hospital after an illness of about two years. He had lived all his life in Cavan Township where he farmed, moving about 15 years ago to the village. He received his early education in Zion School.

He is survived by his widow, Philippa Jane Olver, a brother Fred Brown of Fort Perry, and a sister Mrs. David Armstrong of Millbrook. There are two stepchildren, James Olver Brock of Coldsprings, and Mrs. Sherrin Brown of Brighton.

Mr. Brown was an elder of St. Andrew's Church. He was an usher and served on the Cemetery Board. The large attendance at the funeral showed in what high esteem he was held in the community.

Pall-bearers, who also carried the many floral tributes, were William Tremaine, Weston Fallis, Tom Douglas, A. R. Payne, David and Earl Armstrong.

A BANG-UP SHOW OF FIREWORKS, lasting one hour, was the grand finale of Peterborough's Dominion Day-Centennial celebration off Point St. Charles on Saturday evening. It was estimated that 10,000 citizens saw the spectacle. Goggle-eyed youngsters described rocket sprays as "tears," "Christmas trees" and "atomic bombs," according to their range of imagination.—Examiner Staff Photos.

Chief Soap Box Derby Prizes Won By Three Jackson Sons

Winning the Y's Men's Soap Box Derby must be a monotonous task for Herbie Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jackson, 166 Park Hill Road. Saturday afternoon Herbie zoomed down the Hunter St. hill course to sweep the first class championship of the annual derby, held this year in conjunction with the centennial celebrations. This win gave him top honors three years in a row at the derbies. Three years ago in the same car he won the junior championship and last year with the same car nosed out all competitors for the senior honors.

George Pollard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Pollard, 141 Dunlop St., junior champion last year, was just edged for the first class honors by Jackson by one-fifth of a second. He also placed second in the Oshawa open event last year.

42 Miles An Hour

David Jackson made the first class events a family affair when he crossed the finish line to place third. His time was 42 seconds as compared with Pollard's time of 39 and one-fifth seconds and Herb Jackson's winning time of 39 seconds. The winning time meant that Jackson reached a speed of 42 miles an hour.

Ronald Jackson continued to make the derby a family affair by taking the second class championship, for cars with plain or wagon wheels. Gerald Vincent placed second and Gordon Starr third.

Elimination Heats

In the first heat of the second class competitions, D. Harding's car lost a wheel causing a slight accident. Gerald Vincent crossed the finish line to take the heat. Jackson and Gordon Starr contested the second heat with Jackson winning. Jackson and Vincent, the winners of the first two heats, raced for first place honors with Jackson succeeding. The losers, Vincent and Starr, then raced for second and third place with Vincent placing second.

Herbie Jackson and George the first class with Jackson edging Pollard. David Jackson and Eddie Innes raced in the second heat, Jackson the victor. The Jackson brothers met to decide the championship. Herbie Jackson won the championship automatically with two wins. The losers raced with Pollard, taking Innes. Pollard's time placed him second and David Jackson's third

Prizes Awarded

Prizes awarded this year were: first class (cars with ball bearing wheels), first $25, second 20, and third $15; second class (plain or wagon wheels), regulation derby wheels valued at $16.50 a set for first, second and third.

The first class events started at the top of the hill opposite the Western Clock Company's office and finished at Mark St. The second class runway started at Armour Road and finished at the tracks, 300 feet east of Hunter St.

Mrs. Jackson said today that they plan to enter Herbie in the Oshawa derby this year if there is an open entry as last year. Ronald's car, she added, will be finished next year to meet the requirements for the first class events.

Two Airmen Die Plane Crash Sturgeon Lake

A flight in a Harvard trainer over Sturgeon Lake ended in death for two RCAF reservists, Saturday morning.

The aircraft suddenly nosedived while flying at low altitude and plunged into the lake near Birch Point, four miles west of Bobcaygeon. Exact cause of the fatal crash is not known.

Dead are FO. Kenneth G. Marlatt, Oakville, and FO. Eric Williams, Hamilton. Both were members of 424, City of Hamilton Squadron, and FO. Williams was a rewrite man on the Hamilton Spectator.

First persons to reach the scene of the crash were Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Notman of St. Catherines. Summer residents of Kenstone, Sturgeon Lake, they were out in their boat when the aircraft dropped into the lake.

Mr. Notman pulled FO. Williams out of the water. The flyer, though badly injured, was kept afloat by his "Mae West." He was taken to Bobcaygeon where he was treated by Dr. W. D. Thomas, and then rushed to Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay.

He died about three hours after being admitted.

Early today the body of his companion, FO. Marlatt, was still lying in the wreckage of the aircraft in about 10 feet of water.

"We have located the wreckage and found the body but we are unable to release it from the plane until it has been raised from the water," said Wing Commander Douglas B. Annan, commanding officer of 424 Squadron.

Heavier salvaging gear will probably arrive tomorrow.

Provincial Corporal William Milton and Constable Stan Judson, of Lindsay, investigated.

3 Severely Hurt As Car Rolls On Return Trip

Three Peterborough men are in St. Joseph's Hospital with undetermined injuries sustained early today when their car went out of control and rolled over in the ditch on Highway 28, a mile and a half north of the city.

Rene Gobault, 21, 658 Brown St., has a possible fractured neck.

Burleigh McIlmoyle, 21, 470 O'Connell Rd., has been X-rayed for a possible fracture of the base of the spine.

The third occupant of the car was Walter E. Morgan, 39, 19 Conger St. He is being treated for a lacerated left arm and other injuries.

Return From Fishing

The accident occurred about 1.30 a.m. today as the men were returning to Peterborough from a northern lake. They had been out on a fishing trip.

In some manner the southbound car went out of control, plunged into the right ditch, and turned over. Gobault and McIlmoyle were believed thrown free of the wreckage.

The car, owned by Morgan, was almost demolished.

Provincial Constables T. H. Fitzpatrick and Harold Armstrong investigated.

Temple Band Plays For Old Home Week

The Peterborough Salvation Army Temple Band was the guest band at the Smiths Falls Old Home Week celebrations over the weekend. The festivities opened Saturday afternoon with a civic Pollard met in the first heat of reception and parade followed by a band concert on the main street in the evening. Sunday morning the band played at the hospital while Major Cyril Everitt visited all the patients. The band also attended the Smiths Falls Salvation Army Temple service in the morning. Major Everitt was the guest speaker.

Sunday afternoon the band paraded the Oddfellows two miles through the rain to celebrate their annual decoration day. Major Everitt said today that it was one of the largest decoration day celebrations that he has ever seen.

The Salvation Army united with the congregation of Westminster Presbyterian Church in the evening for a church service. The Rev. A. Kingston Lattimore preached the sermon while Major Everitt and the band assisted.

Following the service the band presented a concert in the new community hall before 3,000 spectators. They were assisted by the Smiths Falls Community choir and the Smiths Falls School chorus, both under the direction of Bryant Robinson.

Wm. Gerard Devlin

The Rev. Raymond Garvey celebrated requiem mass Friday at 9 a.m. at St. Peter's Cathedral for William Gerard Devlin who died Tuesday. Pallbearers were James Devlin, Joseph Devlin, Alphonsus Devlin, Adrian Devlin, Alex Munroe and James Robinson.

10,000 Citizens Acclaim Aquatic Show, Fireworks

Children squealed with delight as a monster skyrocket mushroomed over Little Lake Saturday night, climaxing the fireworks display that concluded Peterborough's centennial water sports exhibition. A crowd of more than 10,000 people lined the shores of Little Lake on Dominion Day evening and saw some brilliant displays of water ski-ing and aquaplaning done by Canadian champions Norma McIntosh Gordon and Russ McIntosh of Bobcaygeon.

Seven Skiers

A total of seven skiers took part in the water ski-ing show, two of them—Ab Bianco and Bill Taylor—from Peterborough. Others were Ack McIntosh, Eric Denison, and Miss Alta Mae Thomas.

Trick canoeing by Herb Cardwell of the Wallace Point Canoe Club, showed methods of righting an overturned canoe, and how to do a headstand on the gunwales.

In the canoe tilting exhibition, the final part of the water sports show, a Peterborough team composed of Doug Mortimer and Bill Taylor defeated the McIntosh brothers, Russ and Ack, from Bobcaygeon, two falls out of three.

Big Thrill of Evening

But the big thrill of the evening came after dark when the fireworks started. Flight after flight of skyrockets exploded high in the air, showering colored balls of fire onto the lake.

Twice, pure white flaming balls lit up the lake and the shores, making it bright as day. These were mixed in with pinwheels and roman candles.

Children asked their parents were the people going to set off an atomic bomb, and said weren't those people going to have an awful mess to clean up after all those fireworks were finished.

The fireworks display lasted for almost an hour, concluding with the lighting of a sign—"1850 A Century of Progress 1950". As the sign flickered out, rockets, roman candles and white balls of fire boomed and flashed, lighting the lake and shores up again.

On top of it came a huge rocket showering red streaks in a perfect sphere when it exploded.

After the show, traffic was jammed along Crescent St. and George St. for more than half an hour. Drivers leaned on horn buttons and rings, and shouted at other drivers as solid lines of autos carried the crowd away from the lake.

Last sign of the show was a huge cloud of grey smoke from the fireworks, which was still drifting slowly away as the last cars drove from the lakeshore.

LONDON, Ont., July 2—Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, minister of George St. United Church, Peterborough, 1929 to 1935, died at St. Joseph's Hospital, London, June 30, in his 74th year. Born at Harley, he was ordained in 1900 and prior to his retirement in 1938, he was minister of Hyatt Avenue United Church, London. Mr. Millyard also held charges at Morpeth, Malahide, Embro, Birr, Hensall, Listowel, Kingsville, Central Church, Sarnia, and Wesley United, London. Mr. Millyard celebrated 50 years in the ministry a few weeks ago.

Husband of the late Clara Bertha Bigham, Mr. Millyard leaves three daughters, Mrs. Francis Davies, Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Ruth Willoughby, London, Mrs. Thelma Theal, Welland, and one son, Carmen D., Grimsby.

Services were held at the A. Millard George Funeral Home, London, today, at 2.30 p.m. Interment at Mount Pleasant Cemetery, London.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

CONCLUDE LABOR HEARING

Early today the hearing in the dispute between the United Electrical Workers and the De Laval Co. over dismissal of an employee was concluded. A special commissioner, Judge J. F. P. Birnie of Walkerton, was appointed by Labor Minister Daley to determine whether or not the company was justified in dismissing Jack Mackness, an employee in the separation department. The union claims Mackness was discharged because of pro-union activities. Judge Birnie will submit a written report to the Minister.

LOCK CO. EMPLOYEES BACK

By today, union sources estimate, about 135 of the 170 production workers at the Peterborough Lock Co. are back at work. The strike lasted from May 4 till June 24, and the first workers returned to the plant a week ago today. Robert Maybee, vice president and general manager, intimated it would take some time before full production—and consequently full employment—was reached. The negotiating committee of Local 527 and company officials are meeting later today to see if the employment can be speeded up.

Course Record Of 66 Set By Harrison

A course record for the Peterborough Golf and Country Club was set Saturday by the club professional, Gordon Harrison, when he went around the 18 holes in 66 strokes. Veteran members disagree whether the previous mark was a 67 or 68 set years ago for this par 70 course. They all agree that none of the top-flight pros who played the course ever matched the 66 card.

Mr. Harrison was going around in a foursome which included O. A. DeGraw, Hugh Waddell and Herb Bradburn. Playing first-class golf all season so far, he was "redhot" on Saturday, taking but 21 putts to sink the ball in the 18 holes. Mr. Harrison was a semi-finalist last year in the Millar Trophy competition, and he has entered again when play commences later this month in Toronto.

Woman Dies After Accident

Miss Isabella J. Fairweather of 371 Reid St., died early today following a car accident June 27.

At that time she was taken to hospital having sustained facial injuries and shock.

Miss Fairweather was the daughter of the late William and Agnes Fairweather. She leaves her sister, Mrs. Jessie Fairweather Magie, with whom she lived on Reid St. Two brothers J. W. T. Fairweather and Robert H. Fairweather predeceased her.

There will be a private funeral from the residence of L. D. W. Magie, 371 Reid St., 1.30 p.m. Tuesday, the Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Court Dismisses Charge Of Fraud

A charge of obtaining money by false pretences against Raymond Rivers of Kitchener was dismissed today by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

Rivers was charged with passing two phony cheques to James Guerin, Lake St. The cheques were for $30 each. Rivers claimed there had been agreement by which he was to pay back the money within a month. Guerin said there had been no arrangement.

Rivers said he had worked in Peterborough at the time he passed the cheques, but had gone to Kitchener to get another job.

The accused said he was prepared to pay back part of the money which he had borrowed, using the cheques as security.

Happy Holiday Fishermen Report Big Catches All Over

By NICK NICKELS, Outdoor Editor

Resort operators and fishermen all over the Kawartha district are as happy as clams over the opening of the fishing season during the holiday weekend. "They are biting like mad around Burleigh," said one expert, "we have never seen anything like it on opening day." And that seems to be the story all over. 'Lunge were small but numerous and the largest that has been reported came from the famous Rice Lake stamping grounds, a 22-pounder taken by Robert Lacey of Orrville, O., on Gregory Bay. A 19-pound muskie was taken by Harold Walsh in Indian River on Saturday morning and the tops for black bass goes to George Burns of Peterborough who boated a 6-2 at Round Lake. Large mouth bass were more numerous than small-mouth and pickerel were taken in limit lots all over the district.

To size up the overall fishing picture in the Kawarthas, the following sections are listed:

Stoney Lake: Charles T. Dowds of Englewood, N.J., a 16-pound muskie, 45 inches, on a flatfish lure, just east of Crowe's Landing; Dr. John H. Ferguson of State College, Pa., assisted him. Limits of pickerel were taken as well as black bass that averaged 3½ pounds. There were also some green bass. Lodge operator Ross Idwin says they are tired of cleaning fish already. At Viamede, pickerel fishing was excellent, bass not so good due to lack of minnow bait and two guests landed a 10-pound muskie each. At McCracken's Linding, William Fraser of Barker, N.Y., snagged a 12-pound muskie in Gilchirst Bay. Lots of pickerel off the Landing are reported, some bass. Many undersized 'lunge were released.

Burleigh: Gordon Norton of Tieioute, Pa., landed the largest 'lunge reported in the area, 15 pounds, as well as some nice pickerel from 3 to 5 pounds. Bobe Fisher of Cleveland boated a 14-pound muskie and Louis Zell of Toronto, another of the same ½ pound heavier.

Pickerel Upper Hand

Upper and Lower Buckhorn Lakes: Small 'lunge here, black bass were fair and pickerel had the upper hand by a wide majority. More than 50 people sat out the wet weather on Gannon's Narrows floating bridge. Dave House of Peterborough and party took eight black and green bass, two greens over four pounds each.

Pigeon Lake: Camp Cleveland guests worked hard and took a goodly share of muskies. Mrs. Herbert Jones of Euclid, O., was the only fisherman to get two 'lunge, one 16 and one 11½ pounds. Arnold Horlick of Pittsburgh, a 12½-pounder, and Sam Solnick of Cleveland, one at 11 pounds. Earl Behrens of the same city got a well-matched limit of pickerel, and eight lodge guests from Akron got near limits of black bass around Bobcaygeon.

City of Peterborough: Kerwin Beatty of North Water St., put his canoe in at Inverlea Park and landed a 12-pound muskie a few minutes later under the bridge.

Otonabee River: It was reported that a total of seven 'lunge were taken in the Bensfort Bridge section over the weekend.

Indian River: Howard Walsh landed a 19-pound 'lunge on Indian River Saturday morning.

Rice Lake Muskies

Rice Lake: True to its reputation for muskies, it produced the largest with Robert Lacey of Orrville, O., the lucky man, a 22-pounder from Gregory Bay while fellow townsman Frank Carney caught another, just comfortably over limit size. Where the lake joins the Trent River, Eddy Oates of Lockport, N.Y., boated a 41-incher that scales 12 pounds.

Round Lake: George Burns of Peterborough produced the best black bass speciment of the season with a 6-2 fish; they don't come much better than that.

Crowe Lake: Fishing did not appear so lively in this area although Helen and Harry Cooper of Trenton caught a nine-pound muskie each.

District fishermen Orval Trumble and Joe Darrah managed to brought home several pickerel, the best 6¼ pounds.

HELP FLOOD VICTIMS

Three Sacred Heart schoolgirls have done their bit toward helping out the flood victims in southern Manitoba. The three—Sheila and Patsy Gregg, Romaine St., and Aileen Quesnell—obtained permission from the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. to sell ice cold drinks at the employees' Romaine St. entrance. Neighbours supplied the ice cubes. Their two evenings of work netted the fund $2.

Canadians Celebrated Holiday In Fine Style

(By The Canadian Press)

Canadians everywhere celebrated the Dominion's 83rd birthday Saturday.

Special celebrations were held in the United States, Great Britain, and the 10 provinces. But for most, the holiday was just an occasion for packing up and getting away from home for the week-end.

Sunny weather prevailed over most of the country, and Canadians by the thousands hustled by car, bus, and train to beaches, river, and holiday resorts. Highways were jammed.

More than a score died in accidents over the weekend.

Several Ontario centres combined the holiday with the opening of Old Home Week.

21-gun Salute

In Ottawa, a 21-gun salute was fired from Parliament Hill, and the Governor-General entertained some 2,000 citizens of all ranks at a garden party in the grounds of Rideau Hall.

Messages from foreign countries flooded in to the capital extending birthday wishes to the Dominion. Included with messages from Nationalist China, Italy, Mexico and Pakistan.

The west coast, under sunny skies, celebrated with horse races, a golf tournament, and a Pacific Coast regatta at Vancouver.

Alberta experienced short, but heavy thundershowers in the southern regions, but the rains didn't deter the flow of city-dwellers to lake resorts. The streets of Edmonton were nearly deserted.

Tourist Invasion

Ontario was generally clear, and an invasion of tourists from the United States added to the general highway melee. A crowd of 6,000 jammed Toronto's centre island to watch an all-day regatta featuring swimming, rowing, and paddling events.

Members of the Massena, N.Y., post of the American Legion paid a good-will visit to Cornwall and joined the local branch of the Canadian Legion in a parade and memorial service. A group of 2,500 from Tecumseh, Mich., visited Tecumseh, Ont., for that town's mid-century festival.

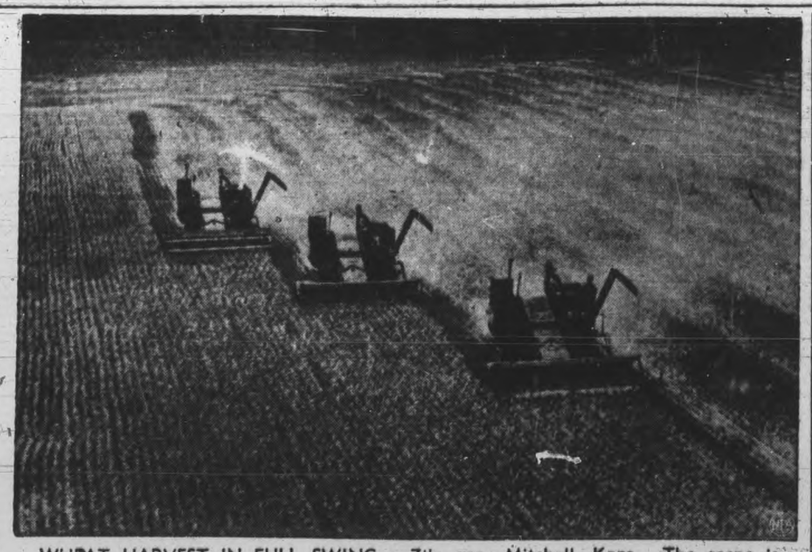
Quebec had sunny weather most of the weekend.

Heavy rain hampered proceedings in Halifax, but elsewhere in the Maritimes the holiday went on as planned.

U.K. Remembers

Across the Atlantic, the BBC broadcast two Dominion Day programs designed for Canadians in Britain. In one, an all-Canadian cast was heard in a variety show "Canada Calling." The other was a program of symphonic music played by the CBC Montreal orchestra and the Toronto Symphony.

Saturday was Canada Day at the Chicago Fair of 1950. The Canadian minesweeper portage visited the city and six RCAF jet fighters performed aerial acrobatics. A group of Canadian officials, headed by Transport Minister Chevrier, was feted at the fair.



WHEAT HARVEST IN FULL SWING —Looking like three three prehistoric monsters, these combines, owned by Joseph Bober of Minot, S.D., move through the 83-acre wheat field of C. O. Zile near Mitchell, Kans. The scene is a typical one throughout the Wheat Belt as farmers harvest their unexpectedly good crops, yielding 30 to 35 bushels an acre.

Chancel Guild Tea Raises $13

CAVAN, July 3 (ENS)—The sum of $13.75 was raised for the Chancel Guild of St. John's Anglican Church at a tea on Thursday on the lawn at Mrs. Frank Harkness's home at Ida.

The hostess welcomed the guests and Mrs. M Seenly helped her serve refreshments.

Mrs. Earnest Lamb contributed a solo.

Tea was served at small tables, gay with colorful embroidered cloths and centered with vases of pink tea roses. Before the guests sat down, the Rev. A. Chote, rector of the church, said grace.

Large baskets of pink and white peonies decorated the verandah.

Those helping to serve refreshments were Mrs. Robert McCamus, Miss Jean Lough, Mrs. T. McCamus, Mrs. E. Lamb, Mrs. Stanford Brown, Mrs. W. Howden, Barbara Seeney and Alice Brown.

Samuel Armstrong Dies At Lake Simcoe

TORONTO, July 3—(CP)—Samuel Allan Armstrong, 76, a former assistant provincial secretary of Ontario and deputy minister in the federal department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment after the First World War, died suddenly Saturday at his summer home at Crescent Harbor on Lake Simcoe.

One of the promoters of the Chatham, Wallaceburg and Lake Erie Railway, he became senior inspector of prisons and public charities for Ontario in 1905 and was appointed assistant provincial secretary four year later.

He directed construction of the Guelph reformatory in 1910 and of the Ontario hospital for the insane at Whitby in 1912.

In 1919 he moved to Chicago as vice-president of Jones, Underfeed Stokes Company of America and president of the A. W. Cash Company of Decatur, Ill. Ten years later he formed his own company, S. A. Armstrong Ltd., of which he was president until his death.

Fishing Brings U.S. Tourists

In addition to the Canadians who are off to the Kawartha, Muskoka and Haliburton districts for the holiday weekend, hundreds of Americans passed through Peterborough on Friday, headed for the summer playgrounds.

Fishing seemed to be the main attraction. At least this is the case for Solomon family who were headed for Camp Cleveland on Pigeon Lake. Mr. A. P. Solomon, Toledo, Ohio, spent a week there last September and had such good luck that this year he has brought his wife and three children up for a week's fishing.

Carl Ewell, Trenton, Ohio, came up just to see the scenery. He also paid a visit to this district last year and was so impressed with the beautiful landscape that he plans to spend his entire vacation motoring through Haliburton and parts of Muskoka and the Kawarthas.

"It's both the scenery and fishing that brings us to this part of Canada in the summer" said Mr. H. J. Campbell, Toledo, Ohio, who with his wife and granddaughter were on their way to Buckhorn.

Some of the American tourists were on motor trips with stop-overs planned so that they could do some fishing. Others were contented to make reservations at one place, and do their sight-seeing on daily trips from the lodges where they were booked.

Young Women Raise $35 At Tea And Sale

NORWOOD, July 3—(ENS)—The Young Women's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church held an afternoon tea and home baking sale and bazaar last week on the lawn at Mrs. Neil Rogers' home.

The two large tables were covered with lace cloths with lace cloths with baskets of Sweet William and Canterbury Bells, from which the small tables were served.

Those helping were Mrs. Cecil Cuthbertson, Mrs. Ted Kavanagh, Mrs. Wilson Small, Mrs. Stanley McMillan, Miss Isabel McMillan, Mrs. Earl Spencer, Mrs. Cassidy, Mrs. Roderick Webb, Mrs. Neil Rogers, Mrs. John Rogers. Proceeds were approximately $35.

Plan New Construction

OTTAWA, July 3 — (CP) — Canadian business and governments will spend about $3,701,000,000 this year in new construction and equipment, the Trade Department estimated Friday. The latest estimate is $105,000,000 — three per cent—above the $3,596,000,000 figure forecast by the department.

Attempted Murder

TORONTO, July 3 — (CP) — Steve Schewaga, 28, was charged with attempted murder and 18-year-old Frank Caruso was recovering in hospital from a bullet wound in the face following a Saturday night shooting at a downtown Toronto tavern.

Tourist Bureau Of J-C's Busy Service

"Where and how" are the questions generally asked at the Junior Chamber of Commerce Tourist Information Bureau, Charlotte St. The greater number of inquiries have been for the location of tourist resorts in the Kawartha, Muskoka and Haliburton districts and directions how to get there.

Approximately 350 callers have been registered in the log book since the bureau opened three weeks ago, according to operator, Bill Duignam. As well as making arrangements for accommodations in tourists resorts, operators of the bureau give inquiring tourists directions for a 11-mile tour of the city which takes in the Lift Lock, industries and other places of interest and also a 28-mile tour of the surrounding district. Many tourists stop at the bureau to inquire about eating places and the operators also have been called upon to locate relatives and friends in the city whose addresses are unknown by visitors.

The bureau will aid people of the city in mapping out routes to places anywhere in the country.

One of the most distinguished visitors at the bureau was US Vice Consul, L. B. Smith.

Raps Liberals

FARNHAM, Ont., July 3 (CP) —Premier Duplessis Sunday accused the Quebec Liberal Party of preaching demagoguery in Quebec. Speaking at the official opening of a new bridge in this town 40 miles southeast of Montreal, Mr. Duplessis said the Quebec Legislature never "will become a branch of any Ottawa government as long as the present Union Nationale government retains power in this province."

He never regained consciousness.

57 Violent Deaths Mar Dominion Day Holiday

By The Canadian Press.

In a week-end marked by celebrations by Canadians at home and abroad, and marred by at least 57 violent deaths within her borders, the Dominion celebrated the 83rd anniversary of its birth.

Thousands took advantage of generally fine weather to jam the highways in week-end outings. And the highways took their toll.

A Canadian Press survey reported 27 deaths resulting from traffic accidents, There were 16 drownings and 14 persons died violently in other mishaps.

Ontario reported the heaviest accident toll, with 24 persons losing their lives. Nine were killed in highway accidents, eight were drowned, and other fatilities included the death of two RCAF pilots when their light plane crashed at Lindsay.

Deep Thankfulness

CHICAGO, Ill., July 3—(CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier said Saturday that he never crosses from Canada into the United States without experiencing "a feeling of deep thankfulness that a common trust in each other demands so little in the way of formalities. In a brief address during "Canada Day" at the 1950 Chicago Fair, Mr. Chevrier said the common trust between "my country and yours" is most significant in these troubled times.

U.K. Coal Board Refuses Boost Miners

LLANDUDNO, Wales, July 3—(Reuters). — The government's National Coal Board Sunday refused to grant wage increases to 400,000 lower-paid workers.

It rejected a claim from the National Union of Mineworkers for increases of about 15 shillings ($2.30) a week for surface and underground workers earning between £5 and £5 15s a week.

Sir William Lawther, the union leader, annonuced the board's decision as delegates gathered here for the miners' annual conference, which opens today.

When the union advanced its claim in May it did so on the grounds that lower-paid men, who are paid on a day-to-day basis, do not come within the restrictions of the government's policy on raises.

The other 300,000 employees in the coal industry earn considerably more under piece - rate agreements, depending on their output.

Lawther said that in view of the board's attitude the union executive has agreed to recommend creation of a new cost-of-living bonus to aid the lower-paid men.

If the union accepts this recommendation, a formula will be submitted to the board and to the National Reference Tribunal, the industry's arbitration machinery.

Orono Defeated By UEW In Soccer Tilt

Peterborough UE soccer eleven travelled to Orono Saturday to play a return fixture that resulted in a 3-0 win for the local team. Orono were best served by the centre-half and the custodian. For the UE, Craig, Steel and Latham went best.

In the early stages, spectacular goal-keeping by Orono's custodian held the UE from scoring. Then Orono took hold of the game with a steady attack that kept the UE fullbacks on the jump to safeguard their citadel. Boyd relieved the pressure to dribble the ball from centre and drove hard for goal to get the top right corner of the upright. Just before the interval, Featherstone evaded the fullbacks nicely to hit the crossbar with a terrific drive.

The second half opened with a concentrated attack on the UE goal. However, UE halfback line of Latham, Downer and Steel dominated the play. Strong found a place for a perfect cross at the foot of Duffus, who methodically picked the open side of the net for number two. This was followed a little later by Featherstone, who received an accurate pass from Duffus and easily picked the corner of the upright to make it read 3-0.

Orono's team was picked from the five district teams.

Peterborough UE—J. Hutchinson, goal; J. Craig and S. McCann, fullbacks; H. Latham, A. Downer and H. Steel, halfbacks; R. Strong, A. Boyd, F. Attard, A. Duffus and A. Featherstone, forwards.

A TALL SLENDER SEA CAPTAIN whose ship is now berthed in Montreal harbor, createst a sensation every time he goes ashore. People stop dead in their tracks and stare incredulously as they catch sight of him striding briskly into steamship company offices. British sailors gasp in astonishment and a number are reported to have "sworn off" for good. Cause of all the excitement is Capt. Anders Anderson, master of the Norwegian vessel Thorsisle, whose striking resemblance to King George VI has been a source of constant embarassment to him for nearly 20 years. His erect walk, his build, lace and neat nautical uniform all add to the illusion and his best friends have long ago nicknamed him "King".

JACOBY ON CANASTA

"Please answer a question on penalty cards," requests a Georgia reader. "My partner melded 80 points instead of the required 90, and didn't see her mistake until the cards were already exposed. She put down one deuce, three eights, and three nines. After seeing her mistake and realizing that she was penalized, she discarded one of the eights that she had put down.

"When my turn came, it happened that I had very similar cards. I put down three eights with a deuce and three nines with a deuce.

"Please advise just what my partner should do when her next turn comes. I interpreted the rules to mean that she would not be compelled to discard any further from the table, and also that her cards exposed on the table could be added to my meld. Is this true or false?

"Is my partner supposed to take up her cards and put them back into her hand? Or does she add them to my meld? If she is permited to add them, what method should she use? May she put only one card on my melds at a time, or may she put them all there at one play?"

This is a subject that confuses a great many players. The best way to remember what you can do and what you can't do with penalty cards is to imagine that they're face up on the table. Of course, that's just imagination; you can't actualy pick them up and put them back in your hand.

Now, what can you do with cards that are in your hand when your partner makes a legal meld? When your turn comes, you may add one or more cards from your hand to your partner's melds. You are allowed to add as few or as many as you like. The same is true of your penalty cards. You may add one or more to your partner's melds.

To be specific, in the case under discussion the played could add all of her penalty cards (two eights, three nines, and one deuce) to her partner's meld. If, for some obscure reason, she did not add all of those cards, the rest would still remain as penalty cards and would have to be discarded until they were all either properly melded or discarded.

Q—When you are down to one card and the top card of the discard pile is one that matches one of your melds, is it permissible to take the pack?

A—Yes—provided that the pack consists of more than one card. When you have only one card, you are not alowed to take a one-card discard pile; but you are allowed to take a pile of two or more cards. However, if the pack is frozen you can never pick it up with one card. You need a pair to take a frozen pack, and a single card can never be enough.

Q—I drew the last card of the stock, and it happened to be a red three. Was I allowed to meld out?

A—Yes. In this situation you may meld just as many as you would at any other time. If you can meld out, you may do so and you will get the regular bonus of 100 points. If you do not meld all of your cards, you may meld whatever you like. However, in this situation (getting a red three as the last card of the stock), you do not discard; and the hand comes to an end when you have finished with your meld.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Fitch will live at 46 Humberview Rd., Toronto. Both are graduates of the University of Toronto.

What's Right?

A neighbor's children, who are old enough to know better, make a practice of coming into your house without knocking.

WRONG: Decide that if their mother doesn't teach them better manners, there is nothing you can do about it.

RIGHT: Tell them they must knock when they come to your house, and stick by your rule, having them go back outside and knock when they forget.

DOROTHY DIX

Middle-aged Man Considers Seeking Romance Elsewhere

DEAR MISS DIX: I was married at the age of 20 to a very beautiful girl and she is still beautiful. We have been married 20 years. There is no jealousy on either side, but we do not seem to be able to agree on anything. She assumes a dictatorial attitude about all our plans or doings and, of course, I will not stand for it. I have tried time and again to be as loving as a man can possibly be and things would be peaceful for a few days. Then words between us that would kill all the affection that had been rekindled. Now it has got to the place where she is repulsive to me. W have two fine children, 18 and 19, and I still think of their welfare, but it is hard to miss the romance that should continue throughout life. Am I justified in seeking romance elsewhere that I miss with my wife? —J. A. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: What price romance? Did you ever consider that the middle-aged married man has to pay a price for romance that almost invariably bankrupts him in purse as well as heart? Let's add up the cost. Let's begin with the business end. You are not rich, but you make enough money to provide comfortably for your family. You are sitting rather pretty, even if your wife has got on your nerves and is hard to get along with. You don't realize it, but financial security goes a longer way than you think it does toward securing happiness. And it is only homemade kisses that are cheap. Bought ones come high and lovenests run into real money.

Can Ruin Career

Nor will your romance enhance your standing in the business world. Many employers fire a man for getting messed up with women. And do you think any romance is worth giving up your two fine children for? Do you think the affection of any stray woman is going to atone to you for the loss of their love and respect?

It's bad enough for a married man with children to fall in love with another woman when it is an act of God, so to speak, and he can't help himself. But for a man like you who isn't in love with a woman to go deliberately out to seek romance is simply hunting trouble.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a close relative who is being enticed by a widow with a house full of children. He has a misunderstanding with a lovely young girl to whom he was engaged, and now it is quite plain that the widow is trying to get him on the rebound. He will be a very miserable man if her marries her, for his life as well as that of the young lady will be ruined. What can I do toward keeping this man from making a fatal mistake?—RELATIVE.

ANSWER: Very little. When a family starts out to break off a match the general result is that they hurry it up.

You see, there is nothing like opposition to fan the flame of love, because it immediately makes the lover the champion of the poor, abused, woman or man who is so unjustly accused by others. In this case probably the man has secret doubts about the wisdom of marrying a woman with a ready-made family and of letting himself in for a lifetime of slavery supporting another man's children.

But the minute you begin pointing out the disadvantages of the situation you make him the widow's advocate, and he will shut his eyes to the danger and think only of what a help he can be to the poor, weak little angel who needs a strong man to lean on and to help her rear her children.

Your best play is to go after the old sweetheart and induce her to come to the rescue. Tell her this is no time for hurt pride or wounded vanity. tI is time for the life-saving crew to get into action, and if she still loves the man she should hold out her hand with her heart in it to him.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: You once wrote in an article: "With the forties come to women the realization that youth is almost over, that age is almost upon them. Soon their good looks and their physical attractiveness will be gone." A well-known beauty expert says that beauty is not a question of age. It is making the best of one's good points. Which is right?—MAUD.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Both, because we are talking of different things. I was speaking of the beauty of youth, of a woman's physical attraction for men. I know many old women who are beautiful because their faces are so filled with sweetness and tenderness and wisdom and gentleness, but theirs is not the beauty that rouses romantic love in any man's breast.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Question from Mrs. M. C. (answer continued from last week on Vitamin B)

Pantothenic Acid

This is sometimes referred to as the anti-gray-hair factor. It is essentail to all living organisms and may be concerned with fat and carbohydrate absorption. It is necessary for the utilization of other vitamins in the body.

Good dietary sources are: beef liver, beef heart, beef brain, eggs, roasted peanuts, dried peas, wheat germ and wheat bran, soy beans, sweet potatoes, pork muscel meat, broccoli, dried Lima beans.

Vitamin B falls under two other divisions (Folic, Choline, Biotin and Insitol) than those mentioned above, but their proven functions are highly specialized and details on them would be interesting to very limited number of readers.

Vitamin C

This is the least stable of the vitamins. It plays an important role in the formation of teeth and bones, and in healing of fractured bones and wounds. It may be necessary for the maintenance of normal blood hemoglobin levels.

Scurvy is a well-known example of Vitamin C deficiency, and the strength of a healing wound is much lower in patients suffering from scurvy.

✧ ✧ ✧

Good Dietary Sources

Broccoli, collards, kale, mustard greens; spinach, strawberries, turnip greens, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, oranges, lemons, grapefruit, limes, tomatoes.

(Vitamin data continued next week—please clip if interested.)

QUESTION: Please send me that chart of two weeks worth of master menus that include all of the protective foods, that you mentioned.

Would you mind printing more dinners that I could use because I am reducing but find the diet is becoming monotonous. I think your column is tops and want to wish your family a happy summer.—Mother of Four Wild Indians.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: For your sake I am glad it is the beginning of summer. Maybe you could erect a wigwam for your tribe in the back garden and let them drive one another wild instead of you in the house.

N.B. Student Holidays in Taxi

LONDON —(CP)— Margot McDohald, 19-year-old art student from New Brunswick, is on a three-week holiday—in a taxi.

With four London, friends, Miss McDonald is traveling through France and the Pyrenees into Spain.

The taxi was purchased in a London market for £50 ($155). The meter was removed when it went on the market, so the holidayers won't be able to do business on the side.

Anna Farr, 20-year-old art student who is one of the party, said before leaving London that most of the cooking would probably be handled by Margot—"she does a good strawberry shortcake."

Find Revolution In Women's Lingerie Styles

NEW YORK, July 3—(AP)—There's a revolution going on in ladies' underwear.

It involves a tactical change, not a difference in over-all strategy, says John Norman, who designs lingerie.

More and more women, he says, are breaking away from demure whites and pinks and blues and are wearing reds, greens and other high colors.

"These are by far the most popular boudoier numbers," Norman reports. "Even brides are dropping the usual white lingeries. They're wearing green, yellow, lemon and lime, even black. Imagine a bride in black lingerie?"

"The esesnce of sex," Norman said, 'is subtlety. Here's what I mean." He exhibited a red pair of panties.

"You see," he said, "we achieve our effect by the red and adding a fringe of Flemish lace on the back.

"The art in this business is to show flesh when you least expect it and hide flesh when you wouldn't expect it. Look at this bittersweet nightgown. The shoulders and neck are nothing but nylon lace. Suddenly it reveals bare arms and then, of course, there's the abrupt plunge at the bodice."

He's A Bachelor

Norman, 32, is handsome and a bachelor. He gets his ideas principally from paintings and particularly from the French impressionists.

"They really got glamor in women," he said.

Who makes the best lingerie designers, men or women?

"Men, definitely," Norman answered. "Women are apt to get prissy at the wrong time."

Are bachelors better lingerie designers than married men?

"Of course, I'm prejudiced, but I'd say bachelors," said Norman. "A married man, especially one with daughters, is likely to let his home life interfere. In this business, you have to be completely uninhibited."

Nylon, Canasta Make Impression

WELLINGTON, NZ —(CP)— "Everything seems to be made of nylon, everyone is mad about television and no one plays anything but canasta," declared Canadian-born Mrs. L. R. Richardson in summing up impressions of a visit to her native country after 10 years.

Mrs. Richardson, a Fredericton woman, came to New Zealand 10 years ago when her husband took up a university appointment in Wellington and has just returned after spending several months in Canada and the United States.

When she first came to New Zealand she shivered in the uninsulated houses and sighed for Canadian central heating. But apparently she has unconsciously become used to New Zealand habits, for when she returned to Canada she found the atmosphere of Canadian rooms hard to take. Her first action on reaching an hotel was to turn off the heat and open the window.

As national president of the YWCA in New Zealand, Mrs. Richardson visited many YWCA centres in Canada and the United States, and has returned filled with envy at the fine facilities they have acquired in recent years.

Mount Pleasant WA Entertains

MOUNT PLEASANT, July 3—(ENS)—Members of Springville W.A. and Fairmount WMS were guests of Mount Pleasant Woman's Association for the June meeting held in Mount Pleasant United Church.

All former members of the local association were invited to this meeting held in observance of the 25th anniversary of the United Church.

Two minutes' silence was observed in memory of Mrs. Hanbidge of Fairmount, after which the president, Mrs. Hubert Lowes, welcomed the women of Fairmount and Springville.

Mrs. M. Jones read the scripture, Mrs. Norman Fee gave the devotional, basing her talk on the parable of the talents.

The program, in charge of the visiting societies, was as follows: Miss D. Stevens, piano solo; Mrs. B. Visee, a reading; Mr. E. Seymour gave a summary of the work accomplished by the United Church of Canada.

Owing to the cool weather, the "Silver Tea" following the meeting was held indoors. Mrs. Thomas Graham and Mrs. Harry Bland poured tea.

The table was centred with an arrangement of flowers with tall pink tapers and silver service at each end on a lace cover. Mrs. Wm. Walke and Mrs. M. Jones were conveners of the refreshments.

How to Prepare Lunches For Lazy Days in Summer

Conducted by MARY MOORE

Are you suffering from general inertia and chronic inaptitude for work?

Terrible disease isn't it? I'm bitten by the same bug, that is is why I, too, want to assemble meals insted of cooking them.

It isn't the heat, of course, it's the—oh, heck—it's just plain laziness.

But I am in good company I hear, so I will work just long enough today to tell you how to avoid work tomorrow.

Early Morning Preparations

For the menus I am suggesting I organized one major cooking bee: I boiled a 3-lb. piece of pickled back bacon (this could be smoked back or boneless smoked cottage roll to serve the same purpose of slicing cold); I made up some tomato jellies; I whipped up a big bowl of mayonnaise; hard-cooked a dozen eggs and chilled them and put them back in the refrigerator, and made a quart sealer full of lemon syrup. Besides that all of the salad vegetables in two hydrators were cleaned ready to eat, and I ordered a pound of cottage cheese from the milkman.

Summer Luncheon Menus

(No. 1) On each luncheon plate put one 2-slice whole-wheat bread salmon sandwich. (Mix the salmon with a little mayonnaise and lemon juice before spreading.) Arrange alternate slices of cucumber and tomato. Garnish with tomato jelly mould and a large radish cut into leaves like a book—cutting through the radish to within about ¼-inch of the bottom,—making about 6 slits in all. Serve with iced tea (flavored with the lemon syrup I mentioned) and sliced banana for dessert.

(No. 2) "Dagwood style: On a large plate put sandwich makings such as sliced liverwurst and sliced cold boiled bacon (see above), slices of Swiss cheese, crisp inner lettuce leaves, sliced dills and thin slices dark rye bread. From that start, they are on their own when you provide iced coffee and a large bowl of fresh Byng cherries.

(No. 3) Meatless. Mounds of cottage cheese on tomato slices or in tomato cups or beside tomato jelly moulds; devilled eggs; stuffed green, or plain ripe olives, watercress and cheese-stuffed celery; bran muffins; iced lemonade made from the lemon syrup on hand, and date-filled oatmeal cookies.

(No. 4) Jellied consomme with a sprinkling of lemon juice; tossed green salad of crisp head lettuce, a few spinach leaves, a few slices of tomato and radish and a generous amount of finely shredded cabbage — generously marinated with French dressing and served with Norwegian sardines to give the whole thing zest—especially if you have hungry men to satisfy. Serve chocolate milk shakes with this one and chilled rhubarb or chilled canned pears.

(No. 5) Western sandwiches made with hot side bacon and cold sliced tomatoes on whole wheat bread; chilled carrot strings; sweet mixed pickles; and if you care to go to the trouble make a big bowl of mixed fresh and canned fruit such as strawberries, sliced bananas, canned peaches and an orange and a grapefruit cut free from their skins and membranes. Fresh limeade and cocoanut cookies are wonderfully refreshing. A mixture of fresh limes and grape juice with plenty of ice and sugar is good too.

Slam Cab Door Thugs' Nitro Causes Blast

ST. CATHARINES, July 3. — Safecrackers who made an unsuccessful attempt to blow the vault at Mason's Dairy, on the Queen Elizabeth Way just north of St. Catharines, almost caused a serious accident not on their schedule.

Apparently frightened away after they had drilled the safe and loaded it with nitro-glycerine, they left their tools, including a drill, wrecking bar, sledgehammer and a part bottle of nitroglycerine on the floor.

When Chief Norman Fach of Crantham Township was informed of the attempted robbery, he visited the premises, then put all the evidence into a box, still containing the part bottle of nitroglycerine, in the back seat, and went back into the dairy.

In the meantime a cruiser from the St. Catharines Police Department inspected the tools, slamming the door of the taxi afterward.

A few minutes later Dugas returned to his cab to find that the nitro-glocyerine had exploded, scattering glass and scorching the seat. Only the fact that the window of the cab had been left open prevented more serious damage.

Double Wedding Tangles In-Laws

CLEVELAND, July 3 (AP)—Francis Ruzsa, 23, became a stepbrother to his wife Saturday and his mother became his mother-in-law. This was due to a double wedding ceremony in which: Ruzsa married Jean Dunasky, 27. His mother, Mrs. Goldie Ruzsa, 48, married Jean's father, Frank, 57.

Mrs. Margaret Campbell

Funeral for the late Mrs. Margaret Campbell of Bridgenorth was held today at the Belleghem Funeral Home. The Rev. Charles G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church officiated, and pallbearers were A. E. Watkins, J. A. Middleton, Bruce Johnston, Ira Robson, John and James Anderson. Burial was at Little Lake Cemetery.

Mrs. Campbell died on Friday in hospital following a short illness. She was born at Centreville, daughter of the late William Bateer and Dorothy Bothwell, and lived in Peterborough nearly all her life, moving to Bridgenorth two months ago. Her husband, Frank Campbell, predeceased her. There were no children and no remaining relatives. Mrs. Campbell was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Won't Send Troops

SINGAPORE, July 3 (Reuters) —Field Marshal Sir William Slim, chief of the Imperial General Satff, said today that British troops would not be sent to Korea from Malaya. "The Malayan campaign is more important to Malaya than Korean events," he told reporters.

Shooting Groundhogs But Rustler Jailed

LINDSAY, July 3.—He was really shooting groundhogs when he hit a steer between the eyes, Thomas Bain explained in court here Friday. Nevertheless, he was sentenced to three months less one week, on a cattle rustling charge.

Bain said he and his employee, William Faynes, became panicky after shooting the animal on Vincent Murphy's farm, so they skinned and dressed it. Each took some of the meat. Faynes drew a three months' sentence.

Murphy valued the animal at $125. Restitution was made.

Drift Fisherman Fined $20, Costs

Found guilty on a charge of drift fishing with artificial bait in the pickerel season, Gordon Barnsdale, of Toronto, was today fined $20 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

Game warden Ray Simpson testified he saw accused in a boat on Pigeon Lake June 3. "He was with another man, and they had already one fair-sized pickerel in the boat. The anchor was not in the water."

Barnsdale said he knew nothing of the laws regarding fishing. He said he had never been fishing before.

"When you buy a car, you must have a licence, and know something about the regulations of the Highway Traffic Act," said Magistrate Philp. "The same thing applies when you go fishing or hunting.

Game Warden Simpson testified he asked the pair why they didn't have the anchor out, and they told him the rope was too short. "I asked them if they knew it was illegal to fish that way, and they didn't say yes or no."

Barnsdale's partner in the boat, Michael Norman, also of Toronto, did not appear when called. His case was adjourned a week.

Says Power Politics Used In U.S. Attack

MANCHESTER, England, July 3 — (Reuters)—Konni Zilliacus, left-wing Labor rebel who was ousted from his Commons seat in the last election, today publicly blamed United States "power politics" for the North Korean attack.

In a letter published in the Manchester Guardian, Zilliacus said it was "both a crime and a blunder" on Russia's part to allow North Korean forces to invade the South. But he said that American moves in the Far East may have induced the Russians to decide that "it was about time they showed their teeth."

Provocation was proved, he said, by the U.S. decision to continue indefinitely her military occupation of Japan "in order to turn it and Southern Korea into a military base and a standing threat against the Soviet Union and China."

Two Cars Damaged

About $60 damage was done to two autos when they collided Saturday at Romaine and Lock Sts. Horace Storey, 751 Brown St., was driving west on Romaine, and was halfway across the intersection of Lock St., when his car came in collision with one driven by Don Russell, 298 Brownwood Ave., who had been driving north on Lock St.

Rail Strikers Refuse To End Walkout

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP)—Striking AFL switchmen Sunday turned down the government's request to call off their wage-hour strike which began a week ago today. But they offered to help five strike-bound railroads in the western United States move any material the government deems essential.

The union replied to John Thad Scott Jr., chairman of the National (Railway) Mediation Board. Scott Saturday urgently asked the union to end in strike because of the "current critical developments" arising from the Korean war.

Scott said prompt restoration of full service on the five lines would be "in the national interest."

The union said it refused complete cancellation of the strike "for nothing." It questioned whether any national emergency exists.

A union spokesman said the strike would be ended only if President Truman declares that war is on or a national emergency exists.

The switchmen said they previously had offered to send back to work enough strikers to help railroads move wheat, ore, or any other shipments the government regarded as essential to the national economy. They said the offers were rejected.

School Bd. Chairman Denies Calling Reeves Nit-Wits

In an interview yesterday, E. C. McKeel, chairman of the Campbellford High School Board emphatically denied two statements made by Reeve Art Wartman, Reeve of Percy Township, at the special meeting of the United Counties Council at Cobourg, Thursday, at this meeting Reeve Wartman stated that Mr. McKeel had called members of the counties council nitwits at a meeting held in Hilton and that he had phoned Reeve R. J. Locke of Campbellford asking him to hold up the by-law effecting the school area until he could "work on" counties council members.

Mr. McKeel stated in the interview, "I did not call members of the counties council nitwits, or use any other derogatory remarks concerning them. Secondly, my phone conversation was mainly with Reeve Woodyard, chairman of the schools Consultative Committee, and not with our Reeve. It was Reeve Woodyard's suggestion, not mine, that the bylaw be held up until another joint meeting was held with Department of Education officials.

"If it was Reeve Wartman's intention to hoodwink his fellow councillors by making such false statements and foster antagonism toward Campbelltord, he can congratulate himself on the results obtained, but not on the methods he employed.

"I seek no apology from Reeve Wartman for such statements. Any apology he wishes to make can be made to the ratepayers in the six and seven school section in his own township, whose petitions to the counties council received no support from him, and which he chose to completely ignore."

New By-Laws Effects.

Mr. McKeel also stated that he would definitely not sit on the School Board, if Compbellford was taken into the Brighton area.

At the county council meeting Thursday, bylaws were passed setting up on high school district in Durham County and another in east Northumberland.

Reeve R. J. Locke of Campbellford said in the controversy preceding the passing of the bylaw that his municipality would try to secede, if the bylaw were passed. Both he and Deputy-Reeve O. Mason of Campbellford favoured Campbellford and Seymour as one district.

As it stands now the new high school area in east Northumberland as affected by the bylaw includes Brighton township, part of Percy township, Seymour township, Brighton village, Colborn village, Campbellford and Cramahe township.

Man 60 Climbs Mount Logan For Second Time

CORDOVA, Alaska, July 3 — (AP)—A 60-year-old Bostonian, who was among those making the first ascent of the 19,580-foot Mount Logan 25 years ago, conquered the peak again June 17—the second time it has been scaled.

He wanted to see if his legs could "still take it."

For Norman H. Read, it was six days short of 25 years since he made the ascent.

Read and Andre Roch, his companion from Davos, Switzerland, returned here Saturday with the story of their climb. They were 51 days on ice where there are no insects, animals or birds. They battled snowstorms that threatened to destroy them.

Then in the face of overwhelming odds, they climbed both of Logan's peaks.

The snow and ice-capped mountain rises just inside the Yukon territory to the north of Yakutat, Alaska, between Cordova and Juneau.

On June 23, 1925, it was ascended for the first time by six members of a joint expedition of Canadian and American alpine clubs.

"Since it was a quarter of a century since I'd done it before, I wanted to see if I could do it again —if my legs would take it," said Read in an interview aboard a plane to Juneau. "I found I could, although the packs seemed a little heavier this time."

Senate Report Gives Race Dope

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)— The Senate commerce committee has unveiled a bulky report designed "to show the pattern of race news distribution which is reaching the bookies" in the United States.

The committee listed the names of more than 2,000 firms and persons who receive or distribute race news over an intricate network of telegraph and telephone lines fanning out from Chicago.

Senator Ernest McFarland (Dem. Ariz.), who directed compiling of the report, told reporters he has no doubt most of those listed are in the bookmaking business. However, he emphasized that many others named are legitimate users of racing news who haven't even a remote connection with gambling.

He added that the report will be valuable to local police officers if they wish to trace back the names "to find out some of the bookie operations."

The report grew out of commerce sub-committee hearings on ways to curb the bookies who are estimated to be doing a $3,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 undercover business annually.

Chamber Of Commerce Outlines Steps For Freeing Trade Deals

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor.

The International Chamber of Commerce believes that fast action should be taken to free international trade from many of the restrictions which were perhaps unavoidable in the post-war world.

Now, it says, the reconstruction period is largely over.

The ICC's views are outlined in a 3,000-word statement following a meeting in Paris this month of more than 100 delegates from 24 countries.

The ICC advocates removal of restrictions which handicap "multilateral" trade—trade flowing freely among many countries instead of between two countries or even groups of countries.

Currencies Converted

It asks that currencies be freely converted from one into another and sees hope towards this in the European payments union.

This should lead to free exchangeability of currencies in the union area. The next step should be to extend exchangeability to current transactions with the United States dollar area (including Canada). But: "The freeing of the pound sterling is the key to the solution of the problem of world-wide currency exchangeability."

Standing in the way of this are the so-called "sterling balances"—the money which Britain owes for the purchase of war goods from a number of countries, including India and Egypt.

The statement calls for:

Encouragement to international investments.

Greater flexibility in arrangements governing emigration and immigration.

It recognizes that in removing certain restrictions European countries will have to undergo adjustments which may be difficult, but "they are merely growing pains leading to greater economic health."

Believes Women Don't Reach Peak Till 40

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 3—(AP)—After observing the opposite sex for most of his 73 years, Charles Cobourn concludes that "a woman doesn't reach her peak until she is at least 40."

The famed actor with the monocle and the pouting lip delivered the opinion at his spacious and memento-filled Hollywood Boulevard home.

"Put any woman past 40 in a room full of debutantes," he proposed. "In a few minutes, you will see that she has monopolized the attention and has the men in her control.

"She has learned to make the man seem the centre of importance. Younger girls feel that they must be the focus of attention."

Cobourn warmed up to his subject and spoke in the soft tones of his native Georgia.

That Something

"A woman past 40 may have lost some of her youthfulness, but she has gained an inner beauty which is more important.

A man, he added, doesn't reach maturity until 50.

"After all, women are always most advanced for their age than men.

"A girl of 12 or 14 is always more advanced than a boy of the same age. In fact, it starts earlier. A girl baby may be bored in a room full of women. But let a man enter the room and she will start preening her feathers."

Where Life Began

The actor admitted that life began at 60 for him.

"When my wife died," he recalled, "I was terribly depressed. I had an offer to come to Hollywood and I took it, even though I had no desire to do movies. But I found the work fascinating and I have never been happier."

Coburn gets a chance to display his romantic technique in "Louisa." He and Edmund Gwenn, another mature Lothario, battle for the hand of Spring Byington.

SCHOOLMASTER IS KING — Who is taking off whose hat to whom? King Feisal of Iraq, a pupil in Harrow School, Middlesex, England, raises his hat to the headmaster at the roll call parade of the Speech Day ceremony. Many People Becoming Sick From Breathing

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, July 3 —(AP)— Are you one of the many people who breathe themselves sick?

You can do it easily enough, through bad habits of breathing, sighing, yawning and swallowing. You over-breathe, get too much air into your lungs or stomach.

That can cause dizziness, chest pains, tingling or numbness in hands, feet or face, buzzing in the head, bloating, muscular aches, blurring of vision, dryness of mouth, even fainting.

The over-breathing — Doctors call it hyperventilation—seems to be pretty common, Dr. Raymond L. Rice of Mt. Sinai Hospital and Marquette University School of Medicine, Milwaukee, Wis., writes in the American Journal of Medicine.

One in Ten Suffers

Perhaps one in every 10 persons who go to see doctors suffers from over-breathing, Dr. Rice says. Most people aren't aware of it even some physicians and medical students say they never heard of hyperventilation.

Some people take deep gasps of air, and then suffer. The gasp with no reason to justify it causes a sensation of smothering. Often people gasp when they are sleeping, or just walking. It is an explosive gasp, and often is an expression of anxiety or tension.

A second kind of over-breathing is a deep breath or sigh, taken to relieve emotional tension.

In a tense or unhappy situation, some people reach for a cigaret or chocolate. Others sigh or gasp, some yawn or sniff, or indulge in other over-breathing habits Dr. Rice said. Some swallow too much, and with each swallow they swallow air. Swallowing isn't a harmless habit.

Canadian Humane Society Gives 3 Bronze Medals For Heroism

TORONTO, July 4 —(CP)— Award of three bronze medals for heroism one posthumously, was announced today by the Royal Canadian Humane Association. They went to Lois Dawson (posthumous) of RR 3, Wingham, Ont., John Russell Yard of Vancouver and Beverley Ross of Victoria, BC.

Fourteen-year-old Lois Dawson lost her life Jan. 8, while trying to save Billy Reavie, 10, from drowning at East Wawanosh, near Wingham. The boy was trying to rescue his dog after it had broken through the ice when the ice cracked under his weight. Lois went in after him and raised him so he could grasp an overhanging branch and haul himself to safety. She lost consciousness and died shortly after being taken to hospital by firemen.

Fireman Leonard Reinhart, H. Nelson Nicholl and Robert Arbuckle received commendation for their work, and will receive parchment certificates.

Trapped In Cab

John Russell Yard jumped into dock waters Jan. 30, to rescue a man trapped in the cab of a truck that has nosedived into the water. With a rope tied around his body, Yard swam to the submerged truck. He tied the rope round the limp body of William Hagstead who was hauled to shore and revived with an inhalator. Yard was later raised in the same manner, after standing waist-deep in the ice-cold water on top of the truck.

Miss Ross was cited for a rescue from Shawinigan Lake, near Victoria, June 12, 1949. When she heard cries of help from a man about 75 feet from shore she swam out to him. He had gone under by the time she reached him, but she dived and brought him to the surface. With the assistance of a St. John Ambulance man, she brought Frank Greeley to shore and he revived after 10 minutes' of artificial respiration.

17 Certificates

In addition to those given to the three firemen, parchment certificates have been awarded to 14 persons for life-saving. They go to four persons in British Columbia, one in Alberta, two in Saskatchewan, three in Ontario and four in the Maritimes. They are:

Jean Beeler, Annapolis Royal, NS, for heroic action in the rescue of Anna Longmire, from drowning in Sandy Bottom Lake, South Milford, NS, July 22, 1948.

Rina Fourtnier, Edmunaston, NB, for the rescue of Lucille Thibodeau, from drowning in the whirlpool, St. John River, St. Asile, NB, Jan. 31, 1950.

German Court Soon To Try Ilse Koch For War Crimes

By ROBERT PETTY

AUGSBURG, Bavaria, July 3 —(Reuters)— A German court—four German judges and a German jury of 12—will soon have an opportunity to prove or disprove that the red-haired widow Ilse Koch is one of the worst women the world has ever known.

An Allied war crimes court sentenced her to life imprisonment for her behavior at the Buchenwald concentration camp while her husband, since executed by the Nazis, was commandant there. The evidence against her appalled civilized people, and they were again appalled when Gen. Lucius D. Clay, as American military governor of Germany reduced the sentence to four years.

Frau Koch, now 43, was released last autumn on completing the four years.

Then the Germans arrested her. They have prepared an indictment nearly 150 pages long, arranged to call about 200 witnesses, and started compiling the affidavits of 200 others.

Starts In July

The trial is to start about the end of July and is expected to last two months. The charges boil down to incitement of 45 murders and 135 attempted murders. The victims were all Germans or Austrians—hence the German court's direct interest in her as distinct from the Allied court's concern with crimes against humanity.

The defendant is in Aichach prison, near the Landberg prison where she served her four years. She is under mental observation.

When she was first tried there were allegations that she had ordered that inmates at Buchenwald should be put to death so that lampshades could be made from their skin. It was this more than anything else that horrified the outside world.

The German prosecution is specific about this. It declares that Frau Koch picked out tattooed inmates to die and passed on the tattooed parts to a special staff to be "used for the manufacture of all sorts of items, including lampshades." Lampshades are likely to be exhibited at the trial.

Fears Snag

If she is found guilty she can be sentenced again to life imprisonment but presiding judge Werner Oppel fears a snag.

Bavarian juries now are entitled to reduce the charge against an accused person, even to the extent of calling murder simply "negligent manslaughter," and the judges must impose correspondingly lower sentences.

Judge Oppel, himself a Buchenwald inmate while the Kochs were there, is hoping to persuade the Bavarian minister of justice to change this before the trial opens. He gave instances of major criminals having received light sentences because juries had reduced the charge.

Russia Demands U.N. Get U.S. Armed Forces Out Of Korean Territory

Charges Americans Commit Armed Aggression And Waging Open War; Says Again Security Council Move Illegal

LONDON, July 4—(AP)—Russia called on the United Nations Security Council today to get United States armed forces out of Korea. In a lengthy statement bristling with accusations against the United States, the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, said: "The United Nations will only fulfil its obligations to maintain peace if the Security Council demands the unconditional cessation of American military intervention and the immediate withdrawal of the American armed forces from Korea."

The statement, distributed by the Russian News Agency Tass, accused the United States of committing "armed aggression," "a hostile act against peace", and of waging "open war against the Korean people."

(In Washington the State Department said it would not comment immediately on Gromyko's statement.)

Different Story

Reiterating previous Russian claims that U.S.-backed Korean forces had started the fighting, Gromyko claimed that American "aggressive circles" sought to gain control over all of Korea to use it as a "military and strategic bridgehead in the Far East."

The statement accused UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie of "obligingly" assisting in a "gross violation of the (UN) Charter by the government of the United States and by other members of the Security Council."

Gromyko repeated previous Russian charges that the Security Council call for military aid was illegal because Nationalist China cast the seventh and deciding vote of the U.S. resolution and because Russia was absent from the meeting.

The statement attacked President Truman's orders to the U.S. Navy to neutralize the island of Formosa, held by the Chinese Nationalists, as well as the presidents' order for stepped-up military supplies to the Philippines and Indo-China.

The American action on Formosa, Gromyko said, meant American troops had occupied "that part of the territory of China" in what he termed a "direct aggression" against China.

Aid to the Philippines was designed to interfere "in the internal affairs of the state" and to foment internal strife.

U.K. Restrictions Eased, Hope More Settlers

OTTAWA, July 4 (CP)—Immigration Minister Harris expressed hope today that movement of British settlers to Canada will be stimulated by relaxation of United Kingdom currency restrictions.

Mr. Harris said at a press conference that British immigration has slumped seriously and that any improvement will depend on the UK lowering the bars against its emigrants taking out funds.

He noted that Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said a few days ago that the British government was considering increasing the amount emigrants could take out in the first year.

"Such a new policy would be helpful," he said. "The big stumbling block has been capital."

(At present, prospective settlers may take out only £250 about $770—a year for the first four years.)

Big Drop

The Minister said immigration from the British Isles—including Eire—had dropped to 22,201 last year from a post-war high of 51,408 in 1946. In the first five months of this year, it plunged to 5,351 from 10,472 in the same time last year.

Mr. Harris was explaining the provisions of a new Order-in-Council, announced to the Commons last week.

Mr. Harris said he could not estimate how many persons might be brought into the country yearly in future under the broadened regulations, but particular care would be taken to see that the labor market was not disturbed. The policy was that anyone who could improve the business and labor situation of the country would be admitted.

Moose Power Has Its Points

AMHERST, N. S., July 4 (CP)—W. M. MacDonald of nearby Port Howe thinks maybe engineers are overlooking one source of locomotion—moose power.

MacDonald was driving toward Amherst last weekend to take part in a rifle shoot when a moose stepped onto the highway in front of his car.

He jammed on the brakes. The antlered forest denizen snorted disdainfully, sniffed the car from bumper to bumper, then put a shoulder to the car's rear and pushed it 30 yards along the road. MacDonald reported later all he had to do was steer.

The moose disappeared into the woods after its display of strength.

Calgary Mayor Cuts Own Salary $1,500

CALGARY, July 4—(CP)—Don Mackay ordered himself a $1,500 salary cut Monday—and to prove he meant it he refunded $750 covering the first six months of this year.

City council this year raised the mayor's annual pay to $7,500 from $6,000.

But he said that since the increase was made, civic unions seeking increases in pay themselves have criticized it at every council meeting. He was fed up.

PEARL HARBOR BOUND—Capt. Jeffry V. Brock, 37, Commander of the Canadian destroyer division in the Pacific, will be in command of HMCS Cayuga when she and two other Canadian destroyers sail for Pearl Harbor to be ready for action in the Korean war if needed by the United Nations. Capt. Brock, a native of Vancouver and in the navy since 1933, served in the second world war and was awarded the Distinkuished Service Cross in 1945 for "outstanding service" in anti-submarine operations.

Reconsider Plan For German Police Force

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 4 (AP)—John J. McCloy, United States High Commissioner, said Monday that occupation authorities now are willing to reconsider the Bonn government's request for a central West German police force.

Western Germans, who fear an attack from the East like that in Korea, have asked for 25,000 federal police, presumably to offset the 50,000 East German people's police.

Just 12 days ago—four days before the Korean Communist attack on the South Korean republic—the western high commission in effect rejected the Bonn request. The high commissioners said local police units could be united temporarily to meet an emergency, but authorized nothing like a federal police force.

However, McCloy said Monday in an interview that the Allied High Commission "has expressed its willingness to consider" the German proposal.

Demand Million For Ship Crash

DETROIT, July 4 (AP) — The Detroit and Cleveland Navigation Company sued the owners of the Norwegian freighter Ravnafjell Monday for $1,250,000 damages.

The suit asserted that the freighter was to blame for a collision with the Great Lakes passenger ship, City of Cleveland III, on Lake Huron June 25. Five passengers were killed and 20 others injured.

Part of the damages were asked for a gaping hole crushed in the port side of the excursion steamer. The remainder is in anticipation of claims by passengers against the D & C.

The D & C charged that navigators of the freighter were careless and incompetent.

4-Yr.-Old Miami Child May Try Channel Swim

MIAMI, Fla., July 4—(AP)—A four-year-old Miami child may attempt to swim the English Channel late this summer.

Russell Tongay, Sr., said Monday he will leave about Aug. 1 with his son, Russell (Bubber) Tongay, Jr. He said the child plans to start the swim from the French side of the channel.

Long distance swimming is not new for Bubber. On June 23 he covered 22 miles in the Mississippi before leaving the water.

Both Bubber and his two-year-old sister, Kathy, have appared in swimming exhibitions in the greater Miama area.

9-Day Strike May Derail Walkout of 2 Other Unions

CHICAGO, July 4 (AP)—The strike of 4,000 switchmen which started nine days ago might derail the threatened walkout of two other railroad unions.

Both the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors have set July 15 as their strike date, but some observers believe it would have to be postponed unless the switchmen come to terms before then.

These observers point out that an additional strike by the trainmen and conductors against other railroads might create a national emergency under the terms of the federal Taft-Hartley labor law and bring intervention by President Truman. They added that the recent strike of firemen was against only certain railroads to avoid that circumstance.

As in the case of the firemen, the switchmen's union of North America went on strike against only five railroads—the Great Northern, the Chicago Great Western, the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, the Western Pacific, and the Denver and Rio Grande Western.

However, some progress was reported Monday in negotiations between the carriers and the trainmen and conductors. The switchmen, trainmen and conductors are demanding a 4-hour week at their present 48-hour pay which amounts to a wage boost of 31 cents an hour. They rejected a recommendation by a presidential fact-finding board that they accept an 18-cents-an-hour increase and the 40-hour week.

North Sends 25 Tanks Into Battle

New Patrols Menace U.S. Outposts As Drive Continues

TOKYO, July 5—(Wednesday)—(AP)—General MacArthur's headquarters announced today that 25 more Red tanks had moved into the Korean fighting zone as invader columns pushed a wide flanking movement southeast of Suwon.

The Red movement threatened encirclement of the South Korean forces in the Suwon-Inchon-Seoul triangle.

The communique reported fighting at the port of Inchon, 20 miles west of Seoul. The Southerners were still holding Inchon, MacArthur said.

South of Red-held Seoul and east of Suwon, the northerners continued to consolidate their forces.

The communique added that Communist planes strafed a British ship off the east coast of Korea.

A spokesman at MacArthur's headquarters in Korea earlier said Suwon and its important airfield fell to Red forces today.

He said the Communist victory followed a day-long battle with all elemenits of four or five North Korean divisions.

The Reds quickly sent patrols farther southward, toward American outposts.

He added that no United States troops were involved and—despite an earlier announcement here that Americans had seen minor action—that no Americans yet had been in combat in Korea.

(There was no immediate explanation of these conflicting statements by headquarters spokesmen one in Korea, the other in Takyo.)

The spokesman announcing Suwon's fall added these terse details:

Six Red tanks entered Suwon—only 20 miles south of Seoul, the fallen South Korean capital But it was not certain whether the fighting had been in Suwon itself, or nearby.

Heavy Push

The spokesman said he believed the latest Red thrust indicated that the Communists are "pushing with all they have all along the line."

Red patrols have advanced about five miles south of Suwon, the spokesman went on, adding he "doubts the northerners will stop at Suwon as they did at Seoul."

He said Red troops today made up "the most effective concentration and if not the largest very close to the largest concentration" the Communists have used since they started their attack from North Korea 10 days ago.

Red Capital Bombed

North Korea's radio broadcast meantime that its capital, Pyongyang, was heavily hit for the fifth time, by US bombers. It said 30 planes dropped more than 600 bombs.

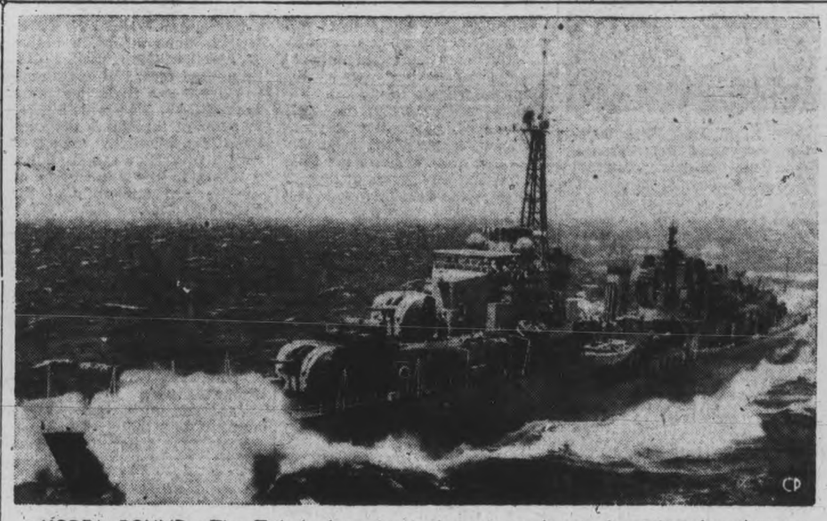
Queen Juliana Gives Painting To Canada

THE HAGUE, July 4 (Reuters)—Queen Juliana today presented her nation's gift to the Canadian people—a painting called "The Two Watermills" by the 17th century Dutch master Hobbema. The presentation was made to Pierre Dupuy, Canadian Ambassador, at Soestdijk Palace.

The gift is in gratitude for the Canadian people's hospitality to the Dutch Royal Family during the war, and for Canada's part in the liberation of Holland.

Have Baby In London

LONDON, July 4 (AP)—Royal circles denied reports today that Princess Elizabeth's next baby will be born in Scotland. Plans are completed for the Princess to be confined in her London home, Clarence House, near Buckingham Palace, about Aug. 20. Rumors had been circulating that the child might be born at Balmoral Castle, the royal family's favorite Scottish home.



KOREA BOUND—The Tribal class destroyer Athabaskan will be one of three Canadian warships sent to the Far East if the United Nations Security Council calls for Canadian naval assistance in the Korean war. The 1,900-ton ship, shown racing through rough seas, is stationed on the west coast. Also stationed at Esquimalt, B.C., is her sister ship, the Cayuga, and the 1,700-ton "V" type destroyer Sioux. The three ships are scheduled to leave for Pearl Harbor Wednesday.

Aid To Korea May Boost Abbott Budget

OTTAWA, July 4 — (CP) — Should Canada become directly involved in a "shooting war" in Korea, Finance Minister Abbott probably will have to consider an upward revision of the country's 1950-51 financial budget.

The Finance Minister, who returns this week from a brief, post-session holiday, forecast in his budget speech March 28 a slim surplus of $20,000,000.

Any large-scale or lengthy participation by Canada in the Korean fighting would necessitate an upward revision of Defence Department estimates of expenditure and could turn the anticipated surplus into a deficit.

The dispatch of three Canadian destroyers to Pearl Harbor to be ready for Korean action, if needed, might not alone upset Mr. Abbott's calculations. The destroyers were previously due to take part in a three-month exercise in European waters with the Royal Navy.

Preparedness Drive

Even the entry of only the three destroyers into Korean operations might be the signal for a preparedness drive at home This would mean an increase in the anticipated $425,000,000 defence expenditure.

If, as a result of defence expenditures, Mr. Abbott ends the year with a deficit, two alternatives appear open to him:

1. Leave taxes at their present rates with the hope that over a few years they will yield enough to eliminate the deficit;

2. Increase taxes to wipe out the deficit, balance the budget and provide some surplus to apply against the huge debt built up during the second world war

In the second world war, the government followed a policy of paying half of the war costs out of taxes and half out of borrowings.

3 Destroyers Leave Tomorrow

VICTORIA, B. C., July 4 (CP)—Three Canadian destroyers posted to Pearl Harbor where they will stand by awaiting developments in Korea, are scheduled to leave port Wednesday.

Preparations for the sailing began in earnest at the naval dockyard at nearby Esquimalt Monday The ships were loaded with supplies as huge cranes, trucks and seamen transferred stores to the vessels.

Visitors were not allowed at the dockyard during the weekend, but there was no general order closing the base to the public.

"So far as we are concerned, it was merely a working day for us here Saturday and Sunday," said a spokesman. "The loading of the destroyers during the holiday period was the only reason visitors were not permitted in the dockyard."

While at Pearl Harbor, the vessels—Cayuga, Sioux and Athabaskan—will join US patrols in preliminary exercises in the South Pacific. Should word come through that Canada will participate, the ships will sail for Korea along with the US vessels.

Tried Nice-Looking House; Accident—It's Queen Mary's

LONDON, July 4—(Reuters)—Gerard O'Brien wanted a "likely-looking" house to break into and "sheer accident" made it Queen Mary's home, a court was told today. O'Brien, a 26-year-old gardener, is charged with assaulting the Queen mother's housekeeper, Mrs. Alice Knight; with assaulting Mrs. Knight's attendant, Mrs. Winifred Ralph; with being armed with a knife; and with stealing a purse elsewhere.

O'Brien, who pleaded not guilty and reserved defence, was committed for trial at Old Bailey before a high court and jury. No date was immediately set for the trial.

The offences all allegedly occurred the night of June 23, after O'Brien had been drinking.

The Marlborough House breakin and the subsequent search through the Royal home for O'Brien, who finally was unearthed in the cellar, kept London agog for days.

State of Collapse

O'Brien, reduced to prostration by the search, was said by prosecutor F. Donald Barry to have been in a state of collapse when found and to have told police: "please sir, don't hang me for it."

Barry said there was no reason to disbelieve O'Brien's statement that he did not have the faintest idea what house he was breaking into.

Send RCMP Squad See 'Shining Objects'

QUEBEC, July 4 (CP) — A three-man RCMP detachment from Montmagny, Que., set out today for Daaquam district in southeast Quebec to investigate reports of "broken trees and shining objects," possible clues to a missing naval Sea Fury plane.

The Sea Fury, bound from Toronto for Halifax, disappeared after taking off from Quebec just before noon Friday with Lieut Marvin Hare, of Toronto at the controls.

The patch of broken trees and scattered shining objects sighted by RCAF search planes is in Belle-Chasse County and some 80 miles east of Quebec near the Maine border.

U.S. Death Toll Reaches 534

CHICAGO, July 4 (AP)—Traffic and other accidents have killed at least 534 persons since the United States began a four-day July 4th celebration last Friday night.

Traffic fatalities seemed certain to exceed the 385 predicted by the National Safety Council for the period. Between 6 p.m. (local times) Friday and last midnight, 345 persons had died on the highways. Another 113 had drowned, and 75 were killed in other miscellaneous accidents.

The deaths were at the rate of more than one every 10 minutes

The Council estimated that by midnight tonight there will have been 36,000,000 vehicles on the highways during the four days and that the country will have experienced its worst traffic jam in history.

Quick Plane Action Saves Tourist's Life

BRUCE MINES, Ont., July 4—(CP)—Quick action by the air service division of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests division in dispatching a plane to the scene is credited with saving the life of a 62-year-old Michigan man Monday when he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage while vacationing at Beil Harts resort on Patton Lake.

Harry Mathie, of Detroit was taken to hospital in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. He is reported to be in a coma this morning and in critical condition.

Eastern Germany Expands Police Army To 100,000

BERLIN, July 4 (AP)—East Germany's Communist government is expanding its "people's police" army by about 15,000 men to a total of nearly 100,000. Russian-zone political sources reported today.

These forces also are to receive new weapons and to become highly motorized through an increased budgetary appropriation of nearly 50 per cent. sources close to the East German ministry of interior said.

The dark-uniformed "people's police" have been branded by the western powers as an illegal German Communist army, created and equipped with infantry weapons under Russian auspices in violation of four-power agreements for Germany's demilitarization. The Communists also have announced they are creating a naval division of these forces.

German anti-Communist spokesmen have expressed fears that the Communists might some day use this police army to create "another Korea" here with an attack on West Germany if the western occupation powers withdrew.

East-German sources said budget appropriations for the "people's police" in the new fiscal year have been boosted by 300,000,000 east marks to about 900,000,000 (about $250,000,000 at the official rate.)

The funds are to be raised by extra levies upon the governments of the five laender (states) of the Russian zone.

Unofficial estimates place the present strength of the "people's police' 'at about 80,000.

May Allow Fuchs Do Atomic Work

Scientist Repents May Be Given A Second Chance

LONDON, July 4—(AP)—Speculation cropped up in some quarters today that Britain may soon put atom spy Klaus Fuchs to work again on atomic research.

There was no official confirmation or denial of the reports. The press department of the home office, which is responsible for Fuchs and other prisoners, said it was not given information about such matters.

Fuchs, one of the government's key atom scientists, was sentenced to 14 years in prison last March for tipping Anglo-American atomic secrets to Russia. In his confession, the former Communist said he was repentant and wanted to make amends.

There was speculation at the time that ultimately he might be allowed to resume research behind prison walls.

On High Authority

George Marton-Smith, a reporter for the mass-circulation Daily Mirror, wrote today that the German-born physicist may be put to work again soon. He said he learned this "on the highest authority."

One of Britain's leading atom scientists was asked to comment on the story. The scientist, who asked not to be quoted directly, said he had no hard, independent information but it seemed to him to be reasonable speculation.

Marton-Smith said Fuchs would be subjected to the most rigid surveillance if he resumed work. He said scientists felt that with due safeguards his knowledge and ability were too valuable to be wasted. Fuchs' work in prison has been to make mail bags.

'Flying Saucer' Excites Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, July 4—(AP)—Eyewitnesses still held strongly today to their belief that they had seen a "flying saucer" despite appraisail by United States Air Force intelligence officers of the strange flying object seen near Fairbanks last Saturday as a meteorite.

Scores of civilians and soldiers said they spotted the strange object in the skies around the big air force bases near the central Alaska city.

Nearly all the eyewitnesses agreed that the object was cone- or pear-shaped with an irridescent exhaust about the size of a washtub.

At Washington, the air force withheld comment pending receipt of information and reports assembled by the Alaskan air command.

29 Doukhobors Convicted Again

NELSON, B. C., July 4 (CP) — Another 29 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors Monday night were convicted of acts of terrorism and remanded for sentence.

The convictions brought to 70 the number of Freedomites found guilty of burnings and bombings since the cases started before the Assizes here June 12. Charges have been heard against another 12 and five still have to come before the courts.

Four Sons were convicted of conspiracy to destroy the Great Northern Railway bridge just south of Nelson last month. Two others were convicted of attempting to set fire to the Doukhobor community hall at Slocan Park in April.

Other charges included conspiracy to burn the Roman Catholic church at Rutland and the Canadian National Railways bridge at Kelowna, Canadian Pacific Railway cars at Osoyoos and the CPR station at Oliver. All charges grew out of incidents last year.

U.S. Intends To Keep Strong Japan

Several Marine Units Now Ordered To Far Eastern Area

WASHINGTON, July 4 — (AP) — Orders for United States Marines to join Gen. Douglas MacArthur were taken by military men here today as underscoring the need for keeping strong in Japan as well as halting the Korean invasion.

Further help in fighting the Communists from Northern Korea was ordered Monday by the United States Air Force — B-29 bombers from the West Coast. A total of 75 are available there for service at advanced U.S. bases in the Far East.

MacArthur already has committed part of his four infantry divisions in Korea. The decision to dispatch units of the 1st Marine Division to Asia, announced Monday, is believed to have been prompted by the expectation that MacArthur will throw in still more of his garrison troops. However, he is known to oppose as do military leaders in Washington, the idea of placing all American military eggs in the Korean military basket.

See Significance

Marine officers saw significance in the announcement that units of the 1st Marine Air Wing would also be placed under MacArthur's orders. They argued that if the Marines were to be used only for occupation garrison duties, their own air force would not be going along with them.

Top-level conferences here during the last 24 hours are believed to have focussed on the best means of obtaining more trained manpower unless the Korean conflict ends quickly.

In another development Monday, the U.S. Navy said it was sending the big carrier Midway and four destroyers for service with the sixth fleet in the Mediterranean.

There was no mention of any possible connection with reports of increasing Soviet pressure against Iran, Yugoslavia and Turkey.

See Market Leaders Down Second Session

TORONTO, July 4 — (CP) — Selling pressure increased steadily pushing market leaders into minus territory for a second successive session on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Most of the downward pressure was in mining and western oil issues. Volume for the first three hours was 1,180,000 shares.

Leading industrial stocks slipped on losses ranging from fractions to more than a full point as the market moved without direction from a holidaying New York market.

Hardest hit among the losers were leaders like International paper, Ford A and Hiram Walker's.

In western oils losses ranged up to 50 cents in key stocks like Atlantic Oil, Federated Petroleum, Home Oil and Pacific Petroleum.

Junior and Senior Gold Producers continued their recent declines to new low ground for the year. Losses ranged up to 30 cents over a wide list of Juniors.

Base Metals bucked the downward trend at first but began to give ground in mid-session, Ascot Corp., and United Keno Hill were under heavy downward pressure.

The Indian offer was conveyed to the Russian and American governments by the Indian ambassadors in Moscow and Washington.

Indonesian Volcano Blows Its Top Again

JAKARTA, Indonesia, July 4— (AP)—Krakatua volcano, which juts a steaming head out of the sea between Java and Sumatra, blew its top Monday. The crew of a Dutch ship said mud and stones were hurled a half-mile into the air in four rapid eruptions.

Krakatua blew itself clear out of the water in 1883 and set off a tidal wave that killed 36,000 Indonesians on nearby islands. In the last 20 years it has built itself up above the sea's surface again in a series of minor eruptions.

Older Planes May See Korean Service

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)— Some fighter planes used in the Second World War may be taken out of "mothballs" for duty in Korea because bad weather and mountains have hit Jet fighters where it hurts—in the fuel tank.

Because of heavy overcast and mountainous terrain which would make descent over a target area dangerous, United States military men report, the Lockheed F-80 Shooting Stars have had to sneak in low. Although the distance from bases in Japan to South Korea targets is somewhat less than the F-80's announced combat radius of 500 miles, fuel consumption at low altitude is so high they have little time for manoeuvring against the enemy.

Air officers described this as one of the lessons learned in the first week of operations against North Korean invaders. It may mean that Republic F-47 Thunderbolts and F-51 Mustangs, now almost entirely assigned to Air National Guard units in the United States, will be shipped to the Far East.

Propeller fighters have longer range than Jets and are less sensitive to altitude. They can save fuel by flying slow, whereas a Jet must have speed to get fuel economy.

North Sends

Later, the Red broadcast said: "the planes dropped rocket bombs and machine-gunned buildings and people."

Before Suwon's fall was announced, a MacArthur spokesman here had said American troops had gone into combat and indicated that the engagement was near Suwon.

Unconfirmed reports at advanced American headquarters in Korea said the Americans had clashed with North Korean Red elements at Munmang, 45 miles east of Suwon.

Reports 10 Tanks

Tom Lambert, Associated Press correspondent, reported that 10 Communist tanks rolled into Suwonthis afternoon. An American military spokesman commented "It is possible."

MacArthur's communique announced simply that US army forces went into action. It did not specify where, or give details.

The communique reported: "the situation is fluid north of Suwon with no front being established." Elsewhere there was little change.

This bulwarked other indications that the engagement might have occurred around Suwon, 20 miles south of the fallen South Korean capital, Seoul. Suwon is a key point on the highway used by two Red trank columns which the Americans were sent northward to intercept.

The Suwon airfield is a prime Communist goal.

Authoritative military quarters here said the engagement was small and probably was a defensive action.

They expressed belief that this first encounter involved only Communist reconnaissance forces.

There were no details on the reported entry of Red armor into Suwon. This town and its airport have been the apparent goal of at least three advancing Red columns for two days.

Good Hunting

MacArthur's headquarters Monday announced another successful foray by an American light cruiser which sank six North Korean naval vessels while on patrol off the Korean coast.

The same cruiser previously had sunk five other North Korean torpedo boats.

Bad weather was hampering US and Australian planes. But with rockets and machine-guns, they blasted tank-led Communist invasion forces along the sprawling front Monday.

The communique gave no details of the fighting. Nor was there any hint whether the Americans in battle were small advance units or the main body.

More troops and supplies were pouring into South Korea by plane to meet the gathering threat of the Communist North. Pusan, the major southeast Korean port, has been turned into an important beachhead.

Established Officially

Maj.-Gen. William F Dean's "US army forces in Korea" was established officially as a major command under MacArthur's Far East command.

The forces in the Pacific are being augmented by B-29 Superforts from the west coast and by U.S. marine ground and Air forces which have been ordered to Japan.

MacArthur's communique said there was a little change in the front lines in other sectors.

Unconfirmed reports to advance U.S. headquarters in Korea said, however, that a tank-led North Korean column was nearly 75 miles southeast of Seoul.

The reports said that near Chechon, in that area, South Korean troops had captured eight Northern tanks and armored cars.

This would represent a Red-advance of about 20 miles since Monday, if a North Korean headquarters claim is correct. They had claimed the capture of Wonju, 20 miles west of Chechon.

13 Men Graduate In Para-Rescue

JASPER, Alta., July 4 (CP)— Thirteen men, toughened after 18 weeks on one of the toughest courses given by the armed forces, graduated today from the RCAF para-rescue school at Henry House Field, near here.

The men — 12 were from the RCAF and one from the navy— were trained to parachute into the wilderness to save lives.

Among the graduates was Sqdn. Ldr. J. R. Jackson of Edmonton, first air force medical officer to qualify as a para-rescue jumper.

The course syllabus includes 150 hours of first-aid instruction, about 120 hours in physical training and instructions in bush lore. Most spectacular part of the training is the actual jumping. Each graduate does 10 jumps before he wins the RCAF para-rescue badge. Six jumps are made into open country and four into heavily-timbered areas.

Three men left Spitsbergen on July 11, 1897, in a balloon headed for the North Pole. They were not found until Aug. 6, 1930, when their remains were discovered 117 miles from their point of departure.

KOREAN OBSERVER—Wing Cmdr. Harry Malkin, attached to Personnel DWivision of RCAF headquarters in Ottawa, will serve with Lt.-Col. Frank E. White, of Winnipeg, as military observer with the United Nations Commission in Korea The two men were selected for duty by the Canadian government following a request from the United Nations Security Council. U.N. Prepares Co-ordinating Plan For Korea

LAKE SUCCESS, July 4 (AP) —Top United Nations officials worked today on a plan to co-ordinate UN action to end the Korean war.

The Security Council is expected to meet again Thursday to consider the co-ordination plan, on which details still have to be worked out.

The strong protest note from Communist North Korea Monday against what it called American aggression in Korea brought no reaction. The Soviet call for withdrawal of UN-endorsed American troops in South Korea came after UN offices closed on Monday night.

Some officials said privately that the North Korean note was what they could expect and it changed nothing. The Russian statement made by the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, is certain to get serious study.

Bulletin Service

The UN begins today a news bulletin service for Korea to be broadcast over BBC and the Voice of America. The program opens and closes with a statement that representatives of governments with more than 1,000,000,000 population are backing the UN effort to end the Korean war.

Sir Benegal N. Rau, India delegate who was June president of the Security Council, said in a radio interview last night that he may reopen the question of Chinese representation in the Security Council.

Police Curb Ottawa Houdini

OTTAWA, July 4 (CP)—Edmund Denis, 17-year-old Ottawa amateur magician, was incensed Monday when police upset his plan of being a second Houdini.

All Edmund wanted to do was be lowered into the Rideau Canal handcuffed and chained in a sealed box.

The youth, who attends Ottawa's technical school and gives exhibitions at local clubs, had his big act all set for noon Monday. He even had a helper there to dry him off, for he expected to get wet breaking out of the sealed box.

But Ottawa Police Chief Duncan MacDonell heard about it and said flatly there'd be no performance.

Edmund hopes it's only a temporary setback.

"So this is freedom," he said when told of the police chief's edict. "You'd think I wanted to kill myself."

He's thinking of trying elsewhere—Niagara Falls maybe.

Various Charges In Cobourg Court

COBOURG, July 4 —(ENS)—Joe Frith of London was sentenced to two months concurrent on each of two breaking and entering charges when he appeared for sentence in police court here. He pleaded guilty to breaking into two Port Hope service stations on June 26. A small amount of silver was all that was taken.

Raymond Morgan of Roslin, Ont., was sentenced to one day on three charges of uttering forged documents. Morgan appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter several weeks ago and pleaded for a remand out of custody to see his wife who was expecting a child. He was more or less put on his honor to reappear and did so but before he was sentenced he had to serve a term in Belleville jail for a traffic offence. Crown Attorney Harry Deyman said that his term for the false pretenses charges would have been concurrent with the Belleville jail had he been sentenced earlier and in view of his term in Belleville, the magistrate gave him one day in jail.

George Dennis, no address, was remanded for a week in custody on a vagrancy charge, while police check up on him.

Arthur Tibetts, 16-year-old Cobourg youth, was remanded out of custody on a charge of having a revolver without a permit. Provincial Constable Don Nicol said that when he questioned the youth about firing a rifle off on the outskirts of the town he learned that he had a .32 revolver too. Crown Attorney Harry Deyman explained that in order to confiscate the revolver a charge had to be laid.

Chicken House Fire

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4 — (ENS)—The Campbellford fire department fought for more than 20 minutes to bring a fire under control on Monday morning, when flames, of undetermined origin destroyed a chicken house at the rear of the home of Melville Petherick on Rear St.

John Wallace, who lives nearby, came out into his yard shortly before 9 a.m. and noticed smoke pouring from the chicken house. He turned in a fire alarm, and two lines of hose were brought into play within a matter of minutes. There were no chickens in the house at the time, so damage was confined to the building itself. Insulation between the ceiling and roof of the building gave firemen much trouble, until the roof was torn off, and water was played on the source of the flames.

Anniversary Tea Warsaw WA

WARSAW, July 4—(ENS)—The Women's Association of the Warsaw United Church celebrated the 25th anniversary of church union with a silver tea on Friday afternoon. The church was beautifully decorated with peonies and a silver jubilee banner. The guests were welcomed by the president, Mrs. T. Cooper.

The business part of the meeting was followed by a splendid program: Mrs. Chester Hamilton of Bethel, a solo; Madoline Crowe a recitation; instrumental by Marie Drain. Mrs. Herrington gave a very helpful address stressing the power of prayer in all our endeavours. She recalled many things that had happened during their stay in Warsaw. Mrs. Herrington organized the WA in Warsaw 25 years ago this August. Marlene Darling gave a piano solo and Mrs. Wm. Darling a reading; Mrs. Hawthorne a vocal solo. Pianists for the day were Mrs. Rol. Payne, Mrs. Alex Darling and Mrs. George Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dyson, who have just moved to Warsaw circuit as minister of the United Church spoke a few words.

The members who joined the first year were read and as each member's name was called she came forward and was presented with a flower by Mrs. Cooper.

Afternoon tea was served by eight girls, Jean Nelson, Joyce Payne, Marie Drain, Marlene Darling, Eleanor Edwards, Zelda Bolton, Barbara Cuffe and Donna Payne. Tea was poured by Mrs. Wm. Darling and Mrs. T. Cooper.

Conveners for the tea were Mrs. Clarence Payne and Mrs. Sherwood Payne assisted by Clara McCracken and Mrs. Norman Payne. Guests were present from Peterborough, Norwood and Bethel.

Pea Canning Starts

COBOURG, July 4—Canadian Canners started processing peas on Monday with prospects of the early crop being just fair. However recent rains, said Bert Naylor, manager, will bring on a much heavier later crop. Mr. Naylor said that there will be about a 70% crop this year.

Crown's Excitement

COBOURG, July 4 —(ENS)—Crown Attorney Harry Deyman apologized to Magistrate R. B. Baxter in court yesterday because he had forgotten some detail in connection with a case that was adjourned.

"I am sorry that I forgot about this case, but I had an exciting week-end," said Mr. Deyman.

"So, I have learned. Congratulations," smile His Worship.

Mrs. Deyman had presented the Crown Attorney with a bouncing baby boy over the week-end.

Undertones Of The Korea Crisis

Although there is no reason at present to think that the war in Korea will expand into a full-scale fight involving many nations, it is important, and its future influence may be very great. We must prepare ourselves for possible bad news from Korea; over a year ago the American Chiefs of Staff decided that Korea was indefensible, and that it was not important so long as Japan was in American hands. But now we see American forces in Korea, sent there because of a political decision. President Truman and his advisors know that an American defeat at Communist hands in Asia would lower American prestige. The American forces in Korea have no easy task and they may suffer some sharp rebuffs.

* * *

Britain is deeply concerned about possible American setbacks in Korea, for Britain faces Communist trouble in Burma, Malaya, Indo-China and Hong Kong. If an American defeat in Korea were to encourage other Asiatic Communist groups to strike against Britain it would be very hard to withstand their attacks.

* * *

Britain must also bear in mind the attitude of India toward intervention in Asia by the U.S.A. In effect, a non-Asian power has intervened in the destiny of an Asiatic power, and that may not sit well with the Indians. Commonwealth solidarity demands that Britain meet all such problems with great delicacy—a type of delicacy which General MacArthur has not displayed in Japan. It is not impossible that the Korean conflict might finally result in a great weakening of Western influence in the East.

* * *

So far as we can judge, Russia has decided not to intervene directly in the fight, but to gain whatever may be gained by propaganda. The theme of this propaganda is, of course, that American war-mongering, rather than a valid decision of U.N. brought the fighting to its present state. Now it is true that the U.S.A. went to war because a U.N. cease-fire order was disregarded, but it is also true that the U.S.A. took this action without waiting for orders from the Security Council. However, the U.S.A. had received assurances from Britain and Australia that they would join in any action in Korea, and there is provision under the U.N. Charter for the action the U.S.A. took. The Russians, however, will make the most of any illegality they can discover or invent.

* * *

It does not look as though Russia wanted to fight, and the French Communist columnist, Pierre Courtade, suggests that the pattern followed in Spain will be that of Korea—there will be a long civil war, with intervention by the great powers, but with a tacit agreement to keep the fighting localised. Whether this can be done in so small a place as Korea remains to be seen. The map which we print today shows how small and unsuitable it is for any fighting on a large scale.

* * *

On the optimistic side it must be pointed out that the action of the U.S.A. in Korea marks the first time in history that an international organization has backed up a decision with force. The League of Nations never did so. United Nations has done it, and it may be that this example of military action to back up international law begins a new era. Everything depends on what can be done in Korea. A defeat there, or a failure to reach a clear decision, could wreck U.N. It is unlikely, of course, that the U.S.A. would permit a completely unfavourable outcome, but a prolonged struggle, stirring up Communists everywhere in Asia, might have much the same effect. There is nothing so far to suggest that Korea is the beginning of a Third World War, but it is far from being just an incident.

Is Disaster Legislation The Answer?

Mr. John A. Macaulay, chairman of the Central Council of the Canadian Red Cross Society, recently presented a review of the Rimouski and Winnipeg disasters before the annual convention of the American Red Cross at Detroit. During the course of his review, Mr. Macaulay advocated Federal and provincial legislation in Canada, for disaster emergencies. He said it was essential, in the case of an emergency, that someone be clothed with complete and absolute authority, and suggested that the Army is a suitable instrument to be given automatic control in such cases, through necessary enabling legislation.

We think there will be general agreement with Mr. Macaulay in principle. Legislation providing an authority in disaster emergencies is desirable. Furthermore, it is doubtful if there is a force in existence in Canada better organized to assume that responsibility than the Army's engineering and construction force. We know there were reports of a certain amount of friction between civilian and military workers at Winnipeg, but the consensus appears to be that both did a splendid job under military direction. And certainly it would be an economic absurdity to expect to maintain a special force for use in disaster emergencies. We believe, however, that any such legislation should only become effective when the duly elected civil government of any community agreed that a state of emergency existed.

There is another phase of this matter which we are sure Mr. Macaulay himself recognizes. Along with the legislation he requests, the Federal and provincial governments should consider measures for the prevention of disasters such as those at Rimouski and Winnipeg. Greater use of fire resistant materials in building might have minimized the Rimouski fire. A flood control system in the Red River Valley could have prevented the Winnipeg flood. The latter project, of course, would be international. The need of both measures has been sharply emphasized, and it should not be ignored in the future as in the past.

Vast Capital Expenditure Keeps Canada Prosperous

There is no absolutely reliable indication of a nation's prosperity, but this is a fact: in past years in Canada, high levels of employment and income have generally been accompanied by unusually large outlays on various types of construction and equipment. For instance, in the lean years of 1935-39, the annual average of private and public investment was only $0.7 billion. In the boom times since 1946 it has been more than $2 billion. Just before Parliament prorogued last Friday, the Minister of Trade, the Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, released findings of a survey which show that capital expenditures of Canadian business and governments on new construction, machinery and equipment will probably run to $3,701,000,000 this year. It is re-assuring news. The figure is $105,000,000 higher than the earlier estimate for 1950 and eight per cent above the total capital outlay in 1949.

When faced by these figures, it is impossible to doubt that this year of 1950 will be the most prosperous in Canada's history. Of that 3¾ billion dollar investment program projected this year, $2,355,000,000 is for construction, and $1,346,000,000 for machinery and equipment. The total of $3,701,000,000 is about 22 per cent. of the total of the expected national expenditure on all goods and services this year. It indicates the extent to which Canadian employment and income are dependent on such expenditure.

Another interesting phase of this vast investment is that most of the increase over the earlier forecast results from an increase in investment by private business. This effectively gives the lie to complaints of last year that government restrictions and taxation are drying up private investment capital.

The whole program is the surest possible indication that the Communists err in their hopes and expectations that western democracies like Canada are depression-bound.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Where are the great preachers?" demands an editorial contemporary. Maybe they've gone to join the great editors.

We learn that in order to gather nectar sufficient for a pound of honey a bee must fly 2,750,000 times from hive to flower and back again. This process is obviously uneconomic and should be discontinued.

We recently referred to Toronto's University Avenue as "in a sense a provincial possession". The Toronto Star immediately suggests that the province bear some of the cost of its improvement. We thought this was being taken care of by the fines which the Toronto police are so quick to impose upon out-of-town visitors who transgress their complex and capricious parking regulations.

Post-Mortem On Korea

By ANDREW ROTH

IN June the conical-hatted peasants of mountain-ribbed South Korea place large boulders on the roads. This is to prevent the torrential July rains from washing out the rutted dirt roads. This year the Soviet-backed North Koreans slipped in before the rains, and—at any rate until American naval and air support arrived—the "red tide" was fast washing out the American-backed government of South Korea.

◇ ◇ ◇

THIS explosion has come as an anti-climax rather than as a surprise to anyone who has breathed the tense air and heard the verbal vitriol of post-war Korea. During the past two years border skirmishes and small-scale battles have been the "situation normal" on the 38th parallel which divides the two regimes.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE leaders on both sides have stridently and frequently proclaimed their intentions of "liberating" their brothers on the other side. The North Korean Communists openly announced their intention of moving into the South last fall in order to hold nation-wide, one-slate elections, a la Russe. But, presumably, the Soviets did not give them the green light at the time. And for over a year South Korea's aged and querulous President, Syngman Rhee has been proclaiming his intention of invading North Korea and has complained bitterly and publicly about the American efforts to restrain him.

◇ ◇ ◇

CURIOUSLY enough, the eagerness of the South Koreans to attack North Korea is one of the reasons for their present inability to resist effectively. When the American occupation troops withdrew last June they left behind much of their stores and material, but very little "heavy stuff". The chief reason was that U.S. defence chiefs thought South Korea was strategically untenable against any major push which had the support of the hulking, nearby Soviets and the Chinese Communists. But they also feared that if they left any substantial amount of offensive equipment behind, the temptation would be too strong for the South Koreans to launch a major attack without consulting their American sponsors.

◇ ◇ ◇

THIS itching desire on the part of North and South Koreans to get at each other's throats arises from the fact that the clash there is basically a deep-seated social conflict, sharpened and twisted by "cold war" tensions. Korea emerged into the post-war world with the same smoldering landlord-tenant clash that has racked all of Asia. In their zone, the Soviet authorities helped the Communists harness the steam of tenant discontent to an authoritarian but efficient Communist machine. In the American zone there was a clash between the U.S. Army's desire to rely on "safe" anti-Communists of an extreme rightist character and a number of New Dealing civilian officials who pushed social reforms in order to compete with the extravagant Communist promises. As a result of overlong Army dominance, however, the U.S. found itself the sponsor of a fanatically rightist regime based on the small minority of "haves", while the Soviet-sponsored Northern regime could appeal to the large majority of "have nots".

◇ ◇ ◇

THE quick collapse of the Southern regime—which helped induce U.S. intervention—is, in fact, explained by its social character. There is little to choose between North and South in terms of democratic liberties because both have been police states. But the North has been making increasingly successful efforts to satisfy the impoverished majority with things like social laws and strict rationing, while the South has given free rein to speculators and hoarders. Not until the U.S. authorities threatened to stop ECA funds did the South Korean regime take any measures to stop runaway inflation.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE morale of the Southern Army had been further undermined by conflicts over Japanese collaborators. Although President Rhee himself has a long anti-Japanese record, his defence of the privileged economic minority and his violent anti-Communism has made him the ally of those who enriched themselves by collaborating with the Japanese. Top Army positions have been given to Japanese-trained officers, to the intense distress of their anti-Japanese subordinates. This conflict is not the least of the reasons for the willingness of some South Korean units to surrender.

◇ ◇ ◇

AS a result of growing unpopularity, the Southern regime has leaned increasingly on the police as its chief support. During the last two years there has been a constant reign of police terror, with as many as 40,000 political prisoners in prison. Many prisoners have been tortured to death. Some of those who escaped and were recaptured were shot and left on the doorsteps of mildly-critical political leaders, apparently as an object lesson.

◇ ◇ ◇

PRESIDENT Rhee's police were extremely active during the recent elections, particularly in the rural areas, and when election day came many of the opposition candidates were in prison. Despite this, the South Koreans elected a majority of "independents", i.e. non-supporters of President Rhee, including many imprisoned candidates.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE North Korean Communists may have attacked at this time because the election demonstrated that President Rhee's regime would have few enthusiastic supporters. But there may be a more significant reason for the timing. The North Korean leaders, and particularly their Moscow mentors, must have realized that their action would push the pendulum far to the right in the United States and strengthen the hands of those like General MacArthur who favour active American military intervention to stem the Communist tide in Asia.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT would seem unlikely that the North Koreans would act so as to queer the pitch of these Chinese Communists' plans for Formosa. Therefore it might be assumed that the Communists intended to seize Formosa quickly before any change of American policy, provoked by the Korean invasion, could take effect. In the light of the Truman announcement, it looks as if they badly miscalculated the swiftness of American re-action.

Letters To The Editor

CONCERNED FOR RURAL EDUCATION

Sir: It was with interest that I read your editorial entitled, "Newfoundland has a thin skin". I am not surprised that it invoked a reply from Mr. Morley F. Hodder. In one way and another I have been associated with Newfoundland and Newfoundlanders for over twenty years. Much of this time was spent in that province. My experience is also that Newfoundland has a thin skin. That fact has been shown on many occasions.

I must, however, object to the last sentences in your note appended to Mr. Hodder's letter..."our reference to disgraceful conditions was no generality: we referred to the low educational standards of the island, and much that stems from them." I wonder what your sources are for this estimation of Newfoundland education? I would like to know. I think that you are woefully misinformed. Certainly, it seems to me, you are not writing from your own personal general experience.

There are, perhaps, two points at which the Newfoundland educational system is lower than that of the rest of Canada. The first is that as yet Newfoundland education is sectarian....there are Catholic School Boards, Anglican School Boards, United Church School Boards, Salvation Army School Boards, and school boards of smaller sects. The second point is that the Newfoundland teachers do not receive a salary commensurate to the worth of their contribution to the welfare of their province. I do know that Ontario rural teachers receive a much larger salary than do Newfoundland rural teachers. The disparity ends there.

The finished products of the Newfoundland schools, be they from the Catholic schools or from the schools of any of the three larger sects of the Protestants, will bear very favourable comparison with the products of the schools of the rest of Canada....that is if the rest of Canada is the same as, say, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Ontario, provinces in which I have had some experience.

It must be over fifteen years ago that Newfoundland was admitted to the membership of the Maritime Examining Board. They then received the same examination papers for junior matriculation grade as were prepared for Maritime classes. It may be that other grades were so standardized. After two years of this amalgamation the examining board had to revise upwards the junior matriculation standards because, as one of the examiners, a professor in a Maritime university, informed me, the Newfoundland percentages of passes were much higher than the Maritime percentages.

An examination of univerity pass lists generally will show that Newfoundlanders are able to hold their own in Canadian universities and carry off more than their share of prizes and scholarships.

It is of interest to note that the new system now being introduced into our own Ontario schools at the present time is suspiciously akin to the system that has been working in Newfoundland schools for many years.

I have had opportunity, during the last six years, to examine Ontario rural schools. Their methods and standards are not nearly so up-to-date, and high as the rural Newfoundland schools even although the latter schools are handicapped by a greater isolation. It is unfortunate that the average pupil who leaves school at or earlier than grade 8 in Ontario will not bear comparison with the pupil of the same grade in Newfoundland.

It is factual that, pro-rata with population, Newfoundland has contributed more leaders to Canadian life than any other province.

Along with many other parents, I am greatly concerned for educational standards in rural Ontario.

Yours very sincerely,
BERNARD HEYWOOD.

STRANGLE hOLD ON ONTARIO'S FORESTS

Sir: To identity ourselves with you, this Board represents the citizens of this district generally and is interested in all phases of natural resources development, among which are the forests of this district.

Every day in the newspapers we read of the desperate lumber shortage presently existing in Ontario which, according to some reports, is actually holding up urgently needed building and construction. To us in this district, this makes particularly galling reading because we have here in Fort William the largest sawmill in Ontario, namely, the Great Lakes Lumber and Shipping, Limited, closed down because no sawlogs have been made available to it, although many such grow on areas under concession to pulp and paper companies. In spite of many public statements by members of our government that logs will be provided, no concrete evidence of such provision is noticeable. This sawmill is capable of producing 100 million feet of lumber each year, which would represent a sizeable contribution to the present short lumber supply.

This particular company also owns twenty portable sawmills which could be put to work immediately to produce lumber within a few days, if only the necessary trees were made available to them. Unfortunately, all these trees and log timber, although belonging to the people of Ontario, are apparently under the control of a pulp and paper monopoly who are exercising a stranglehold on all standing timber belonging to the people of Ontario in this province.

All this is set out in the Ontario Royal Commission Report on Forestry by Major-General Howard Kennedy, published in 1947 and carefully shelved ever since.

Could anything be more ridiculous—starvation in the midst of plenty? How much longer are the people of Ontario going to lie down under this vicious misuse of their natural resources by a single industry.

The entire economy of this whole district has been seriously hurt by the closing of this particular sawmill, which was creating 7½ million dollars worth of wealth each year out of our timber resources. All the retail merchants in Fort William and Port Arthur have felt the loss of the purchasing power resulting from this operation. It has created a minor artificial recession in the business life of these communities during a period when all industries using forest material are booming. Surely such a fantastic situation, if brought to the knowledge of the real owners of these forests, the people of Ontario, would result in such an outcry that even the influence of an industry such as the pulp and paper industry will pale beside the people's demand for an immediate correction of this situation.

Yours very truly,
Fort William Natural Resources Development Board,
ALF BATTERS,
Chairman.

Transition In Newfoundland

(St. John's Telegram)

There will always be a salt cod industry in Newfoundland, of course, but it should no longer be the main branch of the fisheries here. The time has come for a change. To bring about the transition from present methods of fishing and development of new branches of fishery is going to require a lot of energy, a lot of drive, a lot of imagination and a lot of capital. It will probably cost not less than $10,000,000 but it will be money well spent. In the meantime, other industries must not be forgotten. Mineral resources must be fully investigated, and any worthwhile deposits developed.

Says Prices Likely To Remain High

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

People are asking whether prices and costs are likely to remain high.

In their hearts people have wanted prices to remain high. Theoretically they have wanted prices to drop, but practically they haven't wanted to face up to the consequence—which are a degree of unemployment, at least a taste of recession, at worst a depression.

We have been enjoying since the war what might be called a boom, though it hasn't had the hysteria ordinarily associated with a boom. Actually, it has been an honest prosperity in response to a real demand for goods—the sort of thing which should be normal, and a preliminary try-out for the prosperity which we should have for many years if we do sound thinking.

Signs of Ending

Every once in a while are signs of this boom or prosperity ending.

It could have been said, and I think this column has indicated, that is couldn't end so long as the cold war is on—and now we have a heated cold war and, as a matter of fact, a real war.

There are more possibilities in that than any one is yet quite ready to face up to. Fortunately, you don't need to face up to them all at once. You just have to face up to them day to day to day as they come along.

No one knows how fast you may have to absorb them.

Indian Delegate Backs Red China

NEW YORK, July 4 (AP)—Sir Benegal N. Rau, Indian delegate to the United Nations, said Monday night he may soon press the question of admitting Communist China to the Security Council.

Sir Benegal, president of the Security Council last month when Communist North Korea invaded the UN-sponsored Republic of Korea, said talks on the issue of Chinese representation are going on and he will know soon what to do.

His remarks were made on a radio press conference, "United or Not," produced by the UN Correspondents' Association and the American Broadcasting Company, as a public-affairs program.

India recognized Communist China during the winter and has voted for the ouster of Nationalist China from the Security Council.

India announced last week it support of a Security Council resolution calling for strong action against the Communist North Koreans.

U.S. Distributors Considering Lumber Market Withdrawal

NEW YORK, July 4 (CP) — E. R. Plunkett, head of one of the largest lumber wholesalers in the northeast United States, said Monday that some American distributors are considering a 30-day withdrawal from the Canadian market because of high prices.

Plunkett, president of Plunkett-Webster, Incorporated, said mill prices of upper-grade Canadian hardwoods are so high that American distributors can't pay the price and still resell to American furniture plants, their principal market, at a profit. He said the mill price of birch and maple of GAS grade now stands at $220 a thousand board feet at nearly every mill in Canada. This was 10 per cent more than American distributors can pay.

Plunkett blamed the huge demand by American furniture manufacturers, particularly in the New England States, for the high prices.

While the price of $220 has been quoted by some Canadian mills for a long time, he said, it is only in the last 10 days that virtually all Canadian mills have fallen into line.

Not Interested

Plunkett reported that a representative of his company had just returned from Ottawa, where mill officials "wouldn't even talk to me" when he offered $200 a thousand.

The representative also reported that there were 10 buyers for every car load of lumber.

Plunkett said no definite decision has yet been reached on the 30-day withdrawal, but "we must decide soon if we want to back away for a month or gamble that furniture manufacturers will accept Canadian lumber, which is bound to advance an additional 10 to 15 per cent if all distributors stay in the market."

"We hesitate about immediate withdrawal only because we know some distributors definitely will continue to buy."

Former Editor McIntosh Dies

TORONTO, July 4 (CP)—A. A. McIntosh, 76, former editor-in-chief of the Toronto Globe and Mail, died Monday at his home after a long illness. He retired in April, 1948, after a distinguished career as a newspaper man in the United States and Canada.

Born in Simcoe County, Ontario, he was raised at Embro, Ont., and attended high school at Woodstock and Strathroy, near London. At 17, he became a rural school teacher near St. Marys, Ont. He went to Queen's University at Kingston and later transferred to the Fine Arts College at Syracuse, N. Y.

He joined the staff of the Syracuse Post, later the Post-Standard, as a reporter to help finance his studies. After a year he left the classroom to devote himself to his newspaper career and he became managing editor of the Syracuse paper before he was 30.

In 1910, he returned to Canada to become city editor of the old Toronto Globe. Three years later he became associate editor of the old London Advertiser at London, Ont. In 1918, he took up industrial relations work for a time with the Association of Canadian Clothing Manufacturers. Later on, he went back to newspaper work again.

Canada Hasn't Axes To Grind

MONTREAL, July 4 (CP)—D. Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, said Monday night that despite Canada's general reserve, she did not enter the councils of the world with "any hat-in-hand approach."

Mr. Dolan told the International Business that Canada "is esteemed out of all proportion to her population or military might because it has always been recognized we have no national axes to grind."

Neither Canada nor the United States has resorted to the "veto" or the "walk-out" in their relationships. Rather the technique of mutual trust and understanding had been held forth.

Business leaders had a duty to devote some of their time and talent to "making democracy work." The same devotion should be given democracy as the Communist gave to Communism.

Bricklayers Vote On Wage Offer

TORONTO, July 4.—(CP). — Members of the Bricklayers' Union (AFL) voted Monday night on a wage offer by the Toronto Builders' Exchange, but officials said there was little likelihood the offer would be accepted.

Rejection of the offer of a 10-cent hourly wage increase would threaten the city with a strike that would paralyze all commercial construction. The building trades have agreed to respect each other's picket lines.

The union has asked a 20-cent increase to bring their rate to $2 an hour. A conciliation board recommended that they be given a five-cent boost, but the exchange agreed to offer 10 cents, plus protection against further rises in the cost of living on a one-year basis.

The union Monday agreed to scale down its demands to a 15-cent increase this year and an additional five-cent increase next year.

Orange Order Holds Service At Bethany

BETHANY, July 4 (ENS) — Bethany United Church was crowded Sunday evening for a special service held for members of the Orange Order. The men's lodge and ladies' lodge, headed by the Boys' Fife and Drum Band, with Bobby Ryley as the standard bearer, marched to the church in a body. The Rev. James Hampson, the newly-inducted minister on the Bethany circuit, welcomed the group and particularly the members of St. Paul's Anglican Church, who had withdrawn their service for this occasion.

Major John Foote, V.C., also a member of the Orange Order gave the address basing his remarks on "Loyalty."

With Miss Betty Waddell at the organ, the choir sang the anthem "I Was Glad."

Following the service a parade was held on the main street with the band giving several selections.

Keeping Watch On Lake Ships

CLEVELAND, July 4.—(AP).—Operators of United States Great Lakes fleets will maintain a close watch on their vessels as a security measure, it was decided Monday by two committees of the Lake Carriers' Association.

The fleet engineers' committee and the shore captains' committee met with Capt. Leon H. Morine of the United States Coast Guard.

The security program calls for rigid inspection of vessels during loading and unloading; barring of "casual" visitors from ships; a close watch of all persons who work on the ships or have business aboard them.

Morine said no move has been made to assign Coast Guard personnel to lake vessels as during the war.

Last week, action was taken to bar visitors from the Soo locks and to halt passenger steamship traffic through the American locks at the Soo.

Canada Needn't Worry About Losing Labrador

OTTAWA, July 4 —(CP)— Canada needn't worry too much about losing Labrador to a Netherlands family, State Secretary Bradley said today.

He was commenting on a story from the Hague, which said descendants of Joseph de la Penha, an Amsterdam merchant, are planning a suit for possession of Labrador on the claim it was granted to their ancestor by King William III of Britain in 1697.

Mr. Bradley, whose native Newfoundland brought the Labrador coastal strip into Canada last year, termed the Netherlands claim "fantastic."

The State Secretary said he had heard of the case some years ago, but there was no doubt of Newfoundland's and Canada's right to possession of Labrador.

In 1927, he said, the privy council had established definitely the right of Quebec and Newfoundland to different sections of Labrador.

Apart from the fact that the Canada - Newfoundland possession was documented by grants, he said, there was considerable doubt that William III ever had any right to sign away part of Britain's overseas possessions.

Electrics Take Two Wins In Girls' Loop

CGE girls won two softball games last night at the Bowl, defeating Woollens 15-9 and the Marines 10-2. In the first game, they played fine ball for seven innings but then fell apart. However, they had built up a big enough lead to coast home on. The Woollens had a bad night most of the way but pepped up in the ninth to notch six runs. M. Laing and R. McInroy went best for them as D. Jackson and B. McMahon looked good for CGE. M. Batley led the hitters with four, one a homer, while R. Boyce and M. Owen also had a homer each. R. Boyce and S. Harris pitched the distance. J. McIlwain and R. McInroy had three hits each for Woollens, with M. Laing belting a four-bagger. Teams:

A Fast Game

The nightcap was run-off in an hour and saw both sides hustling, but Marines' errors hurt. P. Williams was replaced on that mound by S. Whittaker in the eighth, while M. Hodson pitched good ball for CGE and had neat support. R. Boyce led the victors at the plate with three safeties, and G. Atkins had a homer. V. Page, M. Hill and M. Behan each had two safe blows for Marines, M. Behan and V. Page going best for them defensively. M. Owen and M. Batley were the pick of the Electrics. M. Hodson struck out a dozen. Teams:

Hamilton Tigers Wallop Lions 18-7

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton's rejuvenated lacrosse Tigers are loking more and more like the champions of old.

After a slow start in this year's Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series, the Tabbie have been picking up steam and Monday night they added another to the victory column. Tigers walloped Weston Lions 18-7.

Lions started strongly, but after the first 10 minutes it was Hamilton all the way, with Merv McKenzie pouring four goals past Al Chard in the Weston nets. Jack Dorney and Love had three each.

Wild (Pop) Chard netted three for Weston in a losing cause.

In the Canadian-American League the first place Sarnia Beavers downed Wallaceburg Elliot Motors 14-10 at Sarnia.

Brampton Victorious In Junior OLA Game

A 15-goal rally by Brampton in the final quarter at home last night gave them a 21-9 junior victory over the young Petes. The visitors had a 7-6 edge at the end of the third quarter, but they fell apart then before their heavier opponents, who also used several players who had senior experience. The Peterborough boys tired out rapidly in the third to let Brampton run wild and break up a fine fray.

Hilson led the league-leading winners with six goals, while Caruso and Sutherland each counted five in the wide-open going. Batley, Whitnall and G. Robinson each clicked for two Peterborough markers, with B. Robinson, Killingbeck and O'Reilly having one apiece. Goalie Nicholls went well for the losers, despite the score. The Petes were given much the worst of it in penalties.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Not too much love is lost between St. Kitts A's and the Petes when they tangle in a senior lacrosse match. As they will be doing at 8.45 tomorrow eve in Miller Bowl. First meeting of the year for these worthy foes on local terrain. Several St. Kitts players joined the Petes last semester, but only Goalie Ralph Speck stayed for this season. Chaps like Leo Teatero and Joe McNulty, for instance, take great pleasure now in trying to beat the Creighton crew. However, we doubt if they can do it here—even if they did yank out a win last start in the peninsula point. It should be a warmish fixture before a hefty crowd.

Milt Dunnell who is proving a capable columnist, succeeding Andy Lytle of the Toronto Star—Andy went west, though that doesn't mean he died, exactly, out on the Pacific Coast — writes: "Around the senior lacrosse circuit, they're saying Peterborough is probably the hottest lacrosse town in the league. Give the Petes a couple of more seasons and they'll be taking dead aim at old baggatway's top trophy, the Mann Cup." Well, thanks, Milt old man, we'll return the compliment on your pro ball club as it ups the ladder a bit, if, as and when.

Of $22 Canuck Money

From time to time, some local ball fans hit for Detroit or Cleveland—and even New York occasionally—to see the big leaguers perform. So it might be of interest to know that you can get ducats guaranteed and accommodation at a reasonable rate for week-end tilts in Cleveland. Two chaps can get a double room at the Hotel Auditorium (with bath) and pick up two reserve tickets there close to the ball park, as well as getting free car pasking, Saturday night dinner and Sunday brunch for $19.95. Of course, you drive over to Cleveland at your own expense. Write this hotel, if interested. You're welcome.

Another nice plug for the Petes—the senior baseballie ones this time—comes in a story written in the New Toronto sheet by Bill Moher. After panning a previous game, he says: "Then on Monday along came Peterborough and the fans forgot about Friday. This game drew the biggest crowd this year. It was by far the best, most exciting and fan-pleasing contest so far. Petes are about the classiest and most popular visiting team in the league. A few more teams like them, and Goodyear Field would not commence to accommodate the crowd. New Toronto won the game 6-5, so you know where they rate. Good enough to be better than the best." From what we hear around the loop, the men o' Murphy are rated one of the smartest squads in there and a team that shows most hustle. They'll be tough to beat by playoff time.

Electrics Take Two

CGE colleens did themselves a lot of good in the girls' softball standing at the Bowl last gloaming, winning a pair of games. Took the Woollens 15-9 and defeated Marines 10-2. First one was a free-hitting fray, with Electrics fading some in the late stages as Woollens made a bid. Second one saw M. Hodson hurling seven-hit ball and fanning a dozen, whilst Marines were loose in the field. It'll be Woollens vs. Marines at seven tomorrow eve, followed by CGE against the Woollens. Some twin bills required now for the various teams, owing to others being off on holidays.

Mimico plays the junior OLA Petes a four-point game here on Friday, there being no senior scrap at Miller Bowl that night. It's worth four points to take care of a rained-out tussle earlier in the season, and should be an interesting tilt. Local lacrossers ran into heavy going in the fourth frame at Brampton last night what with tiring before a much heavier team—including players with senior experience—and drawing a flock of cheap penalties. They had played a swell game up to then against the husky loop leaders, who hold decisions over Mimico and St. Catharines. Oh, well, one can't win 'em all.

Lindsay Triumphs On Gleeson's Hit

LINDSAY, July 4. — Pitcher Alan Doc Gleeson came through with a two-run single in the last of the sixth to give Lindsay Walkwoods a 9-7 win over Fenelon Falls in a Tricounty Baseball League game here Monday night.

Gleeson took over from Hank Debois in the second and scattered three hits and allowed two runs. Vern Sheehey split the mound duties with Lefty Junkin, and except for the fourth, had the hits well scattered. Debois led Lindsay with two hits, while Max Putnam and Ab Jacket paced the winners.

Quakers Beat Rays

Quakers edged Raybestos 3-2 in a nifty fastball number last night. Horton and Nichols both pitched good ball with Quakers getting but six hits and having three miscues while Rays got eight blows and one boot. The winners scored single runs in the second, third and fourth, as Raybestos shoved one over in the first and another in the third. O'Toole had three hits for them. Teams:

Rays: Crampton 2b, Maudsley 1b, Pryde ss, Crary 3b, Giles c, Murphy cf, Evans lf, O'Toole rf, Nichols p.

Quakers: Connelly 1b, Lomax c, Horton p, Nolan ss, Issac 2b, Logan cf, Land 3b, McDonald ss, Hughey lf.

By The Canadian Press

Canada's premier harness racing meet got under way Monday at the Thorncliffe Raceway in Toronto before a crowd estimated at about 2,500. The 42-day meet Ends Aug. 19.

The small gathering got a thrill when the daily double backers netted $629.50, helped along by Daniel, a 12-year-old brown gelding which paid off at $277.30 for its victory in the second race.

Southland Miss, owned by J. R. Desjardins of Sorel, Que., went to the post favorite in the first race and came in with a good victory.

Daniel, owned by Harold McKinley of Orangeville, went to the post in its $500 heat at 30-1 odds on the board—the longest shot in the eight-horse event. It was a photo finish between Daniel and Preakness Win, owned by Parker Locks of Williamsburg, Ont., and the picture showed the McKinley-owned gelding a winner by a nose.

George Kell of Detroit Tigers has moved back into undisputed American League batting leadership over Larry Doby of Cleveland Indians. Averages of games through Sunday show the Detroit third-baseman hitting .375 to .370 for the Cleveland outfielder. Both anvanced from identical averages of .366 a week ago.

Ted Williams of Boston Red Sox leads in runs batted in, 81, runs, 72, and tied with Kell for the most doubles, 22.

Jackie Robinson continues to set a blazing pace in the National League, his .378 average giving him a 28-point edge over runner-up Stan Musial of St. Louis.

Robinson leads three departments—batting, total hits, 93, and doubles, 26. Boston's rookie flash, Sam Jethroe, has most runs, 58, most stolen bases, 17, and is tied with Musial with six triples.

Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh and Hank Bauer of Chicago divide the slugging honors. Kiner is first with 19 homers and Bauer leads with 58 runs batted in.

Next Move and Bed O' Roses, a pair of three-year-old filly stars owned by Alfred G. Vanderbilt, ran one-two in the $20,000-added Gazelle Stakes before a crowd of 30,763 Monday at Aqueduct. It was the seventh victory in nine starts this year for Next Move, who was ridden by Eric Guerin.

Entries closed Monday night at London for the Daily Mail's £1,000 ($3,100) Channel-swimming contest, and the paper said contenders already are assembling at the Folkestone race headquarters. The prize goes to the first person successfully crossing the 21-mile strip of water between England and France.

The Channel attempts begin officially Aug. 21.

Honor Bright, a black filly who won the Acorn Stakes last year, scored a straight-heat victory on Monday in the Coaching Club, Goshen, N. Y. The daughter of Bill Gallon won the first mile heat in 2:08 1-5 and the second in 2:08 2-5.

Touring collegian cricketers of the Ontario colleges of St. Andrew's, Upper Canada, Trinity and Ridley won their first match in Bermuda Monday, defeating St. George's Dinghy and Sports Club by 45 runs.

The Ontario collegians scored 156 runs, as Philip Ketchum scored 39 and Richard Gibb 35.

Jorge Sugden, "the little cork," claimed the world's marathon swimming record Monday after spending 62 hours, one minute and 31 seconds in the water at Buenos Aires. Sugden, whose performance drew big crowds, said he had set the old mark of 61 hours, 50 minutes in 1949. He plans to leave soon for a shot at the English Channel.

Sedman, Talbert Have Backs To Wall

WIMBLEDON, England, July 4 (AP)—Top-seeded Frank Sedman, 22-year-old Australian champion, and second-seeded Bill Talbert of New York have their backs to the wall in the men's singles of the all-England lawn tennis tournament.

When the referee captain, Alben Trower, stopped play in a murky light late Monday, Sedgman, Australia's chief Davis Cup hope, was set down to hard-hitting Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif. The lefthanded Larsen had taken the first set, 10-8, and was all even with Sedgman 2-2 in the second set when play was halted.

Talbert, after splitting two sets with nonchalant Budge Patty of Los Angeles, 6-3, 4-6, trailed 2-5 in the third.

All four boys had slithered around the greasy surfaces for an hour before Trower called "enough!" He said the courts were becoming dangerous.

Orioles Edge Chiefs 9-7; Leafs Win 4-2

By The Associated Press.

After a slow start, Baltimore Orioles, under the capable guidance of Henry Nicholas Cullop, have moved into a contending position in the International League pennant race.

A fifth-place team last week, the Orioles have advanced to third, 2½ games off Rochester's leading pace.

And they've lost the fewest games in the loop, 29, three less than either Rochester or second-place Jersey City.

But winning baseball is nothing new to 49-year-old Nick Cullop. The St. Louis native has been active in the game since 1920, playing with Cincinnati in 1930-31. He piloted Columbus of the American Association to a "little world series" victory in 1943, then repeated with Milwaukee in '47. This is his first season with the Orioles.

Trounce Chiefs

His Baltimore team came through last night with a 9-7, 11-inning victory over Syracuse. Ben Guintini, another "youngster" who has been around, delivered the game-winning blow, a three-run homer.

Guintini's blast was the third Oriole home run, catcher Clyde Klutz and Eddie Pellagrini hitting two-run homers.

Omar (Turk) Lown, Montreal's ace righthander, stopped the hard hitting Rochester team, 5-1, on six hits. Butsy Fiala's homer with a mate on in the first inning gave Lown all the margin he needed. Montreal trails Rochester by 2½ games and is seven percentage points behind Baltimore.

Jersey City "squeezed" past Springfield 4-3 as Pete Pavlick bunted in the seventh inning to score Joe Brachitta from third base.

Max Peterson hurled Toronto a 4-2 victory over Buffalo. Peterson gave up five hits in winning his fourth game against five losses. Bud Hesley produced the deciding blow, a two-run homer in the fifth.

Southworth on Warpath Braves Lash Phils

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don't sell Billy Southworth and his Boston Braves short.

Other National League pilots well remember those driving finishes made famous by Billy's St. Louis Cardinal clubs in the early '40s. And they haven't forgotten how Southworth's '48 Braves broke out of the pack in mid-June to take over the lead and go on to win Boston's first flag in 34 years.

All signs point to Southworth on the warpath again. Flirting between fourth and sixth places only a week ago, his Braves won six of their last seven starts to become a challenger for the lead.

Aided immediately by the winter trade that brought Sid Gordon, Will Marshall and Buddy Kerr, the Braves boast a solid punch. They boast one of the leading hitters in Tommy Holmes one of the leading home run sluggers in Gordon (14); and one of the leading runs-batted-in leaders in Bob Elliott (47).

Best Pitching Trio

In Johnny Sain, Warren Spahn and Vern Bickford, they own the best pitching trio in the league. Sain has the most victories, 11 Spahn has nine and Bickford eight. Spahn also leads all pitchers with 102 strikeouts. Rookie Sam Jethroe, up from Montreal Royals, is running away with stolen-base honors. The fleet-footed negro has 18, 11 more than his nearest competitor.

A 3-1 victory over Philadelphia Monday not only knocked the Phils out of first place but moved the Braves within 1½ games of the pace-setting Cardinals who moved up even though their game with Chicago was rained out.

Brooklyn Dodgers fell deeper into fourth place when they dropped a 3-2 decision to New York Giants. Shortstop Al Dark broke up a brilliant mound duel between New York's Larry Jansen and Brooklyn's Preacher Roe by lifting a home run in the last half of the 11th inning.

Detroit's American League-leading Tigers opened up a 4½-game lead over New York when they whipped Chicago White Sox 8-4 while Washington Senators were defeating the Yankees 7-2. The cellar-dwelling St. Louis Browns upset Cleveland 4-2 to drop the third-place Indians five lengths behind the Bengals.

Joe DiMaggio, sterling outfielder, made his debut at first base for the Yankees. He handled 13 chances in the field but went hitless.

Cincinnati emerged from the National League cellar for the first time since May 7 by trouncing Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-5. The loss dropped the Bucs into the basement.

New World Saint Created By Pope Pius

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY, July 4, (AP) Mary Anne de Paredes will become the new world's only native born Saint of the 1950 Holy Year next Sunday.

On July 9, Pope Pius, bringing to a close process that began before the American Revolution, will name "the Lily of Quito" to the honors of the altar.

The ceremony is expected to bring thousands of pilgrims here from both old and new world countries. Msgr. Jose Turcios Y. Barahona, Archbishop of Tegucigalpa, is bringing 130 pilgrims from Guatamela, Honduras, Costa Rica, Salvador and Nicaragua.

Vatican circles, reviewing the life of Mary Anne de Paredes, cite the similarities and contrasts with Maria Goretti, 11-year-old "Martyr of Purity" who was made a Saint June 24.

Both died young. Both are associated with white lilies and with blood. The Italian Maria, described by Pope Pius at the Canonization as "a lily . . . the sweet little Martyr of Purity," was presented by the Pontiff as an example for Christian youth today.

The Pontiff may also exalt the "Lily of Quito" as another example for youth.

Life Of Prayer

Mary Anne de Paredes chose a life of austerity, prayer and good works.

Daughter of a noble father and mother, she had already devoted her young life to religious practices when she prayed that her life be taken and those of the plaque-ridden people of Quito spared.

Two days later, on May 26, 1645, she died. She was 26 years old.

From the spot where her blood har been placed in the garden of her home, lillies suddenly bloomed.

Many miracles have been attributed to her, but it was not until 1853, more than 200 years after her death, that her beatification took place. Nearly another 100 years passed before her canonization.

Small Baby Drowns In 10-Gallon Crock

BLAINE LAKE, Sask., July 4 (CP) — Valerie Kitchula, 18 months old, was drowned Monday in a 10-gallon 18-inch-high earthenware crock.

Her mother and grandmother had been washing clothes and though the child's disappearance was noticed within a matter of minutes, it was almost a half-hour before the baby was discovered face-down in the crock.

Artist Dies

WINDSOR, July 4 — (CP) — Funeral services will be held here today for Mrs. Ada Emma Owen, 65, a Windsor artist whose work on illuminated addresses had been presented to four successive governors-general. One book designed and illustrated by Mrs. Owen was presented to Queen Mary and another was given to the late Viscount Willingdon.

Takes Sister's Car Pays $130 Or Jail

BRANTFORD, July 4—(CP)—Alex Balaga, 18, was ordered Monday to pay $130 costs or go to jail for a month over a series of events that started when, police said, he took his sister's automobile.

Evidence was that he was found with the car in Quebec and underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis while police were bringing him back here.

He was given a suspended sentence May 28 for taking a car without the owner's consent. The stopover for the operation made it necessary for Brantford officers to make two trips to Quebec.

THANKS ONTARIO!

On the occasion of the opening of the Des Joachims Generating Station on the Ottawa River, Prime Minister, the Honourable Leslie M. Frost, K.C., announced the lifting of lighting restrictions in Southern Ontario.

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario wishes to convey sincere thanks to the Municipal Systems, farmers, householders, retail merchants, sign operators, theatres and other commercial consumers, and the employees and management of industries, for their splendid assistance during the past power shortage. This co-operation was a great help during the more critical periods making it possible to utilize electric power to the best advantage, and contributing very largely in maintaining production at a high level.

To all I wish to express my sincere appreciation for their help.

Aged People Successfully Given Anaesthetics For Major Surgery

Of all the medical sciences, anaesthesia has made the most rapid advances in the past 15 years, Dr. Donald Aitken told the Rotary Club Monday at its weekly luncheon in the Empress Hotel.

Dr. Aitken said that patients who were considered risks a few years ago can now be operated on successfully. With the decrease in mortality rate and increased life expectancy he has found that he is giving more and more anaesthetics to patients in the older age groups.

"Within the past year I have given anaesthetics for major surgery to patients aged 93, 94 and 100 successfully. I only hope that in the future medicine and anaesthesia may advance so that all our anaesthetics may be given to patients over 90 years old."

As early as the Babylonian age, about 2500 BC. people had discovered a remedy for the pain of dental caries, said Dr. Aitken. From a clay tablet the remedy was revealed as a cement consisting of henbane leaves in powdered form mixed with gum mastic was applied to the cavity.

Used Alcoholic Fumes

In 1513 monks used alcoholic fumes to alleviate pain prior to surgical intervention, he said. Not until the early 1800's when nitrous oxide, oxygen, ether and chloroform were discovered did anaesthesia really progress, he plained.

Dr. William Morton, a student at Harvard Medical school after first experimenting on himself and his confreres, first used anaesthesia in the extraction of teeth on September 30, 1846. Later he was asked to anaesthetize a patient for the removal of a tumor of the jaw. This he did with a mask similar to those used today.

As a medicine advanced, anaesthesia advanced, said Dr. Aitken. The First World War brought into vogue spinal anaesthesia, first used successfully 25 years before. Even then a patient having a surgical operation of any magnitude had only a fair chance for recovery. Spinal anaethesia reduced the mortality rate greatly in major surgery, he added.

About 1928 Dr. Vilyen Henderson and G. H. Lucas of the University of Toronto while conducting experiments rediscovered cyclo-propane, cleared it of impurities and introduced one of the "safest and best anaesthetic drugs known today," he said. In 1934 Dr. John Lundy began using barbiturate drugs intervenously.

Full-Time Job

Previous to the Second World War anaesthetics were given chiefly by general practitioners, he explained. At that time in Ontario there were just three full-time anaesthetists and now there are over 60.

Besides developing new techniques and advances in anaethesia during World War Two the problems of oxygen therapy in hospitals, intravenous and blood transfusion therapy were added to the work of the anaesthestist, said Dr. Aitken.

About 1944 Dr. Harold Griffiths rediscovered a new drug, curare. Dr. Aiken said that it was long known that the South American Indians dipped, their arrow heads in a poison which paralized their victims. The formula for this poison was a tribal secret but gradually the various formulae were obtained. Through these the drug, curare, was derived.

Relaxing the Muscles

Until that time one of the greatest difficulties of the anaesthetist was relaxing the muscles in order to give the surgeon ideal working conditions, he said. Spinal anaesthesia gave excellent relaxation, he explained, but was limited in scope and contraindicated in many cases.

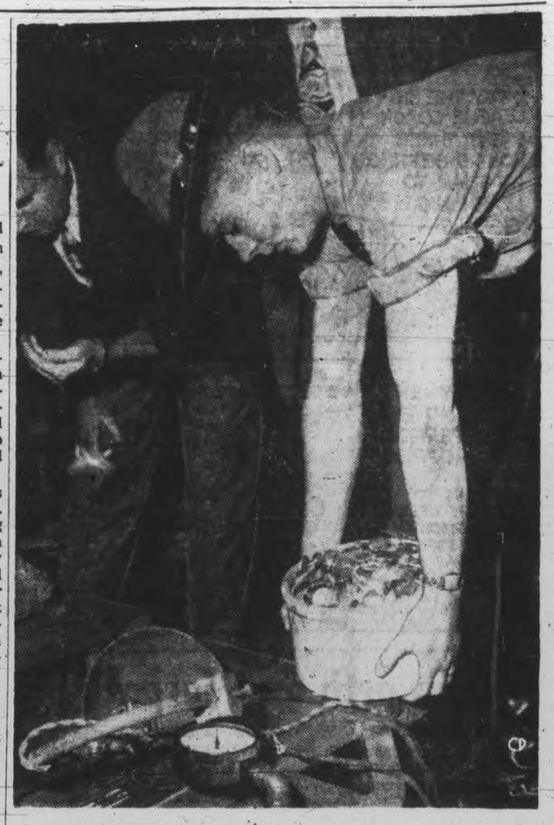
"With the general anaesthetic agents known in order to relax the musculature sufficiently large amounts of anaesthetic drugs chiefly ether, had to be taken. In long operations the anaesthetic added to the shock of the operation."

A new era was born with the discovery of curare, said Dr. Aitken. Physicians were then able to inject a drug which had no effect on the central nervous system but blocked only the nerve impulses travelling from the brain to the muscles and relaxing them.

"Combined anaesthesia, now our most common type, came into being. Instead of large amounts of one agent, small amounts of two agents with a small amount of curare give a pleasant anaesthesia safe anaesthesia for very long periods with no contributary shock."

The present-day anaesthetist then came into being. The modern anaesthetis must see the patient before an operation, get a history, check on the patient's condition, decide on the safest and best type of anaethetic. At the time of the operation, he said, the anaesthetist accepts the responsibility for the patient's condition, treats shock, advises the surgeon over the first few days of the post-operative period regarding intravenous and oxygen therapy if required.

Dr. Aitken was introduced by Frank Paterson and thanked by Dr. Ralph Smyth.



UNSTAMPED COINS—This bucket of unstamped coin blanks was found in a Windsor, Ont., garage, together with counterfeiting equipment and shiny, bogus fifty-cent pieces. Owner of the garage said a man named Herbert James McAuliffe had used it as a workshop for four years without revealing the nature of his operations. Police said they believed McAuliffe may be the man charged with the recent Langton, Ont., bank robbery and double murder—identified as George Walker, alias Frank West.

VOL. CI. No. 2 — TUESDAY, JULY 4, 1950 — PRICE FIVE CENTS

Jobless Continue At 1,000 In City, District

Unemployment insurance claims in the Peterborough area totalled 1,005 to June 29, an increase of 311 over June 1949, William Mellis, manager of the National Employment Office, said today. There was practically no increase over May, however, when 1,001 were on claim.

Jobless men drawing funds during June totalled 438 and women 567. Claimants in June 1949 were 358 men and 336 women. More than hal of the men on claim this year, said Mr. Mellis, are over 50 years old.

Layoffs in local industries such as the Western Clock Company accounted for the sharp increase this year, said Mr. Mellis. These men and women have only a short work week, off one or two days due to shortage of employment in the plants.

Of the 438 men on claim 110 are on the short-time claim basis and of the 567 women 293 are on short-time claims in the Peterborough area.

A few vacancies in local construction and factories absorbed some of the unemployed during June, explained Mr. Mellis. During the month 535 men and 336 women applied for 108 vacancies for men and 43 for women.

A slight increase is expected in the number of claims paid by mail during July. Mr. Mellis said today that the Campbellford branch office, opened May 5 to relieve the pressure on the local office, was closed Friday until September. Campbellford district claimants will now be paid by cheque. During June there were 91 men and 41 women on postal claims.

Farmers Need Men

Employment is available on farms in the area, said Mr. Mellis, but local men refuse this type of work. Eight Newfoundlanders arrived in Peterborough Saturday out of contingent of 50 to Ontario to work on farms in the province. Others are expected from the Maritimes, the western provinces and Newfoundland.

During May there were 1,001 on claim at the local office, 1,120 in April and 1,628 in March.

CONDITION IMPROVED

Rene Gobault, 658 Brown Street, injured Monday morning in an accident on Highway 28, is in much better condition, hospital authorities said today. Gobault is suffering from a fractured neck. Two others injured in the accident — Burleigh McIlmoyle, 470 McConnell Road, and Walter E. Morgan, 19 Conger Street — have been permitted to return to their homes. The three were returning from a fishing trip north of Peterborough when their car went out of control, plunging into a ditch.

Flier's Body Recovered At Sturgeon

The body of FO Kenneth Martlatt, 27, Oakville, was recovered from Sturgeon Lake at noon today when the sunken Harvard aircraft was raised to the surface.

Martlatt was killed instantly Saturday morning when his RCAF training plane plunged into the lake near Birch Point, four miles west of Bobcaygeon.

His companion on the routine low-level reconnaissance flight was FO Eric Williams, 28, Hamilton. Williams was thrown free of the aircraft when it crashed, and he was pulled out of the water, fatally injured but still conscious, by Mr. and Mrs. Allan Notman of St. Catharines.

Williams, father of two children, later died in Lindsay Hospital.

One of Four Aircraft

Both men were members of No. 424, City of Hamilton Auxiliary Training Squadron. Their aircraft was one of a flight of four on a training exercise from Gravenhurst air base.

Three divers tried to remove Martlatt's body, but it was pinned in the wreckage of the aircraft lying in 10 feet of water. A government boat with special cranes was dispatched and it hauled out the plane at noon today.

Lindsay Provincial Police joined with the RCAF in preliminary efforts to recover the body.

Goods From Mexico

LONDON, July 4—(AP)—The government will authorize the importation of Mexican goods — mainly raw cotton—for a value of approximately £4,000,000 ($12,400,000) up to June 30, 1951, under a trade understanding announced today.

Oppose Gas Station

Speaking to city council on Monday night for a number of Lansdowne St. residents, Otto Laderach said the group he represented was not favorably impressed "with the idea of turning the street into another gasoline alley."

He said residents had heard of an application for a service station in that area, and had sent in a petition asking that the application be denied.

Mayor Swanston pointed out the application had not yet been received by city council.

Corner Zoned As Property For Residences

Zoning of the corner at Park Hill Rd and Water St. for residential purposes only, recommended in the board of works' report, was approved by city council Monday night.

Acceptance of the recommendation means that Imperial Oil Company will not be successful in their application to erect a service station at that corner.

Another recommendation approved provided for removal by May 1951 of the wartime houses in the Hatton subdivision. In its report to city council, the board recommended removal of the houses from their present site to some place not within five miles of the city.

Recommending the removal, the report said "the houses were always recognized by the council to be temporary."

Alderman Adam Sands asked what jurisdiction the city had to set a five-mile limit. Mayor Swanston said it was just a request. Alderman Sands said he would be uite pleased to see the houses moved 15 miles from the city.

Council decided discussion with Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation was necessary to iron the matter out. The report further recommended city purchase of the property "entirely free of the houses thereon."

Further recommendations called for improvements and extension of existing sewers. City engineer A. E. Chalmers will prepare a report on the cost of a sewer on the south side of Braidwood Ave, from Lock St. east, and on the laying of a sidewalk on the west side of Jane St. from Braidwood to Wilson Ave.

Playgrounds Open To Crowds

Boys and girls crowded the eight city playgrounds Monday as the nine-week summer program sponsored by the Peterborough Recreation Commission and planned by the recreation director Alex Sinclair, started.

The playgrounds will have a uniform plan throughout the next nine weeks while they are open from Monday until Friday. Riverside, Inverlea, Turner and King Edward playgrounds are under trained supervision from 9:30 a.m. until noon, 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., and Fleming Place, Hamilton, Confederation and McKellar, are under supervision from 1 pm. until 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. The playgrounds will be, not be supervised Saturdays.

Activities on the playgrounds will include for the age group from three years to seven, quiet games, singing games, painting, handicrafts, story telling and scrap books. For the older children from seven years to 15 softball, soccer, basketball, track and field, horseshoes, group games, tournaments and handicrafts will be held.

Register For Swimming

More than 50 children from eight to 14 years registered Monday for swimming classes at Inverlea park. Mr. Sinclair said today that he expects more to register. As soon as the registration is complete and classes organized instruction will begin under Lynn Davidson, Mary Rutherford and Lorraine Derry. Periods will be held starting at 9:30 in the morning and 1:30 in the afternoon.

For more than three weeks the commission has had lifeguards at the swimming beaches, Gerard Armstrong, and Betty Thomson at Riverside, Harold Grafstein, Don Wood and Barry Hollingsworth at Inverlea.

The supervisors at the eight playgrounds are: Riverside, Joyce Taylor and Al Northcott; Inverlea, Kenneth Brown and Jeanne Stewart; Turner, Ted Cranfield and Barbara Walker; King Edward, Bryan Young and Joan Seymour; Fleming Place, Marilyn Hollingsworth; Hamilton, Amy Curtis; Confederation, Marilyn Hamilton and Margaret Rogers; McKellar, Ethel Fine.

1950 City Building Permits Total $2,109,045; June Shows $300,000 Drop

A slowing down of building is indicated by the decrease in value of building permits issued in the first six months of 1950, as compared to permits issued for the same period last year. In 1949, permits for the first six months were valued at $2,533,424 and for 1950, at $2,109,045. June this year shows a decrease of $300,000 from last year—from $747,275 to $447,298. Key to the difference in permits for June of the two years lies in the value of miscellaneous permits issued. Last month, miscellaneous permits were valued at $44,708, compared to $567,575.

More permits for houses were issued last month—55 against 25 for June of 1949. Value for last month's house permits was $397,850 against $174,350 for June last year.

Last month, permits were issued for 18 garages, 55 houses, and 111 miscellaneous. Most of the miscellaneous permits were for minor additions and roof shingling. In June of 1949, permits were issued for 21 garages, 26 houses, and 71 miscellaneous.

Most costly buildings for which permits were issued in June of this year were four houses valued at $14,000, $11,000, $10,500, and $10,000. Values of other houses ranged from estimates of $3,500 to $8,900.

Mayor's Fund Totals $7,032

The Mayor's Relief Fund for the Manitoba flood victims and the fire victims of Rimouski, has reached $7,032.

Since the fund was started, six weeks ago, numerous groups and individuals in this district have made commendable cash contributions to aid the unfortunate victims in these disasters.

During the past few days $1,719 was donated to the fund by the employees of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. The company itself contributed $300. The ladies of Mark Street United Church donated $134 and Grove School, $6.50.

VISITS LIBRARY

Miss Jessie Warren, chief librarian at the Public Library in St. Catharines recently paid a visit to the local library. She studied the system here for two days.

Fred Haggart 33 Years Customs' Clerk

Fred C. Haggart, 191 Lock St., has retired from the Peterborough customs office after 33 years with the government here. Walter Miller, collector of customs and excise, said today that Mr. Haggart was one of the most efficient and most popular members of the customs office staff.

The staff of the customs office presented Mr. Haggart with a set of pipes and accessories upon his departure from the office.

Three Tourists Get Ducking In Lake

LINDSAY, July 4 (ENS)-Three American tourists received only a ducking when their car failed to make a turn and plunged into Raven Lake, six miles south of Dorset. The car was driven by William H. Swange, St. Albans, W. Va., and the other two passengers were his wife and eight-year-old daughter.

Proceeding north on Highway 35 in a rainstorm, the car went out of control on a down grade and struck an approaching car driven by Mr. Job, Freeman, Ont. and then rolled over the rocky sloping lakeshore into the water. The occupants were unhurt, but the car was reported to be extensively damaged.

Health Dep't In New Quarters

After waiting seven years for larger quarters, the Peterborough Department of Health finally has a place to rest its head and its files of epidemics.

Located since its inception in the city buildings on Simcoe St., the department has been moved to new quarters in the former J. J. Turner residence on the southwest corner of Water and McDonnel Sts.

Dr. R. A. Kelly, medical officer of health, is quite pleased with the department's new home. He says it gives them a little foot room for a change.

Downstairs are the general offices, and Dr. Kelly's private office. Upstairs are the offices of Dr. Harold Worton, and Ronald MacPherson, sanitary inspector, and for the nurses.

Also downstairs is a large room which may be used for child health clinics and meetings.

The actual moving operation was accomplished in three days, but Dr. Kelly says it will be about a week before the department is operating at normal.

Small Boy Rescued From Bottom Of Well

PORT HOPE, July 4 — The quick action of William Painting saved the life of a seven-year-old boy ,the son of John Elliott of Pontypool, Saturday afternoon. The boy fell into a 35-foot well in which dynamite had been discharged a few hours before.

The fumes from the dynamite caused the child to become unconscious, without hesitation, Painting descended to the bottom of the well, tied a rope around the boy and had him pulled up. He then applied artificial respiration.

Painting is a bricklayer from Coventry, England. He is at present living on the Dickenson farm at Port Britain.

Daydreaming Girl Success, Surpasses Phantom 'Harvey'

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

The Summer Theatre, now established for the season in the charming auditorium of Queen Mary School, offers Elmer Rice's comedy "Dream Girl" this week. The opening play, "Harvey" was good, but "Dream Girl" is better, because it is, basically, a better play. As presented by the Summer Theatre it is first-rate entertainment.

The summer company deserves full marks for its courage in tackling a play of so many difficulties. "Dream Girl" is about a young lady given to daydreaming; in her this pleasant indulgence approaches the borders of dangerous vice. Frequently as the play progresses the audience is admitted to the realm of her daydreams. This demands clever staging and lighting. The Summer Theatre, using its limited but by no means meagre resources, created an illusion which the present writer found fully satisfactory.

Strong Company

The company this week is a strong one. "Dream Girl" asks for acting which can slip from comedy to farce and back again without any screeching of gears. Several actors are required to play straight comedy when they are in the world of reality, and fantastic comedy when they are in the fantasies of the daydreamer. In this field John Primm showed special skill; he has a gift for fantasy which we should like to see fully explored in some future play. Clarine Jackman played admirably as the dreamer's mother, and Pat Atkinson (greatly improved since last year) provided two brisk comic characterizations. Others who performed capably in the supporting cast were John Howe, Richard Neilson, Ann Somers, Marjorie Root, Peter Keay, and Ron Poffenroth. Anna Cameron, a favourite of last year's company, made a brief but telling appearance as a nitwit blonde; it takes an actress of unusual ability to make so powerful an impression in a four-line part. It would be a pleasure to see Miss Cameron in "Born Yesterday."

Star Personality

Special mention must be given to the excellent performance of Donald Glenn as the young man who wakes the Dream Girl from her world of fantasy. It is rarely that an actor of so much command, simplicity and agreeable personality appears on the Canadian stage, and when it happens, he deserves the strongest encouragement. Here is an unmistakeable star personality.

The burden of the play, and its chief rewards, are reserved for the Dream Girl herself, played with charm, verve and resource by Kate Reid, a young actress of strong talent which is not as yet, perhaps, fully developed. In one or two scenes (her appearance as Portia, for instance) she had not the vocal resources for the part. It may be said, also, that there were times when, in a desire to give the play a brisk pace, the director had hurried her mercilessly. But most of the time she was admirable and there were flashes of brilliance. A slightly more relaxed approach to the part—difficult in a play which she carries on her shoulders—would raise her performance to a very high level. That she can, at the age of nineteen, play this part as well as she does, promises fairly for her future career.

The Summer Theatre is to be thanked for this delightful midsummer night's dream.

Funds For Relief Pass $20,000

At the closing of the funds for Manitoba flood and Rimouski fire victims last week, donations cleared the $20,000 mark.

DOROTHY DIX

Public Scolding of Children Can Injure Their Character

DEAR MISS DIX: Won't you write something about nagging children at the table about their manners. It not only spoils the child's meal, but often wrecks its character. When I was a child, timid and nervous, my aunt nagged me about my table manners, with the result that to this day I cannot dine with ease or pleasure with strangers as I am overcome with self-consciousness. The result of this childhood nagging had the opposite, but equally disastrous, effect on my brother. At home he is a man of refined and gentle habits, but before strangers he hides his inferiority complex by being uncouth and ostentatious.

Dorothy Dix

I never correct my children publicly. I wait until we are alone. Then we talk it out. In this way they are taught constructively without the lesson maiming them for life.—JOAN.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I hope that many other mothers will heed the advice given by this wise woman, for she is leading her children unconsciously into the rgiht road and making them like it instead of scourging them down it with rods.

Of course the faults of children have to be corrected. Their manners and their habits have to be formed. They have to be taught the amenities of life. But there are different ways of doing this and perhaps the reason that children are so often impervious to their mothers' corrections is because they are given in the wrong way and at the wrong time.

Parents Can Be Brutal

I have often been struck by the unitentional brutality of parents in dealing with their children's mistakes and faults and have wondered how they, themselves, would like to be treated as they were treating some sensitive, helpless little creature. They seem to forget that the home is the child's world, that its Father and Mother represent to it what we call society, and that their approval or disapproval is its shame or disgrace.

There is a time and a place for all things and for the correcting of children it is not in public, but in private where the child's feelings are spared and the quiet talk of Mother or Father sinks in and becomes a light to guide the stumbling little feet.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I married a divorced woman with three children. After a few years of married life, which has consisted of pinching and depriving myself of everything to support these stepchildren, I find myself growing old before my time and I have come to fairly hate my wife. She is pure as gold, straight as a string, pretty as a picture, a good manager and economical, but there are these three children. The oldest one is old enough to go to work and I'll soon be rid of him, but two will still be left. How can I get rid of them and still hold their mother, for I feel my love might return if we were alone? Can you suggest any remedy in this case?—A MERE MAN.

ANSWER: The only thing you can do is either to leave the mother or possess your soul in patience and wait for the other children to grow up and get on their own feet. Your certainly couldn't be cold-blooded enough to tear them away from their mother and send them to an orphan home, nor is it likely that she would agree to such an arrangement.

But it doesn't seem to me that you have any right to welch on your bargain, because you were perfectly aware when you married this woman that she had the children and that you would have to assume their support.

Sometimes, you know, the bread we cast upon the waters does come back in angel food, and it may be that these stepchildren that you cherished in their infancy will be your prop and stay in your old age. At any rate, let us hope so.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 24, married to a man three years my junior. Recently my hair has begun to turn gray and I am afraid it will exaggerate the difference in our ages. I don't like the idea of dying my hair, but my husband not only dislikes my gray hair but wishes me to change from brunette to blonde. What to do?—MRS. S. K. U.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Dye it blonde, if that will make your husband happy. If you have it done at once you will avoid the aging-period look.

What's Right?

A divorcee whose first husband and the father of her children is still living is marrying a second time and wonders whether or not to let her children be attendants in the wedding party.

WRONG: She decides it would be quite all right.

RIGHT: She realizes that as long as the children's own father is alive it is not a good idea to let them play a conspicuous role in her marriage to another man.

Kingston Women's Prison Wins Visitor's Approval

By HELENA F. REUSING
(Chairman, Penal Reform Committee, Montreal Council of Women)

As a representative of the Montreal Council of Women, I was given permission to visit the Women's Prison of Kingston Penitentiary, and thought that others might be interested to read about what I saw and heard.

This penitentiary was built in 1932 to house 100 women from all parts of Canada who have been sentenced to two years or more in prison. It is a complete unit, entirely surrounded by a high stone wall which encloses a large area, across the street from the men's prison. Inside throughout, from the laundry on the ground floor to the two lovely chapels—one Protestant and one Catholic — on the top floor, there is a feeling a spaciousness, and light and air stream in through large windows.

The Matron Supervisor met me at the door and showed me all over the building, chatting the while about what went on and pointing out with justifiable pride the various facilities for re-habilitation. She has seen specially trained for her job, as has also her assistant. The rest of the matrons have had in-training instruction: a method which is followed in all Canadian penitentiaries.

At the entrance is the matrons' reception room, large enough to hold small gatherings: for instance when the Commissioner comes for a cup of tea and a discussion with the staff. There is another reception room for visitors to the inmates. The Matron Supervisor and her assistant each have a bedroom and sitting-room, while a number of resident matrons have a bedroom of their own and a staff sitting-room. There is a dining-room for the staff; prisoners serve the matrons.

Through Locked Grills

Next, through locked grills we went into the prison proper, into a large dining-room where the prisoners have their meals at long tables; in one corner is a piano, in another a loud speaker for relaying radio programmes. The kitchen, laundry and sewing-room are enormous, light and very clean. The prisoners all share in the cooking, laundering and sewing for the prison under supervision of matron-instructresses. In the sewing-room were piles of beautifully made shirts, khaki for the guards, regular shirting for the male prisoners to wear on release. The women also make their own going-away outfits.

The prisoners clean the institution and clean it is. The favorite job is to care for the two chapels, perhaps because the windows are not barred, being high in the building. The wood carved by hand by some men prisoners glows with evidence of much polishing.

There is a very well equipped infirmary and a special examination room where the prison authorities are gathering data to try to determine why people become criminals. There is a gymnasium; a classroom, part of which is used for art instruction; and the hundred cells where the prisoners sleep.

Curtains and Plants

Each women has her own roomy cell with bars making the front wall leading into the corridor, and opposite the cells are very large windows with boxes full of plants. Inside the cell grills are tiers of white cotton curtains which the inmates can draw or arrange as they please: some were tied back with bright colored ribbons. Each cell had a bed, dresser, chair, wash-basin, and toilet. Two bath-tubs are attached to every twenty-five cells. One row of cells I did see, as they were occupied by Doukhobor women who strip whenever a visitor passes.

Outside are large grounds where the prisoners can go for two periods during the day. Here they can play tennis and volleyball; skate in the winter; make their own individual gardens and with the produce do as they please; look after the hens. In fact, life is made as normal and happy as possible, and what is more, the women are being taught a great many things.

There is a full-time school-teacher for regular class work and the DVA correspondence courses are available, so that high school education may be completed.

The women of the nearby community through the Elizabeth Fry Society have permission to go into the prison to give valuntary instruction in various fields such as art, stenography, French, English, crafts and weaving. The Elizabeth Fry Society also helps the women on completion of their term to find jobs and to adjust themselves to the outside world. The two resident chaplains, Protestant and Catholic, are very active and helpful in their work with the prisoners.

It was a stirring experience to go through a really wonderful prison where so much is being done to make these women into better citizens. I felt proud of this Canadian Government institution, of the Commissioner of Penitentiaries, his two Deputies, and the staff who are responsible for it.

Valentino Film Shrouded In Deep Secrecy

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 4 (AP)—Patricia Medina gives us a peek behind the silk curtain that has cloaked the filming of Rudolph Valentino's life.

The shooting of the Latin lover's life has been, as the cliche goes, shrouded in secrecy. Press correspondents have been banned from the set. The script was said to ge guarded like a copy of "Handy Hints for Making H-Bombs."

So I was happy to smuggle one of the picture's stars, Patricia Medina, out of the studio during the lunch hour. "Have you been sworn to secrecy?" I asked.

"Not that I know of," said the beauteous brunette.

"Well, have you seen the script—the whole script?"

"Oh yes, I read it all before I took the part."

Banned From Set

"Isn't the press banned from the set?"

"Come to think of it, I haven't seen any there."

"Isn't the set excessively guarded?"

"No, there's just the usual policeman—a nice old gent of 72."

Miss Medina said that Tony Dexter, who portrays Valentino, has a remarkable resemblance to the famed Latin. "Poor boy," she added, "all he has to do is make love. He makes love in the scenes from the old pictures and he makes love in the scenes of Valentino's real life."

She reported that she just had seen rushes of a love scene she did with him. "I was disappointed," she said. "I wanted to do the scene while reclining, but they propped me up on a couple of pillows. Love making has to be vertical, they said."

She said that most of the characters in the film will be fictional and Valentino's wives will not be portrayed.

Good and Bad

"Eleanor Parker plays a combination of all the good women he knew," she said, "and I play all the bad women. I nearly land him at the end of the picture, but he died. That happens to me all the time.

Police said King and the teenaged girl were picked up in a downtown St. Urbain Street home on a tip from Ottawa police. The girl already has been turned over to juvenile court authorities in Ottawa.

TORONTO, July 4 — (CP) — Ontario Court of Appeal Monday approved the $3,000 in damages offered William Wiltse, 7, of Brockville, by Daniel Haggerty, driver of an automobile which struck the boy in Brockville last Sept. 17.

The boy's father, Kenneth Wiltse, appealed a lower court decision which awarded $1,000 of a $20,000 damage claim.

Before the appeal started Haggerty offered $2,500 more, without admitting negligence.

The offer was accepted by Mr. Wiltse.

Vote Conducted

TORONTO, July 4 (CP) — A vote was conducted Monday among more than 3,000 members of the Teamsters Union (AFL) on an offer by the Ontario Automotive Transport Association of a six-cent hourly increase and other benefits. There was no indication of when the results of the vote will be made known.

Removing Civilians

BELGRADE, July 4 (AP) — Yugoslavia claimed Monday night that Hungary has been removing civilians from the Hungarian-Yugoslav border during the past few weeks. This report came on the heels of a charge by a Yugoslav army spokesman that the Russian-led cominform countries have been increasing their "arms-rattling" along Yugoslavia's borders.

FROM NO. 7 HIGHWAY, east of Fowler's Corners, you are looking at that familiar long arm of land projecting from the Smith shore into Chemong Lake. One hundred years ago Robert Tully acquired the Highway farm. He kept looking at that land out in the lake for 20 years before he bought it from the Crown for $30. Down the years the farm changed hands, and when Hugh Stewart bought it in 1944 from the T. S. Kerr estate, that seeming island was a case of the tail going with the hide. Mr. Stewart kept it four years. Now it bears the name of Stewart Heights, and its north shore has been subdivided into summer cottage lots each of 14,000 sq. ft. Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon purchased the western tip. One of the Tully men evidently thought of building a home for himself left of centre in the picture, but did not proceed beyond excavating a cellar.

DutchFamily Seek Papers Proving Claims

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, July 4 —(Reuters)—Four Dutchmen, descendants of the Portugese Jewish family de la Penha which came to Holland 400 years ago, are searching for documents to "prove conclusively" their claims to the possession of Labrador.

According to the family, King William III of Britain, startholder (administrator) of Holland, was saved from drowning in a shipwreck in 1695 by Joseph de la Penha, Amsterdam merchant. In gratitude William gave de la Penha hereditary tenure forever on Labrador.

This grant was made legal in 1696 in a document signed at Het Loo palace in Holland and renewed in 1732 and 1768, the family says.

One of the descendants, Tobias Groen of Montreal, dicovered in 1927 the original documents of 1732 and 1768, and some time found between the leaves of a book from the Dutch library there the original document of 1697.

For two centuries the family, having extensive possessions and being enormously rich, did not feel the need of making any use of its "right" to the wild, uncultivated land of Labrador.

In 1927, however, Isaac de la Penha, entered a law suit between Canada and Newfoundland on the possession of Labrador.

In 1933, the case had been prepared extensively and a representative of the family was going to Canada to take it up when the Second World War put an end to this plan and many of the family members were killed in German concentration camps.

The case came up again after the war when a number of Belgian descendants sought contact with P. H. Melhado, one of the Dutch descendants.

Melhado now has formed a commission together with other descendants of de la Penha to contact all other direct descendants living outside Holland to begin another suit for the possession of Labrador.

Women's Institutes Gather Collection of Antiques To Mark Centennial Year

"Out of the Past" would be a suitable heading for the collection of articles on display in the window of Grafton's Clothing Store, George Street. This display of more than 100 antiques was made possible by the members of the Women's Institute in the Peterborough district.

In addition to being extremely interesting, this collection is considered to be of great value. Precautions against loss and damage have been taken by insuring it for $1,000.

The members of the Women's Institute wished to have a part in Peterborough's Centennial celebration and decided that a collection of antiques would make a suitable contribution. In this way, they have provided the residents of the city and tourists with knowledge of what life was like in this district 100 years ago.

The oldest article in the collection, a medical text, was contributed by Clifford Ellis, 181 Edinburgh street. This book is 316 years old and its yellowed pages contain prescribed cures for every ailment known at the time. The title of the book is "The Method of Physick, Containing the Causes, Signes and Cures of inward diseases in man's body from head to foot." It was printed in 1634, in London, England.

Police Trick And Kill Bandit King

Sicilian Outlaw Shot In Surprise Attack On Mountain Hideout

PALERMO, Sicily, July 5 — (AP) — Salvatore Giuliano, will-o'-the-wisp bandit king who proclaimed his own Sicilian government and taunted Rome for its desperate seven-year attempt to run him down, was shot and killed in his mountain hideout just before dawn today.

The Italian government said the death of the colorful 28-year-old Robin Hood of the hills meant the end of banditry in Sicily.

Commando police were hot on the heels of Giuliano for the last two weeks. In the last few days they closed in, surrounding him in his lair in the hills of Castevetrano, 50 miles from Palermo.

Giuliano tried to shoot his way out of the house in which he was hiding.

Police opened fire with submachine-guns and cut him down, ending in a blaze of fire the career of a man whose band was accused of killing nearly 100 policemen.

Some of Giuliano's comrades escaped.

Use Radio Car

The special detachment of 2,000 police which had been training the outlaw trapped him with a radio car camouflaged as a newspaper truck. When Giuliano left his hideaway house to go to another building, the police sprang the trap. The battle was brief. The bandit king fell with police bullets in his chest.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi personally ordered Col. Ugo Luca and his commando force to get Giuliano last August after seven Carabinieri were killed in a landmine blast and machine-gun ambush.

The outrage aroused Italian public opinion to a new high. Many said at the time that if parliament had been in session a "Giuliano' crisis might have resulted.

With his commando force armed to the teeth, Luca began a methodical military sweep of the Sicilian hills where Giuliano long had held sway.

Since then more than a dozen known bandits have been caught or killed. More than 100 small-fry lawbreakers have been rounded up.

Print Extras

Giuliano's end brought out newspaper extras in Rome.

Giuliano, who was credited with being an fiery anti-communist, also was charged with turning his machine-gun on a May Day parade near Palermo in 1947. Eight persons including two women were killed and 33 wounded. Four of the wounded later died.

Using Troops To Deliver Food Supplies

LONDON, July 5 (Rueters).—Soldiers and airmen today marched into 28 strike-bound food warehouses in Central London to take over the delivery of butter, margarine, bacon, cheese, eggs and other food.

Convoys of trucks took the supplies to thousands of grocery stores in London which have had no deliveries since Monday.

The government decided to order the troops in when more than 1,000 warehousemen and drivers employed by wholesale firms joined the food strike now in its 12th day. Wholesale chiefs had appealed to the government for immediate aid to enable London's 8,000,000 citizens to get their full food rations.

More than 4,000 men were involved in the strike which broke when 1,400 meat delivery drivers in the Smithfield Central Meat Market stopped work as a protest against alleged delay in handling their claim for a raise of 19 shillings a week. They were joined by meat market porters and shopmen in neighboring cold storage plants and a poultry market, who came out because troops were drafted to handle the maet.

40 Ill, One Dies From Fumes

BIRKENHEAD, England, July 5 (CP)—One seaman was killed and about two score others were made ill today by cyanide fumigating gas aboard the 10,000-ton liner Cheshire in the Mersey River docks.

The victim died in hospital while receiving treatment. Most of the others recovered soon.

The liner, owned by the Bibby Line, was being prepared for a voyage to Australia with 650 British emigrants. No passengers were aboard.

Crew members said the vessel was declared safe this morning after fumigation. The men became ill in the engine room when an air compressor was turned on, apparently dislodging a gas pocket. First reports said there had been an explosion, but later investigation by police did not confirm this.

Dollar Reserves Up In Canada

OTTAWA, July 5 — (CP). — Canada's reserves of gold and United States dollars jumped to $1,255,000,000 at June 30 from $1,192,000,000 at March 31, the Finance Department reported today.

At June 30, 1949, the total was $977,000,000.

Totals at May 31 and April 30 this year were $1,182,000,000 and $1,177,000,000, respectively.

Australia Introducing Compulsory Training

CANBERRA, July 5 (Reuters) —Australia will introduce compulsory military training "as soon as possible," it was announced today.

The announcement was made after a meeting of the defence council, comprising service ministers and service chiefs.

The defence council also decided that youths aged 18 will be drafted for between 3½ and four months for all three services.

The proportion will be 75 per cent for the army, 15 per cent for the air force and 10 per cent for the navy.

Ratification is likely to be given at a cabinet meeting tomorrow.

Britain's Doll ar Reserves Top Two-Billion Mark

LONDON, July 5—(CP)—Sir Stafford Cripps announced today gold and dollars rolled into Britain's treasury at a record post-war rate in the last three months—reaching a post-devaluation high of $2,422,000,000. The Chancellor of the Exchequer told the House of Commons the reserves rose by $438,000,000 in the quarter ending June 30, bringing the grand total to $1,082,000,000 more than the lowest point at which they stood immediately before sterling was devalued last Sept. 18.

The gold and dollar reserves of $2,422,000,000 belong not only to Britain but to the whole sterling area for which this country acts as banker.

The government two years ago set itself a minimum safety level of $2,000,000,000 dollars. This is the first time since then that the fund has topped that level.

Earns More Dollars

Sir Stafford showed that for the second successive quarter Britain has earned more dollars than she has spent.

The sterling area's net gold and dollar surplus amounted to $180,000,000 in the second quarter of 1950. This compared with a surplus of $40,000,000 in the first quarter of the year and with a deficit of $31,000,000 in the fourth quarter of 1949 and a deficit of $632,000,000 in the second quarter of 1949.

Receipts under the European Recovery Program amounted to $240,000,000.

Britain also drew $18,000,000 on the Canadian credit.

The chancellor said most of the increase in the reserve was the direct result of the assistance received under the European Recovery Program.

Fires Sweep Austria, Have Worst Heat Wave

VIENNA, July 5 (Reuters) — Fires roared through Austrian forestlands today as Austrians gasped in a heat wave which brought Vienna its hottest day in a century.

One fire covering more than 200 acres near the Czechoslovak frontier almost destroped the village of Ceuhof, near Ottenschlag.

Tuesday's Vienna record temperature was 99 degrees, one degree hotter than last Friday's which had exceeded anything recorded in the last 100 years.

Cripps Watching Canadian Buying

LONDON, July 5 (Reuters) — Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, told parliament Tuesday that it will remain government policy to get as much of Britain's requirements from Canada as she can afford to pay for in dollars.

Conservative Ronald Russell had urged him to make more dollars available for imports from Canada, in view of the increase in the value of British exports to Canada during the first four months of 1950 compared with 1949.

The chancellor added that a final decision on the level of imports from the dollar area during the next 12 months has not been decided.

Russell further urged him to give the Canadians "sympathetic and tangible evidence that we will make it worth while for them to buy our imports at the rate they have been doing."

Cripps replied that the government is in close touch with the Canadian government on this matter, and he did not think Russell need worry himself about it.

Bad Shortage Of Farm Labor

TORONTO, July 5 (CP) — Officials of the Ontario Agriculture Department said today a serious shortage of farm labor may develop within the next few weeks as farmers prepare to harvest a possible all-time record grain crop.

Reports from all sections of the province indicate a shortage of skilled harvest helpers.

The immediate shortage will be eased to some extent next week when some 350 skilled workers from Alberta arrive to assist with the harvest.

But an official said, more workers will be needed and "we don't know where we can get them."

Baseball Fan in Grandstand Said Shot Dead by Chance

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP) — A bullet aimed by chance or with incredible markmanship whipped through the Polo Grounds Tuesday and struck one of 50,000 baseball fans dead in his grandstand seat.

Twelve hours later part of the 40 detectives working on the case found several empty .22-calibre shells on the roof of a nearby apartment building—and a .22 target pistol and two .22 rifles in an apartment one floor below.

They questioned a 14-year-old boy who lived in the room with his grandmother, but said she denied any connection with the holiday shooting.

He was detained for further questioning.

The boy was booked on a charge of juvenile delinquency made in connection with possession of the guns and pistol. The grandmother, Mrs. Marie Belld was charged with violation of the Sullivan (anti-weapon) law.

The victim was 54-year-old Bernard Lawrence Boyle of Fairview, N.J., a former fight manager who launched James J. Braddock on the path to the world's heavyweight championship.

Doyle was sitting in an upper left-field stand with a 12-year-old neighbor boy, watching the Brooklyn Dodgers' pre-game batting practice when persons near him heard a "pop" like a paper bag breaking, and saw Doyle slump back in his seat.

They assumed he had been taken ill suddenly, but then saw blood run from his ears. There was a small hole in his left temple. The bullet had passed through his brain and lodged in the other side of his skull. He died almost instantly.

LONDON, July 5 (Reuters)—A convict claiming to be an experienced negotiator with "sound knowledge of sand and gravel" today advertised in the Times for a job starting at £750 (about $2,325) a year.

His ad said:

"Convict, first offender, aged 40, due for release from Leyhill 'Prison without bars' late July, requires situation and offers services with following qualifications: One of the finest car buyers in the country; experienced negotiator, expert knowledge of haulage business, tire and tire-retreading business; sound knowledge of sand and gravel, insurance, electrical equipment and accessory business, personnel and production management, plus adaptability, tact and personality; commencing salary approximately £750 per annum."

Attlee Lauds Prompt Action Of U.S.

U.K. House Debates Korean Situation, Expect Great Unity

LONDON, July 5—(Reuters) —Prime Minister Attlee bluntly opened a House of Commons debate on Korea today by saying: "The only question before the House is whether the government are right in the action they have taken in the circumstances which have arisen in Korea."

Attlee's Labor administration, which has an elected majority of only six, was assured in advance of overwhelming all-party backing for a government motion asking parliamentary approval of its action on Korea.

The motion asked the Commons to support fully the steps "taken in conformity with obligations under the United Nations Charter in helping to resist the unprovoked aggression against the Republic of Korea."

Only threat to the unanimity of parliament was the possibility of a vote being forced by a handful of left-wing Labor members who doubt the validity of the Security Council's action.

Not Imperialism

The Prime Minister rejected allegations that United States action in South Korea was "an example of American imperialism."

Facing a tense chamber, in which diplomats looked down from the galleries upon crowded members benches, Attlee said:

"It is to be noted that at the time the invasion of Korea took place a United Nations commission was actually in the country. Meanwhile, North Korea had developed on the general lines of a Communist satellite and it had been heavily armed."

An excuse made for the attack, he said, was that South Korea hadn't a good government.

The house burst into laughter as he added:

"I never knew it was an excuse for assaulting somebody peacefully proceeding on his way that his character was not awfully good."

Not Slightest Sign

Attlee derided suggestions that the attack came from South Korea, saying "there is not the slightest sign of any evidence of that."

Biting his words sharply he said:

"The world is faced with an act of naked aggression committed against a sovereign state established by the United Nations and recognized as a lawful government of South Korea.

"There could not be a greater affront to the United Nations."

If the United Nations was not to go the same way as the League of Nations, members must be prepared to act when need arises.

"If the peoples which to avoid another world war they must support their governments in asserting the rule of law."

Denying the allegiation that the Security Council resolutions were invalid because of Russia's

Plan War Games

LONDON, July 5—(AP)—Airplanes, submarines and ships of the five Brussels Treaty powers will be thrown into war games in the English Channel within the next two weeks. The Admiralty said today the object of the exercise is to practise the protection of convoys. The Treaty members are Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

2 Paratroopers Drowned Making Movie

QUEBEC, July 5—(CP)—Two members of the Royal 22nd Regiment parachute corps were drowned Tuesday night and two others were rescued in the filming of a battle scene of a film to be entitled "Quebec".

Army authorities said the victims were Ptes. J. Bellavance and C. H. Madore, both single and both from Rimouski, Que. Next-of-kin were given as L. de G. Bellavance, Rue Notre Dame, Rimouski, and J. B. Madore, Rue Oulette, Rimouski.

The drownings occurred at the height of a battle scene on the St. Lawrence River near Brown's wharf on the city's water-front.

Thirty men, all members of the Royal 22nd Regiment and most of them members of the regiment's parachute corps, participated.

They were distributed in nine large canoes and were simulating an attack. The men were dressed in multi-colored costumes of early "Voyageurs Canadiens" and carried ancient muskets made of rubber.

They were paddling in an area in which explosive charges set just underneath the water's surface were to explode.

Over Explosive

One of the participants in the mock attack told The Canadian Press that all but one canoe either filled with water or tipped, spilling its men in the river when the explosive charges blew up. One canoe was directly over a charge.

The eyewitnesses related that about 75 persons, including army officers, were watching at the time. Some of the onlookers leaped into the river when they realized what was happening.

Huge lights exposed the scene. One of the men who jumped into the water was an official of the filming company, Lemay-Templeton of Hollywood, an affiliate of Paramount studios.

One of the bodies was recovered early today. The body of the other parachutist was found hours later by dragging crews.

Filming continued on the site of the tragedy after order was restored.

The film is said to be based on the 1837 rebellion in Quebec province.

TORONTO, July 5 (CP)—Edmund Denis, 17-year-old Ottawan who wants to be sealed in a box and thrown into the Rideau Canal has a sympathizer in these parts. James Todd, 26, of nearby West Hill claims he has done the "trick" twice in a creek near his home, the second time in a steel box from which he escaped in 90 seconds.

US Planes Destroy 7 Enemy Aircraft But Rain Hampers Raids; Joint Carrier Force Hits Northern Centres

TOKYO, July 6—(Thursday)—(CP)—Tank-led Communist forces today struck hard at South Korean troops on the front south of Suwon, outflanking an advanced American unit and threatening a whole important defence sector. A statement from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said that Communist troops, pressing south from Suwon, had moved forward 11 miles, forcing the South Koreans onto high ground north of Osan, 23 miles south of fallen Seoul.

It added: "North Korean forces continue to press the South Koreans from the north while at the same time extending their columns around the east flank of the defending forces with the apparent objective of cutting off the avenue of retreat."

TAEJON, South Korea—(Thursday)—(AP)—A sizable part of South Korea's army appeared to be in full retreat from the area where U.S. forces made their first contact with North Korean Communist invaders.

Anxious air officers waited for a break in bad weather to loose their aircraft for attacks on the invaders. Tuesday Australian and American fighters struck at the advancing columns, while British and American planes from carriers hit targets in North Korea.

MacArthur's latest communique did not mention the plight of American troops trapped by North Korean tanks. The Americans, first to see ground action in Korea, knocked out two invading tanks before they found themselves encircled and cut off from support position.

VICTORIA, BC, July 5 (CP).—Three destroyers, backbone of Canada's Pacific Coast fleet, sail today for Pearl Harbor, the base where the Second World War began for the United States.

But the shooting war in Korea may be the final destination for the 600 sailors who man the Tribal class destroyers.

Without wartime secrecy, and without brass bands, the Sioux, Cayuga, and Athabaskan will slip out of the Esquimalt naval base at 3 p.m. for the Hawaiian Islands.

Labor Congress Disapproves Old Age Pension

OTTAWA, July 5 (CP)—The Council of the Canadian Congress of Labor today recorded disapproval of proposals for old age security recommended last week by the joint parliamentary committee on old age security.

The recommendations call for universal pensions of $40 a month at age 70 and a $40 pension at 65 for the needy.

The council, made up of representatives of major CCL union, adopted a resolution declaring the committee should have recommended complete abolition of the means test with $50 pensions for all at 65.

It also expressed regret that the committee had not proposed specific means of raising the money and condemned the idea of doing it through a sales tax, as has been suggested in some speculation here.

Discuss Naming UN Commander

WASHINGTON, July 5—(AP) —Hume Wrong, Canadian ambassador to the United States, Tuesday discussed with state department officials the question of naming Gen. MacArthur as United Nations commander for the Korean police action. If MacArthur is so named, forces under him will be given the right to fly the UN flag.

Diplomats said those two steps are included in a formula being considered here as a means of solving the Korean command problem Tuesday with John D. Hickerson, assistant secretary of state. Later it was indicated that some action in the form of a resolution might be taken by the Security Council in New York in a few days "after full discussions" with delegates of other countries.

Russian Press Scores States

MOSCOW, July 5 — (AP). — The Russian press was dominated again today by angry headlines denouncing the United States' actions in Korea and mobilizing public indignation.

The press carried such headlines as these: Justice shall be meted out to the aggressors. Stop the aggressors. Expel the suffocators of the Korean people. Cut off the repulse intrigues of the warmongers.

Swank Country Club Raided By Police

CHICAGO, July 5 — (AP) — The swank Tam o'Shanter Country Club was raided Tuesday night by police who seized 27 slot machines and arrested the club owner and president, George S. May.

May, promoter of the annual Tam o'Shanter golf tournament, richest in the world, was charged with being a keeper of gaming devices. He posted $500 bond for appearance in court July 10.

The raiders also hit six other spots Tuesday.

Police swarmed into Tam o'Shanter while 2,500 club members and guests were watching a fireworks display.

Suicide or Accidental Death?

274 Whales Die on Beach as Scots Weep

LONDON, July 5 (AP) — Do whales commit suicide? or was the weird agonized death of 274 of them recently on Scottish beaches just plain accidental death

Amazed fishermen at Dunbar, on the North Sea, and in the Orkney Islands, 200 miles farther north, had ringside seats when the sleek,, three-to-20-footers — all pilot whales—charged full steam ahead at the beach and piled up like gigantic rocks in shallow water.

The big, black-skinned mammals gasped out their lives, thrashing wildly with their tails and trumpeting eerie cries. Children wept at their death throes.

Eyewitnesses of this latest slaughter—it happens somewhere almost every year—said some of the whales seemed deliberately to commit suicide.

Return To Die

A dozen or more sixfoot baby whales returned to die even after softhearted fishermen dragged them out into deeper water.

The babies come churning back "like torpedoes," one would-be rescuer reported, their shrill cries answering the deeper roar of the adults.

But marine experts discount the theory the adult whales went willingly to death.

"Pilot whales travel in large schools and are a gregarious lot," said London's Natural History Museum. Most likely, it surmised, the big, 12-ton bull whales, leading the pack, accidently ran aground and the others plowed ashore blindly following the leaders.

The whales didn't "drown" in free air as fish do, gasping to take oxygen-bearing water into their gills, whales are not fish. They breathe the same air as humans, through similar lungs. The whales were killed by their own massive frames.

Killed By Weight

Their great weight, normally supported by water, was too much for their bone structure and their breathing apparatus was crushed.

When police mercifully shot some of the whales which were dying hard and noisly, women turned away "because the poor things seem so human."

But canny Scots of Dunbar lost no time in carting away truck loads of carcasses to chemical firms to extract fats and oils. Others were towed out to sea before they rotted and endangered health.

In the Orkneys, Kirkwall County council snapped up an offer from a Norwegian whaling firm to relieve them of 100 whales piled high, dry and smelly on a favorite beach.

Says Canada's Northland Extremely Rich In Great Natural Assets

Winters Says Mining Industry Responsible For Opening Up North, Reviews Ottawa Plans For Assistance

EDMONTON, July 5—(CP)—Resources Minister Winters said today that Canada's northern territory is "potentially one of the richest sections of the continent in terms of natural assets." In a speech prepared for delivery to the Alberta and Northwest Chamber of Mines, Mr. Winters said that from the earliest times fur production has been a mainstay of the northern economy. But the mining industry, more than any other, was responsible for the opening up and permanent settlement of Canada's 1,500,000 square miles of northland.

"There is no doubt that the basic long-term development of the north will depend on the continued discovery and use of mineral wealth," he said. "Drilling programs continue to multiply and the spirit of the men active in northern mining enterprises is definitely optimistic."

Besides the search for minerals efforts now were being made to locate petroleum and natural gas near Fort Province and Big Island in the Northwest Territories

Outlook Changed

"Should these efforts meet with success, the whole mining outlook in Canada's sub-Arctic would be rapidly transformed," said Mr. Winters.

He reviewed the assistance the Federal government has given the north and said that this year $2,400,000 is to be spent on road improvements in the Yukon.

Previously announced plans for a power project at Mayo call for the construction of a $3,000,000 development to produce between 6,000 and 8,000 horsepower by 1952.

To assist the fur trade, the department is attempting to eliminate wasteful trapping practices. Trappers are being taught that wild life is a crop to be harvested wisely.

In March, 1935, the Federal government obtained delivery of 3,000 reindeer from Alaska. That herd has grown to about 7,000 head and has been divided into three herds in various parts of the Mackenzie delta.

Sea Route Gets High Protection

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Protection of the all-important sea route linking Southern Korea with Japan is getting high priority in the Far East war operations.

Ships of the United States and Royal Navies and land-based patrol planes of the American Navy are scouting along the Korean coasts and the sea lane across to the southern port of Pusan to keep them clear of raider vessels or aircraft.

The expected arrival of a U.S. carrier in the area will augment this protective cover for the supply ships and troop transports upon which the heavier part of the military build-up in Korea hinges.

Report Prices Settle Into Narrow Range

TORONTO, July 5 — (CP).—Prices settled into a narrow price range as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today following two days of steady decline. Volume for the first three hours was 1,354,000 shares.

Industrials opened higher, but lost part of the early advantage as mild selling appeared. Papers, utilities, steels, refining oils and constructions tended lower. A few key stocks like International Paper, CPR, Dominion Steel B, and Distillers Seagram edged upwards.

Senior and junior gold producers were strong in early trading only to sag as the session progressed. Recent heavy selling has pushed the list to the lowest average price levels in more than a year.

Base metals turned downwards. Anacon Lead, a sharp loser yesterday, slumped suddenly at the half-way mark after strengthening in early trading. Losses were held to small amounts.

Western oils found the best support. Moderate buying in stocks like Calgary and Edmonton, Foothills, Federated Petroleum and Pacific Petroleum buoyed the list.

Kennedy Says Crops Excellent

TORONTO, July 5 — Recent rains, unpopular with early vacationers, have made full crops out of what might have been half crops, Agriculture Minister Kennedy said Tuesday.

The minister, who recently returned from an inspection tour through Eastern Ontario, summed up the general crop situation: "There has never been a year like it."

The province at present is enjoying a bumper crop of strawberries. The rains have extended the season and the yield has been about 40 per cent higher than last year. Some Ontario strawberries are being trucked to Buffalo, Detroit and other nearby United States points.

Potatoes have shown excellent growth, the minister reported, and large crops are expected.

Report Communist

tank weapons to stiffen the front for the inevitable clash, now hourly awaited.

MacArthur's communique confirmed a gathering threat of Communist forces east of Suwon, apparently designed to lop off this whole sector of the front. That would open the way for a drive on Taejon, military centre 73 miles south of Suwon.

The Northerners were pouring more troops and arms across the Han just south of Seoul despite repeated air strikes on the rail lines stretching north of the city.

A constant stream of U.S. reinforcements was flowing into South Korea from Japan by air and sea, the communique reported.

The setback on the Suwon front came after the Communist tanks apparently had been turned back by the fire of U.S. artillery.

Chance of Escape

A spokesman at advanced American headquarters said there was a chance the Americans could still withdraw safely from the Communist pocket. The Americans, setting up a position south of fallen Suwon, had met a North Korean spearhead of eight tanks with artillery fire which knocked out two of the invaders.

Front dispatches said the surviving Communist tanks wheeled suddenly and rammed themselves between the infantry position and its supporting artillery and supplies.

A source at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters here estimated that three or four North Korean divisions were being poured into the outflanking operation. They were under fire from American and Australian fighter planes.

Strike In North

Aircraft from the British Carrier Triumph and the American Carrier Valley Forge struck farther north. In attacks on the North Korean capital of Pyongyang they destroyed two Russian-built Yak fighters in the air, strafed eight aircraft on the ground and heavily damaged air installations. All the attackers returned safely to their carriers.

Prior to the announcement of carrier operations, MacArthur's headquarters reported American planes had destroyed seven and damaged four North Korean aircraft.

American forces went into action against a North Korean force presumed to be south of captured Suwon. The Korean force spearhead was estimated at about 40,000 men.

The announcement of the ground action came from a spokesman at advanced American base who said his information came from Korean sources.

Warships accounted for six Red trawlers and five motor torpedo boats. Two other Communist vessels were damaged.

O. H. P. King, AP correspondent at an advanced American base, said the two tanks destroyed by American artillery were among eight engaged. He added in a dispatch that the withdrawal of South Korean forces from the Suwon area had been stopped.

If the Americans succeed in breaking up the Communist spearhead, King said this may be the turning point of the Korean War which began 11 days ago.

Gen. MacArthur confirmed the fall of Suwon to the Communists during the day.

Tanks that smashed into Suwon rolled on southward as the Reds apparently sought to hit new defence lines before the Americans could bolster the South Korean forces.

More Reinforcements

A steady movement of American troops and supplies continued from Japan to South Korea.

But it was a grey, rainy day. Aerial operations were sharply reduced. This probably meant that fighter planes were unable to support front-line troops.

MacArthur was building up a vast array of power for the Korean War. Dispatches from the United States said more B-29s were sent from March Field, Cal., and Spokane, Wash.

Inchon, the port of Seoul, apparently fell, after sharp fighting, to the northern jaw of a vast Communist pincer movement designed to encircle the South Korean forces between Seoul and Suwon.

Attlee Lauds

absence, he said the custom had grown that if a permanent member at a meeting had abstained from voting, the resolution of the Security Council should be regarded as legally effective.

No Blanketing Veto

"The charter does not permit a permanent member by deliberate absence to impose a blanketing veto on all Security Council proceedings.

Amid cheers he said "I think the world is indebted to the government of the United States for its prompt action."

With equal speed the British government had supported this action, he asserted, amid further applause.

Was the U.S. justified in acting as she had under the charter?

Attlee asserted firmly: "I believe she was."

The ordinary principles of international law recognized that any state which was attacked had the right to defend itself, and any other state had a right to assist another which was the subject of aggression.

"The broad principle is that all states may be endangered if the aggressor is allowed to get away with the fruits of aggression in any part of the world. . .

"Surely with the history of the last 20 years fresh in our minds, no one can doubt that it is vitally important that aggressors should be halted at the outset."

Supports Attlee

Opposition Leader Winston Churchill said he associated himself with Attlee's broad conclusion that the action taken by the U.S. and supported by the British Government gave, on the whole, the best chance for maintaining the peace of the world.

"I do not feel the Soviet and Communist propaganda, with its perverted facts and inverted terminology, has made the slightest impression on the well-tried common sense of the British people," he said.

"No one outside the small Communist circles in this island, or their fellow travellers, believes it is South Korea which is the aggressor, and that North Korea is the victim of a well and deliberately planned, organized attack."

Conservatives endorsed the government's view that President Truman's action was right, and that the British Government, accompanied as it had been by other members of the Commonwealth, also was right in acting as it had done.

Churchill said a Communist victory in Korea would result in a third world war.

"Only one thing is essential now," Churchill said, "namely that the step which the Communists have taken in Korea should not end in their triumph. If that were to happen, a third world war in conditions more deadly than now exists would be forced upon us before long.

Fire Demolishes Cordova Home, Children Saved

HAVELOCK, July 5 (ENS).—Fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Watson about three miles north of Cordova, about 12:30 a.m. on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson, their four-year-old son Theodore and their niece Edith VanAllen, 14, of Blairton, were sleeping upstairs while the owner of the house, Herbert Houghton, was sleeping downstairs.

Young to Safety

Mrs. Watson was the first to be awakened by the fire. She immediately aroused the others and carried her young son out to safety. No lives were lost, but the home and its contents were lost. The cause of the fire is unknown, as Mrs. Watson states there was no fire put in the cook stove in the summer kitchen after 4:30 p.m. on Monday.

The main part of the house was covered with steel, and the terrific heat caused part of this to be thrown 15 to 20 feet away. Their truck was parked near the house, and before they could move it the heat had cracked the windshield.

2 Gunmen Get $3,000 Bank Loot

TORONTO, July 5 (CP)—Two gunmen Tuesday herded five bank employees and a customer into the basement of the Dominion Bank and escaped with about $3,000.

The pair entered the bank shortly after 2:30 p.m. They waved guns at the staff and the lone customer, ordered them down the basement stairs and locked them in a vault.

Taxi drivers obtained the licence number of their car and described it as a 1950-model lime-colored convertible. Later, police identified it as one stolen Monday night from a Yonge Street parking lot.

Alfred Brown, manager of the Dufferin Street-Glencairn Ave. branch, described the men as in their mid-30s, dark complexioned and heavy-set. Neither wore masks.

Autograph Hunters After Cobourg Players

COBOURG, July 5 (ENS) — Members of the Cobourg "Orphans" were much impressed on their weekend visit to Montreal where they played the Quebec senior softball champions. The Orphans split a double bill with the Quebec team. The return tilt will be played in Cobourg this month. Apart from the actual game, the Orphans were pleased with the publicity build-up which the sporting sections of the Montreal papers gave to the game. Even the radio stations publicized the visit of the Orphans and the fans gave them a very friendly reception. What bowled the Orphans over were autograph seekers who buttonholed the team members for their autographs. The Orphans feel that Montreal hospitality is tops.

22 New Victims Of Diseases Reported

COBOURG, July 5 (ENS) — Twenty-two new cases of communicable disease were reported for the week ending July 3 by the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit. Eight new cases of chickenpox were recorded, all in Port Hope. Six cases of German measles were listed, spread throughout the rural section of Durham County. Five new cases of t.b. were reported, two in Hamilton township, two in Hope township and one in Clarke township. Two cases of whooping cough and one om mumps completed the list.

Golf Range Opened

COBOURG, July 5 (ENS)—A golf driving range was opened this past weekend on the western outskirts of the town, just off No. 2 highway and the spot is proving very popular. Local golf fans have their own golf course but the new driving range is still drawing them in. As the clubs and balls are supplied by the proprietor, many tourists have been stopping on their way through to whack the ball down the range.

William Birks Philanthropist Dies In Montreal

MONTREAL, July 5.—(CP). — William Massey Birks, Montreal merchant and philanthropist, who was decorated by seven nations, died here Tuesday night. He was 81.

He died at his home where he had been in failing health.

At the time of his death he was chairman of the board of directors of Henry Birks and Sons, Limited, the firm for whose expansion he was largely responsible.

From 1885 when he entered the store founded in Montreal by his father, Henry Birks, he saw the business expand until an 18th Canadian branch now is being organized.

In recent years he was known abroad for his work as chairman of the Canadian united allied relief organization. Only two years ago he undertook a 15,000-mile flying trip to Europe at the Canadian Government's request to survey what the organization had accomplished in war-torn countries.

Honored For Work

In recognition of his work, he was appointed a Commander of the Order of the British Empire. Denmark appointed him commander of the Order of Dannebrog. King Paul of Greece made him a commander of the Order of the Phoenix. He was awarded Norway's Victory Cross of Liberation, Poland Polonia Restitute, Yugoslavia's Grand Cross of Saint Sava and the Netherlands made him a commander of Orange-Nassau.

He was interested in world affairs and was vice-chairman of the Canadian delegation to the institute of Pacific relations conference at Kyoto, Japan, in 1929. He again represented Canada at Shanghai in 1931 and at the Banff conference in 1933. Altogether he made 120 trips across the Atlantic.

Tannery Hair Screened Sewage Plant Works

COBOURG, July 5 (ENS) — The new sewage disposal plant, which has been in operation since spring, is reported functioning satisfactorily. The problem of hair from hides processed at the tannery, getting into the screen and fouling it up, has been eliminated by screening the hairs at the tannery and a screen at the canning factory has prevented any abnormal refuse coming from that source.

The gas formed in the digester by fermentation of the sludge, is now being piped into the heating system in the pumping station and, while this is being burned in a jet on the roof, it can, when necessary be used to operate the heating system in the pump house.

Europeans Can't Decide Whether to Roast or Freeze

LONDON, July 5 (Reuters) — Europeans wondered Tuesday whether to turn up overcoat collars or peel down to shirtsleeves.

Across the continent the weatherman pulled every trick in his bag—from chill 50's to record smashing 120's.

Freak summer weather included a so-called "thunder-ball" in Northern France.

Great heat and unexpected cold in scattered centres followed winds and thunderstorms which Monday caused several deaths and widespread damage.

Heat hung like a pall over many cities and was blamed for forest fires, and an ammunition dump explosion in Rome.

Elsewhere, temperatures hovered in the 50's and residents wondered if summer would ever come.

Crops Hit

Crops were endangered—either by droughts or by storms.

For the seventh consecutive day thermometers in Budapest recorded 120 degrees—a 75-year record which turned beer taps dry when breweries would not cope with the demand.

Continuing heat which sent the mercury soaring to 98 at noon in Rome was believed the cause of an ammunition dump explosion early Tuesday which killed one man and seriously injured several others.

People living in a suburb of Lille in Northern France, claimed a big "thunder ball" whizzing like a shell, fell in the street and exploded, damaging houses. No one was hurt.

For a week Switzerland has sweltered in one of the hottest spells of this century, punctuated by violent storms.

Tuesday the thermometer showed 95 and was still climbing. The near-tropical warmth threatened a famine of water, beer and lemonade.

Heavy Rains

In Holland, heavy tropical rains, thunderstorms and chilly evenings cast a pall over the country.

Belgium awaited a forecast recurence of storms which Monday night broke "like a tornado."

In Sweden showering cool weather which broke the heat wave a week ago continued with temperatures of only 57.

In Oslo, after Norway's wettest June in 80 years, residents were still waiting for summer to start.

No Parking At Corners

In conformity with recommendations of a visiting Toronto traffic expert and the police department, parking meters have been removed from down-town corners, and No Parking signs put up. Thus street entrances have theoretically a thirty-foot curb-side free access. Parked cars will no longer block the view of approaching motorists, restrict the flow of traffic, or prevent two-lane movement. It is a very sensible measure, and if fully enforced, will ease and speed down-town traffic conditions.

• • •

We have already noticed cars sneaking into the free space. If their drivers have not seen the overhead sign at least they must have marked the absence of a parking meter. They must know that they are parking illegally, though it would be helpful, particularly to strangers, if the curbs by the No Parking places were painted distinctively—for instance, with a band of yellow. The police should be required to pounce heavily on cars parked in these corner spaces. Merely to ticket the car and extract a dollar penalty is not enough. The penalty should be stiffer and the car removed forthwith. The whole purpose of freeing the corner space is defeated by one car parked even for thirty seconds at a busy intersection. Lazy truck drivers, coy women and men who are "just going to be away a second", should be sharply and immediately taught that the corner spaces are not invitations for meterless parking or to pull in when no other spots are available.

Stunto

A group of scientists at the University of North Carolina have evolved a substance which, when sprayed on a lawn, retards its growth for four months or so. In the cautious way of scientists, they warn the public that the substance is not yet perfect, its effects are not fully known, and it is not ready for public use. Away with such craven talk! We see a great future for their invention, and an emancipation for suffering mankind equal to the noblest efforts of Wilberforce and Lincoln.

The substance is, at present, called maleic hydrazide. That will never make it popular on the market. We recommend that it be re-named Stunto—stunts your grass and eliminates tiresome lawn-mowing. Each spring a handy man will spray your lawn with Stunto, and your troubles will be over for the summer.

Of course, if the puppy licks up any of it, he may remain a puppy for the rest of his life. If the baby should gobble any of the sprayed grass he may spend the next fifty years of his life in Hollywood as a child star.

But you—you, Mr. Householder—will loll at your ease on your verandah, sucking a summer drink through a straw, and enjoying the greatest peace known to gardening mankind since Adam and Eve made that unfortunate mistake of judgement in Eden.

Peace Treaty For Japan

If the Korean crisis had not blown up, it is probable that within the past fortnight the way would have been cleared for the arrangement of a peace treaty with Japan. Invitations would have been sent to all countries which fought against Japan to attend a conference to arrange a peace. It is unlikely that Russia would have attended; Russia insists that the Big Four only should arrange the Japanese peace, and would want the Communist Chinese to attend the conference — an arrangement to which the other nations could hardly consent. But as things have turned out, arrangements for the Japanese peace will be postponed indefinitely.

Two things will be desired from whatever peace treaty emerges: Japan must not be in a position to make war again, and Japan must be protected from possible Communist invasions. Japanese aggression seems remote now. General MacArthur says that they will not be in a position to make war for 77 years—a curious figure, but at least indicative of a long period of quietude. It is unlikely, also, that Japan will be granted any of the non-Japanese territory which she formerly held. It is probable that Japan will not be expected to provide her own defence forces.

The Communist danger appears to be strong. There might be invasion, or there might be a rising of Communists within the country. Both Russia and Communist China would be able to put Japan to good use in the achievement of their ambitions, for Japan is a highly industrialized country with great numbers of skilled workers, and Asia as a whole is backward in these matters. It is impossible to judge the power or the numbers of the Communists in Japan so long as the Americans are there, and the Americans apparently have no intention of relaxing their grip to the point where a Communist government might come to power. The end of the occupation will not, in all likelihood, mean the withdrawal of American troops. They will remain to work with the Japanese, but also to keep a watchful eye on Japanese affairs for some time.

Elsewhere on this page we print a map which further clarifies the Japanese situation.

Idle Community Centres

Since the war the Provincial Government has encouraged municipalities to provide themselves with recreational centres, and had granted sums varying from two to ten thousand dollars to places like Warsaw, Keene, Lakefield, Marmora, Hastings and Peterborough. These places now have the centres. They are principally devoted to skating and hockey. It is a good use for them, but a limited one. The season for hockey is only one of four. Should these buildings be idle the greater part of the year? The Government monies were not given to provide merely hockey arenas. Yet committees and councils in charge seem to fold their hands after the last game of the season and say "Well, that's that for this year."

Hockey rinks are almost as inconvertible as opera houses. But an energetic committee, knowing the community's needs and seasonal activities, could promote better summer use of these buildings. They should be community centres all through the year.

Don't Overdo It

We received this morning a publicity handout from a women's magazine which draws attention to an article in its July issue discussing "how to bring up your boy to be masculine and your girl to be feminine". At first we paid little attention to this; after all, most boys grow up to be reasonably masculine, and most girls, in spite of the unflattering and frequently dirty clothes which it is fashionable for them to wear nowadays, usually grow up with the vitally necessary feminine attributes, if nothing more. Then we began to think about the matter more intently, and decided that such an article might easily prove to be mischievous.

At what age should a small boy become "masculine"? We have seen little boys in their pre-school years whose hair had been cropped to the bone, whose infant limbs had been clad in long trousers, and who had forcibly been made to play games that they did not like, in order to satisfy their parents' urge for "a real boy". Similarly we have seen little girls who were hardy fighters, who hated dolls and who excelled in vigorous games, but were the despair of parents who feared that they were unfeminine. And yet, at adolescence, the quiet boys became, unmistakeably, men, and the tomboys turned into nice girls.

There is great danger in forcing a child into a mould which does not suit it. And it is silly to say that a boy is not masculine simply because he does not behave like a demon. If children are taught decent manners and have good examples at home they will probably turn out to be the right sex when the time comes.

The Examiner's advice to parents: if your children are strong and healthy, be grateful, and don't try to make them into paragons. Like flowers, children grow best if they are not fussed over too much.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The American Society of Contortionists has ended its convention at Newark, N.J. We hope they got everything straightened out.

In an Ohio town the fire chief has been discharged for stealing the love of the mayor's wife. Now that's what we call a real civic crisis!

A wonderful new "brain machine" is being developed which will translate foreign languages literally. What newspapers want, however, is a machine that would enable public speakers who complain that they are misreported to say what they think they are saying instead of what they really do say.

Struggle For Asia

By A DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENT

THE war in Korea is the latest move in the Russian struggle to control Asia. This struggle, in varying forms, goes back to the last century; and for 50 years Korea has been helpless in the changing grip of its more powerful neighbours.

Towards the end of the nineteenth century, when Korea was in semi-dependence on the Chinese Empire, Russia became her neighbour through concessions in Manchuria. But though Russian influence reached Korea, the process of carving up the Chinese Empire was halted by the American declaration of the "Open Door" policy towards China; in this they were strongly supported by Great Britain. Already the outlines of today's struggle were becoming apparent.

Then in 1905, after Japan had inflicted a humiliating defeat on Tzarist Russia, Korea came under Japanese control, and was formally annexed in 1910. Russia had to wait forty years to rectify this set-back. By the Yalta and Potsdam Agreements of 1945, all the Asian territories lost in 1905 were restored to Russia. Today, the world is witnessing the next stage of this story.

RUSSIA'S POLICY

SOVIET policy in Asia has added to Tzarist policy Lenin's dogma that "London and New York will fall on the Yangtse"—meaning that capitalists societies will collapse of their own inertia if cut off from all "colonial" territories.

The other mainspring of Russian policy is the intention to ensure that no Power not under Soviet control has invasion bases within reach of Russian soil. As Japan is the obvious difficulty to attaining this in the East, Soviet policy has been to "mask" Japan with a line of Russian-held bases. These already include the airfields in maritime Siberia, the Kurile Islands, and Sakhalin. To complete the line, and consolidate her hold on the Asian mainland, Korea is essential.

Since 1945, this general Soviet policy has been carried out in Asia almost without a hitch. In return for a promise to participate in the war against Japan, Russia was promised the island bases to the north of Japan, and a foothold in Manchuria. By participating in the last five days of the war, Russian troops managed to occupy the whole of Manchuria.

After the official cessation of hostilities, the Russians used two means to advance their own influence and expel hostile forces: civil war and land reform. Civil war was at its most successful in China, though the consequences of so speedy and independent a victory by the Chinese Communists may yet lead to difficulties for the Kremlin. On the perimeter of Asia—in Burma, Indo-China, and Malaya—confused guerrilla fighting had the effect of keeping the West busy, yet impotent.

Land reform was used with great effect wherever Communists came fully to power (all China and North Korea). In giving the peasants land, they gave them a direct interest in the permanence of the new regime. It was easy to identify European influence with the old regime. Thus the Russians have tried to keep Asian xenophobia permanently directed towards the West and away from themselves.

AMERICAN POLICY

THE United States has had no single coordinated policy with which to meet this planned Communist approach. Since the war her policy has been divided by the difference between her diplomatic and military views of the situation.

The State Department has reflected the strong anti-imperialist tradition in American life. The open-door policy came to be interpreted as meaning that no Western Power should have territorial control in Asia. Mr. Roosevelt, for instance, made a number of attempts during the last war to persuade the British to hand over Hong Kong to China. This attitude of mind influenced America's own policies. It was maintained that Asians must work out their own political fate, receiving only economic aid from the West: even to ensure that this aid was properly used was considered imperialist interference.

At the same time the military authorities of the United States were resolutely in favour of occupying those bases off the coast of Asia which they estimated to be necessary for the defence of the American continent. The experience of the last war was too vivid and recent for them to be overruled: America firmly established her bases in Japan, Okinawa and the Caroline and Marshall Isles.

This mixed policy proved open to propaganda attack by Russia, who played on the American allergy to imperialism with effect. By a great display of withdrawing all Russian troops from China (leaving Communist troops in their place), the Soviet shamed America into withdrawing all their troops and leaving the disorganized Kuomintang forces to preserve order. Similar tactics were pursued in Korea.

The split between the diplomatic and defence views came into the open after the Nationalist Government had been driven off the mainland of China. Mr. Acheson's policy was to avoid involvement in the Chinese civil war, dissociate America from the corrupt and beaten Kuomintang, and leave Mao Tse-tung's Government the opportunity to avoid sole dependence on Russia. The Defence Department would have liked to use Formosa as a base for the defence of America and the Philippines.

On January 5, 1950, Mr. Truman decided in favour of Acheson, but the duality of American policy and the intransigence of some Republicans continued to be reflected in the continued recognition of the Kuomintang Government, which at least denied Formosa to the Communists.

Whereas the struggle in China after World War II was carried on between Chinese forces in Korea the Russians and Americans faced each other across the 38th Parallel. This cartographer's term was made into the frontier between two civilizations when it was decided that American troops should receive the surrender of all Japanese to the south, Russian troops all those to the north, of this invisible dividing line.

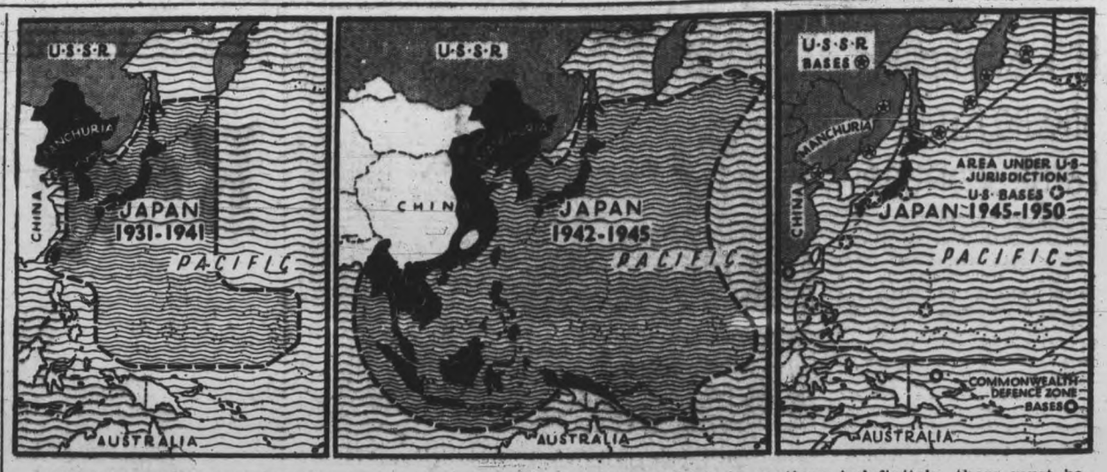
AGREEMENT to reunite Korea under a single government failed because the Russians refused to recognize any but Communist candidates. So Korea became—like Germany in Europe—the one place in Asia where America and Russia were in direct competition as purveyors of ideology. The Americans lost out almost completely. Their inhibitions against interference were strengthened by the consideration that Korea was a liberated, not, like Japan, a conquered, country. As a result the South Koreans, wholly inexperienced in self-government, set up an administration which was incompetent and unpopular.

Meanwhile, in North Korea, the Russians had won the peasants by long overdue land reform. Then, having communized the army and the police, Russia formally ended her occupation and called on America to do likewise. The State Department, recognizing the dangers, at first refused. But in 1949, an appreciation by the Defence Department persuaded the President that, in case of a general war, Korea was indefensible. America therefore withdrew her forces a year ago.

(Special to The Examiner from the London Observer.)



THE GREATEST PROBLEM confronting Peace Treaty makers for Japan is the economic future of her 84,000,000 population, which has increased by 10,000,000 in the past ten years (writes Bip Pares). Since the war United States material and financial aid has alone prevented a return to the economic subsistence level of 100 years ago. Unless American aid is to continue indefinitely, there must be provision for Japanese access to world markets without dislocating existing international agreements. The maps show: (1) The Japanese Empire after the conquest of Manchuria in 1931; (2) The extent of Japanese conquests during the war; (3) Her present position, isolated from resources and markets upon which she built expansion.

Turn Of The Tide

FOR five full years everything has gone Russia's way in North Asia. Had she only shown patience, South Korea also would almost certainly have fallen to her like a ripe plum. Elections held only four weeks ago showed that Syngman Rhee's Government was weakening, and that the stranglehold of the North on the South was creating chaos.

Twenty million people live in South Korea and only ten million in the Russian zone. But the Northern territory has all the industry, the fuel and power, and the agricultural fertilizer. South Korea has been living on American charity, and their use of it has been so inefficient that Mr. Hoffman threatened to reduce it; once, last January, Congress actually refused to appropriate the sum requested for Korea until Mr. Acheson appealed in person.

Why, then, have the Communists taken the dangerous and inexpedient course of attempting to assassinate a moribund regime? No one can be sure what were the motives of Russia or of her satellite, but certain suppositions seem possible. The Northern Government may have judged that the Southern regime needed only a push to topple it over. The Northern armies are about 200,000 strong, and consist largely of Koreans from Siberia and Manchuria who have campaigned with the Red armies of Russia or of China. They are well equipped with Russian and Japanese arms. The Southern army is half the size, has no tanks, no big guns, and only a few trained soldiers. The weather chosen, too, is to the attackers' advantage. The rains have already begun, and in a few days reinforcements by sea and air will become less easy.

But the fundamental Communist calculation must have been that America would only protest in scandalized impotence, and at most make a military gesture.

It must have been thought that the American withdrawal from Korea and the well-leaked secret that the War Department had written the peninsula off, combined with the open statement that America would not defend Formosa, were declarations of America's disinterest.

In early June, the North Korean radio began a propaganda campaign, relayed by Moscow, demanding the unification of Korea on the Communists' terms. On June 21 this station announced: "All measures connected with the peaceful unification of our country shall be completely carried out by August 15 of this year." There was no American reaction; indeed, the broadcast was not even noticed in the United States. Four days later, the Communists marched.

They were not alone in their miscalculation of the American Administration's reaction. In Washington, on Monday night, it was the general opinion of the press, of diplomats, and of most American officials that President Truman would only offer what one cynic called "all aid short of help."

Though the State Department took the initiative in demanding military action, the Defence Department fully agreed to embark on the hazardous reversal of a previous policy and to attempt to hold a position they had declared untenable. And American public opinion backed this bold policy without hesitation.

The reasons for American action were political rather than military. The sound of a Communist slap in America's face would ring round Asia, and indeed round the world. It would cause despondency among the forces of democracy from Saigon to Berlin. It could not be permitted to go unavenged.

THE decision to protect Formosa at the same time was presumably made in response to the Defence Department's renewed pleas; now they were reinforced by the distinct risk of a general war breaking out. The taking of these decisions also had the effect of silencing the extreme and irresponsible sections of the Republican Party which had previously been denouncing Mr. Acheson as a "near-Communist."

But by far the most important factor in forming a resolute public opinion in the United States was the fact that the action of North Korea was a direct flouting of the authority of the United Nations. Because Russia had chosen to boycott the Security Council, the United Nations was free to act. Overnight it was transformed from an impotent debating society into the executive authority of non-Communist world opinion. The Security Council suddenly began to work as it was intended to work. The effect on the American public, as well as on the peoples of other free countries, was that of a clarification of issues. It has not produced in them any desire for a general war.

Though the free world has been united by this succession of events, the local military situation is less cheerful. It is, for instance, of immense importance throughout Asia and beyond Asia that the Government of India has taken a clear attitude in approving the American resolution in the Security Council; but her adherence cannot bring immediate help to the hard-pressed armies south of Seoul.

The first tactical question was this: could an ill-trained, ill-equipped army hold back a superior land force with only the aid of an immensely superior naval force, and a somewhat superior air force? It could not and American land troops have been committed.

The United States is not now likely to accept defeat. Nor will her active allies of the British Commonwealth. Nor could all her other colleagues in the United Nations wish it otherwise. But the cost of victory may be greater than we at present think.

THIS struggle will, in any case, only settle a part of the problem. We have yet to appreciate the efficacy of the other aspect of Communist policy in Asia, land reform. Its effect cannot be countered by military victories, only by social policies of our own. And we have yet to resolve the cause of the duality in American policy, which applies equally to our own. We have yet to discover a means of becoming partners of Asian nations for the purpose of our own and their defence in such a way that we do not incur the disadvantages of being considered imperialist. Here lies the most crucial political problem of the free world.

BIP PARES: Before Bip Pares arrived at her present eminence as cartographer and geographical and political expert she had done a number of things which most men, let alone women, could not equal, including camping 90 miles from Mount Everest and winning a 150-mile motor race. She started life with family precedents for a wide ranging career. Her father was Surgeon-Colonel of the Blues, the famous Household Cavalry regiment, and her uncle was Sir Bernard Pares (who died recently at the age of 80), the world's leading authority on Russia and founder of the London School of Slavonic Studies. Bip Pares was at school in Surrey and afterwards studied art at the Slade School in London. This began an artistic career which has never ceased even after her later specialisation in geographical matters. She has designed jackets for and illustrated about a thousand books, and is also a talented poster artist.

Art, however, was by no means her only interest. Bip Pares has always enjoyed the company of writers and explorers, and in 1938 she accompanied the Tilman Expedition to Mount Everest, from which she returned with a portfolio of superb drawings of hillmen. She has always been a keen student of geopolitics (she is a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society), and it was in this capacity that she became well-known to the general public when, for nearly five years during the war, she did a war map every day for the Daily Express. Later she worked with 21 Army Group in Germany.

In her maps for The Examiner she has moved from tactics to strategy, from battle fronts to world spheres of influence.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it came to pass, as he went to Jerusalem, that he passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee. And as he entered into a certain village, there met him ten men that were lepers, which stood afar off: and they lifted up their voices, and said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us. And when he saw them, he said unto them, Go shew yourselves unto the priests. And it came to pass, that, as they went, they were cleansed. (Luke 17: 11-14.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in his holy place? He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully. He shall receive the blessing from the Lord, and righteousness from the God of his salvation. (Ps. 24: 3-5.)

U.S. Stockpiling Should Avoid Large Shortages

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Large quantities of war goods have been accumulated in the United States in recent years, and for this reason it is not thought that any general outbreak of fighting would reveal such dangerous shortages as existed in December, 1941.

It is true that the Korean fighting caused a jump in the prices of rubber and tin, which come largely from southeast Asia. But the United States has a stockpile of these, though of unstated size, and a large synthetic rubber industry has been built up.

At best, however, the supplies of strategic materials, most of them now in heavy demand because of current industrial activity, would require close watching.

Copper and zinc have been scarce in recent months, though lead seems to be getting more plentiful. Many observers feel that any tendency towards bigger supplies will be reversed by the demand caused by the present critical situation.

Record Growth

More construction was initiated in June than in any other month in Canada's history, says MacLean Building Reports, Ltd. The total was $164,651,100, or $62,262,900 greater than June last year. For the half-year the total is $586,083,600 or $97,244,900 ahead of the same perior last year.

Total public bond financing in the first six months was $1,360,155,088, says Wood, Gundy and Co., Ltd. This is a whopping increase from last year's six-month figure of $384,462,411, due to the Dominion of Canada loan of $745,000,000 in May and an increase of $236,000,000 in provincial and provincial-guaranteed financing. Public bond financing in June totalled $118,356,610.

The monthly commercial letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce states that new plant and equipment valued at $55,000,000 were added to the Canadian electrical apparatus and supplies industry in the last four years. It is estimated that $13,000,000 more will be spent this year. The electrical industry now is the second largest manufacturing industry in Canada, employing 2½ as many workers as in 1939.

While Customers Dashed For Nearest Exit Pub-Crawling Bear Demanded Quick Service

WATERTON, Alta. —(CP)— Everything was quiet in a local hotel tavern until an unexpected customer appeared. The murmur of voices died away, a waiter dropped a tray of glasses and then everyone started piling through the nearest exit.

A big brown bear had ambled up the main street of this resort town and wheeled through the open door—loping through the lobby straight to the beverage room.

Bruin stopped a few feet from the bar and perched on top of a table, waiting to be served. Becoming impatient as the waiters stayed behind the bar, he stood up and clawed a chunk of plasted from the ceiling.

After about 10 minutes of shouting and general upheaval, the intruder was "bounced" at the point of a broom.

Hotel business soon resumed—with the main door shut tight.

Mayor Quits Job

HESPELER, July 5 — (CP).— Mayor Alex B. Jardine and two members of the Hespeler Town Council resigned Tuesday following a stormy meeting Monday night at which Council was asked to confirm an agreement over holidays with pay for Board of Works employees. When a motion was introduced to confirm the agreement, the Mayor and his two colleagues announced they would resign if it went through.

Accept Raise

TORONTO, July 5— (CP). — Members of the Plumbers and Steamfitters Union (AFL) in Toronto, Hamilton and London on Tuesday accepted a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase offered by the Ontario Branch, National Association of Master Plumbers and Heating Contractors. A union spokesman said other Ontario centres probably will accept similar wage increases.

Paratrooper Makes 123 Jumps In Day

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C., July 5 —(AP)—A hard-boiled, 32-year-old paratrooper from Dillon, Mont., has brought the world's record for the most consecutive parachute jumps in one day back to the United States.

Sgt. John W. Swetich, attached to the 82nd U.S. airboarne division at nearby Fort Bragg, wore out five pilots in making 123 jumps in a dawn-to-dark marathon Tuesday.

The previous record of 105 jumps was set by Juan Iriate of Buenos Aires, May 19, 1950.

Swetich planned to jump 150 times, but quit at 11:15 last night after 123.

Asked why he did it, he told a reporter: "I wanted to keep the title in the U.S. I did it one time and I wanted to do it again."

The "one time" Swetich referred to was when he set a U.S. record of 60 jumps at Sioux City, Iowa, in 1946.

Swetich made his first jump at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. He made his 107th jump shortly after noon.

One Mishap

His only mishap came on his 50th try when he suffered a slight knee injury. During the afternoon he rested.

High winds caused him to knock off at 123 jumps. After that he said: "I almost broke my neck on that jump. I've got the record and I think I better quit now."

It took, besides the five pilots, two Piper Cub airplanes, seven parachutes, and six parachute riggers, going full blast to keep Swetich going. Also one pack of crackers— that's all he ate from start to finish. He trained for six months to get in shape for the gruelling effort.

What will he do next?

"I'd like to try for a record delay," Swetich said.

That's going up as high as possible, bailing out, then waiting until the last possible moment to pull the rip cord. He thinks the present record for a free fall of that type is about 40,000 feet.

OFF TO THE BATTLE FRONT — Lt.-Col. Frank E. White, of Winnipeg, Acting Director of the Royal Canadian Armored Corps at headquarters in Ottawa, has been selected by the Canadian government to serve as a military observer with the United Nations Commission on Korea. Also selected was Cmdr. Harry Malkin, DFC, of Ottawa.

Friendship Gives New Life to 47-Yr.-Old Injured Man

TORONTO, July 5 (CP) — Friends are wonderful things to have.

For 47-year-old Steve McKinnon, friendship has brought a new lease on life.

A year ago, he hadn't much to hope for. An accidental fall from a freight train deprived him of both legs and his left arm. He was resigned to spending the rest of his days in a bed.

He had nowhere to turn, a veteran, he was ineligible for government aid. His family could not help, and he had no money.

Enter friendship.

Hal Carter, casualty welfare officer for the Department of Veterans' Affairs, heard of Steve's plight and decided to give some unofficial aid.

Gets Wheel Chair

First, he scrounged a wheel chair. The hospital where Steve was treated donated its services free. Carter procured other quarters for Steve at Our Lady of Mercy Hospital.

With just one hand, Steve needed a special wheel chair. Carter got him one through the Canadian Paraplegic Association. Others contributed money for the chair.

Life began anew. Steve got a job canvassing by telephone for a magazine subscription house. Still undergoing surgery, he hopes to expand it soon to take in dry cleaning, and other jobs. But best of all, he feels he's being useful again.

Boy Pinned 2 Hours Under Rock Slide

TORONTO, July 5 (CP)—Robert McFarland, 15, of suburban New Toronto, was pinned under rocks for nearly two hours Tuesday night. It took police and firemen with crowbars to get him loose.

The boy slipped and fell between rocks on the shore of Lake Ontario. His efforts to free himself caused a rockslide that pinned him tighter still. His cries brought rescuers, who worked for two hours to get him free. He was uninjured.

Brooklyn Dodgers Get Seven Of 25 Positions on All-Stars

By JACK HAND.

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP) — The stumbling Brooklyn Dodgers dominate the National League all-star squad named today by manager Burt Shotton. They got seven of the 25 jobs.

Shotton included his two aces —Don Newcombe and Preacher Roe—in the eight-man pitching staff to face the American Leaguers Tuesday at Chicago's Comiskey Park.

The Nationals, non-winners since 1944, also will have the crafty control pitching of Larry Jansen of New York Giants, perhaps the hottest pitcher in the league.

Back For Fifth Time

Ewell Blackwell of Cincinnati is back for the fifth time.

Bob Rush of Chicago is the eighth man. He and Roberts are the youngest on the staff.

Only real surprises in Burt's pitching selections are omission of Sain and his failure to name a single St. Louis hurler.

The starters, except pitchers, were picked by fan vote with 3,167,326 participating. All must play at least the first three innings. No pitcher is allowed to go more than three unless the game goes into extra innings.

Stan Musial of St. Louis will be on first base. Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn is the fans' second-base choice. Marty Marion of St. Louis is the starting shortstop and Philadelphia's Willie (Puddin' Head) Jones at third.

Shotton named the Dodgers' Gil Hodges for first base relief and Pee Wee Reese for shortstop. He also chose two extra second basemen—Red Schoendienst of St. Louis and Eddie Stanky of New York.

Behind the starting outfield of Enos Slaughter of St. Louis, Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh and Hank Sauer of Chicago, Shotton called on Duke Snider of Brooklyn, Johnny Wyrostek of Cincinnati, Dick Sisler of the Phils and Andy Pafko of the Cubs.

No. 1 Catcher

Roy Campanella of Brooklyn, the fans' choice and probably unanimous selection of all baseball men, is the No. 1 catcher. He'll be helped by Boston's Walker Cooper, named for the eighth time.

Next to the seven man Dodger contingent in numbers are the Cards and Phillies, each with four men. Chicago has three, Cincinnati and New York and Boston, two each, and Pittsburgh, one — Kiner.

The complete squad:

Pitchers—Larry Jansen, New York; Robin Roberts and Jim Konstanty, Philadelphia; Preacher Roe and Don Newcombe, Brooklyn; Bob Rush, Chicago; Warren Spahn, Boston, and Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati.

Infielders—Stan Musial, Red Schoendienst and Marty Marion, St. Louis; Jackie Robinson, Gil Hodges and Pee Wee Reese, Brooklyn; Eddie Stanky, New York and Willie Jones, Philadelphia.

Outfielders — Enos Slaughter, St. Louis; Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh; Hank Sauer and Andy Pafko, Chicago; Duke Snider, Brooklyn; Johnny Wyrostek, Cincinnati and Dick Sisler, Philadelphia.

Catchers — Roy Campanella, Brooklyn, and Walker Cooper, Boston.

Menzies Leads The Petes With .414 Mark

Al Menzies, hustling catcher for the Petes in the Viaduct Major Baseball League, is leading the local hitters by a hefty margin, batting a nifty .414 for the full 15 games the team has played to date. In 58 plate appearances he has belted out safeties two dozen times to compile that fine mark. The next closest is Howie Dalton — former COBL batting champion — who has hit .360 in a dozen games. Gunner Ed Whitehill has .333 in four games, and Manager Ed Murphy a perfect mark with two hits in two official times at bat. Following are the team marks:

Hastings Victors

HASTINGS, July 5 (ENS).—Hastings Legion defeated Norwood Combines 4-3 in a hard-fought game that went 10 innings. Morrow drove Fife in with a single to break up the game after Fire had opened the inning with a triple. West on the mound went all the way for Legion, and although in trouble several times bore down in the rough spots. Legion threatened to throw the game more than once with careless playing. Junior Stevenson in his first game up with the intermediates showed promise, making two fine running catches Richardson went the route for Norwood and in his first appearance on the Hastings diamond this year, showed he has lost none of his old control.

Bruce Scott, star catcher for Legion in the TVL was against his regular teammates in this tilt as he filled in at third for his home town team. A return game between these well matched teams is slated to be played shortly in Norwood.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Lacking weight this year, the St. Catharines Athletics go in more for speed and a quick-passing game, tearing back fast when the other side has possession. And they're right up near the top of the OLA senior "A" standing. It will be interesting tonight to see how they stack up against the Petes in Miller Bowl, as the locals are hard to beat at home and they have the weight this season. Nor do they hesitate to use it, as other clubs always bounced the lighter locals around up until this semester. They don't do too much pushing now. It should be a sizzling scrap before another big lacrosse crowd.

* * * * * *

Being a fine team player, you sometimes overlook him —as he is not a loud-mouthed player or a showoff—but Al Menzies is a solid citizen in the Petes' senior ball lineup. Leading hitter at the moment (and around tops in the Viaduct Loop) with a grand .414 average in the 15 games played. Besides being a steady catcher all around. The averages, in today, show Howie Dalton—another eagle eye at the plate—next to Al with .360 in 12 games played. None other than Gunner Ed Whitehill makes the charmed circle, too, though his .333 is for just four frays. And Manager Ed Murphy as a pinch-hitter has a perfect mark to date. Those above .285 are doing their stuff with the willow, but those below had better sharpen up their eyes.

Each player on the winning team receives a gold watch, with runners-up also getting prizes. There'll be 10 Ontario and eight Toronto teams in, with one loss rubbing out an entry. Closing date for entries is Aug. 1, and applications should be sent to the OASA secretary at 526 Maple Ave., Hamilton. Johnny Russelle is entering a Peterborough team, having made a fine showing in this CNE tournament last autumn.

Dit Clapper calls to remind us that the big benefit softball game—proceeds going to the PMBA—is this Saturday eve at 8.30 in the Bowl. Toronto Tip Tops, world's senior champs (having won the title last fall in the States), will play the local Mutuals, the latter team borrowing the Toronto star battery. That means that Charlie Justice, huge and brilliant Negro fastball flinger, will be serving 'em up for Mutuals against his own mates. He was the difference at the championship playoff series in Little Rock, Ark., last September. This is the softball tidbit of the summer here and should draw a record crowd.

They're Well Matched

A snappy men's softball struggle at the Bowl last e'en saw UEW win out in the last of the ninth 8-7 o'er East City. A fine fray with Doris and Gordon both throwing steady ball and these well-matched squads hustling all the way. It gave UE a better grip on second place ahead of the Ashburnham bunch, and they'll likely be dishing up a dandy semi-final series early next month. The nightcap of the twin bill wasn't so hot, as the top-place Mutuals shoved Orphans deeper into the cellar with a 17-4 push. Hunter pitched well and had good backing at bat and afield, whilst the losers didn't have the hurling or fielding. Jim Kinna of the lacrosse Petes—he also plays soccer—made his debut at first and looked okay. Got two for four at bat.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

A report that two former Villanova football players had signed with a Canadian team drew a rejoinder Tuesday night from Paul Brown, coach and general manager of Cleveland Browns of the National Football League.

John Sandusky, tackle, and Tom Clavin, back, were the players involved. The report from Ottawa was that they had signed with the Rough Riders of Canada's Big Four Football League.

"Both Sandusky and Clavin signed contracts with us and accepted bonuses we offered them," said Brown. If the players fail to report to the Browns, "we will take legal action against them."

Members of Canada's Davis Cup tennis team got the feel of grass underfoot in Montreal Tuesday, as they started limbering up for their encounter with Australia on grass courts July 14, 15 and 16.

Canada's foursome is made up of Brendan Macken, Lorne Main, Henri Rochon and George Robinson.

Macken showed a strong forehand and an accurate service in a singles encounter with Rochon. He displayed a tricky second service scoring a number of aces.

J. S. Woodward, Saskatchewan director of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, announced on Tuesday that players with handicaps of 10 and under from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be eligible for the Canadian amateur at Saskatoon July 17-22. He said the concession was granted by the association to encourage prairie entries. Handicap limit for those from other provinces and the United States remains at seven strokes.

More than 200 entries from Quebec, Ontario and the United States will vie for honors in the 23rd annual shield competition and invitation golf tournament at Murray Bay, Que., July 9 to 15.

Open to all amateurs, the shield competition will be 36-hole, medal play, and will be run in conjunction with the annual invitation tournament sponsored by the Province of Quebec Golf Association. The women's invitation tournament to be played July 13, will be 18-hole, medal play.

The big names in the United States power-boat racing will be heard from Saturday in the second running of the Maple Leaf international classic on the Detroit River off Riverside in suburban Windsor.

The biggest and newest name may be among them.

Bob Parker, race chairman of the Windsor Yacht Club, said that Stanley S. Sayres, who drove his Slo-Mo-Shun IV to a world record speed of 160.3235 MPH near Seattle on June 26, will arrive with the boat in Detroit on Thursday or Friday.

Parker said there is a chance that Sayres may enter the boat, which has been renamed Miss Seattle.

UEW Triumphs By 8 to 7 Over East City

UEW edged out East City 8-7 at the Bowl last night to take a firmer grip on second spot in the City Softball League. They came from behind in the last of the ninth on hits by Griffin and McCarthy, a timely pinch-hit by Byrnes and a safe blow to right by Legrow to tally the winner with two out. The Easterners had earlier come from behind in a swell scrap, which lasted just one hour, and saw neither twirler (Doris or Gordon) issue a walk. Both sides were guilty of errors, but they played hurry-up ball.

Griffin and Thomson — back after an injury layoff—led the winnerss at bat with two for four each. White hit a homer and Thomson a double. Cournyea topped East City with two in four, one a double. Curry, Wade and Cornwall each had two in five. Doris conked a triple, Cornwall a two-bagger, and Jaquith a homer. Pagett pulled off a fine pickup over second in the third frame for a putout.

See Phillies And Tigers Possible Pennant Winners

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The Phillies and Tigers to clash in the 1950 world series—that's what the signpost says.

If tradition is to be upheld, then the second-place Philadelphia club in the National League and the first place Detroit team in the American should win the flags.

For years baseball men have stood by the legend that the teams in first place on July 4 were almost certain to meet in the world series.

That is only a half-truth.

Figures for the last 15 years show that 13 of the American League pace-setters on that significant July 4 marker have gone on to win pennants. In the National League, only seven have fulfilled the legend.

Have Good Chance

On the eight trailing clubs to win in the National, five rose from the runner-up spot to overtake the leaders. So it appears that the second-place Phils stand just as good a chance as the front running St. Louis Cardinals of winning the pennant.

Here's the race today following Tuesday's bargain bills:

Detroit leads New York by four games in the American with Cleveland five games behind the Boston 6½. St. Louis tops Philadelphia by 1½ games in the National, Boston trails by 2½ and Brooklyn by four.

Of the seven doubleheaders played (rain washed out the Athletics-Red Sox twin bill in Boston), only the Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds won both games. The Cards whipped Chicago Cubs 4-1 and 4-3 to pick up a full game on the Phils. The Reds beat the Pirates twice, 8-4 and 5-4.

Split Doubleheader

In a pair of swatfests, the Phils trampled the Braves 14-5 in the opener but Boston came back to win the second 12-9. New York Giants shaded the Dodgers 5-4 in the first game but dropped the second 5-3.

Detroit lost a half-game off its lead when it divided a doubleheader with Chicago White Sox while the Yankees gained a victory and a tie against Washington. After bowing 4-1, the Tigers struggled to a 10-9 victory. The Yankees won the opener 16-9 then saw the second game halted by darkness after nine innings with the score deadlocked at 3-3.

St. Louis Browns whipped Cleveland 8-3 after the Indians won the opener 8-7.

Tuesday's fireworks included three grand slam homers. That tied a record for most grand slams in one day. Ken Wood of the Browns hit one as did Andy Semnick of the Phillies and Sid Gordon of the Braves. It was Gordon's fourth home run with the bases full this season, tying a record held by seven others.

Al Dark slugged a four-bagger in each game. That gave the Giant shortstop a home run in each of his last four games. Stan Musial rapped a pair of homers for the Cards, one in each game.

Mutuals Trim Orphans In Men's Loop

Mutuals trounced the winless Orphans 17-4 last evening at the Bowl to continue their winning ways in the men's softball loop before a slim crowd. They hammered out 14 hits off Hinton and Turner besides cashing in on 13 walks and seven Orphan errors to roll up the count in a listless affair. Hunter was never in trouble as he scattered nine hits and fanned nine, getting almost perfect backing. They got 10 runs in the last three frames.

Giardino topped the clouters with three for five, one a triple. Jim Kinna—of the lacrossers — banged out two in five, including a triple, and Foster had two in four tries. Hunter had a three-bagger, a double and single in six, as Dalton got two in five, and Pryde and Bigford doubles. Griffin and Stewart of the losers each clicked for two in four, Byers getting a triple, and Lewis and Greenlaw doubles. Neat catches were made by Lewis and Crowley.

Crescents Trip Brampton 18-16

OWEN SOUND, July 5 (CP) — Owen Sound's mighty Crescents pulled six points ahead of the Ontario Senior Lacrosse Association race Tuesday night when they defeated the second-place Brampton Excelsiors 18-16.

Excelsiors, paced by speedy Archie Browning, built up a 10-7 lead in the first half, but wilted before a strong third-quarter drive by Crescents. The teams split eight goals in the last quarter.

Harry Kazarian and Rusty Slater led the winners' offensive with four and three goals respectively. Browning netted five for the losers, with Al Garbutt getting three.

Today's Baseball Is Just The Same Fundamentally As The Ball Made 40 Years Ago

B TED SMITS

CHICOPEE, Mass., July 5 (AP) —Has anything happened to the 1950 baseball?

The answer in the factory here where all major league baseballs are manufactured is;

"Absolutely nothing has happened to the baseball. It is just the same fundamentally as it has been since 1910."

Look elsewhere, says A. G. Spalding Company, if you want to find the reason for the modern splurge of home runs and high-scoring games. Since 1878 this company has made all National League balls. Through acquisition of A. J. Reach, it makes all American League balls. Many minor leagues are served as well.

It is significant that with all the clamor raised about the recent epidemic of home runs, not one protest about the ball has been lodged by official baseball sources with the factory that makes it.

Sample driving tests made at the factory during the last 10 years show a variation from a low average distance of 351.2 feet into a headwind of 7.7 miles an hour in 1936 up to a maximum of 410 feet aided by a following wind of 5.8 miles an hour in 1935.

In 1949, for instance, tests on the mechanical batter averaged 379.4 feet to 400.9 feet, all into head winds. This year, on May 22, the tests showed 375.5 feet into a head wind of 5.3 miles and up to 403.8 feet June 26 with a following wind of 2.4 miles.

Until 1910 a centre of live rubber was used in baseballs. Then natural cork was introduced.

A cork centre cushioned in rubber—a minor change—was introduced in 1925 and in 1935 the National League went its independent way, also on a minor point.

The National League wanted a slightly heavier cover, with more prominent seams.

This last two years, when a committee headed by Clark Griffith of Washington Senators worked out a standardized league ball. Now both leagues use identical balls—only the markings differ.

Minor and majors alike have the same specifications for a baseball.

Red Wings Take 2 From Montreal

By The Associated Press.

Russ Derry's favorite game is run, rabbit, run. The lanky Rochester outfielder has sent "Jack" all the way 18 times this season to lead the International League in smacking home runs.

And when Russell, the deadpan outfielder, is hitting 'em, all's well with Rochester.

He blasted a couple Tuesday night against Montreal to help the Red Wings take two, 4-0 and 8-5. The twin triumphs boosted Rochester's lead to three games over Jersey City.

Tommy Poholsky fired a five-hitter in the opener, posting his 10th victory against two losses. Derry's 17th with one on in the sixth, iced the issue.

An eight-run fifth inning decided the nightcap against Carl Erskine. Derry capped that blast with a three-run homer. Bill Reeder won his seventh game.

Halts Chiefs

Bob Raney of Baltimore stopped Syracuse 2-1 on two hits after Syracuse had won, 11-6. He had a no-hitter until the seventh. Then Carden Gillenwater and Claude Corbitt reached him for consecutive singles.

Al Rubeling hit two homers and drove in five runs for Syracuse in the opener. The Chiefs had 14 hits in all off three Baltimore hurlers.

Toronto and Buffalo split, Toronto taking the opener 9-4; Buffalo the nightcap, 5-2.

Clem Hausmann stopped Toronto with three hits in the afterpiece. Steve Ridzik, who hit a homer, picked up his fifth victory in the opener.

Won't Permit Reds Trample West—Churchill

LONDON, July 5—(AP)—Come what may in Korea, the western world shall not be trampled down into serfdom and ruin," Winston Churchill said Tuesday night. He emphasized that he did not believe a third world war was inevitable.

In an Independence Day address at a dinner of the American Society in London, Britain's Conservative Party leader declared:

"It certainly seems to me that there would be a better hope of a general settlement with Soviet Russia following upon the defeat of aggression in Korea on a localized scale than would be possible after another Communist success.

"The new fact in relations with Russia is that we have been told that the Kremlin Oligarchy knows how to make the atomic bomb.

"Nothing would more surely prepare the way for a third world war than that we should drift on while large quantities of these devastating weapons are accumulated."

Churchill was confident that Communist Imperialism, surpassing anything dreamed of by the Czars, would be halted.

Up To You

"The situation is not appreciably worse than it was before the aggression in Korea began but I always held that it was bad enough already—it all depends at what point you start to think."

If what the Communists had begun in Korea should end in a triumph for then a third world war might be forced upon us, or even hurled at us, he said.

Churchill gave unqualified assurance that the political opposition which he leads in Britain will not hamper Prime Minister Attlee's government in its support of the United Nations and American military operations in the Orient. He said:

"In foreign affairs we have not gone so far as the bi-partisan approach which has been so successful in the United States. But be sure we shall allow no domestic quarrels, grievous though they may be, to weaken our attitude toward the world."

Authorities Deny Fuchs To Be Freed

LONDON, July 5 (Reuters)—Suggestions that Dr. Klaus Fuchs, atom scientist who has served four months of a 14-year sentence for espionage, will shortly be released from prison, were authoritatively denied today.

The Daily Mirror Tuesday reported that Fuchs, who gave atom secrets to Russia, may soon be doing scientific work for Britain again. It stated "a provisional period of two years had been fixed for a thorough vetting of the ex-spy. But he may be released earlier if it is felt that his allegiance to Communism has waned sufficiently."

1,700 Drivers Strike Stall Transportation

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 5 (AP)—A strike by 1,700 bus drivers and mechanics today halted public transportation for approximately 800,000 residents of the Buffalo-Niagara Falls area.

Officials of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees (AFL) were not available for comment. The strike is against the Niagara Frontier Transit Corporation.

The union seeks a 32-cent hourly increase in the present rate of $1.38 an hour. Holiday pay and other fringe issues also are in dispute.

Joan Blondell Off Men Forever Or So She Says

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 5 (AP)—Don't mention men to Joan Blondell. She has given them up forever. Or so she says.

The bouncy blonde is in town after shedding her third husband, Broadway producer Mike Todd, in Las Vegas. I made the mistake of asking her if she thought she'd get hitched again.

"I don't know why I'm even talking to you," she retorted. "When I see men, I feel like taking a scythe and swooping away at them."

Fortunately her gesture was strictly figurative. But there was no doubt that her late marriage had left her very much anti-men.

"I've tried marriage and it hasn't worked," she said. "The trouble now is that I've got to convince my children that marriage is a wonderful thing." She indicated that will be one of the greatest performances of her career.

"For four years, my husband didn't want me to work, or at least he said he didn't. Now I'll go anywhere for a job and do anything—pictures, legit, television, even strip if necessary."

As an assertion of her independence, Miss Blondell now is sheltering her family in a couple of trailers at the beach. Her family includes her children by Dick Powell—Norman, 15, and Ellen, 12—plus a boxer dog and two ducks. The actress is her to play a role in "For Heaven's Sake."

Fishermen Now Count Lights Instead Of Stars

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. —(CP)— Newfoundland fishermen on the Grand Banks don't bother stargazing any more. Instead they spend the night counting lights of other vessels on the overcrowded fishing grounds.

Skippers arriving in port say the Banks have been invaded by a large number of French, Portugese and Spanish fishing vessels. They range in size from tiny 58-ton Spanish trawlers to 1,000 ton "liners," as the Newfoundlanders call the big ones. The skipper of the Newfoundland vessel Blue Spray reported recently counting the lights of 38 ships one night.

Spain leads the parade of foreign vessels, and most of the Spanish vessels are new. They are small trawlers each carrying a crew of 15 or 16 men. They fish in pairs, towing a net between them which enables them to sweep a half mile at one time.

65 from Spain

Since the start of the fishing this year 65 Spanish vessels have called here for supplies and repairs. Most of them are salt fishing. At present 117 Portuguese vessels are on the Banks off Newfoundland, with another 46 from that country operating off Greenland.

From Fecamp, St. Malo and Bordeaux in France 48 vessels 15 of them after fresh fish, visited the Banks this season.

Some Newfoundland and Nova Scotia skippers have accused the foreign trawlers of destroying their gear. One Newfoundland skipper said recently, however, that most of the Europeans were "pretty decent, some don't care and others don't know the difference."

Outing By The Sea For Town Children

BRACKNELL, Berkshire, England —(CP)— Hardly anybody will be home in this market town come July 7.

Every school will close and nearly 1,200 children will enjoy a day by the sea.

The occasion is Bracknell's "Children's Outing" day. Special trains will take the children—and a good many grown-ups, too—from Bracknell to Bognor Regis, Sussex.

The holiday will cause one of the largest mass migrations of children in the country. Social clubs and other organizations have been busy for a year holding dances, tea parties and whist drives to raise the money.

Man behind the idea is Joe Smith, a bookmaker.

Sturdy Ox Tails

CAPETOWN (CP)—South Africans are wondering what to do about "thick, muscular and knobby" ox tails. The reason: millions of flies torment South African cattle making them switch their tails constantly, thus adding muscle and sinew to an appendage that should be lean and succulent.

Smart With Shears

ROMMEY MARSH, Kent, England—(CP) — Elsie Humphreys, 24, can show the men a thing or two when it comes to sheep-shearing. In an open contest, her time for shearing two sheep, winding and bundling the fleeces, was 38 minutes—the men took 45. She won two first prizes.

EYES ON THE PACIFIC — Strange Pacific island names that became familiar symbols of battle in World War II—Iwo, Okinawa, Leyte, Guam—appear on your newspapers again with the outbreak of a shooting war involving American fighters in South Korea. The Newsmap above covers the extensive Far Eastern frontier, emphasizing again the great distances that must be covered to operate naval and air forces against an enemy on the Asia mainland.

Plane Anchors Shorten Landing

DAYTON, O —(AP)— Engineers at Wright-Patterson air force base are experimenting with anchors for small aircraft and gliders.

The experiments involve a steel tube, 28 inches long, filled with rocket propellant.

The tube—1⅜ inches in diameter—is inserted in a holder near the tail assembly of the plane. Just before landing the pilot pushes a button in the cockpit. That discharges the rocket propellant in the tube, driving the anchor 18 inches into the ground at a 45-degree angle.

Attached to the anchor is a 200-foot stainless steel ribbon wound on a hydraulic brake. This absorbs the energy spent during braking and permits a smooth, easy stop.

Engineers say 700 feet is the normal landing distance for one type of small plane when landing at 75 miles per hour. With the explosive anchor in use, only 168 feet are required.

Airmen say this shortening of landing area will prove an advantage to liaison planes and glidders, which in combat often are required to land in much less space than under normal conditions.

Crackpot Youths Roll Boulders At Mountaineers

CAPETOWN, (CP).—"Crackpot" youths are held responsible for several incidents which might have ended in the deaths of innocent climbers on Table Mountain recently.

Almost every weekend huge boulders are sent crashing down the slope to scatter parties of mountaineers. One mountaineer said that he had twice barely escaped death from "these mountain madmen."

He had had to crouch against a cliff-face to avoid a big rock which had been rolled down towards him. Other smaller boulders were then rolled down, and he fired three shots at the spot where he reckoned the boulders had been set in motion. The rolling of boulders stopped immediately.

Face-climbers, roped together, have been numbed with fright by rolling boulders, and on two occasions tragedy has been averted by sheer luck.

One of the mountain ranger's staff was climbing Jacob's Ladder the only ascent up a narrow gully, when a big rock struck the top rung, missing them by inches. Had the ladder been upset, it would have meant certain death for the ranger.

The mountain staff say that European youths are responsible, and that rolling down boulders is their way of "having fun."

VISITING GOLFER: "I hope to be in Toronto the last two weeks in July. Being an ardent golfer I would like to find out at what courses in and about Toronto a non-member can play. Do I need any business or personal credentials?"

The following courses are all public and all in and about Toronto: Credit Valley, Glen Leven, Humber Valley, Lakeview, Pine Point, Rouge Hills, St Andrews, Summerlea, and Tam O'Shanter. The Ontario Golf Association tells us that to play at any of these courses you would not need credentials.

FALL FASHIONS: "All the forecasts claim that skirts will be much shorter this fall. How short is that? What is the best fall colour? What about hats? Will short fur coats be popular?"

Fashion experts claim skirts will be 14 to 15 inches from the floor—some even shorter. The trend is definitely up. Leading fall colour is grey with all its variations. After that comes brown of every shade from teal to beaver. Hats are small, off the face, and very lightly trimmed. Short fur jackets are increasingly popular for wear up to Christmas.

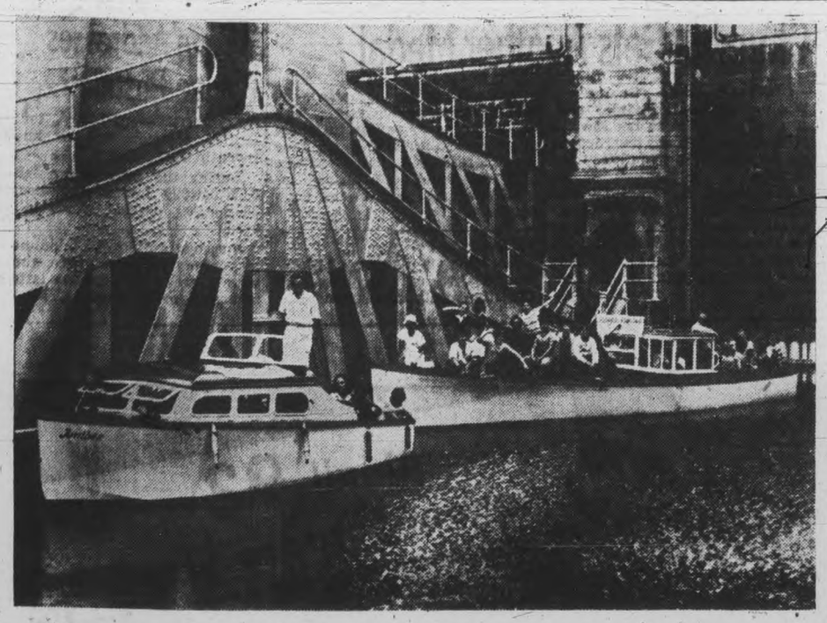
WEDNESDAY, JULY 5, 1950



A BIG LIFT FOR FORTY-FOUR TORONTO kiddies was experienced on Tuesday afternoon as they cruised the Trent canal and went down over the Lift Lock. They were members of Toronto Kiwanis-sponsored Trinity Boys and Girls Clubs, and were brought to Peterborough by the Optimists. The general opinion of looking over Armour Hill was, "Gee! Some drop."

Two Men Hurt Car Overturns Condition Serious

Two Peterborough men are in St. Joseph's Hospital after being thrown through the roof of their car when it went out of control and rolled over on Highway 7, late Tuesday night.

Preston Martin 31, 748 Monaghan Rd., is the more seriously hurt having sustained a possible fractured hip and head injuries. Hospital authorities say his condition is "serious" but would make no further comment until obtaining the X-ray results.

Earl Carveth, 29, driver of the car, also has an injured hip but he is less seriously hurt than his companion.

A third man, John Lowe, 27, R.R. 3 Keene, a passenger in the Carveth vehicle was thrown through the roof as well but he was allowed to go home after a medical check.

The trio were reportedly working most the night on a new house at King George St. and Monaghan Rd. They were driving Lowe home to Keene when the accident occurred, about four miles east of Peterborough on Highway 7.

Carveth somehow lost control of the car on this stretch of highway. It ran onto the shoulder of the highway, and rolled over a couple of times. All three were catapulted through the roof.

Martin was taken to hospital by ambulance and Provincial Constable Jack McKendry picked up the other two. Provincial Corporal Joseph Hanson also investigated.

N'tl Film Board To Feature Girls' Swim Club

The Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club in action will be filmed this month by the National Film Board, N. C. Munro, manager of the club revealed today.

In a telegram to Mr. Munro, Gordon Burwash of the National Film Board said: "Considering filming girl swimmers very shortly; are they available during period from July 7 to 17?"

Two months ago a representative of the film board visited Peterborough to investigate the possibilities of filming the local club in action as the leading synchronized swimming club in Canada.

The YWCA and YMCA pools were considered but the new Lions Club pool decided on for the picture taking.

Mr. Munro explained that the film is expected to be a 20-minute screening of the girls in action. Several scenes may be shot at the Lift Lock, he added, but most of the film will be made at the Lions Club pool.

Big Show Planned.

On July 20 in the Lions pool the Ornamental Swimming Club will present the largest undertaking by a synchronized swimming club in Canada, "In a Chinese Aqua Garden." Scenes from this show, will be used in the proposed film ,said Mr. Munro.

Since the club was formed six years ago, it has won national and international recognition as a leading synchronized swimming organization. Besides winning many Canadian competitions, the Peterborough club has captured several American titles.

This week-end the girls will be the guest artists at the closing celebrations at the Smiths Falls old home town week. They recently had to refuse an offer to appear at the Chicago World Fair.

Baseball School Opening At Riverside

A baseball school for minor enthusiasts of the game will be opened Monday at Riverside Park under the direction of Danny Brown, shortstop for the Senior Petes of the Toronto Viaduct League. The official opening will be made by Mayor M. J. Swanston, a former star on Peterborough baseball teams.

The school is part of the agreement between the baseball team and the Peterborough Recreation Commission when the decision was made to erect lights this year for night baseball.

Classes will begin Monday morning when the peewees will meet at 10 a.m. for infielders practice. In the afternoon between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. the outfielders and pitchers will drill.

Practices will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for the bantams, midget and juveniles respectively. Friday will be open for any practices which are rained out.

Street Banners Blowzy Grey

What with tourists praying for sunshine and farmers praying for rain, old Ma Nature has got problems. Recently she was presented with another job by the city—that of untangling the banners which stretch across many city streets.

Fire Chief George Smith, whose men set up the ropes holding the banners, said today he didn't want to hold up traffic to untangle them.

"We'll let the wind do it," he said.

This spring the banners were hung over the streets and they were new and colorful. Lately they have turned tattle-tale grey. The same problem faces the city if they want to clean the little pennants—they'll have to hold up traffic to do it.

Presumably, rain is the answer.

Peterborough's 'Been Swell' 44 Toronto Boys Agree

"Gee, it's been swell", said eight-year-old Eddie Ludlow, when he was asked how he enjoyed his one-day stay in Peterborough. Eddie spoke for the rest of the 44 members of Trinity Boys and Girls Club of Toronto who were guests of the Optimist Club Tuesday.

Boys of every description made up this group ranging from 7 to 17. Tall, short, stout, slim, freckled and tanned youngsters full of enthusiasm and excitement arrived in this city at 11 a.m. Tuesday morning. The majority of them had never been to Peterborough before. They were welcomed by Walter Bent, director of Boys' Town.

Cruise Down Canal

The climax of the day's activities was a cruise from Lock 22 down through the lift lock to George St. wharf. This two-hour boat trip was donated by Walter Killoran and Gerald Staples, who operate the daily cruise through the locks. Forty-four boys in a cruiser and a launch can be quite a handful, but this group, with the exception of a few fist fights, and shoving for seats when a passing rain shower made it uncomfortable outside, behaved themselves like little gentlemen.

Most of them come from families that would be unable to finance even a trip to Peterborough, let alone a day's entertainment such as they received yesterday.

At 11 a.m. the visitors played baseball with two Boys' Town teams. The local boys were able to win both the junior and senior games with scores of 12-6 and 15-9.

After the game, lunch was served at Boys' Town and then they went on a trip to the Quaker Oats Co. The visiting boys were divided into groups of four and were taken through the plant by four guides. Then came the boat trip followed by a hot-dog supper before their departure on the bus for Toronto.

A Reward Trip

The 44 boys from the Trinity Club, financed by the Kiwanis Club in Toronto, were chosen because of outstanding work and behaviour during the year. This trip was a reward before they start out for camp, north of Huntsville, next week. The majority of the members of the club are underprivileged children who will have the opportunities of a full time sports, recreational and social program under the guidance of A. E. Kerr, director of the club.

The club is run on a full-time basis in the summer and activities take place during the school term, at night, after school and on Saturdays. As well as recreation the club provides health services for the members. Boys convicted of minor acts of juvenile delinquency are often placed on probation and sent to the club for guidance and health.

According to director, Mr. Kerr, 32 nationalities are represented in the club. The staff is doing its utmost to turn these lads into splendid citizens and are believed accomplishing a great deal in the fight against juvenile delinquency.

Members of the staff of Trinity Club accompanied the boys.

The boys were accompanied throughout the day by Walter Bent, director of Boys' Town and Stew Gardiner, president of the Optimist Club.

CUT HAND

Justin O'Brien, Hunter St., suffered a cut hand Tuesday when the bicycle he was riding came in collision with an auto driven by Lloyd Merrian, Smith township. The boy was driving his bicycle west on Hunter St., and made a left turn in front of Merrian's east bound car. The boy was knocked from his bicycle.

Whose Gateway To The Kawarthas? Lindsay Wants Copyright To Name

"We don't need it, they can have it," was Jim Fraser's reaction to the renewed efforts of the Lindsay Town Council to dub their municipality the "Gateway to the Kawarthas."

"Lindsay can call itself front door, back door, gateway or anything it likes, but tourists will continue to come to Peterborough where there is good shopping and recreational facilities and such tourist attractions as the lift lock," continued the manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor M. J. Swanston showed real fighting spirit when approached about this matter. "Peterborough has been known as the 'Gateway to the Kawarthas' for a great many years and its location gives it far greater right to adopt this title than does that of Lindsay," stated the mayor.

There is no need for a controversy over which community has a right to this title, according to City Clerk E. A. Outram. "Bobcaygeon and Lindsay can fight it out as to which town is to be called the 'Gateway to the Kawartha Lakes,' because Peterborough has been known as the 'Hub of the Kawarthas' since 1937," said Mr. Outram.

The renewal of this controversy took place when it was brought to the attention of the Lindsay Town Council that the Peterborough Lions Club, while raffling off a car in that town, were promoting Peterborough as the Gateway city. In order to qualify in this raffle, contestants must answer the question, "What city is the gateway to the Kawarthas?"

Mayor Lamb and the Lindsay Town Council seem to be quite heated about the subject and at this week's meeting put forth proposals to keep this slogan all to themselves. Suggestion were made, such as putting signs up at the highway approaches to Lindsay and at the toursit information booth at the town hall, calling on the local press for help and asking businessmen to put the slogan on their letterheads.

Just where a controversy of this kind will lead is hard to say, but it shouldn't be long before other communities such as Bobcaygeon and Lakefield enter the controversy and claim their rights to the titles that they have adopted as a means of drawing tourists.

Fishing Party's Car Wrecked

A New Hampshire party had their fishing trip ended abruptly early today when their car was wrecked on the Old Keene road, a mile and a half south of Highway 7.

Garland Rowe, 22, who was driving the car owned by Albert was the only one injured. He received a deep cut on his right elbow. It was stitched up by Dr. Wilson Ford of Keene.

Mr. Whetung was a passenger in the car as were three others, the driver's wife, Violet, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. Rowe of the same address in New Hampshire.

A heavy ground fog was reported along that stretch of the Old Keene road and it may have obscured Rowe's vision. He failed to see a bend in the road in time and the car travelled along the shoulder for about 100 feet and then plowed through a four-foot ditch and stopped against a large rock.

The undercarriage of the car was ripped away and damage is about $750. Provincial Constables Roy Feeley and Al Russel investigated.

Home Owners Assoc'n Formed At Parkdale

A group of home owners in East City's Parkdale district have recently formed the Swanston Avenue Home Owners' Association headed by Lyle Peterson, president, George Day, vice-president and Donald Harwood, secretary-treasurer.

Aim of the group is to collectively facilitate the completion of new homes, to promote beautification of their immediate district and arrange for recreational programs for neighborhood children.

Later this week at the association meeting at the residence of Robert Butler, the seeding of lawns and building of driveways will be discussed.

Pair Face Charges Remanded July 6

Two youths appeared in court this morning, facing charges of breaking and entering the Maple Inn, east of Lakefield. As Magistrate W. R. Philp was not present, they were remanded in custody to July 6 by Justice of the Peace James Fleming.

They are Daniel Detlor and Gordon Mott, no fixed address. They are charged with the July 4 theft of about $5 worth of food from the restaurant. They were arrested by Provincial Constable C. A. Naismith.

All Back On Job

Today—almost exactly two months after the Peterborough Lock Co. strike began—the 170 production workers are back at their benches and machines. A settlement was reached June 24 and the first few started to get the plant ready the following Monday. By the beginning of the week 135 were back on the job and after union-management talks Monday afternoon full employment was resumed today. The strike began May 4.

10 U.S.A. Fishers Awarded Kawartha Order

American fishermen captured 10 awards by the Chamber of Commerce in the first four days of July as compared with four in the first 10 days of July last year, James Fraser, manager, announced today.

Nine Orders of the Kawartha Muskie and one Order of the Kawartha Angler have been awarded. The Order of the Kawartha Muskie is given to non-residents of the Kawartha district who catch a 15-pound or more muskie in the Kawartha Lakes. This area is defined as all Rice Lake, the Trent River as far east as Campbellford, all waters in Peterborough county, Sturgeon Lake, and Bobcaygeon, Paudash, Silent and Baptiste lakes.

The Order of the Kawartha Angler, for non-residents, is awarded to fishermen who qualify by catching a four-pound small-mouthed bass, a six-pound large-mouthed bass or an eight-pound pickerel in the Kawartha lakes. The one award this year has been to M. Randolph, of Gasport, New York, who hooked a four-pound, two-ounce, black bass in Rice Lake on a fly rod.

Muskie Awards

Orders of the Kawartha Muskie have been awarded to; Robert Lacey, Orrville, Ohio, Rice Lake, 22 pounds; A. Blewett, Mentor, Ohio, Clear Lake, 27 pounds; Albert Hofrichter, Bridgeville, Pa., Clear Lake, 16 pounds; C. T. Dowds, Anglewood, N. J., Stony Lake, 16 pounds; H. B. Rich, Rittman, Ohio, Rice Lake, 20 pounds; W. Courogen, Danville, Pa., Rice Lake, 16½ pounds; Steve Chinchi Elwood City, Pa., Pigeon River, 15 pounds; John DeFerrari, Aliquippa, Pa., Pigeon River, 15¾ pounds; H. A. Cartwright, Aliquippa, Pigeon River, 15½ pounds.

Blame Lack Of Rain In 1949 On Scarcity Of Strawberries

Strawberries have been scarce this year. The reason, according to the experts who grow them, goes back to last year. As most people remember last summer was a record dry year. Strawberry plants need one summer to develop and they start to bear fruit the second year and produce usually two years. Because of an acute lack of rain last summer the plants did not develop as they should. The result has been a smaller crop this year.

Near End Of Crop

Growers and retailers seem to agree this week will see the end of the berries. City stores usually sell them about six weeks in the early summer. The first come from Western Ontario and as the season progresses, local growers begin to supply the demand. They have been in the stores about four weeks up to now.

This year the local growers were not able to keep up with the housewives' wants. Many women looking for berries to can and make into jam have gone right to growers because they have been unable to get berries in fruit and grocery stores.

Prices have varied from a low of 25 cents to about 39 cents, the present price.

Growers seem to think the quality has been generally good although there have been some not quite all A-1. Retail store handlers have been a little more direct. They say some of the berries were poor.

One grower, Charles Kitney and Sons, said they thought there had been a large number of false blossoms which failed to develop into fruit. However, they could offer no explanation of this. There was no scarcity of bees, they said.

Most optimistic estimates of the number of berries still to come were that there would be two or three more pickings, but it looked as if they would be finished this week.

William Swain, of Cavan, who grows more than most in the district, found there were just not so many berries this year and he put it down to last year's dry weather.

Apparently other growers have given up strawberries. They said it was hard to get help to keep the patches clean and it was even more difficult to hire good pickers.

Phoning Details Of 25-Lb. Muskie Gets Another 14-Pounder On Line

It was a grand and glorious Fourth for American visitors in the Kawarthas, especially guests at Roy Cameron's resort on Katchewanooka Lake, Lakefield. During the opening weekend of fishing, lucky anglers who park their strings of catches down by the docks have found them tampered with. They located the culprit to-day, a 25-pound muskie who ignored all attempts at being caught.

Guest Joe Strocit of Wheeling, W.Va., baited a line this morning with an extremely live minnow and snagged the thief. More than 20 guests rushed to the docks to see him play it in and the 'lunge grandstanded for a fair-ye-well, and shook loose just as they were raising it from the water.

While proprietor Cameron was phoning this story in to the Peterborough Examiner, his wife called excitedly that another guest Bon Musch of Medina, O., had snagged a muskie from his boat just off the wharf. Mr. Cameron tossed the phone to his wife and called a blow-by-blow play of the struggle to his wife who relayed it to the newspaper on the phone.

Everyone on the shore within running distance came to see Musch land his muskie, and he did; a 14-pounder "Its the mate of the thief," puffed Bon Musch happily as he raced from the dock to the telephone to be personally interviewed. "Have never seen such fishing in my life," he cried as he hung up.

All the Examiner needs now is a television hook-up with every resort to screen such fishing epics of the Kawarthas.

Romanian Family Reunited After Six Years

KITCHENER, July 5 (CP) — A Romanian family has been reunited here after six years separation by the iron curtain.

A few days ago, Helga Marschall and her brother Dieter arrived in Kitchener to meet their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Marschall. To little Dieter, seven they were strangers.

It was in 1944 that their parents were taken from their Romanian home to go as forced labor to the coal and slate mines of Russia

Helga, then 8, and Dieter were left alone for three days before their grandparents found them and took them to their home.

The Marschalls were freed a few years later and made their way here. Then followed months of red tape and dead ends before they arranged for their children to leave Romania. They were delayed in Switzerland for two months this spring before they could get air transportation to Canada.

Now they're together again. There's only one thing missing. Helga hasn't had a doll for a long time. That's all she wants now.

RECORD CRACKED—Canada's cost-of-living index shot up another 1.4 points during May to a record-breaking peak of 165.4—after remaining stationary at 164.0 during March and April. The Bureau of Statistics said the rise was due almost entirely to higher meat prices. The heavy line shows the United States' cost-of-living index which was at 168.1 on May 15. These trends are not comparative figures but merely indicate the relative trends.

Gen. Eisenhower Backs U.S. Move

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., July 5 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower said on Tuesday night that the American decision to aid the South Koreans was "inescapable" with the only alternative "another kind of Munich."

Speaking at a rally of 47,000 Boy Scouts attending the second national jamboree, Eisenhower said the South Koreans only "crime" has been "the desire to live their own lives as they chose, at peace with the rest of the world."

"American decision to assist them was inescapable," said the war-time supreme commander in Europe. "The alternative would be another kind of Munich, with all the disastrous consequences that followed in wake of that fatal error 12 years ago.

"Now our decision must be carried to its conclusion by whatever means are necessary. The end is difficult to see. But . . . how can we doubt eventual success if we meet these issues firmly?"

Agriculture Conference

TORONTO, July 5 — (CP). — Canada's Provincial Agricultural Ministers, their deputies and senior officials of their departments will meet here August 28 to discuss mutual problems, Agriculture Minister Kennedy of Ontario said Tuesday.

Cost of Living Index Hits A Record High in June

OTTAWA, July 5 (CP) — The cost of living in Canada is still going up and hit a record high in June.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday that the official cost of-living index, riding a wave of rising meat prices, had touched a peak at June 1 of 165.4 points. This compared to 164.0 points at May 1 this year and 160.5 at June 1 a year ago. The comparisons are on the basis that 1935-39 equals 100 points

The food index was the big factor in the latest increase, rising from 204.6 to 209.0 points. And it was meat which drove the food index up. On the average fresh pork prices rose 6.3 cents a pound during June, beef 3.2 cents, lamb 4.4 cents and veal 1.9 cents.

Other Increases

Fresh vegetables and lemons also showed slight increases in the food group but butter declined 1.5 cents compared with May.

Slight increases also were registered in the home furnishings and services and miscellaneous indexes but clothing and fuel and light indexes eased a bit. Home furnishings were up from 166.4 to 166.9 and the miscellaneous group jumped 1-10th of a point to 132.4 due mainly to higher prices for auto tires.

Clothing prices declined 1-10th to 180.7 as lower prices for women's wear outstripped higher prices for men's wear, piece goods and footwear. Fuel and light costs were down 4-10th to 137.1 reflecting slightly lower prices for coal and coke.

It was noted that some of the children had completed their entire public school edution under her instruction.

On behalf of the pupils and parents, Mrs. Wm. E. Neal presented Mrs. Williams with a large wall mirror. Then lunch was served.

Wrong Addresses Plague Postmen

LONDON —(CP)— A lot of British postmen had to knock twice in 1949.

During the year more than 8,000,000,000 letters and nearly 240,000,000 parcels were delivered.

But, said a plaintive announcement from the post office, there were more than 3,000,000 letters incorrect or incomplete.

Make Strawberry Jam this Easy, Short-Boil Way

1 THIS "SURE-RESULTS" RECIPE WILL SAVE TWO-THIRDS OF YOUR TIME

Crush thoroughly 2 quarts of fully ripe berries. (Use ripe fruit, not the under-ripe fruit called for in old-fashioned recipes.) Measure 4 cups of the crushed fruit and 7 cups of sugar into large saucepan. Mix well. Bring to full rolling boil over high heat. Stir constantly before and while boiling.

2 BOIL MIXTURE ONE MINUTE ONLY KEEP FRESH FLAVOR AND COLOR

Here's where you save time and work! BOIL HARD ONE MINUTE BY THE CLOCK! (This short boil retains the luscious taste and lovely color of the fresh fruit.) Remove from heat. Stir in half-bottle of CERTO Fruit Pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit.

3 YOU'LL GET 50% MORE JAM FROM SAME AMOUNT OF FRUIT

Because you don't have to "boil down" your fruit to make it set, very little juice wastes away in steam. You'll have about 10 glasses to ladle and paraffin instead of the 6 to be expected from old-fashioned long-boil recipes. With CERTO you average 50% MORE jam from the same amount of fruit.

4 NO GUESS WORK. FOR SURE RESULTS FOLLOW SIMPLE DIRECTIONS EXACTLY

With CERTO you get a booklet of 78 kitchen-tested recipes . . . a separate one for each fruit since different fruits need different handling. Follow the simple directions exactly and you'll have bright, sparkling, better-tasting jams and jellies whatever fruit you use. Even beginners can be sure of results with CERTO.

CERTO BRAND FRUIT PECTIN

CERTO is fruit pectin — the natural jellying substance in fruit — extracted and concentrated for easier, quicker, better jam and jelly making.

Bricklayers Vote To Go On Strike

TORONTO, July 5 (CP) —Toronto's bricklayers voted Tuesday night to strike Friday to enforce their wage demands on members of the Toronto Builders' Exchange.

The strike would bring a halt to all major commercial and industrial building in the city. Private construction would not be affected.

The bricklayers, members of the Bricklayers' Union (AFL), said they would picket exchange projects. Union officials said they have "every reason to believe" the other building trades in the city would respect their picket lines, in line with an earlier agreement among the trades.

The strike is to enforce demands for a 20-cent hourly wage increase over the next two years. The union personnel rejected an exchange offer of a 10-cent increase and protection against further cost of living rises.

2 Men Admit Bogus Bill Work

MONTREAL, July 5 (CP) — Two men admitted in Criminal Court Tuesday that they conspired with Emile Paulhus, 25, of Sorel, Que., to make counterfeit $10 Canadian bills.

The men, Raoul Auger, 37, of Shawinigan Falls and Fernand Larocque, 32, Montreal, appeared at the trial of Paulhus. Auger is at present serving a 30-month sentence for his part in the conspiracy while Larocque is free on $500 bail pending his trial on a charge of conspiring to print bogus money.

Auger said he and Larocque had actually made bogus $10 bills last summer in the basement of Paulhus' Montreal home. Auger and Larocque identified an exhibit of 23 bills as some of a lot they had printed.

Judge T. A. Fontaine ordered Paulhus to appear for his voluntary hearing July 14.

Ask Higher Standards In Welfare Work

TORONTO, July 5 (CP)—Improvement of professional standards of welfare work is recommended in a report on Toronto community welfare services made public Tuesday.

The report was compiled by nine welfare expects from the United States at the request of community chest services to ascertain the weaknesses of the present system. Their recommendations included general raises in pay for welfare workers to enable more thorough and competent handling of family and child cases.

They also urged improvement in the field of psychiatric services particularly for children. Personnel should be improved in the public health department and a psychiatric clinic should be established with a highly-skilled staff.

Mother Too Poor Abandons Small Baby

TORONTO, July 5 (CP) — A three-week-old girl was abandoned in the vestibule of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church here on Tuesday night by a mother too poor to keep the child.

The baby, wrapped in a shawl, was found by the Rev. C. F. Sullivan. Nearby was a note from the mother saying she could not afford to keep the child, and asking that she be brought up in the Roman Catholic faith.

The baby was taken to an infants' home. The Catholic Childrens' Aid Society issued an appeal asking the mother to identify herself and promising efforts would be made to enable her to look after the baby.

Russian Women's Magazine Says Buying Choice Greater

STOCKHOLM, July 5—(Reuters)—Russian women, for the first time since the revolution, are "choosey" this summer in buying their clothes.

Hitherto, they have been grateful for whatever they could get But now, reports the Russian family magazine "Ogonyok," all that is changed.

"Today," Ogonyok says, "it is not at all unusual to hear questions like these in the shops:

"Have you any new summer shoes in yet?

"Please show me some other jackets.

"Have you no other colors?"

Flowered silk fabrics are the Russian woman's first choice this summer. One of her favorite patterns is lilies, roses and green leaves on a white background.

But the wider range of patterns which the shops now are offering her still is narrow by western standards.

Ogonyok says that only 12 patterns for summer dress materials have been passed by the Ministry of Arts. All of them have "natural, floral or popular motifs."

The "red rose" factories in Moscow and Leningrad are turning out "tens of thousands" of metres (yards) of these designs.

"By special request of women clients," the factories also are producing a new type of silk for trimmings.

Russian men and women also have a wider range of choice in coats, blouses, shirts, pyjamas and bathing costumes.

The Leningrad knitted wear factory has produced 150 new models of these garments. The bathing costumes are made of brightly-colored, shrink-proof knitted wool.

"These Leningrad models are so popular," Ogonyok reports, "that the factory's name and address—Nevsky 12—have become household words with citizens living miles from the city."

For summer footwear the Russian woman has about 50 models from which to choose. One of the most popular is made of imitation leather with silk and patent leather inlets.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT H. BUCHANAN, seen following their marriage in Southminster United Church, Ottawa, on Saturday, July 1. JACOBY ON CANASTA

"This one caused a lulu of a discussion," reports a Detroit reader. "Our score at the beginning of the hand was just over 1600 points, but I thought it was still under 1500 points. Mind you, there was no error on the scorepad; I was just thinking about a few other things, and my mind wandered.

"As a result, I put down an insufficient meld. I put down three kings with a deuce (thinking we needed only 50 points) and promptly discarded a seven. That started the first battle.

"Both opponents practically jumped on me. They said my meld was insufficient, and I had to agree. Then they said my discard of a seven was illegal; that I had to discard one of the kings or the deuce I had put down. I said that my discard had been made in good faith and that the seven was just as much exposed and therefore just as much a penalty card as the kings and the deuce. Since I could choose which penalty card to discard first, I could legally discard the seven. After some grumbling, they yielded the point and the game went on.

"That isn't al. Worse was to come. My partner (my wife, bless her), at her turn put down two aces with a joker, thus making a proper initial meld. She discarded safely—an important point, since the pack was fairly large and not frozen. The next player drew from the stock and discarded a seven. It was then my turn to play.

"This is where the fun really begins. I took my deuce from the table, where I had improperly melded it with the three kings; and I added a seven from my own hand. With those two cards I tried to take the discard pile.

"I won't bore you with all the arguments on both sides. After a while, we all saw how ridiculous it was to argue over a game, so we called the hand off and started a new hand. Nevertheless, we'd all like to know the rights and wrongs in the matter. It won't start any new arguments; we're just curious."

It's a pleasure to hear from people who take a game seriously enough to discuss a point and write a letter—but not so seriously as to have a bitter argument. It's a pleasure, also, to agree 100 per cent with my correspondent.

He was within his rights in discarding the seven. He was also within his rights in taking the discard pile at his next turn with the penalty deuce and the seven from his hand.

When you put down cards in an illegal meld, those cards do not belong together at all. You can separate wild cards from the natural cards (and, as a matter of fact should do that as a matter of routine) to indicate that the cards happen to be down on the table at the same time but are not otherwise connected. If you get a chance to meld any or all of those penalty cards later on, you can meld them in entirely new combinations if that suits your fancy.

Q—The initial meld being 120 points, my son melded four sixes and three deuces for the initial meld. The opponents said this added up to 80 points. My son said the canasta bonus was 300 points and that this was more than enough for the initial meld. Right or wrong?

A—Wrong. You can't count the canasta bonus as part of what you need for the initial meld. This particular meld added up to only 80 points—which was 40 points short of what he needed.

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—When four people are playing Canasta, does a side need one or two canastas before going out?

A—Only one canasta is needed. It is both pleasant and profitable to make more than one, but one is all you are required to make.

Ottawa Wedding of Interest

A marriage of interest in this district which took place Saturday evening at 6.30 o'clock in Southminster United Church, Ottawa, was of Mr. Robert H. Buchanan, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Buchanan of Lakefield, and Miss Joan McGuirl, daughter of Mrs. McGuirl and the late Mr. Allan C. McGuirl, Ottawa. The groom was formerly on the reportorial staff of the Examiner and is now with the Ottawa Journal.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles D. Donald. Mr. Percival Kitby played the wedding music with Mrs. F. Harold Wadsworth as soloist. The church was decorated with delphiniums.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle Mr. Charles S. McGuirl and attended by her sisters, Miss Sheila McGuirl and Miss Anne McGuirl.

Groomsman was Mr. John Trueman and the ushers Messrs. Bruce Buchanan, Earl McCullough and William Hugli.

The bride wore a gown of French eyelet organdy with a sweetheart neckline and bouffant skirt. A juliet cap held her fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of white Shasta chrysanthemums and gladioli.

After a reception at the Whitehill Glade the couple left on a motor trip through the New England states. Going away the bride wore a nevy shantung suit with navy and white accessories. On return they will live in Ottawa.

What's Right?

A friend shows you a new dress she has bought and you know someone else who has one just like it.

WRONG: Say: "Jane Smith had on a dress just like yours at the party the other evening."

RIGHT: Be tactful and don't mention the fact that you have already seen a duplicate of the dress on someone else.

Widowed Mother Finds Best Plan to Live Alone

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My father and mother had been married a long time. A month ago he died. What happiness can she, a woman starting her sixties, have without the man she loved? What pleasure out of life can a woman get who has not been trained for some absorbing profession and who has only been a housewife and mother and enjoyed that and the success of making countless friends? My mother is only partially independent. She is coming to live with me and that moves her a long distance from her old home and friends and leaves her nothing to do to fill in the time. Must all of her future life be empty and meaningless and miserable.—A READER.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are about to make the tragic mistake that so many loving and dutiful children make, of breaking up their mother's home when their father dies. The sons and daughters are so overflowing with pity for poor Mother; they cannot bear to think of leaving hr alone in the house that will seem to desolate with Father gone out of it that they snatch her out of the home, which has become part of her very life, they sell the furniture that is interwoven with her every memory and sanctified to her by countless griefs and joys, they separate her from her old friends and take her away into an entirely new environment in their own homes.

Familiar House A Comfort

In taking Mother away from her own home they have taken from her the only thing that could really comfort her in her first grief over the loss of her husband. As long as she can stay in the familiar rooms in which they have lived so long she is not alone. His presence fills the place as it never can her children's strange houses. There is comfort for her also in the familiar things, and the greatest comfort of all is in having something to do, the old routine tasks that must be done every day, and comfort in the old friends whose sympathy must come from the heart.

Is is a cruel thing to take an old woman out of her old home and put her to live in another woman's house even if that other woman is her own daughter. She never fits in and always feels herself an unwelcome guest to her in-laws. The children worry her. She has no friends and is lonely beyond belief. Her hands ache for the work to which she is accustomed, and she is miserable and makes those about her miserable. Far, far better for her children to make up a little purse and support mother in her old home than to try to move her.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am married and am in love with another man. The man I was in love with and I quarreled for the millionth time and parted. Then the man who is now my husband came along. He fell in love with me. I could not bear to hurt anybody as I had been hurt, so I married him thinking perhaps it would heal my own hurt. I am a good wife. I make my husband happy. But I am miserable. I am still in love with the other man and it so happens that the three of us are thrown much together. I want to play fair, but I cannot change the way I feel. Is there anything I can do?—DORA.

ANSWER: The greatest mistake that men and women ever make is to think that marriage is some sort of patent cure-all for blighted affections. But romance is one of the blessings that brighten as they fade, and the mere fact that the old love is forbidden now makes it the more alluring and makes the marriage one has rushed into more distasteful.

It is a cruel thing for a man or woman to marry some one who loves them but to whom they can give only tolerance. But one thing is certain. When a woman marries a man she does not love, she is in honor bound to stick to her contract. She can still go on and give a good performance as a wife. And she can try to see the other man as he is and realize that if she had married him she would be even more unhappy than she is at present, because the more we love a man, the greater power he has to torture us.

The best remedy is children. Supplant one love with another. Your community of interest in the children will draw you closer to the man you have married. Many women who have never been in love with their husbands fall in love with their children's father.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a younger daughter of 12 who asks continually to go out with boys. Should I let her?—WORRIED MOTHER.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If she goes out with a crowd of girls and boys in schoolgirl fashion, I see no objection to letting her go during the weekend. Never on school nights. And never on regular dates alone with a boy.

Find Waistlines Too Thick for Dior

JOHANNESBURG —(CP)— South African models are angry about the forthcoming visit of eight Paris models to the Union to display products for the South African Wool Board. They have their nails sharpened for Christian Dior.

They say that when the display was first proposed Dior intended to use four South African girls and four from Paris.

"Photographs and measurements of six South African models were sent to him," they say. "He rejected them all, however, saying that their waistlines were 'too thick.'"

The waists of the South African girls averaged 25 inches; those of the French models 20 inches.

At a similar display in Australia recently Dior used four Australian and four French models. He went personally to Australia and when he found the Australian not slim enough he made them reduce to fit his requirements.

Prisoners Blame Too-Distant Schools

GUELPH, July 5 (CP)—Difficulty in attending distant school is blamed by many prisoners of the Ontario Reformatory here for retarded educational standing, Col. G. Hedley Basher, superintendent, said in his 1949 annual report, released today.

He said remarkable progress has been made by illiterate or near-illiterate prisoners in the reformatory school.

"One man who had no previous academic training and could neither read nor write, progressed from grade one to five in a five-month period," he said. Twenty-five tried their entrance examinations last year and 24 were successful, 11 passing with honors.

HAZEN ROBERT ARGUE—Hazen Robert Argue, youngest member elected to the House of Commons in the 1945 general election, now sits in the Commons as CCF member for the Saskatchewan constituency of Assiniboia. He was born Jan. 6, 1921.

Man Wounded Pick In Chest

VANCOUVER, July 5 (CP)—Robert Cameron, 41-year-old marine engine salesman taken to hospital Tuesday night with an ice pick in his chest, still was in critical condition today.

Cameron was found lying in a west-end apartment. Found with him was Mrs. Carmen Ryan, 33, her face covered with blood.

Cameron has severe chest and throat wounds. Mrs. Ryan, whose condition was described as "fairly good," is being treated for chest lacerations.

Mrs. M. Garey, who occupies the apartment under Mrs. Ryan's, said she was reading the paper when she heard screams coming from the apartment above.

"I knocked on the door and she opened it. Her face was covered with blood. I asked her what was wrong.

"She screamed: 'Help me; stop him; he's hurting himself.'

"I looked in the front room and saw a man kneeling in the middle of the floor with what looked like a knife in his chest."

Where's Vishinsky $65-Question

LONDON, July 5 (AP) — The continued absence of Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky from the Moscow scene has raised speculation among diplomats that he is on a mission to Asia.

The speculation centres about these guesses:

1. That Vishinsky is in Red China for talks with Chou En-lai, Premier and Foreign Minister, on the crisis in the Communist east's relations with the west.

2. That Vishinsky is in Pyongyang, capital of Communist North Korea, conferring with the Red government on moves in the Korean war.

3. That Vishinsky is ill.

The last word on Vishinsky from Moscow was that he was apparently on vacation. His last announced appearance was when he saw Secretary-General Trygve Lie of the UN May 18.

A suspicious circumstance is the similar absence from the news of Ho Chih-minh, leader of the Viet Minh rebellion against the French-sponsored Viet Nam government in Indo-China. There has been speculation that he has been either in Red China's capital, Peiping, or in Moscow. It could mean a conference on future Communist moves in Asia.

Announce Second RCAF Reserve

OTTAWA, July 5 (CP)—The air force announced today formation of a second RCAF reserve fighter squadron in Toronto and said Downsview Airport, 10 miles north of the city, is being enlarged to permit use of the latest types of Jet fighters.

It was announced that the defence department has paid $400,000 for the 375-acre Dufferin Construction Co., stock farm to permit expansion of Downsview Airport, home of Toronto's existing reserve squadron No. 400.

Formation of the second squadron was officially predicted some time ago and is in line with long-range plans for defence of strategic cities and industrial targets.

It will raise to 11 the number of reserve squadrons scattered across Canada, the bulk of them fighters. There are some nine regular squadrons, two or three of them fighters.

Cut Government Costs By $620,000 A Year

OTTAWA, July 5 (CP)—The Civil Service Commission announced today its two-year-old organization and methods division has reduced government administrative costs by $620,000 a year and has suggested ways of saving an additional $3,020,000.

The reduction resulted from some 90 studies carried on by the division in various parts of the public service.

Patty Wins Way Into Final At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England, July 5 (CP)—Budge Patty, Los Angeles star fighting for his first Wimbledon crown, today won his way into the final of the all-England Lawn Tennis Club tournament with a 6-3, 5-7, 6-2, 7-5 victory over Vic Seixas of Philadelphia.

Patty—unranked in the United States because he plays most of his tennis in Europe—will meet either Jaroslav Drobny, self-exiled Czech, or Australia's top-ranking Frank Sedgman in the final Friday.

He defeated Drobny recently in the final of the French national championships in Paris.

Mrs. Pat Todd of La Jolla, Calif. made certain today that an American girl would win the women's singles title by defeating Mrs. Betty Hilton Harrison of Britain, 6-2, 6-2, in a quarter-final match.

Mrs. Harrison was the only non-American left in the women's division.

Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla. defeated Barbara Scofield of San Francisco, 6-1, 6-1, in another quarter-final round contest.

Into Semi-Finals

Louise Brough, the defending champion from Beverly Hills, Calif., also moved into the semi-finals with a 2-6, 6-3, 6-0 conquest of Shirley Fry of Arkon, O.

Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont, the American titleholder from Wilkington, Del., gained the fourth semifinal position by defeating Gertrude (Gussie) Moran of Santa Monica, Calif., 6-4, 6-4.

Thus the seedlings held in the women's play. Miss Brough is No. 1, Mrs. Dupont No. 2, Miss Hart No. 3, and Mrs. Todd No. 4.

In a women's doubles third-round match Mrs. Richard Buck and Nancy Chaffee defeated Dorothy Head and Betty Rosenquest 6-1, 8-6.

In the men's doubles quarter-finals, Geoff Brown and Bill Sidwell topped Vladimir Cernik and M. Matous 7-5, 6-2, 6-1.

Get Jet Aircraft

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—Britain plans to equip "certain fighter" squadrons in the Far East" with jet aircraft, the House of Commons learned today. A. M. Crawley, parliamentary undersecretary for the air ministry, disclosed the plan but said it would not be in the national interest to tell how soon it will be carried out.

$15,000 CONTRIBUTED

More than $15,000 has been contributed to the Manitoba Relief Fund by the employees of CGE plants and offices across Canada according to W. H. Nesbitt, company secretary. This amount is in addition to the $10,000 previously contributed to the fund by the company.

Romania Announces Expulsion Of Bishop

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—Romania announced today the expulsion of Roman Catholic Bishop Gerald Patrick O'Hara of Savanah-Atlanta, (Georgia) on charges of spying. He is the last diplomatic representative of the Vatican in an Iron Curtain country.

Two other members of the Apostolic Nunciature — in which Bishop O'Hara was regent—were expelled on similar charges. Vatican sources said the move had been expected from day to day and "doubtless is the prelude to the complete suppression of the Bucharest Nunciature." This is the office of the diplomatic representative of the Vatican.

A broadcast by the Romanian news agency said the Communist-led regime in Bucharest had given Bishop O'Hara and the two other Catholic officials three days to leave the country.

Three Shot To Death In Family Argument

DETROIT, July 5 —(CP)—A father, his son and a police constable were shot to death last night in two gun duels in the father's home.

Police said that Norman Doe, 55, killed his son Norman, Jr., 25, with a shotgun during a family argument.

Patrolman Joseph Maglinske, called to the scene, was fired on by the father and died two hours later in hospital.

Another police officer, Patrolman James Downey, went to the house and bullets from his gun killed Doe.

Await New Poles For Night Baseball

Poles for the floodlighting of Riverside Park for baseball have arrived at Montreal from British Columbia. Alex Sinclair, recreation director, said today. The poles at present are being treated and will be inspected before their delivery to Peterborough to replace the five defective poles which were sent here a month ago.

Mr. Sinclair said today that he hoped the lights would be erected and on by August 1. The poles, he said, should arrive in Peterborough next week.

"If the poles had been good, the team would be playing under lights now. Everything is waiting for the new poles."

Holiday Toll 739 Dead In United States

CHICAGO, July 5 — (AP). — Accidental death struck down at least 739 persons during the four-day Independence Day weekend in the United States. The toll was much higher than expected and rocketed toward the all-time high set in 1936—761 deaths.

Americans died in traffic crashes, by drowning and by miscellaneous accidents at a little better than one every 10 minutes during the 102-hour period between 6 p.m. local time Friday and Tuesday night at midnight.

Highway smashups claimed 458 lives.

Water deaths totalled 168. Miscellaneous mishaps killed 113.

No one was killed in Fourth-of-July fireworks tragedies, but the other deaths were tied in with Independence Day celebrations.

List Climbs

The National Safety Council had predicted that 385 would die in traffic crashes. But the toll mounted and mounted as holiday drivers coursed along the highways.

Midway through Tuesday, as death figures kept piling up, Ned H. Dearborn, council president, issued a sane-driving appeal to "try our best to save at least a few lives by acting like civilized people on the highways."

Dearborn had predicted that 36,000,000 automobiles would roll 5,600,000,000 miles over US roads. He classified it as the United States' biggest traffic jam.

The 1936 death record was set during the four-day Christmas holiday period. At that time 555 of the 761 deaths were in automobile accidents.

Parents Of Selwyn Inspect School Pupils Work For Past Year

SELWYN, July 5 — (ENS) — Two very enjoyable events in connection with SS No. 9 Smith were held recently. One was a parents night which was held in the school when the work of the past year was on display for the parents and anyone who was interested, to view. Mr. Anderson, the school inspector was the guest speaker and two films were shown. Tickets had been sold by the children on an electric table lamp, and the draw was made that night. The winner was Mrs. Charlie McIlmoyl. Refreshments including ice cream were served to everyone at the close by Mrs Sheila Wilson and the pupils.

The other event was the annual school picnic held at Cedar Bay on Chemong Lake. Although the weather was chilly, the children enjoyed a day of swimming and playing ball. A large number of the mothers were present and helped prepare the picnic dinner.

The annual Strawberry Social was held under the auspices of Selwyn United Church WA on Friday evening. The program was provided by the young people of St. James Church, Peterborough, under the direction of Mr. Art Dixon.

Buddhists Planning To Send Missionaries To Western World

By MICHAEL MACDONAGH

COLOMBO, Ceylon, July 5 — (Reuters)— Religious missionaries are to come to the western world from the east, under a scheme designed to spread the teachings of the lord Buddha in Western as well as Asian countries.

Representatives from 29 countries, excluding Russia, who met here recently have formed a world fellowship of Buddhists to carry out the campaign.

The fellowship hopes to get into touch with Buddhists in Russia and bring them, too, into the organization.

Delegates from Britain, the United States, France, Germany, Finland, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Hawaii, Australia, Pakistan, Nepal, Bhutan, Mongolia, Tibet, India, Burma, Malaya, Laos, Cambodia, China and Japan were among the 127 men and women who met as guests of the All-Ceylon Buddhist Congress to draw up a constitution for the fellowship.

Seek Unity

The preamble to the constitution drawn up by the conference states the aims of the fellowship as "to establish in unity and strength the world fellowship of Buddhists," "to endeavor to observe and practise the teachings of the Buddha so that we may be radiant example of living faith and to srive with all our might to make known the sublime doctrine of the Buddha so that its benign spirit of service and sacrifice may pervade the entire world inspiring and influencing the people of the earth and their governments to lead the Buddhist way of life..."

The headquarters of the fellowship will be at Colombo, and a secretariat will be provided by the All-Ceylon Buddhist Congress. Regional centres will be established in as many countries as possible. Expenses will be defrayed by voluntary contributions.

Dr. G. P. Malalasekera, a prominent Buddhist of Ceylon, told the conference that when United States officials were laying out the graves of war dead in Hawaii they pointed out to the Buddhists that a cross had been erected over the graves of Christians, a star over the graves of Jews and a crescent over the graves of Moslems. What symbol, they asked, should they place over the graves of Buddhists?

"Unfortunately," said Dr. Malalasekera, "there was none."

Symbol Solved

The absence of an emblem has now been met. The dharma charka, an eight-spoked wheel, is an ancient Buddhist symbol.

The fellowship will appeal to all Buddhist countries to observe a special day every year. At present, most Asian countries observe different feast days. These will be continued; but it is hoped that the First-Moon day in May of every year will become a world Buddhist feast similar to Christmas or Easter in the Christian calendar.

White Deer Herd Offered For Sale

BROCKHAMPTON PARK, Gloucestershire, England (CP)— A dollar market—or a gigantic barbacue—may be the fate of 26 white English deer.

Maj. C. E. Cannon acquired the herd when he bought 63 acres of parkland. He can't afford to maintain it, and he's tired of venison so he advertised for "any reasonable offer."

Cannon believes his is the only white deer herd in Britain and, perhaps, in the world.

THESE SIX YOUNG GIRLS were determined at any cost to see Queen Elizabeth during her visit to the Royal Norfolk Agricultural Show in Sandringham, Norfolk, last week. Knowing that Queen Elizabeth was in the tent, they crawled under the tent walls and were rewarded when Her Majesty came over to them and chatted for a while. Princess Margaret may be seen at left in the background. Partly concealed in a tent pole, high up in the tent wall at right is another youngster peeping through the canvas.

Business School Officials Meet

The Canadian Business School Association held it's tenth annual convention at South Beach Hotel at Young's Point. Representatives were present from school across the Dominion.

The president, Miss Jean Lownds, of the Lownds School of Commerce, New Westminister, BC, was in the chair. The president reported six new schools from British Columbia had made application for membership in the rapidly growing association. The Canadian Business Schools Association is affiliated with the Quebec Association of Business Schools and thus, are probably the strongest representation of the Private School field in Canada.

Plans have been formulated for training junior teachers to a high degree of teaching efficiency and numerous other projects are under way for another year.

About forty delegates attended the convention. Many commented on the beauty of the scenery in the vicinity and visited the world famous Lift Lock in Peterborough.

Private Garden Home To 4,000 Rare Birds

By GEORGE FRANKS

ALPHEN - ON - RHINE, The Netherlands —(Reuters)— Some 4,000 birds of more than 400 varieties from 25 countries are the first feathered inhabitants of the new International Bird Park here.

The park, called Avifauna, which has grown from a private garden to one of the most remarkable spots in Europe, started with two white peacocks.

Gerard van den Brink, a successful Dutch businessman, wanted a few choice birds for his garden.

Although Holland breeds large numbers of birds, he quickly ran into difficulties. Looking for ways to overcome them, he saw both the limitations which hampered the average bird breeder and the almost unlimited possibilities awaiting anyone who tackled such a business with enterprise and far-sightedness.

He bought his two white peacocks—and began to work. He studied bird production figures, export statistics, and figures about the number of bird-lovers and fanciers in all parts of the world.

Three Vital Facts

Out of this study, there emerged three vital facts:

1. Holland could greatly improve its already good business in breeding and selling birds;
2. Germany would shortly be making a keen bid to recapture her prewar trade in this activity; and
3. There were hundreds of thousands of waiting customers in Europe and almost millions elsewhere.

The bird park, in what van den Brink calls "its infancy," today represents an investment of about $180,000.

Architectural Gems

His bird houses are gems of architecture. Each has running water, flowering trees, gay blooms and even painted tropical and rural scenes. Some are traditional Dutch windmills or reproductions of famous Dutch buildings. Others are tiny bungalows with central heating and every modern convenience.

A waterfall flowing over colored lights pours 300 tons of water an hour through the five-acre park. A large pond stocked with 500,000 fish is already the permanent home of scores of pelicans, flamingoes, and dozens of varieties of ducks.

Smaller ponds edged with tiny buildings form aeries of bird-flats where pairs of swans, rare geese, penquins and myriads of water-fowl families each have their own private swimming pool, nesting grounds and nursery.

Ideal Surroundings

Love-birds, lyre birds, ostriches, emus, and a host of others live in ideal surroundings. For some of them, van den Brink paid as much as $600. Others he got by exchange, like the rare red-breasted Siberian geese which he obtained from Moscow in return for some monkeys.

But this bird-park, which is expected to be doubled in size during the coming year, is not merely an exhibition.

For some of his rarer varieties of birds, such as the red-breasted geese, van den Brink has already sold six month's anticipated breeding output in advance.

In the special canary house, 27 different colors of canaries are being bred, ranging from red through orange and salmon down to shell and cream.

About 500,000 visitors are expected at Avifauna this summer and it is already showing signs of becoming one of the most popular tourist attractions in Holland.

Step Up Security Moves Across Canada Defence Planners Report

Will Strengthen Sault Lock Defences With Anti-Aircraft Guns; Claxton Also Announces Plan For Cities

OTTAWA, July 6—(CP)—Canada's defence planners, a weather eye cocked on the Korean war, have stepped up initial moves for the internal security of the Dominion. Defence Minister Claxton at a press conference Wednesday disclosed various defensive steps, some of which he said had no connection with the Korean fighting. But he left the impression that Canada would not be caught napping should a war emergency arise.

The Defence Minister said: 1. Canada has a defence plan "which could be put into effect rapidly" if any of her cities were attacked. He did not elaborate on this statement, given in reply to a question as to whether attacks on cities like Victoria or Vancouver could be handled tomorrow.

2. Peacetime conscription forms no part of government policy—"we're not in favor of it." Canada's primary need along with that of her allies, was more equipment rather than more men.

Ack-Ack Defences

3. Anti-aircraft defences will be bolstered around the Sault Ste. Marie locks area. It was learned later that 3.7-inch anti-aircraft guns will be moved shortly to that vital shipping channel between Lakes Superior and Huron.

4. Canadian reserve army units other than those at the Sault also will get more equipment soon "under a program arrived at independently of Korea." Speaking generally of the reserve army, Mr. Claxton said it being built up and will take all the men it can get.

5. Training of civil defence experts will begin "in the immediate future" at certain armed forces schools and will include the handling of atomic and other kinds of attack.

6. Though there is no immediate plan to simulate local civil defence training on a municipal block-by-block system, a conference here in the fall will consider the basis for co-operation with the provinces and will enable them to take further co-operative action with individual municipalities.

2 Trains Collide In Freak Smash, 10 Die, 75 Hurt

GALESBURG, Ill., July 6 (AP)—Ten passengers were crushed and twisted to death today in a freak collision of two sleek Santa Fe Railway streamliners, running side by side.

Coroner Chauncey Wood of Peoria County announced the toll of 10. The number of injured ranged between 50 and 75, some critically.

The wreck occurred while the Santa Fe's El Capitan and Kansas City Chief were running in the same direction, both eastbound, alongside each other on parallel tracks.

The accident occurred at Monica, more than 20 miles east of here.

90 M.P.H. Speed

Otto Brinkman, Peoria Journal reporter at the scene, said he was informed the mail coach of the 16-car El Capitan was travelling about 90 miles an hour at the time, and that the Chief was running about 70 miles an hour.

When the mail coach was derailed, four or five cars in front of the mail car rolled ahead on the tracks.

Both trains were en route to Chicago.

A railroad spokesman at nearby Chillicothe said the El Capitan was running on the regular east-bound line and that the Chief was travelling eastward on the west-bound line under automatic control.

Ontario Fires Two Policemen

TORONTO, July 6 (CP)—Prov. Police Constable W. H. Andrews and J. A. H. Kift of the Beaverton detachment have been dismissed from the force, it was announced at Queen's Park Wednesday.

A departmental inquiry at Beaverton found the two had wilfully damaged furniture and other household articles while conducting a search for liquor at a Pefferlaw home on June 11. Thirty-eight witnesses were heard at the two-day inquiry.

Mrs. Mary Anne Godfrey said the officers entered her home, used obscene language, overturned furniture and smashed dishes.

Junior Farmers Place Fifth In England

OXFORD, England, July 6 — (CP)—Four junior farmers from Ontario placed fifth Wednesday in an international dairy cattle judging competition at the Royal Agricultural Show here.

England's team finished first with 1,151 points. Others in order were: Scotland, 1,110; Northern Ireland, 1,041; United States, 1,039; Canada, 1,038; Wales, 918 and the Republic of Ireland, 890.

Competitors were asked to place four classes of different breeds—Shorthorns, Friesians, Ayrshires and Guernseys.

Members of the Canadian team are Bruce Witmer, of Preston, Ont.; Patrick O'Leary, of Loretto, Ont.; David Pelletterio, of Milton, Ont.; and Bruce Kirk, of Douglas, Ont. The team was chosen on the basis of activities in Ontario Junior Farmers' Associations and on individual achievements at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

This is the first team of young farmers from Canada to compete at the Royal Show since 1930.

The Union has rejected the $1.90 offered by the Exchange.

FindMachineGun Clothes Near Langton

LANGTON, July 6 (CP).—Discovery of a Thompson sub-machine gun, two articles of clothing and $521 in cash was announced Wednesday night by Ontario Provincial Police. Efforts will be made to link the find with the robbery and double slaying near here June 22.

Mary Holmes, of Kinglake, found a coat and shirt about a mile east of the spot where Arthur Lierman, 31, real estate man and farmer, and William Goddyn, 24, one of Lierman's farm tenants, were shot to death in a fusillade of machine-gun bullets. They had given chase to a bandit who robbed the Imperial Bank of Canada branch here of $23,000.

The young girl did not think the discovery important and neglected to tell her mother about it until Wednesday night.

After a short search along the farm fence, Mrs. Holmes discovered $521 in cash and a short while later, her son Robert discovered the gun, cached in the stump fence.

Inspector Leonard Neil said the articles will be sent to Ottawa immediately in an effort to link them with the slayings.

Ex-Policeman Under Arrest

GALT, July 6 (CP)—Herbert Payne, former member of the Preston police department, was arrested Wednesday night and charged with breaking, entering and theft of $218 from the magistrate's court fund cash drawer in the police station last Sunday. Bail of $1,000 cash or $2,000 property has been fixed.

Police said Payne signed a confession early today and told his former colleagues where the money was hidden at his home. All of it was recovered.

Payne was suspended from the force Feb. 24 last for "conduct not becoming an officer" and a few days later he resigned.

List Of Boyfriends Grows For Princess

LONDON, July 6 (AP)—Princess Margaret danced the eligible young son of an Earl back into the limelight today. He is Peter Alastair Ward, second son of the Earl of Dudley and a veteran of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

His several dances with the Princess at Buckingham Palace's ball last night were noted in detail by London reporters today. They recalled that Ward, 25, a year ago was so strongly rumored unofficially to be engaged to the Princess that he issued a denial.

King Sets New Style WearsCheckedHankie

LONDON, July 6 (AP)—Saville Row buzzed today—the King was wearing a checkered handkerchief in his breast pocket instead of the usual white.

The handkerchief had small dark checks on a white background. It peeped out of the breast pocket of the King's morning jacket Wednesday when he attended a fashionable Mayfair wedding with the Queen and Princess Margaret.

Loans Palace For Ball Bluebloods Wreck Building

WOODSTOCK, Oxford, England, July 6 (AP) — Low-down manners by high-born Britons at a ball in Blenheim Palace drew an explosive "disgraceful" from the Duke of Marlborough.

The Duke lent the palace Tuesday night to his son and daughter, the Marquess of Blandford and Lady Rosemary Spencer-Churchill, for a charity dance.

The guests, 1,800 of them, paid three guineas $9.75) and up for their tickets.

And what happened to Blenheim Palace put the Duke in a dudgeon.

When the last guest had left at 3.15 a.m., the Duke told reporters he found:

Dozens of holes burned in two costly hall carpets by cigarets.

Dozens of stains from spilled drinks.

A stone pillar damaged by a carelessly-driven car.

Two vacant spacers where two ornamental stone balls used to stand.

The Duke said coldly: "I consider that what happened was disgraceful."

At noon Wednesday, the Duke reopened the palace to the public at 2s 6d a head. He lets tourists in to help pay his taxes.

After what those bluebloods did to the joint the Duke seemed relieved to have the common people take over again.

Red Soldiers Said Wearing GI Uniforms

American Soldiers Never Sure Where To Turn Guns

By ROY McCARTNEY

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN SOUTH KOREA, July 6 — (Reuters) — North Korean armor and infantry smashed forward again today in a dawn attack which swept Americans another 15 miles south.

Unconfirmed reports said American bazookas and artillery knocked out 17 Russian-built tanks in a hard-fought rearguard action to avoid encirclement.

Red-starred tanks rumbled on as far south as Chonan, according to one report, only a few hours after over-running advanced American positions at Osan in the first head-on clash with American troops in South Korea. Chonan is only 35 miles from Taejon, temporary South Korean capital.

At first light the victorious Northerners struck through American entrenchments at Pyongtaek, 36 miles south of Seoul, pushing down the main road to Songhwan and then to Chonan.

Get Direct Hit

Sgt. Lester A. Loflen gave me this story of the second unsuccessful American bid to hold back superior strength:

"We were sitting astride the road at Pyongtaek when I saw eight North Korean tanks advancing down the road to where we had blown a bridge about 1,000 yards in front of our positions.

"Our mortars opened up and scored a direct hit on the first tank which burned fiercely.

"Mortars destroyed two more tanks and one truck.

"Behind the tanks marched the biggest number of tramps I've ever seen on the road. They were in fours, laughing, smoking, wearing anything from North Korean to our own G.I. uniforms."

He said confusion between North Koreans and southerners and American uniforms was so great "you don't know who to shoot."

Swarm Across Like Rats

Then the Northerners—50,000 infantry are said to be driving on in the greatest concentration of the 23-day-old campaign—swarmed across the river "like rats."

The tanks wheeled about to outflank the Americans who retreated to avoid being cut off.

Between 25 and 35 North Korean armored vehicles and tanks have been knocked out so far—more than half their local battle strength, an army spokesman said. He estimated that 160 to 170 Northern tanks had crossed the 38th parallel.

A senior American commander disclosed today — as the first casualty train arrived at Taejon from the front with one dead and seven wounded—that 30 to 35 per cent of the Americans who fought to the last bullet near Osan yesterday were either asualties or captured.

Lieutenant Hero By Accident

TOKYO, July 6 (AP)—Lieut. Harry M. Lister, of Topeka, Kas., twice jumped out of his stalled B-26 bomber before he finally hit the ground.

The first time his coveralls caught on the seat and the 29-year-old bombardier had to crawl back and release himself and jump again.

That started a chain of events like this:

Lister hit the water safely but his life raft tangled with his parachute and he floated about four hours supported by his life preserver before South Korean fishermen found him.

The Koreans could not ascertain whether he was Russian or American. That caused some bad moments.

Finally the Koreans took him to a village. Policemen eyed him suspiciosly. Eventually a Korean presented him with silver after-colonel cleared him as American. after-dinner coffee cups and sent him by jeep to Pusan, where the mayor and other city officials gave him a hero's welcome.

Australian Premier to Visit Ottawa

Expect Menzies Will Make Another Request For Pacific Pact

OTTAWA, July 6 — (CP). —Prime Minister Menzies of Australia, due here within the next two weeks or so, will probably use the Korean War as the basis for a renewed call to Canada and other powers to join in a Pacific defence pact, informed quarters said today.

Reports from Canberra indicate that he will come here from London and Washington and will be here a few days. Canadian officials said he could be assured of a hearty welcome and will see Prime Minister St. Laurent and the Cabinet.

Australian officials said the Menzies government has been pressing for a Pacific Pact for months, but has stipulated that it must have teeth and must include the United States. The Korean action, it is felt, has taken the western world in a long way in both directions on an informal basis.

Canada's stand has been that while countries such as the US, Britain, and India say a Pacific Pact is premature there is not much sense in pressing for one at this time.

Mr. Menzies is also expected to discuss methods for increasing Canadian-Australian trade, now hobbled by the dollar shortage, and for retaining the services of the steamer Aorangi, now nearing the end of her career as the only regular sea link between the two countries chiefly because of the same shortage.

Denies Red Union in BC Plant

MONTREAL, July 6—(CP)—R. E. Stavert, President of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, which was attacked by the Canadian Congress of Labor Wednesday for dealing with a Red-run union, said today that the C.C.L. had made "an irresponsible and misleading statement." Mr. Stavert issued a prepared statement in comment on a C.C.L. charge that the company was showing "indifference" to national security by maintaining a contract with the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers in its Trail, B.C., plant. The Mine-Mill Union was thrown out of the C.C.L. after it was ejected by the Congress of Industrial Organizations in the United States, the C.C.L.'s American counterpart. The Mine-Mill Union was charged with being Communist-controlled. Another Congress affiliate, the United Steel Workers, has been trying for certification as bargaining agent for the Trail plant workers.

The CCL executive committee said in Ottawa that the Trail plant is producing "strategic atomic fission materials."

No Foundation

Mr. Stavert said CCL statements to the effect "that the company is jeopardizing the security of Canada and negotiating sub-standard contracts by dealing with the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, the present legally certified bargaining agents for its employees, are completely without foundation."

He said the company signed with the mine-mill union June 1 a one-year contract "which provided for wage rates and working conditions above the average and comparable to the best in Canada.

For some time before this contract the steel-workers' union had been trying to gain the support of the Trail workers but their application for bargaining rights had been rejected by the British Columbia Labor Relations Board. The grounds, said Mr. Stavert, were that the steel workers did not have "the support of the majority of the employees concerned."

Ask Australians to Enlist Need to Build Up Forces

CANBERRA, Australia, July 6—(CP) — Prime Minister Robert Menzies today called on Australians to enlist in the armed forces "here and now" in view of the Korean crisis. Menzies moved that the House of Representatives approve the government's action of giving the United Nations aid in the Korean conflict.

Both houses unanimously endorsed the government's action supporting the Security Council.

Opposition leaders came out in support of Menzie motion.

Menzies told Parliament all Australia's fighting services need recruits and warned of "preparation that comes too late."

"The forces of peace always need strengthening," he said. "We are for peace. We do not understand aggression, but we will resist it with all we have."

Joseph Chifley, former Prime Minister and now opposition leader, issued a statement on behalf of the Labor party.

He said he agreed that United Nations intervention in Korea probably would do more than anything else to prevent a third world war.

Hopes For Peace

He expressed the hope that, apart from the success of the United Nations, one outcome of the Korean dispute would bring more peace in the form of self-government to the peoples of Asia where there was an upsurge of Nationalism.

The Deputy Opposition leader, Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, urged high-level political negotiations to bring about an armistice in Korea.

Dr. Evatt, former Australian Foreign Minister and former president of the United Nations General Assembly, told the House that an absolute condition of any armistice agreement must be the withdrawal of North Korean forces to their own territory.

He added, "this might not be possible, but I believe the attempt should be made."

Dr. Evatt said the Security Council "while pursuing its military objectives should not lose sight of the fact that its supreme object is to prevent war and, if war does break out, to bring it to an end."

Survey Leader Missing 13 Days

TIMMINS, July 6 (CP)—Search parties today scoured the thick bushland 45 miles northwest of here for James Breckon, missing for 13 days.

Breckon, an experienced bushman, was acting as chief of a five-man survey gang when he became separated from the rest of the party June 24. It was learned yesterday that he was missing.

Provincial Police and officials of the Spruce Falls Power and Paper Co., for which Breckon was working, fear for his life.

A search party of 50 experienced bushmen and eight planes is working out of Kapuskasing about 50 miles north of the spot where Breckon was first reported missing.

The searchers are combing a 40-mile square area with the belief that the missing man is somewhere in that area.

The planes have been equipped with a radio hook-up and one able to talk with the search party at a woodsmen office.

Police said that it is unusual for Breckon to be lost for so long. The are where he became lost is far from any community or mining area but he has a good knowledge of the bush.

It is not believed that Breckon had any food supply with him.

Without food and burdened by the black flies and mosquitos a man would have a difficult time to survive for long, police said.

Ontario Planning To Raise Own Pigs

TORONTO, July 6 — (CP) — Alarmed at the number of young pigs being lost throughout the province the Ontario government has decided to go into the pig raising business.

Agriculture Minister Kennedy said today he was seeking a site for the erection of a modern piggery for experimental and educational purposes. It will likely be located in Western Ontario.

"The demonstration farm will be operated by a farmer and the government will subsidize it," he said. "I am certain that the plan will save the province large sums annually."

Improvement of pasture lands will also be the subject of study by the department. The number of demonstration pasture farms in the province is going to be increased to six.

Start Bumping Rule

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Airlines in the United States announced today that a passenger "bumping" rule will go into effect tomorrow, but it will be mostly a standby measure. Under this procedure, the airlines will be permitted to remove passengers or cancel reservations when space is needed for military or government officials in connection with the Korean situation.

Cut Down Exports

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The US Commerce Department today cut down on the amount of aviation and auto-truck gasoline that may be shipped out of the country without an export licence. The department wiped out permission for licence-free exports of these materials up to a value limit of $1,000. It imposed a new licence-free limit of $25.00. Shipments to Canada and Mexico were excepted.

Alleged Murder Case Adjourned To July 13

MONTREAL, July 6 (CP) — Thomas Rossler, alleged killer of RCMP Constable Alex Gamman, appeared for preliminary hearing today on a charge of murder and was ordered for voluntary statement July 13.

Rossler appeared unconcerned and even smiled occasionally when identified by witnesses as the man who shot down Gamman during an unsuccessful bank holdup May 25. He was dressed in a faded khaki shirt and blue dungarees.

Victoria James, telephone company clerk, said she saw Rossler shoot bank manager S. G. Bickleg, who suffered a leg wound, and Constable Gamman. Frank Allen, an accountant, said he saw a man walking on a street near the bank. The man's pants leg appeared saturated with blood. He identified the man as Rossler.

Rossler also faces 13 other charges in addition to the murder count. He was captured in Montana June 17.

Kitchener YWCA in Uproar As Drunk Climbs Into Bed

KITCHENER, July 6—A score of mice couldn't have caused much more stir at the YWCA Tuesday night that did a 26-year-old Kitchener man who was "under the inflence."

Before the excitement had subsided and the man had been arrested he had entered several rooms and climbed into bed beside one of the women residents.

At first, the 'Y' boarder thought the sleepy one was her roommate. Then she smelled the alcohol on his breath and ran for help.

The man was charged with vagrancy as police investigation continued today.

He first appeared at the "Y" front door after midnight, inquiring for some man. When he was told it was the YWCA, he sat down on the front steps and later disappeared.

Later, he apparently entered several rooms. After the alarm was sounded, "Y" officials kept him talking until police arrived.

A screen door at the rear of the building had been forced open.

'It's My Son' Father Says Seeing Killer

Langton Prisoner Herb McAuliffe; North Bay Man Says

NORTH BAY, July 6—(CP) —W. E. McAuliffe said today the Langton murder suspect "is my son all right." Mr. McAuliffe said in an interview that he made the identification last Monday at Simcoe where a 37-year-old man previously identified as George Walker is being held.

"As soon as I saw him in the cell I knew it was Herb," said Mr. McAuliffe. "We didn't say much, just talked business."

The brief meeting in Norfolk County Jail apparently wipes out the last trace of doubt about the identity of "Walker."

He is charged with the $23,000 holdup of the Imperial Bank of Canada branch at Langton June 21 and the machine-gun slaying of two farmers who chased the bandit. The victims were Arthur Lierman and William Goddyn.

Many Aliases.

The man now identified as McAuliffe was captured June 24 after a 72-hour manhunt following the slayings. When arrested he gave his name as Frank West. RCMP fingerprint experts said later that records indicated his name was George Walker.

Windsor police, after a raid last week on a garage in which counterfeit 50-cent pieces had been made, indicated there was a link between the missing counterfeiter and the Langton suspect. The name McAuliffe was mention at that time.

Citizens who knew the man who rented the garage said he called himself McAuliffe and that he appeared to be the man whose picture appeared in newspapers after the Langton suspect was nabbed.

Mr. McAuliffe said today:

"He is my son all right. My other son, J. E. McAuliffe, and I saw a picture of the man arrested as the bank robber suspect in the paper on Sunday. He was sure it was Herb and so went to the Provincial Police in North Bay. They took us down to Simcoe Monday.

"As soon as I saw him in the cell I knew it was Herb."

He said his son lived in Simcoe before the war and served four years as a staff sergeant armament artificer—an expert on guns—during the war.

"After the war he returned to Simcoe and worked on tobacco farms. We haven't heard from him for a couple of years."

Claxton Makes Visit To Nfld.

OTTAWA, July 6 (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton left by air for Newfoundland today on a combined inspection tour and holiday. No definite date has been set for his return but he is expected to be gone at least a week.

Officials said he planned to make the trip before Korea came up and it has no special significance. He will inspect reserve units, visit the big Gander airport and three American military bases on the island. There were no military aides with him.

In the later stages of the visit, he hopes to land some salmon on the Gander river.

Four Men Killed In California Fires

LOS ANGELES, July 6 (AP)—Fires raging through about 55,000 acres of tinder-dry California brushlands brought death to four men and injury to another Wednesday night as more than 1,000 firefighters battled to control the flames in six regions.

The dead men were three Fort Ord soldiers and a state forestry employee trapped in the 24,000-acre Santa Margarita fire area, one of three in Los Padres National Forest.

The injured man was piloting a helicopter over the huge San Corgonio blaze in San Bernardino National Forest. The fire was extinguished by a heavy rain over the region late Wednesday.

Charge Reds Run Union In Atom Plant

OTTAWA, July 6 (CP). — A charge of Communist control of the labor force in a Canadian plant producing atomic materials was made Wednesday by the Canadian Congress of Labor.

The executive committee of the 360,000-member CCL attacked the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. for maintaining a contract with a Red-run union in its plant at Trail, B. C.

The charge drew immediate comment here and in British Columbia.

Defence Minister Claxton, at a press conference on the Korean situation, replied "No," when he was asked if such situations as that at Trail were giving the Defense Department any particular concern.

No Disloyalty

At Vancouver, Harvey Murphy, regional director of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers—which has the Trail labor contract—called the CCL statement "desperate ranting." He said the loyalty of the Trail workers could not be questioned.

The huge Trail plant is known to produce heavy water, a vital ingredient in the production of the atom bomb and in the peacetime-type atomic research being carried out at the federal government's atomic development at Chalk River, Ont.

The CCL's statement, issued during a periodic meeting of the executive committee, laid emphasis on the Korean crisis as a reason for cleaning Communists out of the union set-up at the strategic Trail plant.

Office Union Workers Strike In Windsor

WINDSOR, July 6 — (CP). — Union members in the office of Canadian Industries Limited here went on strike today after last-minute negotiations failed to reach a contract settlement between the company and Local 340, United Automobile Workers (CIO).

Picket lines were set up outside the office of the CIL salt and chemical plant in suburban Sandwich West Township.

About 50 office employees are involved.

There was no immediate work stoppage in the plant itself, where 360 employees are members of UAW Local 195.

The Office Employees' Union asked salary increases of $20 a month. The company offered an increase of $10 a month and a reduction of 1 hour 15 minutes in the work week to 37½ hours.

Commission On Arts Concluding Hearings

OTTAWA, July 6 (CP)—The Royal Commission on Arts and Science left here by air today for St. John's, Nfld., to conclude public hearings begun nine months ago.

The commission, headed by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey of Toronto, will conduct hearings in St. John's tomorrow and Saturday. The return to Ottawa is scheduled for Sunday or Monday and then the commission will continue work on a report and recommendations to the federal government.

Across Canada

We Visited The Mulligans

The first of a series of articles written by Jack Scott, Canadian columnist who is on a trip across Canada. Mr. Scott started in Alberta and is travelling by trailer to the Atlantic Coast.

BON ACCORD, Alta. — We dropped in on the Mulligans today and they're as fabulous as advertised.

You've already read about the Mulligans. Paw and Maw and their eleven kids woke one day on their decrepit farm to find they were sitting over a sea of oil. They've already cashed in to the extent of $40,000 and probably are set for life.

In dusty little Bon Accord, 18 miles north of Edmonton, where we stopped to ask questions, they told us Bill Mulligan's place was the one with the spruce trees two miles up the road. Which was true enough. But there were two more positive landmarks—a big, new oil storage tank and a seven passenger Chrysler with white-wall tires.

The farm is about as beat-up and ancient as a building can get without falling down. The winds of 50 years have swept the dirt up the leaning sides of the old shack and, outwardly it looks like a picture of despair.

But the Mulligans, in a cock-eyed kind of way, are indomitable.

The two twins, Lloyd George and Floyd George, 10 years old, wild-haired and gap-toothed, welcomed us with shouts and led us in to meet the old man.

He was sitting on a battered chesterfield that sagged springless almost to the plank floor. The room was in near darkness at mid-day, cluttered to the walls with weathered furniture and, among it, a brand new walnut dining room suite.

Bill Mulligan is 62, a leathery-faced man who looks as if he's going to bust out laughing at any minute. Two reedy, teenaged daughters were draped about him shoe-less, and nine-year-old Ruth lay across his lap, pulling at his socks. The old man gave her a cuff across the head and she ran off among the furniture, giggling. It was quite a scene.

"Money ain't gonna make no difference to us," Bill laughed. "Why, say folks around here thought I'd be goin' around wearin' a tuxedo, hat and all, but 'bout all it means to me is gettin' more cow manure."

Little Ruthie poked her head out from under what appeared to be a picnic table and shouted, "That's right, Paw, by Cripes," and ducked out of sight again. The other girls snuggled closer to the old man. Floyd George ran through the room hotly pursued by Lloyd George.

At this confusing point Florence Mulligan came into the room, a little, erect darting-eyed woman in a faded house dress. "Maw's lookin' after everything, ain't that right, Maw?" Paw said.

"I got it all in books," Maw said in a strident voice. "We gone through quite a bit what with the tractors and trucks we bought the older boys an' my gas washin' machine an' the car, but we still got some in the bank. We're goin' to build a house out back."

"Ain't gonna have no upstairs," Paw said. "Maw's gettin' too old to go traipsin' up and down the stairs. We ain't havin' no archy-teck, either. My boy Harry is our archy-teck."

At this, Maw produced a corn flake box on which a crude floor plan had been drawn in pencil by Harry, one of the four older boys who were off somewhere running their new tractors.

"Plenty o' pantries, that's what I wanted," Maw said proudly. "An' it's gonna be stucco, too, with inside toilet and 'lectric light. Nothin' wrong with this house, but it's gettin' small for us."

"She's the damndest woman," Paw said with an admiring glance at his wife. "Never even bought herself a new hat."

To the Barn

The Mulligans appear uncertain and unconcerned about their current financial status. As owners of their farm's mineral rights, they're said to haev made between $40,000 and $50,000 by selling "points" of their 12½ per cent interest in Metro-Excelsior No. 1, the bonanza on their property. Another hole drilled on the 320 acres was dry, but they'll probably get around $100 a week on a percentage basis.

"We ain't goin' away, that's sure," Paw said. "Our kids was born and raised here an' we like it. Drove all down through Montana and Wyoming when Maw got the car an' there's nothing the likes of Bon Accord."

"Say!" Maw interjected, "I got to go out and set the sick cow." She made for the back door and the rest of us followed her out into the littered yard.

The ramshackle barn was about 50 yards away, but Maw slipped in behind the wheel of the big car. The children piled in front with her. They all waved as the long black sedan bounced across the field. Maw was driving with her elbow professionally out the window.

Old Bill chuckled delightedly. "That woman can handle machinery like nobody I ever seen," he said. "That woman can run any dam' thing on the farm 'cept-in' that oil rig." And the old man looked across his dusty fields at the head of the well a stone's throw from the shack.

"By gosh, it's a funny world, ain't it?" he said.

Declares Union Attempted Halt Violence

LONDON, Ont., July 6—(CP)—A Union official said today that repeated efforts were made to forestall Wednesday's outbreak of violence at the strikebound Empire Brass Manufacturing Company plant.

Some 1,000 persons massed outside the east-end factory as non-union workers left at 5 p.m. Car windows were smashed and rocks and eggs tossed before Police reinforcements quelled the disturbance. One company official was punched.

Harold Rayner, local representative of the Congress of Industrial Workers, with which the strikers' union—the United Steelworkers of America—is affiliated, said a mass demonstration had been planned.

But the union decided to call it off in view of a scheduled company-union meeting in Toronto Friday with Louis Fine, Chief Conciliation Officer of the Ontario Labor Department. The crowd gathered Wednesday anyway.

The demonstration and violence dashed hopes that the Toronto meeting might lead to arbitration of the dispute.

Norman Champman, Sales Manager, said today the company now has no intention of sending a representative to the proposed meeting. Mr. Rayner said he still intends to go to Toronto.

Red Soldiers

Continue Advance

In Tokyo, General MacArthur's communique today reported three North Korean divisions were continuing to press southward towards Osan and Pyongtaek, 35 and 46 miles south of Seoul, but field dispatches put the Red vanguard 60 miles south of Seoul.

A frontline dispatch from AP correspondent Tom Lambert said the Reds had captured Pyongtaek and nosed into Chonan, 14 miles farther down the road.

The Tokyo headquarters communique did not confirm this, but said tank-supported Communist infantry was in the area 31 miles south of Seoul and eight miles south of Suwon. It said general invader reinforcement with troops and artillery was underway.

Withdrawal of American troops for "regrouping and reorganization" after co-ordinated invader infantry and tank assaults on U.S. positions was acknowledged by the communique.

Not Serious

(In Washington an army spokesman said General MacArthur's headquarters had advised that the situation of American ground forces "is not considered serious in any way.")

An American field headquarters spokesman had said a few hours earlier that American troops had been forced back eight to ten miles.

The Tokyo communique credited American F-80 jet planes with destroying eight enemy tanks in new strikes south of Suwon.

Rush Reinforcements

American reinforcements were being rushed to three points on the U.S. left flank at Pyongyon, Kongdoyu and Kanu, none of which are shown on detailed maps. The main action was reported in that area.

The fast-moving Red tanks forced abandonment of one American command post. Red infantrymen accompanied the tanks.

American gunners fired at almost point-blank range on the tanks, then removed breech locks and gun sights and pulled back.

A senior United States officer, pausing at a railroad station in the battle zone, said gloomily:

"It was a bad one this time."

U.S. soldiers agreed.

May Mean Heavy Losses

That could mean heavy American losses and a general kicking around by the invaders, who have shown power in their southward thrust.

The Americans were said to have destroyed up to 35 tanks in rear-guard action and up to 25 Yak planes.

Approximately 40 tanks and 1,000 North Korean infantrymen were in the fast moving force, which one was halted temporarily but picked up speed a short time later.

A command officer at Korean headquarters said Americans at the advanced positions had improved their lot by moving to a new defence positions. The Communists were reported to have by-passed some advance American units.

Asked if the situation were good or bad the commander replied: "no situation is good unless you are advancing."

More Bombing

U.S. air power continued to pound enemy bases despite poor flying conditions.

The U.S. Far East air force said its planes encountered no North Korean aircraft on 74 sorties. A sortie is one flight by one plane.

B-29 Superforts destroyed three spans of a bridge linking one of North Korea's biggest industrial centres with its nearby airfield. The bridge is north of Yonpo airfield, target of a recent raid by the powerful bombers.

The bridge leads to Hamhung, site of a huge nitrate plant, eight miles to the north.

Although there was an absence of enemy aircraft, a communique said anti-aircraft fire was increasing, particularly in the Seoul area.

O. H. P. King, Associated Press correspondent, said a responsible source at U.S. headquarters in Korea gave this picture of activity on the east coast:

Retake Town

The town of Utchin, occupied June 28 by waterborne Communist forces, has been retaken in the last 24 hours. Utchin is on the east coast approximately 125 miles southeast of Seoul, fallen capital of South Korea.

Some of the Reds pushed southward and joined 500 others but the combined force has been stopped 25 miles south of Utchin.

Allied vessels blockading the coast are supporting ground troops with their naval guns. They also have sunk 11 enemy craft.

The Pyongyang radio, monitored in Tokyo, claimed that North Korean forces made contact with the U.S. forces Wednesday night and the Americans "retreated in disorderly condition." The radio claimed that more than 150 Americans were killed and 50 captured.

But Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said there had been no Americans killed in action. Four had been wounded in ground actions.

The announcement listed four airmen wounded and six missing in action.

In Full Retreat

Lambert reported South Korean troops in full retreat.

MacArthur's communique said the situation on the Korean front is "extremely fluid."

This means that there are no established battle lines—opposing forces are constantly on the move, presumably at close range.

The battle area is between Suwon, the fallen airfield city, and Osan, 11 miles southward along a main highway. American and South Korean forces were driven to high ground at Osan.

The first Communist enveloping movement, across a front at least 25 miles deep from north to south continued today and the Communists were by-passing strong points and probing defences for weaknesses.

MacArthur's announcement said this drive may be part of "a larger enveloping movement from the east."

Communist tank concentrations have been reported in Red-captured Wonju, 45 miles east, and were pushing to Chungju, 23 miles southward.

AP correspondent King said there had been a clash between Communists and South Koreans at Chungju with the northerners using armored cars.

The route of this eastern column, if unchecked, could lead to a wide swing that would cut off the "line of retreat" as MacArthur reported last midnight. It could also sever vital American communication lines.

Feel UN Facing Long Campaign

LAKE SUCCESS, July 6—(AP)—Veteran UN people feel that the United Nations is in for a long, hard campaign to turn back Communist aggression in Asia.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie and his top aides, who would like to see the Korea fighting ended immediately with the North Koreans back beyond the 38th parallel, boundary between north and south Korea, are understood to have just about concluded that it will not be a short-term campaign unless there should be some unexpected shift.

Even after the war in Korea is over, UN observers say, there is no guarantee that the Communists will not break out somewhere else in Asia and the whole police action will have to start again.

Looking Ahead

In the belief that the war will continue for some time, the UN is preparing the framework for as effective a police force as it can muster.

The Security Council meets tomorrow for the first of these steps.

The United States, France, Britain and Norway were reported yesterday to have discussed a proposal for the council to do these two things:

1. Allow the United States to designate Gen. Douglas MacArthur as supreme UN commander in the Korean war.

2. Recommend that forces of UN members in the field fly the blue and white UN flag along with their national flag.

Talk of a war council to coordinate the UN political front against the North Korean Communists has dwindled.

Start Business

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6 (AP)—Red China and Poland have started business under the Sino-Polish trade agreement, the Peiping radio reported today. The broadcast said the first shipload of soybeans, oil seeds, tobacco, pig bristles and other commodities is on its way to Poland. A Polish vessel cleared Danzig on June 26 with steel, iron and other Polish goods for China, it added.

Build Prefab Ship

CHATHAM, England, July 6—(Reuters)—Building of the first British "prefab" ship—to be prefabricated in sections and then assembled—has started here.

Aid To Korea Wins Smashing British Support

LONDON, July 6 — (CP) — Britain's policy of aid to South Korea through the United Nations has won smashing support in parliament.

The House of Commons roared its approval Wednesday night of Britain's quick action in sending ships to help American forces and Australian planes in the conflict area. There were only a few dissenters. Their remarks drew ironic laughters and cries of "shame".

Winston Churchill and other Conservative leaders ensured the Labor Government victory on its policy motion by their unqualified support of the government action.

Prime Minister Attlee praised the speed with which the United States acted to meet what he said was "naked aggression" against South Korea.

Churchill reiterated in the Commons what he told the American Society in a Fourth-of-July speech: If the Communists get away with their invasion of South Korea, "a third world war would be forced upon us."

Asks Secret Session

Churchill recalled that before the Second World War, parliament had held a secret session and heard about Hitler's potential strength. The Opposition Leader suggested having a similar secret meeting now to discuss Russia's situation. Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, however, argued that a secret session would be a serious departure from peacetime practice. It appeared that Churchill would not get his request.

Churchill's deputy, Anthony Eden, held out to the Commons a picture of hope that Russia's Prime Minister Stalin may be drawing in his horns.

Condition Of Victim Delays Court Charge

SARNIA, July 6 (CP) — Ed Mundy, 26, of Point Edward, charged with a vicious attack on 69-year-old Charles Glynn May 23, appeared in court today for a further remand of one week.

Crown Attorney S. A. K. Logan said that he will not proceed with the charge of assault with intent to rob, until it has been established that the aged locksmith will not die as a result of his injuries.

Mundy has so far been unable to procure the necessary bail of $5,000 cash or $10,000 property bond.

Brother, Sister Reunited After 40 Years

ROSENEATH, July 6 (ENS) — Mrs. John Chase, Alderville, answered a knock at her front door on Tuesday, to greet her brother, Peter McDonald, Syracuse, N. Y., whom she had not seen in about forty years.

The McDonalds belonged to the Mohawk tribe and lived at St. Regis, New York State. Following the death of their mother, Mrs. Alex. McDonald, some fifty years ago, the three youngest children were sent to the Indian Residential School at Mouncey. They were Mary, (Mrs. Chase), Peter and Jacob. As each child reached the age of sixteen, he either returned home or went to work.

Peter had wanderlust and roamed around before settling down in Syracuse. Mary came to Alderville and later married John Chase. Tuesday was their first meeting since the day they said "good-bye" at Mouncey School about 1910.

Jacob, the other brother, was killed in France in World War One.

Mining Czar Flown To Mayor's QuebecSite

CAMPBELLFORD, July 6 — (ENS)—Harry (Red) Ayrhart, and Lyle Hendricks have flown equipment into a new property in the Chibougama area, 300 miles north-west of Val d'Or, Quebec, where Mayor Ernie Ayrhart of Campbellford has acquired new holdings and stake out mining rights. Mr. Hendricks, who is a graduate engineer, will be resident engineer on the new property.

Mr. Ayrhart, in an interview, said he hoped that by the end of the summer, more than 60 diamond drills will be in action in the Chibougama district of Quebec.

New road and rail facilities into this district will be a boon to mining in the area, he thinks, as transportation to the area previously was very bad.

Defence, Finances Object Of Quick Trip

CRANBERRA, Australia, July 6— (Reuters) — Defence Co-opation, migration and finance are the three main points Prime Minister Robert Menzies will discuss on his rush trip by air to London, Washington, Ottawa, Vancouver and New Zealand during the current parliamentary recess.

Leaving Sydney for London July 9, he will limit his stay at any one place to a few days.

Menzies today issued a statement that he would discuss "certain financial questions." This observers took to mean he would if possible arrange means of relieving the dollar shortage which is seriously retarding Australian development.

Modern and old time dancing were enjoyed by the patrons and "Toots" Blair handled the calling-off duties in excellent fashion.

The even drew many American visitors to the closed-off section of Bridge St., where fireworks were set off, in keeping with the national holiday customs of our southern neighbors.

The various games of chance and refreshment booths were well patronized.

Manitoba Fund Sponsors Thank Citizens

The Manitoba Flood Relief Fund announced today that its campaign to raise $10,000,000 ends July 15. But the fund is still about $3,500,000 short of its objective.

Ten million dollars was the sum originally decided on as the minimum required to repair property damage in southern Manitoba.

The Peterborough Examiner has been thanked for acting as a local agent for the fund. The united efforts of the Mayor's Fund, and those of CHEX, the diocese of Peterborough, Examiner and others have boosted the total from Peterborough and district to well over $20,000.

Money has been coming into the Winnipeg headquarters at the rate of more than $120,000 daily.

Already some 6,000 houses damaged by the flood are being restored and the work should be completed within a few weeks.

"The General Committee of the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund, and the flood victims whose homes will be restored by the fund wish to express to the Peterborough Examiner deep appreciation for all that you have done to assist in enabling the fund to reach its objective."

A telegram from Cecil Lamont, honorary national organizer, continues:

"They also ask that you convey deep appreciation to your citizens who have contributed so generously and to those who have worked so diligently in local efforts enabling the fund to reach its objective."

The Examiner fund has already closed and the Mayor's fund closes Friday. After that, donors wishing to help the flood victims should forward their contributions direct to the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund in Winnipeg.

Receipts will be issued later, but at the moment the voluntary workers issuing the receipts are unable to keep up with the donations. The staff is working "day and night" to issue them as soon as possible.

REDS BUILD UP FOR BIG PUSH—With Suwon and its airfield captured, North Korean forces are getting ready for a big push southward. A convoy of 25 tanks was reported moving down from Kaesong toward Seoul and Americans had their first skirmish with the enemy just north of the U.S. outpost at Pyongtaek, which has now been captured by the enemy. With the main Red force (big arrow) moving south from Suwon, South Korean troops were threatened with encirclement by a flanking force from the southeast. They are now reported in full retreat. Meanwhile, U.S. planes again bombed Pyongyang, capital of North Korea.

Keep In Touch With Destroyers

OTTAWA, July 6 (CP)—Modern communications will enable Canada to keep in close, quick touch with her three Pearl Harbor-bound destroyers, the navy said today. They left Equimalt, B.C., last night.

They are equipped with high-speed radio sending and receiving equpiment. From this end, the powerful Aldergrove naval station near Vancouver is able to reach vast areas of the Pacific by radio.

If the ships go the 6,000 miles to Korea as part of a United Nations force, they could be reached either by Aldergrove or by a similar British naval communications station at Hong Kong.

To Oust Meters By August 4 Council Decides

CAMPBELLFORD, July 6— (ENS)—The parking meter question came up again at the July meeting of the Campbellford Town Council. It was decided Councillor Maier in dissent, to notify the Mi-Co Meter Company immediately, that the meters were to come out at the end of the trial period. This period is up on August 4, but the company requires 30 days notice. Mayor Ayrhart was in favour of leaving the meters in on a month to month contract basis in order that the citizens of the town could vote on the question in January.

Councillor Maier, who was in contact with an official of the Health Department, had a few suggestions to offer concerning the town dump, and council gave him permission to erect signs and to fence in a portiton of the dump so that dumping could be controlled.

The High School Area question came up for much discussion, but as council could do no more about it at present time anyway, the discussion was dropped in favour of more pressing business.

Mr. J. C. Birmingham reported his tax collections to date had exceeded 33 thousand dollars, which is a little ahead of last year.

Gas Station Closing.

No reply has yet been received from the Garage Operators' Association. The clerk wrote the assocation asking them the procedure regarding prosecuting infractions of the by-law governing closing hours of filling stations. The representative of the assocation who was present at a special meeting held about a month age, 'old council that they had no choice in the matter, and had to pass the by-law. No action could be taken on the matter until a reply is received to the letter written by the clerk about a month ago.

Said Councillor Kingston, "If they are not in any hurry, I don't see why we should be." Council is not in favour of the by-law, and Mayor Ayrhart does not want any part of it because he said he did not think any judge would uphold the law. It is not democractic legislation when it interferes with a man's willingness and desire to earn his living" he said.

Tenders for a new truck for the town were opened, and council accepted the tender of Bradley Motors for a new three ton Ford unit. This would be suitable for hauling gravel and equipment and for plowing snow during the winter months. The price is $2935 and the unit will be complete with hoist and steel platform as well as all the other usual accessories.

Tenders for the position of foreman for the town were opened and after much discussion as to qualifications, price, and their desire to give the job to a returned man, it was decide to hire Wilbert Blake, well known local hockey player, on a trial period of six months. His salary will be $1820 per annum.

We Smile Sadly

We smile sadly as we survey the latest report of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, which covers the operations of that government body from April 1, 1948 to March 31, 1949. The sales of the L.C.B.O. in that time amounted to $82,908,656. The gross trading profit on that large sum was $31,714,003; that was what went to the Ontario government. The Government of Canada collected a further $28,742,312 in customs duties, excise taxes and other charges. To deal in round figures, this means that three-quarters of the money spent on liquor in Ontario in that year went in taxes of one sort and another. Or, to put the matter simply, if you pay $4 for a bottle of rye, you are paying $3 in taxes.

* * *

During the same period beer was sold in Ontario to the value of $100,392,231, and wine acounted for another $4,510,185. Add it all up roughly, and it will be seen that in a single year the people of Ontario spent about $188,000,000 on liquor of various kinds, and the taxes on it came to $98,500,000—or more than half. Ontario took $38 millions in taxes, the Federal Government took $60 millions and the remainder went to the 217 Ontario cities and towns which maintain liquor outlets.

* * *

Why do we smile sadly? Because we figure that your daily copy of The Examiner gives you approximately as much stimulation as a modest drink of your favourite tipple. But are we permitted to make the kind of profit that the governments make on the sale of liquor? Is the bread man? Or the milk man? Or the man who makes your butter? Or the man who sells your groceries, or shows you movies? If we were allowed to charge Government rates for this paper it would cost you 20 cents a copy, and if the press were government-owned that is very likely what it would cost.

* * *

Governments of the kind we have today were evolved to protect the people from grasping and unreasonable kings. The evolution is by no means finished, however. In the liquor trade, as carried on by our governments, the king-principle is still working unchanged.

Helicopter On C. D. Howe

The old days of annual Arctic patrol by the Nascopie are ended. For one thing, the Nascopie herself has gone; the vessel was lost after it grounded on a reef in Hudson Strait during the 1947 patrol. For another the new Arctic patrol boat is a different sort of proposition. She, the C. D. Howe, arrived in Montreal from shipyards at Lauzon, Quebec, com-Tuesday morning on her maiden voyage plete with a helicopter on her aft deck. It is to be the C. D. Howe air eye; it is only one item of its latest equipment for navigating difficult Arctic channels which the Nascopie would never have dreamed of.

Further, the C. D. Howe sails in two weeks for the far north with a noted but probably less universally appealing name than Nascopie. Is she establishing a new fashion in ship names? Now that the Department of Transport has flattered the Minister of Trade, may we expect that Mr. Howe's department will soon return the compliment by naming, say, the office of the Standards Division of the Department of Trade and Commerce, which administers the National Trade Mark and True Labelling Bill (1949), the Lionel Chevrier Chambers?

We Don't Want To Be Merchants Of Unhappiness

Our blood ran a little cold as we read the following item in the current issue of Time:

Addressing 400 fashion experts at a Fashion Group luncheon last week in Manhattan's Astor Hotel, Allied Stores Corp.'s B. Earl Puckett was stern. "Basic utility," said he, "cannot be the foundation of a prosperous apparel industry . . . We must accelerate obsolescence." Reminding his listeners that 1948's apparel sales had been exceptionally good because of that year's one-shot "New Look," Puckett added that what was needed was a New Look every year. "Money that was not spent for soft lines . . . was not spent on other lines of merchandise, but was saved by the consumer. It is our job to make women unhappy with what they have . . . You might call us 'merchants of unhappiness' . . ." Concluded Puckett: "We must make these women so unhappy that their husbands can find no happiness or peace in their excessive savings . . ."

This newspaper is in the advertising business, and it is part of our job to help people to sell things. We believe in advertising as a legitimate and successful way of promoting business. But we do not believe (and we think that our advertisers would agree with us in this) that it is good to browbeat and hornswoggle people into buying things they cannot pay for and which they don't want and don't need. That is the way to ruin individuals and nations. And we have no desire whatever to be merchants of unhappiness.

We believe that legitimate business, including the advertising business, is firmly hitched to people's needs; various sorts of goods compete for the money people have to spend, and advertising is the way in which sellers tell their story, and buyers make comparisons.

We don't want women to be unhappy, and we don't want them to hound their husbands to spend money which they ought to save. We don't think that unhappiness profits anybody. In short, we think that Mr. Puckett is all wrong.

Chew On The Core Of The Kawarthas

Lindsay questions Peterborough's right to the name "Gateway of the Kawarthas." Lindsay wants it for herself. Tush! Peterborough wouldn't hear of such a steal: this city has been known as the Gateway to the Kawarthas ever since Big Chief Spewgog bequeathed the name to the English language, and Champlain was inducted as a chief of his tribe on our market-square. Lindsay had better shop elsewhere for a tour-lure. "Hub of the Kawarthas" will not do; Peterborough has a copyright on that, too, though, if we mistake not, Bobcaygeon has placarded itself "Hub" without a by-your-leave. "Heart of the Kawarthas" is a trade-mark of Buckhorn—or is it Burleigh Falls that cuddles that one? Lakefield has fastened on 'Key to the Kawarthas." So far as we know "Core of the Kawarthas" has not been copped yet. It is a good alliteration phrase. If the word "core" has too tough and wormy a significance, we could suggest "Kernel of the Kawarthas".

But perhaps the great ones of Lindsay may feel that 'kernel" is a minimizing, belittling term. Really, the one obvious term for Lindsay, situated as it is on backwater Scugog River, a mere Kawartha appendix to an appendix (Lake Scugog), is "Tail of the Kawarthas". That is our final suggestion to help the town out of its name-calling quandary: Lindsay, Tail of the Kawarthas. Take it or leave it, or shake it.

Time To Change The King's Visage

Canada's greenbacks are out of date. Nearly all of them carry the date: January 2nd, 1937. That was 13½ years ago. And they carry the face of the King as he was a year after his coronation. Now the King is a grandfather. He has been through the bombing of London, the largest war in human history, and the disintegration of his Empire. It is a wiser, an older and a more revered King who heads this nation and the British Commonwealth. It is time for the Government, the Royal Mint or the British American Banknote Company Limited to change its plates— and the image of our King on the obverse side of the dollar, two dollar and other common notes of this Dominion of Canada. Admittedly the youthful Queen Victoria appeared on British coins long after the bloom of youth and the flush of Albert had gone. There were only two official Queen Victorias, the young and the old. But now the pace is different, and there are news photographs and television to picture for us the ruler as he now appears. King George VI of 1950 is a different person from King George VI of 1937. Let him appear on our bank notes as the King he now is.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Ottawa Citizen comments in surprise that a Russian cultural delegation is headed "not by a professor, but by a general". The real surprise, of course, would be if a cultural delegation were headed by an artist.

The Russians are reported to be trying to cross the cow with the giraffe. An animal with the neck of a cow and the milk-production of a giraffe would, we presume, be attributed to sabotage by the effete democracies.

An English clergyman says that men and women should have four romances each before marriage. On the principle, we presume, that while comparisons may be odious they are not half so odious as mistakes.

Profile Of Trygve Lie

THE clash in Korea has been felt throughout the world, not only by governments but by every household. While everyone waits and listens, their attention is chiefly on Truman and MacArthur, their nerves react to the silences of the Kremlin. Somewhere in their strained and confused sensations they are aware of the symbolic terms, United Nations, Lake Success, Security Council, and of the figure of Mr. Trygve Lie.

How are they to regard these emblems now? The answer of history may well be that in the last week of June, 1950, the United Nations simultaneously suffered its greatest reverse and achieved its greatest success. It has failed to prevent the division of the world into hostile camps and the use of armed force. But it has produced a united and positive reaction to aggression throughout the non-totalitarian world; in this it has succeeded where the League of Nations failed.

Naturally, neither the failure nor the success of the United Nations can be justly attributed to one man. Indeed, its central figure and Secretary-General, Mr. Trygve Lie, seems less like the captain of a ship than a buoy caught between powerful currents, sometimes sucked down, pushed this way and that, a marker showing where the world-political maelstrom (which is the name of a celebrated whirlpool off the coast of Norway) is likely to drive the ships of state.

* * *

MR. LIE was selected as Secretary-General of United Nations when the essence of that post was to be the highest common denominator between deeply divided nations. If Mr. Lie has been found to be a neutrally-minded negotiator, that is exactly what he was asked to be. Had he not been neutrally minded, his appointment would have been vetoed: and negotiation was the nature of his work.

It is off the mark to criticize him for not being sufficiently hostile to the Russians: had he been disgusted by the managers of a slave state, he would not have been able to talk to them politely. It is also irrelevant to criticize him as an indifferent administrator: his chief task was not to organize a secretariat but to keep it employed, which meant keeping ideologically hostile nations on speaking terms. More than the United Nations itself (which may change its composition and character some day) he has become the symbol of what those who chose him believed in, at the time they made their choice.

* * *

TRYGVE LIE is a rotund and affable Norwegian who gives an impression of unending optimism. His face puckers easily into smiles, he loves company and jovial conversation. Sitting at the head of a conference table, his large body comfortably relaxed in the leather upholstery of a U.N. armchair, he has seemed mentally cushioned from the malice and vituperation of the discussion. "A big, rosy, wonderful man," Mayor O'Dwyer of New York once called him.

It was decided to remunerate the post of Secretary-General with a salary of $20,000, an expense allowance of another $20,000, a comfortable house, large car, and the prospect of a $10,000 pension. Mr. Lie has made full use of his opportunities for essaying diplomacy by means of hospitality. It was a typical Lie triumph that he had the Russian and American delegates lunching with him on the day after the Korean attack, and that both turned up.

He is not unaware of the futility of much of his work, despite his optimistic public utterances. ("Brighter times are ahead" August 13, 1949), and despite the apparent naivete of some of his pronouncements ("There are significant and disheartening absences here that I believe would not have occurred had political events taken a different course during the past few years." May 8, 1950.) He has been known, privately, to throw up his hands in despair and sigh for the tranquillity of a Scandinavian life.

* * *

HE has been called vain, and certainly he appreciates how few men there are in the world who could fill his peculiar position. Most of his staff, however, believe that his pride is in his job, rather than in himself, and therefore approve it. He was greeted by an outdoor demonstration of his several thousand cosmopolitan colleagues on returning to the offices at Lake Success after his recent much-publicized journey abroad. And he has always said that he believes "with heart and soul" that it is his duty and right to speak up when the welfare of the organization itself is in question.

His belief in the importance of his own function received its first rebuff over the Azerbaijan crisis in 1946. Dismayed by the violence of the debate (occasioned by a Communist move resembling the first phase of the present Korean struggle), he proposed that the subject be struck off the agenda. The chief Western delegates were quick to remind him that his job was that of janitor of the United Nations, not policy planner.

Since then he has been more cautious, but he showed a burst of independent enterprise this spring, when, ignoring Western advice, he undertook a journey via Europe, West and East, to Moscow. En route the Prague journalists were rude to him, and he got little change out of the meticulous ogres of the Kremlin. This may possibly have been the last of such journeys.

* * *

BUT throughout this Odyssey, Mr. Lie was greeted in all countries with evident marks of popular approval. It was plain that ordinary people have as much respect for him as he has for them. "It is impossible" he once said, "to over-estimate the collective power of all the faith and confidence which has been invested in the United Nations by humanity." Mr. Lie has himself proved that it is all too possible to over-estimate these factors; but, none the less, these factors exist, and it is Mr. Lie who represents them.

It has been suggested that Trygve Lie's reluctance to side publicly against the U.S.S.R., despite her ill behaviour towards the United Nations, indicates that he has a soft spot for Communism. That is quite untrue: his soft spot is for peace. Nevertheless, he has frequently been denounced by the formerly isolationist sections of the American press as a "two-hundred-pound Communist stooge."

His political background in fact makes him about as far to the Left as our Mr. Bevin (but his style of diplomacy more nearly resembles that of Mr. Eden, with whom he gets on better than with Mr. Bevin). Coming of working-class parents, he has been a faithful member of the Norwegian Labour Party since the age of fourteen. Incidentally, his domestic life has been even longer-established—he first gave his wife a ring when he was six years old, and they are an inseparable couple.

* * *

AFTER World War I the Norwegian Socialists, like our own, sympathized with the Russian Revolution, and in 1921 young Trygve was sent as secretary of a party delegation to visit Moscow. Two years later came the inevitable split between the Norwegian Communists and Socialists, terminating his association.

Trygve Lie took a law degree at twenty-one and became the legal adviser to his party and to the trade unions, until he entered the Cabinet in 1935. During World War II he became Foreign Minister in the emigre government in London, and he attended the San Francisco conference as Norwegian delegate, presiding over the Commission which drafted the United Nations Charter. Back in Oslo his strong tendency was to keep Norway neutral (unlike that of his successor, Hr. Lange, who brought Norway into the Atlantic Pact).

Had his career gone no further, he and his friends would have felt that it had been entirely successful. His subsequent career has indeed been maliciously described as a case of "small man makes too good."

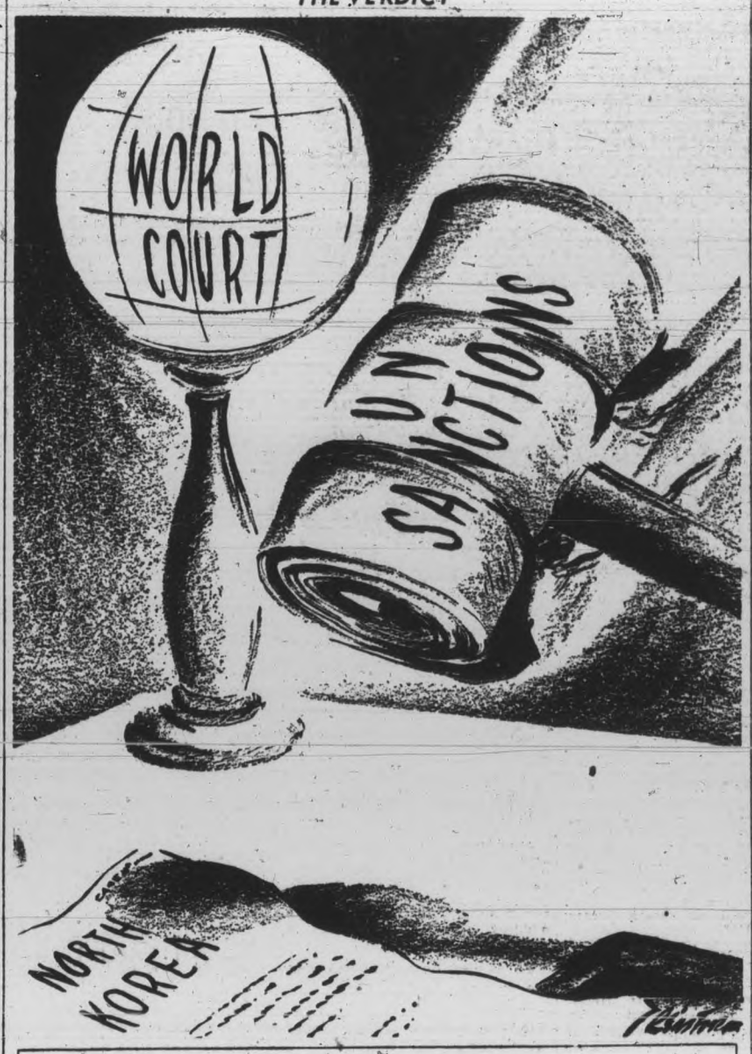
In view of his whole tendency to compromise, his most remarkable act has been his most recent one. It was he who called the United Nations delegates out of bed at 3 a.m. last Sunday morning and summoned them to an immediate conference on Korea, instead of waiting till Monday morning. That single act altered the character and probable consequences of this international episode by enabling the United Nations to regain the diplomatic initiative.

* * *

WILL Mr. Lie, despite his denials, stand for re-election to the Secretary-Generalship next year? And, if the United Nations continues to develop, as it is at this moment, into the club of the free nations (rather than the debating ground of the "cold war") would Mr. Lie be a suitable Secretary-General?

His career provides obvious reasons why he is less suited to such a positive role than to his previous one of mediator. But if Mr. Lie himself moves with the times, as it seems probable that he will, it should be remembered that his very hesitations have made him the representative of hesitant people throughout the world. He has their good will, and that is an international asset.

THE VERDICT



Letter To The Editor

HIGH TAXES IN NORTH SMITH

Sir: We take off our hats to Charles Chapman, reeve of the township of Manvers, who with the Township Council called a meeting of the ratepayers to oppose being railroaded into an agreement without the vote of the people.

Where is our Township Council that they are not calling a meeting to discuss the same situation in North Smith?

It is impossible for most of us to carry on and if new High Schools are built in Apsley and Lakefield with six small school sections carrying the burden of raising money for practically half the expense. We are shouldering a debt that we and our children will struggle under for the next twenty years.

This year Smith paid over $12,000 of $16,450 expenses incurred in the High School area. If new schools are built what will our taxes be in the future?

We have already helped to build one High School in Lakefield, and no child can be refused in the county whether it lives in a High School area or not.

As for free transportation—what is free about it? It just cost Smith about $8,000 more than it would have cost ordinarily without a bus to convey the children of five families from the northern part of Smith. The children from our section, S.S. No. 6, have no actual need of transportation.

Why not pay for our children's education as we have always done? This year it would have cost a little over $4,000. Surely the parents could assume the responsibility of transportation for their own children if the township pays the cost of their education.

I think our Township Council should call a meeting in the town hall at Lakefield and invite all ratepayers from School Sections 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 12 to attend and vote whether to stay in the area or whether to demand equal taxation for everyone as suggested at the protest meeting held at S.S. No. 7 Smith.

My taxes this year are nearly four hundred dollars, over $80 of that going for High School.

Yours truly,
TAX POOR.

Bible Message

And the Lord God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof; and the rib, which the Lord God had taken from man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man. (Gen. 2: 21, 22.)

Then Job answered the Lord, and said, I know that thou canst do every thing, and that no thought can be withholden from thee. (Job 42: 1, 2.)

By faith Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went. By faith he sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country, dwelling in tabernacles with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise: for he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God. (Heb. 11: 8-10.)

Know ye therefore that they which are of faith, the same are the children of Abraham. (Gal. 3: 7.)

Aerial Photographer Sees Strange Object

LOS ANGELES, July 6 (AP)—William Grant, 26, former aerial photographer, today reported seeing a brilliantly lighted circular object in the sky last midnight.

He estimated the object was 50 feet in circumference and when first seen was about 1,000 feet overhead. Its speed at first was 100 miles an hour, then increased to about 500 miles an hour before disappearing, he said.

"It was in sight about 45 seconds," Grant said. "It left no exhaust trail and made no sound."

His story was confirmed by a friend, Gilbert Magill, 35, president of a firm conducting research with helicopters.

Accept Offer Few Hours Before Strike

CALGARY, July 6.—(CP). — A transportation strike scheduled to start at 5 a.m. today was averted a few hours earlier when employees of the city-owned transit system accepted a last-minute wage-hour offer by City Council.

The strike would have paralyzed the city during the week of the Calgary Stampede, the city's biggest tourist attraction.

While the press was not admitted to the union meeting which accepted the offer, it was reported that the margin favoring settlement was large.

The city's offer will give the men a 40-hour week in place of their present 44-hour week, with a reduction of $6 monthly in take-home pay. Present salary is $218 for bus and street car motormen.

Employees will get a $3-a-month cost-of-living bonus retroactive to last Jan. 1, which continues in effect until a 42-hour week at a 4½-cents-an-hour wage boost can be introduced. A later change to a 40-hour week with a total 8¼-cent increase will complete the change-over to the new rates. Timing of the changes will be set so as not to exceed the transit system's budgeted surplus of $27,500 for 1950.

The unions, the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America (AFL) originally demanded a 40-hour week with no pay cut. Settlement followed a month of negotiation.

150,000 Flee Korean Capital

ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, July 6 (Reuters)—With the front line less than 60 miles from Taejon, South Korea's temporary capital is slowly emptying.

One hundred and fifty thousand refugees have started the trek southward, joining the unending stream of refugees already going south from Suwon, Pyongtaek and Chonan.

One wizened old Korean trudged along the muddy road carrying his exhausted wife in a basket litter above his head. Another dragged a barrow loaded high with bedding, boxes, and clothing on which was perched a young girl comforting a crying baby sister.

Two roads to the south were blocked by a long stream of bullock and pony carts piled high with household goods. By their side women and children trudged in silent line.

Those still remaining at Taejon sat outside weather-board and mud-walled homes watching the procession pass. They seemed as indifferent to the refugees as to the camouflaged jeeps and trucks shuttling back and forth carrying green-clad South Korean soldiers armed with pistols, rifles and knives.

Cheaper Fruits, Vegetables Basic Labor Election Plank

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, July 6 — (CP) — Cheaper fruits and vegetables may be a basic part of Labor's plans for the next election.

Party leaders are reliably reported to be studying proposals for establishing government markets throughout Britain.

Trained staffs, probably including many middlemen absorbed from the present system, would handle and grade all fruits and vegetables at government depots which presumably would replace such famed distribution centres as London's Covent Garden.

Even the most optimistic Socialist spokesmen admit that trying to reduce retail prices is a tricky, thankless task. But there are signs that the cost of living will be one of the main issues whenever the next election is held.

There is popularly supposed to be a continuing struggle within the party regarding its attitude toward further nationalization. Whichever wing emerges triumphant—those who want to call a halt now or those who favor all-out "socialism"—retail prices will still play a dominant part.

Made Promise

In its manifesto for last February's general election, Labor made this promise:

"Fruit and vegetables: more wholesale and retail markets under municipal or other public ownership, together with improved storage facilities, will reduce the present waste in marketing."

Little has been heard of this since the election. Similar silence has enveloped a Labor proposal for an "independent consumer advice centre," which would counsel housewives on what brands give the best value for the money.

Now both sides are reported under consideration by a cabinet committee.

Whatever happens, it seems clear that Labor leaders are determined to embody some fresh and appealing proposals in the next speech from the throne, outlining government legislative plans, in the autumn. Because of the present precarious parliamentary situation, the address that opened this parliament will be remembered for promising legislation to keep cattle from straying across highways—a curious contrast to a state opening rich in color and fanfare.

Petes Edge Out A's, 15-14 In Nifty Lacrosse Contest

The Petes jerked out a 15-14 OLA senior "A" victory over St. Catharines Athletics before some 1,500 fans at Miller Bowl last night in the best game so far this season. It was a real dogfight all the way with a thrilling finish as the speedy A's tried desperately to sew it up. Play was speedy, close and clean throughout with but five penalties, and non handed out in the last half. With both teams fresh at the start, there was some heavy scoring in the first chukker, with the Petes having an 8-6 margin. St. Kitts outscored them 4-3 in the second to make it 11-10 for the Creighton crew at the half. Each counted a goal in the third and ecah side tallied three times in the rousing fourth. Dugan's goal at 10.21 proved the winner, but Speck had to be good to keep out that equalizer in the dying minutes.

SCORES SIX — Arn Dugan was in great form for the Petes here last night as they edged out St. Catharines 15-14 in a senior OLA fray. Dugan scored six goals and assisted on three more to help the homesters' cause considerably.

St. Kitts' Fans

St. Catharines brough along a busload of fans as it promised to be a fine fixture, and it was. They checked hard but it was generally clean but for a brief flurry of fists in the second between Bob Thorpe and Nit O'Hearn, both drawing major penalties. Jerry Fitzgerald and Dootch Vitarelli did some effective checking all the way, as the fast-stepping St. Kitts players kept charging in at every opportunity. Despite the count, the rival goalies were good, neither giving away any soft markers.

Arn Douglas was the individual star for the Petes, scoring six goals in a bangup showing, and helping out on three more. Don Ashbee clicked for four neat markers and aided on two. Bob Thorpe assisted on four. Dootch Vitarelli got two goals, while Lou Vitarelli, Em Creighton and Jerry Fitzgerald hit the twine once each. Single assists went to Fitzgerald, Creighton, Lou Vitarelli, Ralph Speck and Joe Nolan. The whole team toiled hard in a hot session.

Led The A's

Tony D'Amico paced the Athletics' attack, scoring four goals. Leo Teatero was effective, too, to fool Speck three times, while Pat Smith and Jim McMahon each got a pair. Jim McNulty, Ken Croft and Frank Madsen scored once apiece, while Croft and Steve Omeschuck—a starry gridder — each had two assists. One apiece went to Jim McNulty, Madsen and Frank Bird. The visitors staged a stirring finish when the 14-all tie was broken, and they almost tallied several times in the final few minutes.

Probably threatening weather kept the crowd down, as more than 3,000 ordinarily would be on deck for such a struggle, and those who did attend saw the liveliest scrap seen in Miller Bowl so far this season. It was speedy, open and with enough stiff checking seen to suit everyone, and plenty of smart goal-making plays built up on either side. The Petes are away now till July 14, playing in Brampton Friday and in Toronto next Tuesday. The teams:

St. Catharines—Goal, Whitaker; defence, Madsen and McMahon; centre, Joe McNulty; wings, Bird and O'Hearn; rover, Croft; alternates, Smith, Teatero, D. Frick, D'Amico, Whipper, Jim McNulty and Oneschuck.

Petes—Goal, Speck; defence, Fitzgerald and Nolan; centre, L. Vitarelli; wings, Magee and Kinna; rover, Roundpoint; alternates, J. Breakspear, D. Vitarelli, Thorpe, Ashbee, R. Breakspear, Creighton and Dugan.

Referees—J. Murphy and L. Vipond.

Believe Locke Man To Beat

TROON, Scotland, July 6 (AP) —All eyes focussed today on unruffled Bobby Locke, the mechanical golfer from South Africa, as the man to beat in the British open championships.

Golfers remember how Locke won the title last year. Playing Irishman Harry Bradshaw, he imperturbably sank a tough putt for a birdie on the 17th green which enabled him to go on and tie his opponent. Then, in the 36-hole playoff, Locke won by 12 strokes.

That's the way this killer of the fairways operates. He never worries about a bad shot or gloats over his many good ones. He concentrates on the next poke.

He never varies his putting routine. He sizes up the putt, takes two practice strokes, and taps the ball—usually only once.

Locke didn't lead the field at the end of Wednesday's first round but he was just one stroke off the pace with a 69.

The leader was Arthur Lees, a round little Yorkshireman. Lees had a 68 but most folks around here don't think he can hold that pace for four rounds. They feel the same way about E. E. Whitcombe, another Briton who tied Locke with 69.

Club Folds Up For Good In Lakeshore

By DON GRANT

A warning to one and all: never tell Art Pagett, George Masters or Len Symonds that Peterborough youths are hungry for baseball.

Early in the spring, backed by a group of interested young baseball players, these three men planned a team for the Lakeshore Baseball League and started practises. Attending several meetings the team finally entered with Colborne, Lindsay, Oshawa, Whitby, Bowmanville, Port Hope and Cobourg in a league mixed with intermediate "A," intermediate "B" and junior baseball teams.

Until several weeks ago, the team was riding high with the exception of several losses. Then the players began to make excuses for not turning out for out-of-town games.

Saturday's game in Oshawa was the payoff. After scurrying throughout the city in the afternoon a team was finally collected to play the evening tilt with disastrous results.

The Same Thing

On Wednesday at noon the coach and manager had only seven players lined up for the trip to Cobourg, the other 19 players having some chore to attend to outside of baseball. Again extra players were added so the game could be played.

After Fred Campbell Wednesday led the Cobourg Legionnaires to a 7-0 one-hit pitching chore over the local intermerdiates, Manager Masters told the club that the team was pulling out of the league with the first half of the schedule completed. He explained that although the club was operating with a deficit, the main reason for the discontinuation of the club was the lack of interest of players.

Financially the team has suffered at home games at which only a handful of fans attend. Several home games have been taken out-of-town to provide funds for the teams to operate on. Wednesday night's game was one. Ashby's sporting store helped the team with some equipment and transportation but did not fully back the team. The players were entirely on their own in the venture. The loss to Cobourg Wednesday was the ninth for the locals against four wins and one tie.

One Safe Hit

Campbell held the locals in check throughout with only minor outbreaks in the fourth and fifth. The only hit was a clean, fast single to left in the fourth by Spence who stole second to freeze.

Meanwhile the Legionnaires met Carmen Jaquith in the third for two runs off two hits. He was chased in the fourth when Fred Campbell, the pitcher, started with a triple into centre, scoring on the next play, an error. A stolen base, an error and a wild pitch allowed the fourth run to score. After Hogan singled, Cooper homered into deep right to end Jaquith's reign.

Pagett, at short, traded places with Jaquith to retire the side. A single, an error and another single in the sixth allowed the other Cobourg run to score.

Fred Campbell also led his team with two singles and a triple in three times at the plate while Hogan had two for four.

Some of the Viaduct League ball teams have played more games than others so far, but a glance at the loss side of the standing shows how well bunched the top four clubs are. New Toronto has lost just five to date, Oshawa and the Aces have each dropped six, and the Petes are right on their heels with seven reserves in 15 starts. A real scramble, eh? It'll be Toronto Aces and the Petes at three Saturday aft in Riverside, and this should be one of the best scraps of the diamond season. A win could do either club a whole lot of good in the hot race. Haven't heard yet what pitcher will get the local assignment.

The Philadelphia Phillies of the National League open a four-day baseball school in Belleville on July 17. Workouts are scheduled from 10 a.m. to 3.00 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Boys from 16 to 22 years of age are invited to practice and try out, bringing their own gloves, uniforms and spikes. Anyone making the grade will have expenses refunded. Two of the Philly scouts, Pat Colgan and Dale Jones, will be in charge of the school, and they're anxious to see a big turnout. The search for diamond talent swings more and more toward this country in recent years, as the States have been and are being combed thoroughly.

Danny On The Job

Danny Brown, coach of the Peterborough Minor Baseball Association, has drafted a drill schedule for the summer, starting Monday morn in Riverside. Players should clip it out. Monday is peewee day each week, the infielders going from 10 a.m. to noon, while the pitchers and outfielders are instructed from two to four p.m. Tuesday is bantam day, infielders in the a.m. and the pitchers and gardeners in the aft. The midgets are there Wednesday, the infielders before noon and the outfielders and hurlers after. And on Thursday, the juves go in the same order. Bring your gloves and spikes. Fridays are left open for games or postponed drills.

The PMBA-ers should get a big financial lift Saturday eve when Tip Tops of Toronto play the Mutuals an exhibition in the Bowl at 8.30. Proceeds for minor ball here. The world's champs are a great attraction, carrying such aces as Billy Imray, Lennie Gaull, Art Upper, Joe Spring, Goody Rosen, Ed Geraldi, Bob Dear, Peck Palmeri, Tom Stewart, Percy McConner and Charlie Justice. Yes, Sam Shefsky has a grand squad there. Justice used to pitch for Joe Louis Bombers of Detroit, but was induced to move to Toronto and last fall the big Negro pitched Tip Tops to the senior softball title in Little Rock, Ark. The Tip Tops' first battery will play for the locals on Saturday.

Woollens Drop Two

Marines and Electrics were girls' softball winners at the Bowl last evening, and the Woollens were victims in each case. Outboards rolled to a 12-5 verdict whilst CGE took a 20-13 decision in a rather loose affair. A total of 66 safe hits in the twin bill and a dozen miscues. It wouldn't hurt for officials to get these games started on the dot, and clubs should be ready to go at the appointed time. It'll be Marines' turn tomorrow eve at the Bowl to go in both ends of a double-header, meeting CGE in the first and finishing up as home team against Woollens. The lasses schedule concludes a week from Friday, unless there are some postponed tilts to run in.

You won't see much more thrilling lacrosse than that senior tilt served up at Miller Bowl last e'en. The Petes gained a 15-14 win o'er St. Kitts by the skin of their molars —and with a lot of help from Arn Dugan. He scored just six goals and helped on three more. A dandy showing by him and his partners. Don Ashbee was hot, too, on the attack, and Bob Thorpe was in there punching. As were the Vitarelli brothers. Whole team clicked well, and we liked the checking and hustle of Jerry Fitzgerald and Dootch Vitarelli. The A's made it a real battle in a clean, open scrap, staging a hot finish when down a goal. A nice one to grab. Petes are off to Brampton on the morrow and in Toronto next Tuesday, not showing here again till July 14.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The entry for the Lift Lock open doubles tournament (96 pairs), has been obtained and likely the draw will be made this weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Niven, Glasgow, Scotland, were visitors at our club last evening and took part in the tournament. They are here on three months vacation. Mr. Niven is a brother of Mr. H. Niven, Canadian Nashua Paper Co.

We have no report from any of the bowlers who were out of town yesterday, playing at Uxbridge, Cannington, Cobourg and Campbellford.

There was a fair-sized crowd out for the mid-week tournaments.

From a Petersburg paper: The doctor felt the patient's purse and admitted there was nothing he could do.

Wednesday's winners:

First—Mrs. G. Beatty, S. Wildman, Mrs. W. Petrie, P. Moore sk.

Second—E. Smith, H. Staunton, Mrs. F. Owens, Mrs. H. Beatty sk.

Third—Mrs. A. Leach, Mrs. A. Aitkenhead, Mrs. F. Hall, J. Adams sk.

Southenders Win

The southenders pulled out a 6-5 juvenile baseball victory over East City in a fine fixture at Riverside Park. The winners were held to five hits by Murdock while the losers got seven off McIlraith and Murphy. Both sides hustled all the way, though having three errors apiece, in a keen contest. The victors used two batteries, both going well, McIlraith and Bigford being replaced by Murphy and Bryan. Murdock went the distance for East City with Pammett receiving. These teams play at Riverside again tonight.

Nelson Putting New Life In Cards, Whip Reds 5-3

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rocky Nelson looks like the answer to Eddie Dyer's "Who's on first?" riddle. Since Nelson rejoined St. Louis, the Cards have won six straight on their march into the National League lead.

First base has been manager Dyer's headache since he took the job. Each spring he goes through the same motions, hoping to keep Stan Musial in the outfield. Usually Stan winds up on first.

It was the same story last March. Steve Bilko, the hulking rookie from Rochester, opened, but on May 5, when he was recalled, he was leading the American Association with a .419 batting average.

He continued where he left off in the minors. With nine hits, including three doubles and a homer, in 23 trips. He's hitting .391. His defensive play has been excellent. And Musial is back in the outfield.

Two-Run Homer

Wednesday night, Nelson hit a two-run homer that featured a four-run second inning. The early lead held up a 5-3 edge over Cincinnati, although rookie Joe Adcock threw a scare into 13,667 fans with a three-run homer in the ninth.

Despite the win, the Cards lost ground to Philadelphia Phils who added two victories, The Phils' Robin Roberts set down New York Giants one-two-three in the ninth and only remaining inning of a May 14 suspended game to preserve a 9-7 edge. The win went into the standings along with a 10-3 regular night-game verdict.

The Phils climbed to within one game of the Cards.

Mel Queen, of Pittsburgh, held Chicago to four hits for a 4-1 victory that snapped a Pirate six-game losing streak.

The Boston - at - Brooklyn scheduled night game was washed out.

Detroit clung to its four-game edge in the American League as Art Houtteman trimmed St. Louis 6-1 for his 11th win. Johnny Lipon, with four hits, and Vic Wertz, with three, led the attack.

Bob Lemon, of Cleveland, matched Houtteman with No. 11, also a nine-hitter, in subduing Chicago, 8-3.

Maul Philadelphia

New York Yankees mauled Philadelphia 12-8 in a game marred by an injury to Eddie Joost, the A's shortstop. Joost suffered torn ligaments in his left knee in a second-base collision with base runner Cliff Mapes. He was carried from the field on a stretcher and may be lost for a month.

Tommy Byrne tied the modern major league record by hitting four batsmen before he left in the sixth. Still he received credit for the decision as Joe Ostrowski staggered through on relief.

Washington came from behind to trip Boston Red Sox 9-7 in a game called after seven innings because of rain. Chuck Stobbs blew up with a 5-1 lead in the sixth and six runs were across before reliefer Joe Dobson got the side out.

Stengel Choices For All-Stars

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—Following is the American League All-Star roster selected by manager Casey Stengel of New York Yankees:

Starters (picked in fan ballot) —Walt Dropo, Boston, 1b; Bobby Doerr, Boston, 2b; Phil Rizzuto New York, ss; George Kell, Detroit, 3b; Larry Berra, New York c; Ted Williams, Boston; Walter Evers, Detroit; and Larry Doby, Cleveland, outfielders.

Pitchers—Tommy Byrne, Vic Raschi and Allie Reynolds, New York; Bob Feller and Bob Lemon, Cleveland; Art Houtteman and Ted Gray, Detroit; and Ray Scarborough, Chicago.

Alternate players—infielders: Gerry Coleman and Tommy Henrich, New York; Ferris Fain, Philadelphia, Vern Stephens, Boston; and Cass Michaels Washington.

Outfielders — Dom DiMaggio, Boston, and Joe DiMaggio, New York.

Catchers—Jim Hegan, Cleveland and Sherman Lollar, St. Louis.

Boston Red Sox Jettison Pitching Flotsam

BOSTON, July 6 — (AP). — Girding for another hard-driving pennant finish, Boston Red Sox have jettisoned much pitching flotsam while calling back two promising youngsters.

While reorganizing a flinging staff that has given up 416 runs and 700 hits in 74 games, three shy of the American League's half-way mark, general manager Joe Cronin Wednesday reduced it to six strong-armed members before calling up Willard Nixon and Dick Littlefield from Louisville and Birmingham.

Nixon, a 22-year-old right-hander, has won 11 and lost two in the American Association so far this season and the 24-year-old southpaw Littlefield turned in 10 victories while losing but thrice for Birmingham.

Cronin's pruning sent Charlie Shanz to St. Louis Browns and Al Papai to St. Louis Cardinals, both via the waiver route, and demoted Jim Suchecki and lefty Earl Johnson to Louisville.

Johnson, however, will not report to the Colonels until July 17. By then he will have had 10 years of American League experience and be entitled the benefits such service entails.

The current Red Sox staff, blamed for the club's sorry start this season, now includes right-handers Joe Dobson, tops with nine wins and six losses, Ellis Kinder, Walt Masterson, and southpaws Mel Parnell, a 25-game winner last season, Maury McDermott, touted as another Lefty Grove a short year ago, and bonus youngster Chuck Stobbs.

US net stars bagged four of the five titles at the first Wimbledon tournament after the Second World War four years ago today. Only title they did not take was the men's singles, won by France's Yvon Petra. Pauline Betz took the women's singles, Louise Brough and Margaret Osborne the doubles, Jack Kramer and Tom Brown the men's doubles, and Miss Brough and Brown the mixed doubles.

CAUGHT SHORT—Roy Campanella makes the out emphatic, and Umpire Scotty Robb official, when Jack Lohrke of the Giants attempted to score on Tookie Gilbert's hit to right in Ebbets Field. Jackie Robinson relayed the throw to Brooklyn catcher in time.

Big Shenanigans As Leafs Lose

By The Associated Press.

Brooklyn isn't the only place where shenanigans occur.

There were a number of those things that made Brooklyn famous in Toronto Wednesday night where Montreal Royals, a Dodger farm club, defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 11-7.

First of all manager Jack Sanford and infielder Bobby Rhawn of the Leafs were bounced from the game in the fifth inning for arguing over a close play in which Rhawn was called out.

Shortly after, infielder Ralph Lapointe of the Leafs, coaching at first base, streaked to the Montreal dugout seeking a Royal who was tossing pebbles and heckling him at the same time.

Lapointe's sprint was closely followed by the Leaf team and the gendarmes hustled out and restored order. Then outfielder George Schmees, who didn't participate in the game, dashed from the Montreal dugout into the stands after a heckler and was hauled back by two of his teammates before any damage was done.

Takes Three Hours

The game took three hours to complete and the Royals won by virtue of a five-run sixth inning and a three-run ninth. Former Leaf Johnny Welaj paced the victors by driving in three runs on a pair of round-trippers. Ed Sanicki hit a homer for the Leafs.

Meanwhile, the league-leading Rochester Red Wings trounced the tail-end Buffalo Bisons 9-5. Rookie first baseman Don Bollweg led the Wings' 13-hit attack by driving in four runs on a homer, double and single. The Wings wrapped up the decision with a six-run blast in the sixth.

The second-place Jersey City Giants climbed to within 2½ games of the Wings by sweeping a doubleheader from Springfield Cubs 4-3 and 2-1.

The Baltimore-Syracuse game was rained out.

Take No Chances On Inaccuracy In Baseballs

By TED SMITS

CHICOPEE, Mass., July 6 (AP) —If any jack-rabbit is being put in major league baseballs, this reporter didn't see it.

Instead of a rabbit, to make a baseball you start with something that looks like the cork on a wine bottle. Called "suberac," it is ground cork held together by a binder.

A machine moulds these pellets into balls the size of a marble which are put inside the halves of a hollow, black rubber washer separating the two parts.

This is moulded under heat and vulcanized to form the smooth, hard core of a baseball.

The winding is done in a room in which temperature and humidity are kept constant.

In some of the arguments over the 1950 baseball, the theory has been advanced that balls now are wound more tightly than a few years ago. To do so, however, would mean adding more wool to the ball and increasing its weight. The weight must be kept between 5 and 5¼ ounces. That "tolerance" of a quarter ounce permits no liberties in the winding.

Loop Wool Twine

With the ball spinning in the grasp of three rollers, a girl loops a piece of gray wool twine around it. When the ball reaches a circumference of 7¾ inches — about two inches under the size of a finished ball—white wool of finer grade is wound on.

The ball now measures 8 3/16 inches and weighs 3 11/16 ounces against the finished weight of five ounces.

The third winding uses a smoother, finer grade of gray and then a thin layer of cotton thread is wound on. The next step is dipping in rubber cement.

The final operation is sewing on the horsehide cover.

Two moistened horse-hide panels are fitted around the wound-up ball and stapled into place. The staples come out when the stitching is done. Each girl works with a needle in both hands, from which dangle the traditional waxed red thread of a baseball.

When the sewing is completed —108 double stitches in all—the thread is anchored by a long, deep stitch and the ball is trimmed up.

MARMORA, July 6 (ENS) — Crystal Beach on Moira Lake, Madoc, was chosen for the picnic of St. Paul's Sunday School, Marmora, Wednesday.

All went well until about three o'clock when in the midst of a sports program a thunderstorm broke and picnickers fled to Marmora for the rest of the foot races.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Cincinnati Reds may not be going any place this late in the season, but currently they are the hottest club in the National League.

Luke Sewell's charges have won 10 of the last 14 games, to climb over Pittsburgh and out of the loop basement. That's playing at a .714 clip.

The pitchers are beginning to pitch, and the hitters are starting to link their safeties together for runs.

Sewell has started to smile again. He believes the pitchers may finally have started.

Ewell Blackwell showed his 1947 form in turning back Chicago last Saturday, when he struck out 14 batters.

Herm Wehmeier and Howie Fox, big power pitchers with a lot of moxie on the ball, have shown some of the stuff that wins ball games.

Sewell does not hope for anything sensational, but he is aiming at a higher position in the standing than at present and believes there is a chance the team may make it.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler, has ordered St. Louis Browns' officials to stop talking about moving their franchise to a minor league city.

Frank J. (Shag) Shaughnessy, president of the International League, said Wednesday that Chandler, acting on his complaint, told Bill Dewitt of the Browns that talk about moving his club "is hurting attendance in the minor leagues."

"Sure, I protested against Dewitt's actions," stormed Shaughnessy. "Why not? Dewitt had no right to pop off the way he did. All that talk about moving the Browns to Baltimore has cut down attendance considerably in that city. Fans are of the mistaken opinion that the present ownership is blocking a movement to bring big league baseball to Baltimore."

Joseph A. (Joe) Sargent, 53, former infielder for Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Cardinals, died Wednesday at his home in Detroit.

Sargent started with Minneapolis in the American Association at the age of 17. After the First World War he played with Buffalo, Newark and Toronto in the International League before going to the majors in 1920 as third baseman with St. Louis.

Some London newspapers reported Wednesday Gertrude (Gussie) Moran may soon turn professional.

They said she is dickering with Bobby Riggs, promoter of Jack Kramer's professional tennis tour over an offer of $50,000 for the first year.

Ezzard Charles, recognized by the National Boxing Association as heavyweight champion, Wednesday was declared fit for ring action and manager Jake Mintz said the Cincinnati, O., battler will fight in about four or five weeks.

A medical board stated "the bruise of the heart muscle which has kept him inactive during the past few months has completely healed. He is now in condition to resume training immediately."

Charles said he "feels fine" and is ready to take on all comers—"Joe Louis, Lee Savold, anybody."

Mintz said he would make up his mind about Charles' next fight "in the next week or so."

Jockey Kenneth Church was commended by the Illinois Racing Board Wednesday for an act of heroism which may have cost him victory in the third race at Arlington Park.

Shortly after the break in the third race, Jockey Wendell Eads, aboard Trier, lost his stirrup and was at the point of falling when Church, seeing his predicament, spurted up alongside and pulled him back into the saddle. He rode along until Eads regained control of his mount.

Church was riding Hair Stylist, the favorite. After his rescue of Eads he went after the leaders, but the race went to Ferry Pilot. Hair Stylist finished second by a length.

Joseph Broderick, secretary of the Racing Board, said the board will honor Church with a scroll

For the second time in three days, the harness racing at Thorncliffe Raceway Wednesday featured daily double pay-off or more than $600 The combination of Johnny Worthy in the first race and Thor Grattan in the second paid $652.30 for $2.

One-Third Of American Squad Players On New York Yankees

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, July 6 —(AP)— A 25-player American League squad, one-third made up of New York Yankees and listing only one regular third baseman, will face the National League's best in the 17th All-Star game here next Tuesday.

Eight of his own world champion Yankees are on the squad completed today by Yank manager Casey Stengel, the American loop pilot, who selected eight pitchers and nine reserve players to go with the eight starters names in a fan vote.

All eight American clubs are represented on the squad which meets a National loop array selected Tuesday. Boston Red Sox have five all-star nominees, followed by Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers with four each. Chicago White Sox, Philadelphia Athletics, St. Louis Browns and Washington Senators have one apiece.

Pitchers' Choice

Stengel picked two left-handed pitchers and six right-handed. The southpaws are Tommy Byrne of the Yanks and the Tigers, brilliant Ted Gray. The right-handers are Vic Raschi and Allie Reynolds, also from the Yankees; Art Houtteman of the Tigers; Bob Feller and Bob Lemon of the Indians and Ray Scarborough, the lone White Sox man on the squad.

Although Stengel lined up nine infielders, stellar George Kell of the Tigers is the only third baseman by the book. Five outfielders and three catchers round out the squad.

Two Yankees—catcher Larry Berra and shortstop Phil Rizzuto —are in the starting American lineup dictated by the fans. Besides them and pitchers Byrne, Raschi and Reynolds, Stengel also picked second sacker Gerry Coleman, outfielder Joe DiMaggio and first baseman Tommy Henrich from his own team.

Second to Kell in the third-base fan voting was Cleveland's home run slugger, Al Rosen. But if Indian fans raise an eyebrow over Rosen's absence, it should be pointed out that Stengel named the Tribe's Jim Hegan, along with Sherm Lollar of St. Louis Browns, as catching replacements for Berra.

Have Most Starters

The Red Sox have the most starters, three, with rookie Walt Dropo at first base, Bobby Doerr at second and Ted Williams in the outfield. Detroit's Walt Evers and Cleveland's Larry Doby, both outfielders, complete the starting line-up Stengel must use for at least three innings.

The two-man outfield reserve corps is strictly a family affair, with Boston's Dom DiMaggio and brother Yankee Joe as Stengel's spare fly-hawks.

A third first baseman named by Stengel was Philadelphia's Ferris Fain, while Boston's Vern Stephens lines up behind Rizzuto at shortstop and Washington's Cass Michaels, a 1949 all-star starter, will wait with Coleman behind Doerr at second base.

Mounties Trounce Riverdales 19-15

By The Canadian Press.

In lacrosse Wednesday night the Mounties trounced the last-place Toronto Riverdales 19-15 in Mimico on the strength of a furious last-half drive that netted them seven goals in the third quarter.

Toronto sprang into an early lead, led by the Dixon brothers, Ken and Art. But they seemed to tire after the interval and Mimico took complete command of the play. Bruce Webster was the leading Toronto sniper with three goals.

Expect Truman Ask Funds For Truth Drive

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—President Truman is expected to ask Congress next week for funds to launch a "campaign of truth" in Korea and other critical areas in the East-West struggle.

Included are Indo-China, neighboring southeast Asia countries and Iran, all objects of Communist pressure.

State Secretary Dean Acheson reported Wednesday that a plan for a "broader and stronger program of information and education" is being considered by the President.

Step Up Distribution

The plan calls for stepping up quickly the distribution of news bulletins, leaflets, and documentary films and urgent use of other means to convince Asian and Middle Eastern peoples that the United States is their friend and benefactor rather than the imperialist ogre pictured by Communist propaganda.

Recommendations call for more than doubling the present number of offices of the U.S. information service in cities of southeast Asia, Korea and Iran.

More spectacular measures, such as the use of free-flying balloons to carry leaflets across the Iron Curtain and setting up television circuits to carry pro-American programs, have been under consideration. Officials said they are not likely to be adopted immediately.

2 More Rooms Sought For Apsley School

BUCKHORN, July 6—(ENS)—Asking for two additional rooms on the proposed school to be built in Apsley representatives of the Lakehurst High School Board Saturday got a "we'll think it over" answer from the Harvey township council.

Members of the council meeting in the True Blue Hall, in Buckhorn, said they wanted more information about the request before making any decision.

The council authorized the township clerk, Mrs. M. B. Hall, to write Russell McIntosh concerning cattle running at large.

The council also decided to ask Max Wilson to finish the balance of the year as the council's representative on the Lakefield School Board. Mr. Wilson had been leaving this position following a school tax disagreement earlier in the year.

The township council granted the Kinsmen's Club of Bobcaygeon permission to hold two carnivals in Buckhorn, one in July and one in August.

The township clerk was instructed to send to the county clerk a resolution for the county council's consideration to have the following properties taken from the tax arrears book: Lot 5, Concession 1, Minerva Munstern; Lot 5, Concession 1, John Jacobs.

The following accounts were paid: Bobcaygeon Independent, printing, $32; M. B. Hall, salary, $25; Edward Humphries, auditor, $170; T. Gordon, inspecting roads and mileage, $5.50; and in payment for the same services, K. Junkin, $9.50; G. Elliott, $5; C. Johnson, $5, and D. Hill, $5

The next meeting of the council will be at Lakehurst August 7.

SeeEncouragingFuture For Pakistan Trade

HALIFAX, July 6 — (CP) — An encouraging future for trade between Canada and Pakistan was seen here Wednesday night by George Browne, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Pakistan.

"Pakistan is not highly industrialized," he said in an interview "and provides a big potential market for Canadian machinery and industrial equipment."

For example, Pakistan wanted 300,000 tons of finished steel rail, angle sheets and other items. This presented a big possible market which Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation could possibly supply.

Refuses Approval For High School

The Council of Smith met on Monday with all members present. Erie Pearson, C. Fitzgerald, members of the Lakefield District High School and R. O. Birkin, Public School Inspector, were present and presented plans for a new two room High School at Apsley, the estimated cost is $35,000 and asked Council's approval.

The Council refused approval of the request for the reason that public opinion in the Smith section of the High School District is very much opposed to this proposal. The Council has received resolutions from two meetings held recently protesting the excessive cost of the operation of the Lakefield High School. The clerk was instructed to write the board advising that it is Council's opinion that if the ratepayers were better informed in regard to the board's present and future plans, there might be less opposition and suggest that the board hold a series of public meetings to this end.

New Fire Engine

Notice was received from the La France Co. that the two fire fighting units will be delivered the week of July 10.

A petition was received from the residents on Highway No. 28 north of Langton St. asking that the speed of motor vehicles be reduced to 30 miles an hour in this area. The necessary bylaw was passed and will be forwarded to the Department of Highways for approval.

It was reported that the street lights in Young's Point will soon be installed and ready to be turned on. This project has been delayed for a number of years due to power shortages.

A bylaw was passed assuming Sunset Blvd. and Harper Ave. as township roads.

The damage to the sheep flocks has commenced again, a total of $250 was paid to owners in June.

Try Petain Again

PARIS, July 6.—(AP).—Lawyers for Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, head of Vichy France under the German occupation, won a victory Wednesday in their fight for a new trial. The marshal, now 94, was condemned to death after the liberation. The sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. Today the ministry of justice sent the case to the chief prosecutor so that new evidence can be heard. Petain's lawyers claim this evidence justifies a new trial.

"The Drunkard" Smashes Long-Run Record

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 6 (AP)—On this day in 1933 a hardy group of players opened an aged melodrama called "The Drunkard" at a neighborhood theatre in Los Angeles

Tonight "The Drunkard" staggers into its 18th year of continual playing. The old boy is as creaky as ever, but there seems to be no end to his raucous drinking.

"The Drunkard" was an old preachment against gin which had been presented by P. T. Barnum. It was resurrected and played strictly for laughs before a beer-guzzling and sandwich-munching audience. The actors expected to get two months' work out of it.

But audiences still are hissing and cheering. The show has broken all the long-run records in the history of the American theatre.

Some Fun!

One of the show's veterans is Jan Duggan, who almost every night for 17 years has played the heroine's mother in the play and the "Bowery Nightingale" in the after-show. You may remember her in W. C. Fields pictures.

"It's fun," she says. "You can't take it seriously. The audience is the toughest in the world; sometimes you have to shout to be heard. But it's a challenge to make them quiet down and listen."

All In The Act

Part of the show's success seems to be that the players enjoy themselves as much as the audience. This spirit goes on backstage as well. The actors carry on a revolving bridge game during the performance, each participant leaving when he hears his cue over the loud-speaker. He is replaced by someone who is not due onstage.

Says Miss Duggan: "A real actor would go crazy doing the same thing every night for 17 years. But for an old ham like myself, it's heaven."

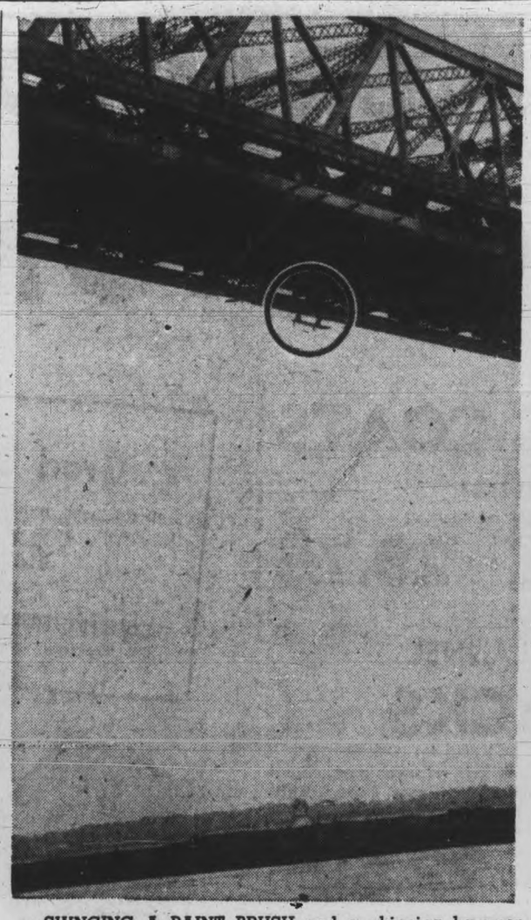
Heavy Losses

HANOI, Indo-China, July 6 — (AP)—A French communique said Wednesday night that pro-Communist Vietmin rebels lost 560 killed and 808 captured in clashes with French and Vietnam forces during the second half of June. The engagements took place in Northern Indo-China.

CENTENARIAN — J. Octave Cosette, believed the last survivor of the original band of Canadian Papal Zouaves, was honored with the title of "first citizen of Valleyfield (Que.)," when he celebrated his 100th birthday there. Mr. Cosette was one of the 115 Canadian Roman Catholics who went to Rome in 1870 to defend the papal territories against Garibaldi's forces. He is seen wearing the uniform of the Zouaves, units of which still exist in Quebec.



SWINGING A PAINT BRUSH and a chipping hammer beneath Jacques Cartier Bridge, 170 feet above the St. Lawrence River, where one slip could bring instant death, will hardly become a popular way of making a living. But to the men at work under the mightly steel girders with only a scaffold and a few pieces of rope between them and the river, it is much better than working on the ground. Except for the puffs of smoke from the stacks of passing freighters, they say, it's safer than working on terra firma. There are no wild drivers under the bridge to duck and dodge, and no sun to get in their eyes. Shown above, these harbour painters (circled), high above the water with only a scaffold between them and the river, 170 feet down, ply their trade without fear.

Queen Mary Thanks Keen-Eyed Policeman

LONDON, July 5 (Reuters) — Queen Mary Wednesday personally thanked the policeman who raised the alarm when a prowler broke into her home last month and beat up two of her staff.

The 83-year-old Queen Mother also gave him a gift in gratitude for his vigilance.

Constable J. Smythe was called to the Queen's home, Marlborough House, at her special request to tell her about the incident.

After he had spent 15 minutes with her describing how he fell through a roof skylight while chasing the intruder, the Queen presented him with a set of six silver teaspoons.

The man arrested after the chase is to face trial at the Old Bailey, London's Central Criminal Court.

Crop Conditions Better In Prairies

OTTAWA, July 6 (AP)—Crop conditions have improved throughout Canada's vast Prairie wheatlands in the last two weeks, but the prospects in Alberta and Saskatchewan are not all they might be.

In Manitoba there has been more than enough rain and though the crop is late it is making good progress. Moisture conditions have improved in Saskatchewan and Alberta but are still below normal in those two big wheat producing areas.

This was the report Wednesday of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in its periodic summary of crop prospects across the Dominion. In the Maritimes, Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia, it said, prospects are good.

In Ontario the crop prospects have improved but rain is still badly needed in some areas, particularly Renfrew county. Hay and clover crops yields will be better than expected and fall wheat is already headed out and harvesting will begin shortly.

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

Half the joy of having a garden is having a comfortable chair in a shady nook where you can lounge and enjoy the changing beauty of your surroundings. What's the use of having a garden if you can't take time to sit down and enjoy it? These are the days when the home owner should be able to recline comfortably on a lawn seat in the dense shade of a towering maple . . . not one task to be done . . . not a care in the world . . . sounds like Utopia!

Garden Seats

My own siestas take place in a secluded corner of the garden, well hidden from the surrounding neighbourhood. One of my prize possessions is a garden bench I made last year. True, it isn't the most comfortable piece of furniture in the world, but it is sturdy and wasn't too hard to make—as you can see from the sketch. My pride and joy is the wide bench I built around the trunk of the maple that stands to one side of the patio. It took a bit of fitting to give an attractive natural finish but it has attracted more favourable comment than any other piece of garden furniture I have made.

Garden Pools

If you are like me, you'll have a bird bath and a small pool in clear view to help you relax. Nothing is quite as restful and cooling as the sound of running water and the reflection of blue sky in a still pool. The size of the pool doesn't matter—you'll get the same effect from a small binder wheel set in concrete (mentioned last month), a washtub sunk in the ground or an extensive cement job. When properly planned and planted so that it fits naturally into its surroundings, the size or expense of the pool is immaterial.

Bird Baths

I could watch my bird bath for hours if work would permit. On a warm afternoon there is a steady procession of bluebirds, chipping sparrows, wrens, song sparrows and robins. The birds do not care how expensive the bath was. As long as the water is fresh, clean and not too deep, they will use it regularly. Between the two extremes illustrated are a host of styles and designs.

MONTREAL, July 6 (CP) — Rene Belanger Wednesday was ordered for preliminary hearing July 11 when arraigned on a charge of counterfeiting milk tickets. The prosecution claimed that Belanger widely distributed the bogus tickets and that a dairy had honored $700 worth of them up to date.

Australia Preparing Plans For Developing Papua

MELBOURNE, July 6—(Reuters)—The Australian government is drawing up plans to develop, with the help of private enterprise, Australia's land of promise—Papua-New Guinea. The plans are closely bound up with the question of defence as well as the welfare and advancement of the native peoples and the development of natural resources.

Papua has been the responsibility of Australia for almost a half-century. Australian forces captured part of New Guinea from the Germans in 1914 and it has been under Australian mandate since 1921. Almost the whole of it was in Japanese hands during the Pacific war, until they were ousted by United States and Australian forces.

Papua and New Guinea comprise 180,000 square miles and have a population estimated at 1,500,000. The natives of some areas are dark skinned, while others have light skin and fair hair. There are some tribes of large people and others described as pygmies.

Great Variety

In the far interior of the mainland of New Guinea, within a few hundred miles of each other, there are people almost as fair as Nordics and there are queer little Kukukukus, jungle nomads, less than four feet tall.

Scores of different languages in the territories create an administrative problem.

The 700,000 or more people in the mandated territory at one time were among the most ferocious savages of the south seas the absence of a common language made their taming most difficult. Pidgin English is now the lingua franca for the formerly separate New Guinea and Papua, whose geographical boundaries were broken by the war.

These are the people whose welfare is to be a primary concern of the controlling department, who are to be taught industrial development, be educated in crafts, be given general education, taught hygiene, be nursed and medically cared for and brought to a stage where they can take part not only in the development of the resources of their country but in its government.

That there is gold in the hills has been proved by numerous enterprises.

Rice, cocoa, jute, tea, rubber, timber and other forest products, sulphur, copper, manganese, copra, asbestos, bauxite, chromite, and platinum, are among the products being, or likely to be, produced.

Chevrier Opens Modern Railway Freight Terminal

MONTREAL, July 6.—(CP). — Transport Minister Chevrier today opened North America's most modern railway freight terminal.

He touched a button to send the first box car rolling down the hump to be switched automatically to its place in the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's St. Luc "hump retarder" yard, a $12,000,000 project, 2½ years in construction.

Covering 682 acres, with 111 different tracks, totalling 75 miles, in a series of three operational yards, the terminal has a capacity of 4,869 cars.

Trains enter at the north entrance, near Montreal West, from the CPR's main line from the west, proceed into a receiving yard, where they are "humped" by gravity and switched automatically to designated places in the classification yard.

If the cars are in poor condition as they pass over a glass-enclosed, three-man inspection pit, they are automatically routed to repair tracks.

They then move on an assembly-line basis into the departure yard where road engines haul them out into main line traffic, 3½ miles from the entrance. All yard traffic is one way.

Direct steaming facilities in the 37-stall engine house enable steam locomotives to dump their fires before entering the yard and not rebuild them until they have left, thus overcoming the smoke problem.

It is expected that at peak traffic periods, between 2,800 and 3,000 cars can be handled each 24 hours. An 85-car train can be switched in 20 minutes.

Cars are automatically braked by electric retarders on the wheels. These also are worked by push-button.

TEST ORCHARDS

The Albertan government has established 71 test orchards through the province.

Surprise Move By Russia Now Predicted

By STANLEY RICH

HONG KONG, July 6 (AP). — Diplomatic observers Wednesday predicted Russia is setting the stage for a surprise move against the United States in the Far East.

They said the Russians probably would rush Chinese Communist troops from Manchuria to aid Soviet-supported North Koren in the Korean Civil War.

Such a move could be expected any time within the next month, and probably within two weeks, they added. All demanded anonymity.

One observer gave these reasons for forecasting a Soviet offensive in the Far East:

1—His country (and he declined use of his nationality as well as his name for diplomatic reasons) has definite word that the Chinese Reds have been massing troops in Manchuria since they captured Hainan Island, off the South China coast, a month ago.

For three days, independent Chinese newspapers here have reported intensified Communist troop movements northward from South China. My informant's word today is the first official word that this redeployment of Chinese Red forces actually has been going on for some time, and with a definite pattern.

Answer to US

The diplomat added that the Chinese Red troops in Manchuria can be expected to cross into North Korea as Russia's answer to American support for invaded South Korea.

2—The recent withdrawal from Tokyo of high level members of the Soviet mission could be considered as indication that something big was brewing. He declined to elaborate.

Diplomatic observers agree generally that Chinese Communist participation in Korea is virtually certain. Nevertheless, they also are inclined to believe that Russia has not yet made up her mind as to how far she is ready to go in the Far East at this time.

One observer, pointing out that the Korean conflict has not yet appeared as the lead story in either of Hong Kong's two pro-Communist Chinese dailies, said: "We know for a fact that the newspapers in South China have explicit orders not to comment on policy matters pertaining to the situation in Korea. This most probably means that the Russians themselves have not yet reached a policy decision on this matter."

Close Bitter Talks

STOCKHOLM, July 6.—(AP). —Sweden formally closed Wednesday the series of bitter exchanges with Israel in which she charged mishandling of the investigation into the slaying of Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations mediator, during the Palestine war. Closing of the dispute was viewed here as possibly paving the way for Sweden to offer to Israel the full recognition she has withheld pending settlement of the Bernadotte case.

Gas Bootlegging In Vancouver Takes High Toll

VANCOUVER —(CP)— Bootlegging of gas in Vancouver has been one of the principal causes of 133 accidental deaths since 1942 says plumbing inspector Reginald Startup.

He was speaking to a special committee which has been set up to investigate the alarming number of deaths from illuminating gas.

Dr. Stewart Murray, city medical health officer, said the number of accidental gas deaths is climbing almost every year, far out of proportion to the deaths from the same cause in other cities.

In Toronto, from 1947 to 1949, 26 persons died from this cause, compared to 68 in Vancouver.

"Things have reached an alarming stage when more people have died from poisonous gas in the city so far this year than have been killed in traffic accidents," Dr. Murray said. "Not counting suicides, we have had 18 gas deaths, while there have been 11 traffic deaths."

Mr. Startup said there are four times as many meters going into homes in Vancouver than there are permits for, creating a dangerous situation.

"Too many people are doing their own plumbing," he said. "They are taking gas off a central main, shutting down the pressure or cutting it off entirely, and causing some burners to go off in other rooms in a house."

The committee decided that a maintenance clause in the gas-fitting bylaw is an absolute necessity and that the inspectors must have more authority.

At the same time, an educational program on the dangers of gas should be launched, they said.

New Building Will House 15,000 People

TORONTO —(CP)— A skyscraper has been called the engineers' way of making business convenient.

Statistics compiled by the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario reveal that the estimated daytime population of the 25-storey Bank of Nova Scotia building, now nearing completion in downtown Toronto, will be 15,000 persons.

The building contains enough concrete for 100 miles of sidewalk, yet it is possible to walk around it in two minutes. The skeleton shaft is 325 feet high and the building will weigh 200,000,000 pounds when completed and occupied. One of the columns that stretches from basement to roof carries a weight of 1,800 tons.

Withstand Wind

Like all modern skyscrapers the building is designed to withstand sweeping winds. Based on engineering calculations, it can sway two inches, although it is unlikely that more than half an inch in either direction would be required for a safe margin.

Four thousand horsepower will be used daily for lighting, motors, pumps and elevators, stokers and refrigerators, an amount too great to entrust to wires. Instead, bars of pure copper, connected with a special underground, electric sub-station outside the building will be used.

Western World Learning Trade Methods

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

In a trade sense, the Western world has been going to school for the last few years and there are signs that it has been learning a lot.

Since 1947 there has been at least a "pious hope" that it would get itself out of the tangle of controls and artificial trade methods which had been put upon it by the war, and the last year, especially, gives reason to believe that the pious hope is becoming something real.

There are, for instance, the steps being taken towards co-operation in Europe; a growing realization in the United States that it must become a buyer as well as a seller; and the fortunate circumstance that in a critical year there is general recovery and prosperity.

Trade Gatherings

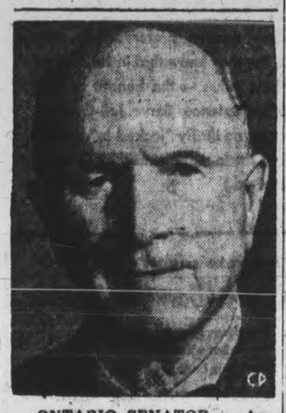
The National Foreign Trade Council, Inc., New York, announces that the theme for its convention in New York October 30-November 1 will be: "The foundation of world economic development is the expanding interchange of goods and services."

The first United States International Trade Fair, to be held in Chicago August 7-20, states that more than 40 countries will exhibit.

Steel Companies

A study of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, Ltd., has been issued by L. S. Jackson & Co., Ltd., Montreal. Among its comments:

"Apart from Canada's railways, Dosco employs more of Canada's population than any other employer. Of its 26,032 workers at the beginning of this year more than 80 per cent or 21,297 were employed in Nova Scotia. The $52,000,000 payroll for steel and coal operations in Nova Scotia exceeds the cash income from all the province's farms."



ONTARIO SENATOR — An insurance company executive, Senator William D. Euler has been attending sessions of Parliament since 1917. A former revenue minister and trade minister in the Mackenzie King cabinet, he resigned his House of Commons seat following the 1940 general election to enter the Senate. He was born at Kitchener, Ont.

NEW FAO CHAIRMAN—Dr. G. S. H. Barton, 67, of Ottawa, special advisor to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, has been named chairman of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations at Washington. One of the world's foremost authorities, on scientific farming and one of North America's greatest livestock judges, he was one of the founders of FAO and has been Canada's representative at numerous international agricultural meetings.

EDMONTON, July 6 (CP) — Migration from Europe to Canada probably will total 100,000 persons this year, A. Fred Macdonald Liberal member for Edmonton East said Wednesday. Mr. MacDonald headed the Canadian delegation at a recent preliminary conference on migration to Geneva.

North Koreans Claim 2 Reporters Captured

TOKYO, July 6 (AP) — The Communist North Korean radio said today correspondents Tom Lambert of The Associated Press and Peter Kalischer of United Press had been captured in South Korea.

United States advanced headquarters said later Lambert was safe.

The Tokyo office of the UP said Kalischer has not been heard from since Wednesday when it was informed he had gone to the warfront around Suwon, 23 miles south of Seoul. It said no news copy had been received from Kalischer.

Seven Government Weather Offices Across Dominion Give Forecasts To Canadians

By CAMERON JAMES

TORONTO, July 6 —(CP)— The weather is the biggest daily news story in Canada. Forecasts on what it will be like tomorrow make the front pages of newspapers and are featured on radio broadcasts.

To the man in the street, the farmer, the builder, the confectionery maker, the sailor, the aviator and the business man a fore-knowledge of whether it is likely to rain or shine is of interest—in some cases of extreme importance.

Where does the forecast come from? Who supplies it?

Chances are 100 to one that forecasts you read or hear in Canada come from one of the seven public weather offices located across the country—at Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, Halifax and Gander, Nfld.

Government Office

These offices are maintained by the meteorological division of the federal department of transport. Each office provides forecasts for a large district covering on the average about 1½ provinces. Each is linked by more than 21,000 miles of teletype circuit which are also connected with forecast stations which dot the map of Canada, from Whitehorse in the Yukon to Torbay on Newfoundland's east coast.

By international agreement, connections are maintained with weather stations throughout the world. By phoning the nearest weather office, it is possible to learn whether it is raining in Honolulu or snowing in Yucatan.

Expanding Service

Officials at the meteorological division's headquarters in Toronto say it took the Second World War to awake Canadians to the vital importance of weather forecasts. Its cost tells the story of its growth. In 1939, the Dominion government appropriated less than $1,000,000 for the service; now the cost is more than $5,000,000 a year. The service now has about 1,000 full-time employees with another 250 working part time.

Extension of service accompanied growth on size. Now, among other things, the weather office supplies a frost warning service to fruit growers, storm warnings for fishermen, weather information to forest rangers to help prevent and fight forest fires, and temperature reports to shippers of such perishable goods as fruit and vegetables.

New Service

Most of these services are comparatively new in the life of Canada's oldest government service which can trace its beginning back 110 years. It began on Christmas morning, 1839, when Lieut. Charles Buchanan Riddell stepped out of Old Fort York (not Toronto) in Upper Canada and noted that the thermometer stood at 26.6 degrees Fahrenheit.

Riddell went to Montreal earlier in 1839 to set up a combined meteorological and magnetic observatory but mineral deposits interfered with his instruments and he moved to Fort York. The site of the observatory has changed since although it has always been in Toronto. The present meteorological division was established in 1872.

In the early days, weathermen in the government's service were hampered by public apathy, low budgets and inferior instruments. Grammer school principals of the 1850's who were compelled by law to take weather observations could not be said to have possessed an "esprit de corps," and their readings were hampered by improperly calibrated instruments.

Now no populated section in Canada is without its forecast service.

Dougalls Print Last Edition

MONTREAL, July 6 (CP) — John Dougall and son of Montreal today put out their last edition of the Northern Messenger to end more than 110 years of publishing.

Frederick E. Dougall, 83, last surviving member of the family, wrote a farewell editorial in which he said he could find no one financially capable as well as willing to carry on and had no other alternative but to discontinue "the last of our papers while yet its sole surviving member is able to meet all its obligations."

"We could have sold the paper for thousands of dollars to exploiters, but we would not do that," he added.

The Messenger, sent to homes and Sunday schools for 87 years, once had a circulation of 63,000 but dropped to 23,000 in recent years.

The Montreal Daily Witness, another family publication, was discontinued in 1938 after it steadily lost money.

Referring to the Witness, Mr. Dougall said: "it was the most morally courageous newspaper Canada ever had. In the hardest of all fields, it championed the cause of righteousness and fought against the popular evils of the day, economic, social and political —its independent fight for the right would fill a large volume.

Vote For Strike

SARNIA, July 6 (CP)—By a 98 per cent margin, members of Local 13324, United Mine Workers of America, vote., Wednesday to take strike action July 13 against Dow Chemical of Canada, Ltd., (private operations). The union is asking a straight 14-cent an hour wage boost, shift differentials of five and 10 cents, union shop provision and sick leave plan.

Have Free Choice

HAMILTON, July 6 (CP) — The First Unitarian Church of Hamilton said Wednesday that "everyone should have a free choice between church services and sports events." A statement signed by E. B. Radcliffe, president, criticized the Lord's Day Act as reflecting "an attitude of mind that is inconsistent with modern concepions of democracy."

WINSTON CHURCHILL (left) and Lewis Douglas, U.S. Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, still suffering from an eye injury, stand together during a reception preceeding an American Society Independence Day dinner in London's Dorchester hotel recently. Churchill told the society members that "come what may in Korea the western world shall not be trampled down into serfdom and ruin" and he emphasized that he does not believe a third world war is inevitable.

Absence Of Red Planes Makes US Heads Speculate

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—American moves to get more power into the defence of South Korea coincided today with speculation on the virtual disappearance of North Korean planes from the skies.

Some United States military men were led to the hope that the strategic attacks by American and British aircraft were beginning to show results.

They quickly added, however, that this should be viewed as only one possible explanation and that the real reason is not yet known here.

Overnight there were two developments indicating stepped-up air activity to bolster the South Korean defences:

1. The U.S. Air Force said it was sending an undisclosed number of Mustang fighters to the Far Eastern air forces. These planes, able to operate at slower speeds and greater ranges than jets, are needed to support the hard-pressed ground forces of the American and South Korean armies. There have been some in action, a few of them flown by South Koreans, others by Australian Air Force and U.S. pilots —but not enough. Defence officials, in a separate action, confirmed that the escort carrier Sicily is taking extra aircraft and spare parts to the big carrier Valley Forge, operating off Korea. The Sicily could carry perhaps as many as 60 planes.

2. The defence department contracted with seven airlines to make special flights from the United States to the Far East to carry men and supplies. These flighs wil supplement the regular operations of the military air transport service. They will be similar to the charter flights used to support the Berlin airlift.

For days, U.S. and British aircraft have been hammering at North Korean air fields, rail lines, fuel dumps and highway convoys.

Air strategists here comment that it is strange that during the last few days the North Korean air force has failed to take off for defence of bomb targets.

MORE ABOUT—

Step Up Security

Korean war zone, Mr. Claxton said Canada's offer of naval aid to the United Nations could be enlarged without recalling parliament.

However, there was no plan at present to boost Canada's contribution and he felt that if circumstances were such that army or air force aid from Canada was considered, then parliament would have to be recalled.

Certain security measures also have been taken by the United States on the Michigan side of the locks where no unauthorized civilians now are permitted.

The minister made it clear that the government would not put any obstacles in the way of Canadians volunteering for action against Communist invaders in South Korea. But there likely would be little call for such volunteers because the kind of aid needed in Korea was formations of men and material.

Mr. Claxton said it was not realistic to anticipate a gas attack on Canada. Nor was it realistic to think that this country or this continent could build up a radar defence network on a scale anything like Britain had in wartime. Neither was it realistic to talk of air raid shelters for all Canada.

G.I.'s Jailed 10 Years

TOKYO, July 6 (AP) — Two 19-year-old American soldiers were sentenced to 10 years imprisonment and dishonorable discharge for throwing a Japanese to his death in the Sumida river here Feb. 25. Privates Ross Snyder and Wilbur Highstreet testified they had been drinking and were returning to their post when the Japanese tried to pass between them. They said they tossed him into the river.

Farm Work Ignored By Unemployed

Farm employment in the Peterborough area is being ignored by local unemployed, William Mellis, manager of the local National Selective Employment office said today that 25 applications from farmers in the Peterborough area had been received asking for men to assist with local harvesting this summer.

Local unemployed men, he explained, prefer to accept construction and factory labor rather than the farm work. Some school students, who are having difficulty finding summer employment, have taken some of the openings.

To help the local farming situation eight Newfoundlanders and five Westerners have arrived in this area, said Mr. Mellis. The Newfoundlanders came Friday and the Westerners Monday. The former were part of a contingent of 50 sent to Ontario through the provincial government and the latter, part of a group of 1,000 expected to arrive from the west to help in Ontario.

First From The East

In previous years, said Mr. Mellis, only farm laborers from the western provinces have been sent to Ontario to help with the harvest. This year laborers from the eastern provinces are helping out. Besides the eight Newfoundlanders already in this area other easterners are expeced to arrive shortly.

During the past several years the number of laborers arriving here to assist farmers has decreased, said Mr. Mellis. Last summer not more than 25 were in this area.

Many young westerners are helping to clear the flood areas in Manitoba this summer and others have accepted work in the oil fields until harvest time.

Wages vary between $75 and $100 a month with board. This is the same rate as in other years.

Harvesters from the east and west will be working in the Peterborough area until August 16 when they will start to return home. At the same time, said Mr. Mellis, a few local farmers may be leaving to help with the western harvest. The provincial government has yet to decide if men will be sent.

ARTHUR G. METHERAL holds three jobs in Peterborough's administration. Thirty years ago he was appointed Plumbing Inspector and in later years he was made Welfare Administrator and Local Authority for Old Age Pension and Mothers' Allowances. For many years he was also Sanitary Inspector. In those years Mr. Metheral has been off the job only nine days except during his annual vacation.

Plumbing Inspector, Welfare Officer Art Metheral 30 Years With City

A lot of water has flowed through the water pipes of Peterborough since Arthur G. Metheral was appointed city Plumbing Inspector just 30 years ago Wednesday.

Since then he has received several other appointments. May 4, 1925, he was made the Sanitary Inspector and held the job until a full time man was named. Not quite two years later he was picked as the man to be the city Welfare Administrator and in 1942 he was made the Local Authority for Old Age Pensions and Mother's Allowances.

How did an inspector of water and sewage pipes get to be administrator of mother's allowances?? Anyone watching him at work for a short time and hearing some of his history would say, by being capable.

Perhaps it can best be explained by an incident which Mr. Metheral tells with good-humored pride. In the fall of 1943 city wood dealers came to the city council and told the aldermen many of the citizens were going to have a very chilly winter. There was no wood to be had for fuel and there was no prospect of getting any at the prices they were allowed by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to pay for it.

James Dutton who was an alderman then suggested that they ask Mr. Metheral, who as relief officer for the city had bought many cords of wood for families on relief, especially before 1939.

Dealers Were Wrong

"He won't get 100 cords," the wood dealers said. They were wrong. One way and another, the city's plumbing inspector got fuel wood, hundreds of cords. He covered the whole district and went out of the district. The city went into the wood business. Between September and the following April, the city had sold well over 2,000 cords and had another 1,098 on hand for future sales.

The Prices Board became quite interested and wanted to know how Art Metheral got the wood They had their suspicions but they decided to let the matter drop when faced with a very pleased city council and populace.

Things haven't changed much in the plumbing inspecting business in the past 30 years said Mr. Metheral. But he had his work cut out for him at first.

Now a vigorous, tanned and active man nearly 57 with thick grey hair, he leaned back in his chair and recalled he had been a young plumber with considerable experience who had put in his application "just for hellery."

He was taking over from Peter Thompson who found that after 30 years on the job, his 80 odd years and a wooden leg were good reasons to quit. After a few days of instruction Mr. Metheral took over July 12. He was the whole works. There was no staff of clerks.

"It was tough at first," he remembers. In September or October, 1920, he had a run-in with a local plant which had been doing its own plumbing and skimping pretty badly on the job. Mr. Metheral hauled the company into court and to his own surprise got conviction.

But what helped and pleased him more was an article in the Examiner written by Magistrate David W. Dumble who had tried the case. The magistrate told the citizens that it was up to them, now that they had a plumbing inspector who would enforce the regulations, to back him up. That really set the new inspector on his feet.

"With some of the plumbers, the people were not getting what they were paying for," he commented. To inspect one job, he recalled, the joints were so sloppy what he really needed was a rain coat and umbrella.

Never Got Ducking

Not everyone was pleased with the job he was doing. One master plumber offered a prize of $5 to any of his employees who would give the brash young inspector a ducking. Mr. Metheral never got the ducking.

One of the regulations he began enforcing was a smoke test for all plumbing work before it was put into operation. Plumbers would much rather have a water test, because it usually leads to less trouble—for them.

Forcing smoke into newly-installed pipes reveals many leaks which might easily go unnoticed for some time. Using this and other methods last year, Mr. Metheral discovered 301 defects in new work and 27 defects in old buildings which were largely the result of age.

Another change Mr. Metheral helped along was the use of iron pipe instead of tile pipes for water and sewer conduits. Tile pipe is held together with cement which through age and shaking by trucks and other vehicles tends to crack. Moisture seeps through these cracks and quickly tree roots, no bigger than a hair of a man's head push through the cracks and into the pipes. Once there they quickly grow and spread choking up sewer pipes.

This usually happens, explained Mr. Metheral, in the winter. In summer tree growth is largely confined to leaves and trunk, but in winter the roots grow below the frost level.

When this happens, men have to be hired to hack their way through frozen ground and clear the blocked pipe.

Another change is the increasing use of galvanized pipe instead of black iron or even brass pipe for toilet vent pipes. Although no water passes through vent pipes, they will corrode and rust in a few years leaving holes through which dangerous sewer gas can seep.

The gas, which cannot be detected by smell, doesn't often overcome anyone (it did, however, knock out a family on Downie St. about two years ago), tends to lower vitality of people and leaves them with lower resistance against diseases.

Important To Health

Many other changes have been promoted by Peterborough's Plumbing Inspector which few people know about. But, nevertheless, they have been important to the health and welfare of the city's peoples.

One of the most obvious changes has been the disappearance of outside toilets. Mr. Metheral accelerated this move to the indoors so much, he recalls with a grin, that "the Board of Health used to wonder if I was getting a rakeoff."

605 Permits Issued

In 1949 the Plumbing Inspector issued 605 permits for plumbing works. The first year he was on the job, 172 permits were issued. In 1920 there was no staff. Now he has four helpers.

His work as Welfare Administrator or relief officer is not as great as it was during the depression of the 30s.

Begin Excavate School Annex Prince Of Wales

Excavation work has begun for the foundation of the Prince of Wales School annex.

When completed it will be an ultra-modern six-room, one-storey building accommodating 235 pupils. The Walter H. Mortlock Construction Co. received the contract from the Board of Education with a bid of $122,874.95.

Top soil was scraped off the site of the annex last week but actual excavation work did not begin till Wednesday morning. Nine of the 13 sub-contracts went to firms in Peterborough and district.

There will be no basement in the annex. Heating will be by oil and hot water.

Shackled, Hosed Prisoner Charges

A Belleville man had a complaint in city police court this morning, Stephen Sweeney told Magistrate W. R. Philp he had been shackled to the bars of his cell and had a hose played on him four or five times.

Sweeney, who was charged with malicious damage after breaking a window in the Water Street cells, said "My body's all black and blue. I'll strip to the waist and show you. Magistrate Philp declined the offer.

Sweeney was fined $10 and $2.50 when he pleaded guilty to a drunk charge. The charge of malicious damage was remanded to July 10.

Police say Sweeney tore his clothes off and refused to put any on, and that he was in a very belligerent mood.

"I was shackled to the bars, stark naked," said Sweeney. "They turned the hose on me four or five times, and drove me naked to county jail."

As he was led from the court back to cells, Sweeney muttered "Talk about Russia."

MAIN ST. TOPICS

BANK CLEARINGS

Bank clearings for the past week ending today as totalled by the Peterborough Clearing House amounted to $3,743,790. The increase is more than a million dollars over the previous week's figures.

DRUNKS FINED

Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., fined four drunks $10 and $2.50 costs each today when they pleaded guilty. They were: Milton Bernard, no address, George Boyd, Campbellford; John Lazure, 384½ Water St.; and Lyle Thackeray, 465 Stewart St.

JAILED FOUR MONTHS

Joseph Huard, 189 Lake St., was today sentenced to four months in Ontario reformatory by Magistrate W. R. Philp. Huard pleaded guilty to consuming liquor while on the interdicted list. It was his third offence.

WIRE DEPARTMENT CONFLAB

Employees of the CGE wire department are holding today an 'emergency' meeting at 2 p.m. and again at 7:30 p.m. to discuss rates in the shop. The union claims there are injustices and inequalities in wage rates through job evaluation. A representative from each occupation in the shop will be elected to attend a conference with representatives from Canada Wire, Toronto, and Phillips' Electric, Brockville.

A BAD BEND

One of the danger points on Highway 35, Lindsay provincial police records show, is at McLaren's Creek, about four miles north of Lindsay. The highway takes a bad curve at that point and in wet weather the paved surface becomes very slippery. Three accidents were reported there during the last couple of days. The latest was when an Imperial Oil truck jackknifed and collided with the car of Carl Bryans, Lindsay. Neither Bryans nor Charles Wellman, RR 1 Omemee, driver of the truck, was injured.

Release Other Man In Car Theft Case

William Burns, Queen Street, charged with car theft, was released today when the charge was dismissed by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

"At the most, Burns could be considered an accessory after the fact. I don't believe he could be convicted of theft on the evidence," His Worship said.

Burns was arrested June 19 with Albert O'Dette, near Lindsay, by Provincial Police. O'Dette received a reformatory sentence when he was found guilty.

FOR THIRTY-SEVEN YEARS A TEACHER in rural schools, possibly a record in the Province, R. A. Sutton of Ida, closed the school door of Cairo School, Cavan Township, at the end of the June term for the last time. He never resorted to corporal punishment nor lost a day of teaching through illness. Mr. and Mrs. Sutton were presented with suitable gifts by pupils, ex-pupils and neighbours on his retirement.

37 Years Teacher in Rural Schools Proud Record of Cavan Township Man

CAVAN, July 6 (ENS)—When R. A. Sutton, teacher of Cairo public school (SS No. 9, Cavan) on Highway 28 at Fraserville locked the school doors for the summer, he turned the key on his long teaching career. It is career probably without parallel in the entire history of Ontario schools. Mr. Sutton is retiring after 37 years teaching in schools in the one township of Cavan, except for 1½ years at Bridgenorth.

In recognition of his long service to Cavan schools, neighbors, parents and pupils held a farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. Sutton and presented Mr. Sutton with a gold signet ring and an autographed book of verse. His wife, a teacher before her marriage, received a bouquet of roses.

His 37 years in rural schools is believed to be an Ontario record. Mr. Sutton has two other amazing records: he never once in his long career had to resort to corporal punishment. And during his 37 years as a teacher, he has never missed a day through illness.

Human nature is still about the same, says Mr. Sutton. The pupils' clothes have changed, but not their ideas or their habits. Mr. Sutton thinks it will take more than 37 years to change that.

The last three years of Mr. Sutton's teaching career have been spent at the Cairo school, which was built in 1872, and is located at the junction of Highways 28 and 7A.

Mr. Sutton, a short, solid, cheerful man with white hair close-cut, says he is going to devote most of his time to his market and fruit garden at his Ida home. He doesn't find anything unusual about his retirement so far.

"It's just like any other holiday. I suppose I'll begin to notice the difference this September," he smiled.

Curriculum Trends

He said he has noticed the trend in school curriculums toward more general courses, leaving the details to the discretion of the teacher. For his money, curriculums will continue to be general and in time will become even more so than at present.

All his teaching years were spent in the Cavan district, except for one year spent at Bridgenorth public school.

Born on a farm on the eighth line of Cavan, he received his public school education at Whitfields SS 8, and passing entrance examinations, he attended Millbrook Continuation School.

Thirty-seven years ago, teachers needed three years' experience in rural schools before entering normal school. These preliminary teaching years he spent in Whitfields public school.

After graduating from Normal school in Peterborough in 1916, he returned to his home school at Whitfields and taught six years more there. While there, he rocketed back and forth between school and home on a motorcycle, one of the first owned in the township.

20 Years At SS 5

Next school for Mr. Sutton was Matchett's on the eighth line of Cavan where he taught for several years. From Matchett's he went to Bridgenorth for a year and a half, and from Bridgenorth back to Cavan township at SS 5, where he taught more than 20 years.

Several of his pupils won prizes in district oratorical contests, and in 1943 G. R. Fenwick, musical supervisor for the Ontario Department of Education, presented the school with a gold star, one of three presented to schools outside of Toronto at that time.

In 1947, he moved to Cairo school (SS No. 9). In 1948, a pupil of his, Catharine Waterman, won first prize in the public speaking contest for Durham county. In 1949, another pupil, Betty Stevens, stood first in district and county oratorical contests, and in April of this year placed second in the provincial public speaking contest.

Drunk Driver Guilty Sentenced To 7 Days

Charged with drunk driving, Robert Sloan of Omemee was sentenced to seven days in jail today by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

Provincial Constable Thomas Fitzpatrick told court that at 2:20 a.m. today he saw a truck coming towards him, weaving. "Sloan could hardly get out of the cab, he was so drunk," the officer testified.

Constable Fitzpatrick said Sloan's speech was thick, and that he couldn't find his driver's licence when he took out his wallet.

Sloan pleaded guilty.

26-Lb. Muskie From Chemong

BRIDGENORTH, July 6 (ENS)—One of the biggest muskies to come out of Chemong Lake in years was a 26-pounder hauled out by A. E. Dearing of Columbus, O., after a 30-minute battle Tuesday.

Another member of the same party, William Molar caught a lunge weighing 13 pounds in the same part of the lake near Kelly's Island. Both men are staying at Dan McConkey's at the lake.

Mr. Dearing's catch will make him eligible for the "Order of the Kawartha Muskie."

Australian Beef Flown To Coast

By LOUIS L. LECK

SYDNEY, Australia —(CP)— Britain's urgent need of meat which does not involve dollars is awakening the Kimberley area of Western Australia with the drone of an airplane freighting beef to the coast.

The Kimberley division lies in the north-west corner of Australia. It is an extensive area, counting its human population in hundreds but with 500,000 cattle roaming its fertile valleys and tablelands.

Outlets to markets are the big problem. On the coast, almost 200 miles from the centre of the Kimberleys, is Wyndham, where there are meatworks and facilities for shipping beef to Britain.

Normally about 40,000 cattle are driven to Wyndham each killing season. They must be about five years old before they can face the arduous journey and on the way they lose about 100 pounds of dressed weight. It is wasteful business.

Bold Experiment

The Commonwealth and Western Australian governments, in association with grazing interests, are trying a bold experiment.

At Glenroy, 195 miles southwest of Wyndham, they have built a small abattoir. All the buildings and equipment were flown in from the coast.

Cattle from 50 miles around are being slaughtered at the works, dressed and flown out—12,000 pounds at a time—by Bristol Freighter at Wyndham.

The freighter will make three flights a day and the target is 60 head of cattle a day.

If the experiment is successful another prefabricated abattoir will be built at Hall's Creek. Ultimate aim is a chain of small centres from where dressed meat will be flown to the coast.

THREE GUESSES—This isn't snow—as you probably thought—but foam. It was blown in from the sea by strong winds along the Sydney, Australia, coast. This photo shows an intrepid motorist driving his automobile through part of the foam at Newport Beach, about 15 miles from Sydney. In some places it was so deep it had to be swept away from houses and beach-side kiosks.

Asks Atom Transfer To Private Industry

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP) — Immediate transfer of atomic energy to private industry was proposed Wednesday by David E. Lilienthal, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

His proposal was made in a magazine article. He said he has changed his mind.

"I was among those," he said, "who, back in 1945 and 1946, were unable to see any alternative to the course of government monopoly. . . I am convinced that our monopoly course is no longer justified and should be drastically changed."

The biggest gold brick in history, he said, is the notion that the United States has a secret formula.

He said that almost to a man scores of industrial leaders believe atomic energy cannot be fully developed under present government-dominated conditions.

Torch Breaks Omemee Man Suffers Burns

OMEMEE, July 6.—(ENS). — Mr. Bob Smith of Omemee narrowly escaped serious injury when a blow-torch touching a hydro wire broke, the gas burning his arm and wrist.

Mr. Smith was removing paint from the front of Mr. Clarence Clifford's barber shop. He was on a ladder working with the blow-torch when a poorly wrapped hydro wire touched it, burning a hole in it and allowing the gas to spurt out on his hand and arm. When the gas ignited Mr. Smith dropped the torch and hurried to the ground where he was able to extinguish the flames which were burning up to his shoulder.

Mr. Bill Weir, who was passing, drove him to Dr. Earle's office where he received immediate treatment for first degree burns on his right wrist and hand, his long-sleeved sweater having saved his arm.

Fortunately the wire carried only 110 volts or the accident would have been much more serious. Also, the torch, which lit on the roof, went out even before Mr. T. Shaw arrived with a fire extinguisher.

Flood Fund Climbs

WINNIPEG, July 6.—(CP). — Manitoba flood relief fund Wednesday totalled $6,516,133, an increase of $104,000 during the last 24 hours. Objective is $10,000,000.

1876 Town Directory Listed Officials

After 26 years of incorporation as a town, Peterborough finally got itself a directory, which was printed on the presses of the Peterborough Times in 1876.

The directory did a little pushing for the tourist trade, too, listing such enjoyable trips as those to Fenelon Falls and Stony Lake. Historians of the town, the county and the township are included in it.

Advertising at that time presents a quaint air to the modern eye, but only because of the unusual types and engravings used. Advertisers made the same claims in those days.

For $8, the housewife could buy the "Walker Washer, the prize washing machine of the dominion." Will J. Morrison, Peterborough dealer, said in the advertisement for this washer he would give any man, woman, or child $50 for finding any Walker Washer thrown aside because it will not do all that it is advertised to do.

Then there was the Midland Railway of Canada, which "is 20 minutes slower than Grand Trunk time." This of course was before the invention of standard time by Sir Sanford Fleming.

The Times itself said it did "pretty printing," and that "a great portion of the type and other material has been imported direct from Scotland! and is of the latest design."

George A. Morrison in Port Hope advertised the "celebrated Farmers Friend Gang Plow," a triple gang plow which was guaranteed to be the only perfect gang plow in existence.

Trip To Stony Lake

After concluding what seems to have been a pleasant journey to Stony Lake, the writer of the directory philosophised in this manner on one of the facets of travelling:

"It has been said that, travelling with a man is a ready way of getting an insight into his character, and there can be little doubt that, if at the end of a three weeks trip, such as we have described, a man passes satisfactorily through the ordeal, we learn not only to respect, but to value him as a real friend for the future, and in addition to the physical good we receive, a moral benefit is derived from such a journey, that often lasts through life."

This 78-word, 10-comma sentence was written after a visit to Gin Island near Lakefield.

County officers at the time of publication of the directory were: Judge Robert Dennisoun, County Attorney C. A. Weller, Clerk of the Peace, C. A. Weller, Sheriff, J. A. Hall, Registrar, F. W. Haultain, Clerk of County Court, G. T. Leonard, Master and Deputy Registrar, Court of Chancery, W. H. Weller, Registrar, Surrogate Court, G. T. Leonard.

Member for Peterborough West was John Bertram and for Peterborough East, John Hall. Members of the legislative assembly were Dr. O'Sullivan for Peterborough East, and W. H. Scott, Peterborough West.

Ashburnham was still a separate village at this time, and Reeve was John Burnham. Clerk was John Wood, and A. H. Peck was treasurer.

Reeves for the various townships in 1875 were: Asphodel, R. E. Birdsall; Belmont and Methuen, W. Burgess; Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos, J. Colborne; Douro, J. Moloney; Dummer, T. G. Choate; Emmismore, D. Costello; Galway and Cavendish, M. Mansfield; Harvey, W. Blewitt.

Reeve of Lakefield was C. A. Boulton; clerk and treasurer was W. C. Saunders, and Postmaster was W. H. Casement.

All Work And No Play makes anybody tired, so you can't be blamed for resting now and then. But what do you do to rest your eyes? Remember, even though they seldom complain, they must get tired, too—for they work hard for you all day long. That's why I always keep a bottle of MURINE handy. Then I can put 2 drops of Murine in each eye nights, mornings and whenever my eyes feel tired! They quickly feel rested and refreshed — because Murine's 7 ingredients blend perfectly with the natural eye fluids to soothe and cleanse delicate eye tissues. I find when my eyes feel better, I feel better all over. Why don't you try Murine, too?

The ruby red strawberry and raspberry jams and jellies, the deep rich amethyst grape, the garnet plum, all sparkling on my cupboard shelf, make me feel a regular miser. With Certo, too, I can get up to 50% more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit. Try CERTO FRUIT PECTIN when you're jamming and jellying and see the wonderful results you get by following exactly the tested recipes on the booklet under the label of every Certo bottle.

When Meal-Getting Time is rushed, it's extremely annoying to be slowed up by a hard-to-open package. That's why I'm so delighted with the new, easy-to-open DURHAM CORN STARCH package! Then, when you've used as much "Durham" as you need at the time, replace the top of the package. It will protect your corn starch from dust 'til the next time you need it. And, if you've never tried the luscious recipes on the Durham package, you've a treat in store! I particularly recommend the one for Lemon Pie! It's an Ann Adam recipe, so of course it's delicious!

Hydro Worker Electrocuted

GRIMSBY, July 6 (CP)—Frank Maxim, 31, Niagara Falls, Ont., was electrocuted Wednesday when he came in contact with a "raw" 4,000-volt wire while working on a hydro pole on Paton St. here.

Maxim, married and the father of two small daughters died in an ambulance en route to St. Catharines General Hospital, 18 miles east of here.

Maxim was employed by the Ontario Hydro Commission. A fellow linesman, Bill Groves, Niagara Falls, told reporters: "There was a sudden flash and then I just saw him hanging there by his safety belt."

Dr. M. F. Bowers and volunteer Fire Chief Alf LePage used an inhalator in an effort to revive Maxim. Oxygen was fed to him in the ambulance but he died an estimated 15 minutes after the accident.

Thousands Stranded In Oklahoma Strike

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 6—(AP) — Thousands were left stranded at bus stops in this city of 242,000 today by a strike of 400 drivers and maintenance employees of the city bus company.

The strike was voted unanimously after drivers completed final runs this morning, Gordon Malone, union business representative, said.

The contract between the company, an independent firm, and the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America (AFL) expired at midnight June 30. Agreement of both parties extended the contract for five days.

Drivers seek wage increases and other contract provisions, including insurance and pension plans.

Red Agents Send Newsmen Warnings

SAIGON, Indo-China, July 6 (Reuters)—Agents of the Communist Viet Minh movement today sent letters to most of Saigon's principal Viet Namese journalists "sentencing" them to death unless they cease publication of their newspapers, French sources said today.

A Viet Minh gunman assassinated Lu Khe, editor of Anh Sang, one of Saigon's most popular newspapers, Monday. It was the third such killing within two months.

The sources said the Viet Nam journalists had declined offers of police protections and were carrying on publishing their newspapers "in an objective way."

The death threats followed a decision by Viet Nam censors to delete from newspapers any Viet Minh propaganda.

Asphyxiation Held Main Cause Of Death In Atomic Bombings

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEY

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP). — A new explanation for a large part of the deaths from the atomic bomb was advanced Wednesday by Dr. Paluel J. Flagg, president of the Society for Prevention of Asphyxiall Death.

He said 50 to 85 per cent of the deaths are due immediately to asphyxiation. He said that few doctors know how to treat serious asphyxiation and that a large saving of life is possible by making adequate preparations.

Asphyxiation is lack of oxygen. This lack can come from different causes. The officially reported causes of death from the atomic bombs dropped in Japan are radio-activity, blast or concussion, flash burns and heat. Dr. Flagg said that all these can cause asphyxiation.

He said asphyxiation is a complication in most atomic bomb injuries and the immediate cause of death in a majority. Treating victims of asphyxiation, he said, would prolong their lives, and in many cases make it possible for them to recover from other injuries.

Dr. Flagg said asphyxiation shows itself in three stages, and that in the first two fresh air is a cure. The third stage is a limp and almost lifeless condition and then, said the doctor, only expert medical treatment can save life. It is for this stage that teaching is needed.

Moscow Press Rages At "U.S. Imperialists"

MOSCOW, July 6—(AP)—The Moscow Press attacked "rampant United States imperialists" in discussions of the Korean war today and for the first time criticised Holland and Australia for their part in the fighting.

An Izvestia editorial said "United States imperialists are reaping what they have sown," adding that the strengthening of the struggle for peace marks the answer of millions to "American aggression" in Korea.

The editorial said the cry "Hands Off Korea" expresses the wrath of the people against "American interventionists and their British, Australian, Dutch and other abettors."

Moscow newspapers also carried a Tass dispatch from Pyongyang, north Korean capital, saying that young Koreans are volunteering for front-line duty. More than 115,000 had joined the army by July 1, and 30,000 of them quickly asked to be moved to the front, the dispatch said.

Norwood Sends Namesake $2,000

NORWOOD, July 6—(ENS)—An unusual similarity of names, occupation and home town address brought the letter below to Mr. E. Gardner, of 6 Buena Vista apartments.

It seems that Mr. Gardner, of Norwood, Ont., received a letter that should have gone to Mr. Gardner of Norwood, Manitoba.

The coincidence, however, doesn't stop there. Both men are in the drug business and have similar associations within that profession.

Contained in the letter received by the Manitoba Mr. Gardner were some references to Manitoba's flood losses and what Norwood, Ont., was doing for its namesake. The letter reads:

Dear Mr. Gardner,—The enclosed letter came to me along with some of my invoices, as my name is Gardner also, and I am in the drug business, too, in Norwood, Ont.

"It seems quite a coincidence that there should be two druggists of the same name, one in Norwood, Man., and the other in Norwood, Ont.

"The people of Ontario were deeply stirred by the Manitoba flood and the destruction it caused. I hope you were not directly affected by it, or if so, that your loss was small.

"The Norwood Board of Trade here in Ontario met with other organizations and formed a campaign called "Norwood, Ontario, to Norwood, Manitoba," to raise funds to be sent directly to Norwood, Man.

Returns To Old Haunts Gets Fish Aplenty

MARMORA, July 6 (ENS)—"I think it depends upon the angler more than the bait what success comes to one in fishing," said Bert Kouri, of Peterborough.

Bert decided to return to the waters he had fished as a youth first with his dad and then on his own. He had not forgotten that Crowe River, south of Highway 7, had once yielded a seventeen pound muskie to his persistent efforts as well as other good-sized fish.

I went on Monday," said Bert, using for the first time a Heddon spook and fly. I had with me my young son, Don, and brother Mike.

"Do you know what? I got a lunge weighing 8½ pounds and between the three of us we got four large mouth bass between two and two-and-a-half pounds apiece.

"Sure, fishing is alright if you know how to go about it."

Church Leaders See Reds Behind Appeal

TORONTO, July 6 — (CP) — Church leaders were told Wednesday that Communism lurks behind the world-wide "peace" campaign to have atomic weapons outlawed.

The executive committee of the Church Commission on International Affairs urged Protestant and orthodox churches throughout the world not to associate themselves with the so-called "Stockholm appeal."

When churches speak on the atomic "crisis," the executive said in an open letter prepared at its three-day meeting here, "they should guard against the possibility that their utterances may be used for propaganda purposes quite different from those which they intend."

Hamilton Dream House Gets Fund $217,000

HAMILTON, July 6—(CP)—Nearly $217,000 for Manitoba flood relief was raised by the Hamilton "dream home" project, it was announced Wednesday night. Objective was $50,000.

A cheque has been presented for $216,832, raised through sale of raffle tickets on the home, special donations and tours of the home, to City Treasurer R. J. Menary, for credit to the fund. Mr. Menary said the cheque would bring donations for flood relief from the Hamilton area to nearly $440,000.

Mayor Garnet Coulter of Winnipeg, who made the draw for the home, said the figures left him "breathless".

The winning ticket was held by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hopwood of Hamilton.

Homemakers Hold Festival

ROSENEATH, July 6 (ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Simpson, Alderville, were hosts on Wednesday evening to the Homemakers' Club and their friends when a strawberry social was held.

Tables were set in the house and on the lawn. After the meal and the tables were cleared away, a variety program was presented.

Rev. J. N. Lovelace, pastor of Alderville United Church, was chairman and announced the following numbers: a vocal duet by Mr. and Mrs. Foster Russell, Cobourg; an instrumental duet, violin and piano, by Albert Crowe and Lorne Simpson; Mrs. Earl Waldie, Roseneath, contributed two readings; A. E. Hircock, Cobourg, a vocal solo and encore; an instrumental duet, saxophone and piano, Borden Crowe and Lorne Simpson; a vocal solo, Mrs. Foster Russell.

Mrs. James Bigwin, Jr., and Mrs. Foster Russell were piano accompanists for the evening. Mr. Thomas Bannon, California, a well known tourist brought greetings from California to the people of Alderville.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the evening's entertainment to a close.

Street Dance Held By Lakefield Lions

LAKEFIELD, July 6—(ENS)—A financila success and everybody had a whale of a time.

That's the verdict of those who attended the annual Lions Club carnival and street dance. The main street was closed off to traffic while local residents and visiting tourists—including a large group of celebrating Americans—enjoyed a session of round and square dancing.

As well there was bingo and other games of chance and refreshment booths.

Harry Stabler, president of the Lakefield Lions Club, and club members organized the night's entertainment assisted by Hurrell Dodds, of Peterborough.

At least $450 was raised and it will go toward financing children's sports and other club projects.

The secondary objective was to provide entertainment for visiting Americans, and a number of the visitors made a point of praising the Lakefield club for the night's fun.

Three ticketholders did not pick up their draw prizes and they are being held at the Lakefield tourist booth. The draw for a boat and trailer and outboard motor will be August 9.

Music for dancing was by the Seven Aires.

Finds Dual Language Gives Canadians More Jobs in U.N.

OTTAWA —(CP)— Canada's bilingualism is one reason there are so many Canadians working with the United Nations at Lake Success, a first vice-president of the newly-formed UN administrative tribunal said during a recent visit here.

Madame Paul Bastid, a sister of Jean Basdevant, charge d'affaires at the French embassy, said in an interview that under the UN's administrative regulations each country is entitled to have a certain number of its nationals employed by the UN.

But because of the bilingual nature of Canada and the need for bilingual employees the number of Canadians working at Lake Success actually is greater than the number of positions to which Canada is entitled.

To Visit Mills

In town for a brief visit with her brother after a year's work in helping to set up the tribunal, the prominent French lawyer said she hoped to take time out to visit some of the paper mills in the area before returning to Lake Success.

Explaining the working of the tribunal, Mme. Bastid, professor of international law at the Sorbonne in Paris, called to mind the fact that any person taking a job with the UN—whether he be junior typist or highly-paid legal adviser—immediately became an "international" citizen.

No Recourse

In effect this means he cannot turn to his own government or courts if he has grievances to air, she said.

That is where the new administrative tribunal will come into action.

Questions of sick leave, hours or wages are just a few of the things which will be dealt with when this court holds its first session in the near future.

Another problem is that of permitting employees living at a distance to spend their vacation at home.

"Obviously a person doesn't want to spend all his time on the train or ship," said Madame Bastid. "Something must be worked out to give the employee reasonable home leave."

Fourteen persons from the UN staff will present their problems at the first session of the new administrative court before a panel made up of the president, the Maharajah of Nawanager, India, Madame Bastid and Sir Sydney Caine, prominent British lawyer who also is a vice-president of the tribunal.

Hospitals Study Growing Shortage Of Pupil Nurses

LONDON —(Reuters)—British hospital authorities, concerned over the grave shortage of trained nurses, have learned from a group survey made in northern England that only 40 out of every 100 student nurses are likely to complete their full training.

Staff and students of Liverpool University, surveying a hospital group in Cheshire, said they found many things wrong.

Some of their findings:

Male nurses objected to working under women, and some of them suggested a male "matron" should be in charge of them.

One male nurse complained men were treated "like little girls."

A rigid "caste" system exists in hospitals.

Strict barriers between grades limit opportunities for advancement, and staff personnel admitted they had no sociable contact with people of a "lower status."

On Lowest Rung

Domestic staffs are the most miserable because they were on the lowest rung of the hospital social ladder and are, for instance banned from hospital social clubs.

In one instance, this gave rise to the peculiar position of a man —not employed at the hospital— being invited to a social club dance to which he could not take his wife because she happened to be a cleaner in the hospital.

The surveyors found that hospital staff health and safety amenities are inadequate.

They also discovered that 71 per cent of hospital staffs worked more than the industrial 44-hour week, and 58 per cent more than 50 hours.

Yet despite all this, the surveyors came to the conclusion that morale among hospital workers is high.

Among nurse the explanation probably is true love for their work, reported the investigators. They said 73 per cent of them— asked why they took on their arduous job—answered "interest in hospital work."

What's Right?

You disagree with a statement made by another person in a social gathering.

WRONG: Say: "You're all wrong about that" or "Whatever gave you that idea?"

RIGHT: Give your opinion, if you like, but don't insult the other person in doing so.

Stockdale-Graham Wedding In Double Ring Ceremony

Rings and vows were exchanged at Knox Presbyterian Church, Conn, Monday afternoon as Elda Irene Graham and Stuart Ralph Stockdale were united. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Graham, of Conn and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stockdale of Lakehurst.

The Rev. M. McNabb officiated at the altar which was banked with peonies and ferns. Mr. Eldon Stockdale was at the organ and Miss Leona Stockdale sang "I'll Walk Beside You," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was gowned in ankle length white brocaded net over corded taffeta. Her full length embroidered veil was caught to a halo headdress of seed pearls and crystal beads and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Elaine Graham, who was wearing a pale pink gown made on similar lines and a picture hat of pink net. She carried yellow roses.

Miss Sheila Howard, cousin of the bride and Miss Margaret Stockdale, neice of the groom, were flower girls and master Ross Rae nephew of the bride was ring-bearer. The flower girls were dressed in green nylon over yellow taffeta, and mauve brocaded satin. Both dresses caught up in front with white satin ribbon. Each carried a nosegay of sweetpeas and babys breath and all wore fingerless mittens coming to points over the hand.

The rings were carried on a green and yellow taffeta heart-shaped cushion made especially for the occasion.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. George Stockdale and the brides brothers-in-law were ushers, Mr. Carson Rae and Mr. Norris Bruce.

The bride's grandmother who is in her 83rd year attended the wedding, wearing gray crepe with mauve accessories and corsage. The groom's grandmother, also in her 83rd year, was unable to be present.

The bride's mother received in the church hall, wearing blue crepe with silk lace peplum and white accessories. The grooms mother wore grey printed silk with grey satin and matching accessories. Their corsages were red sweetheart roses.

The bride's going away dress was of yellow nylon and she had a navy coat and accessories.

A party was held in the evening in the WI hall in Conn and the bride and groom received many beautiful gifts. The couple then left for their home in Brampton.

Learning Piano Need Not Be Any Great Chore

NEW YORK —(CP)—Children can learn to play the piano more easily by the group-teaching method, it was indicated by a project conducted in one of New York's public schools. More than that, they can become enthusiastic about learning.

The project was carried out by six public school teachers and four volunteer graduate students in musical education at Columbia Teachers College. The graduate students began teaching the pupils, who were divided into groups of eight or 10, and at the same time instructed the teachers in the method.

The piano classes, which culminated with a recital at the end of the season, were among the school's most popular.

Each student was provided with a soundless carboard piano dummy. A similar one was mounted on the blackboard, and under it the first song to be learned, "Autumn Leaves."

Learn Quickly

With one hand the teacher played the song on the piano, singing it at the same time so the pupils would learn words and tune together. After a second playing the class was singing in chorus and fingering the notes on their piano dummies.

One by one, the students were called to the piano to play and sing the song. At the end of the 40-minute period each student had mastered the first lesson.

"The secret of this kind of teaching lies in immediate musical experience," explained John Hummell, one of the graduate students.

He added that children taught by this method usually are enthusiastic and learn the fundamentals easily. Enjoying piano playing is emphasized as the primary goal.

Woman Jockey Outrides Men

COCHRANE, Alta. —(CP)— Women may be the "weaker sex," but you can't prove it by Millie Hamilton.

The mild-mannered, bespectacled woman out-manoeuvered and out-rode some of the country's best bush jockeys to win four firsts and two seconds at the annual Cochrane race meet.

The woman rider asked no quarter and gave none. She was bounced around at the open gate but when the starter gave the signal she was almost invariably on top and the rest of the field was dizzy trying to catch her.

One of her first was scored in the feature event, the Cochrane Derby, over the one mile route.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

"Here is a situation that puzzles me all the time," is the complaint of a reader in St. Paul, Minn. "I hold three tens, two nines and two deuces—among other cards. It is the beginning of the game, and both sides need 50 points for the first meld. Which is the better play: to meld the three tens and two deuces—making it easier to get a canasta or to meld three tens with one deuce and two nines with the other deuce, making it easier for partner to add to one of the two melds?"

In general, neither is a good play. If nobody has melded, your best bet usually is to put nothing down at all. Wait until you can get the discard pile with your meld. This is particularly true if you have a couple of pairs among your other cards—especially pairs of low cards that count only 5 points each.

If you have some pairs of this kind, the chances are very good that one of those cards will be discarded to you very soon. Then you can take the discard pile at the same time that you make your initial meld.

If you have no low pairs, it may be wise to meld from your hand. However, the general principle of making the initial meld is to use as few cards as possible. Hence you would meld the three tens and only one deuce. Why use five cards for the meld if you can do it with only four?

The situation is quite different if the opponents have already melded and if they have control of the discard pile. Then you are interested in making a canasta quickly and melding out.

In this case you must remember what your partner has discarded and what he has failed to picked up from the discard pile. If he has discarded tens, you know that he has a few tens left in his hand (if any); and likewise, if he has discarded nines. If a ten or a nine was discarded to him, and he failed to pick it up, you suspect that he does not hold the matching cards.

Using this evidence as a guide, you should put down three tens and both deuces if you think that he probably has some tens. If you have reason to believe that he lacks tens, you should meld both deuces with the pair of nines.

If you have no evidence at all to go on, meld the three tens with both deuces. A five-card meld is nearer to a canasta than a four-card meld (such as both nines with the two deuces).

The important thing is to know what you are aiming for. At the beginning of a hand you don't ordinarily plan to meld out in a hurry; you therefore aim to pick up the discard pile. If the opponents beat you to the discard pile and are clearly in control of the situation, you must plan to meld out in a hurry; and you will then aim to make a canasta as quickly as possible.

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—If my partner melds 50 points (or more, as needed, later in the game), do I also need to put down 50 points the first time I meld.

A—No. If your partner makes a sufficeint meld you can then meld any amount at all. For example, suppose your partner melds a joker with a pair of sixes. When your turn comes you can meld a single six (counting only 5 points); you don't have to meld 50 points of your own.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

Cinders spurted on the Fallowfield racing oval at Manchester, England. The Commonwealth's swiftest cyclists were streaking for the 10-mile Marathon crown of the 1934 British Empire Games.

South Africa's cyclist—favoured to win—led the field. Suddenly Canada's entry spurted up beside him . . . then pushed a wheel's length in front. Down the stretch and past the finish he held the lead . . . bringing Canada its first Empire Marathon victory.

Keen sportsmanship and a will to win have brought Canadians many firsts. And sportsmanship, with teamwork, helps you, too—in work and play. Together they keep your scope for opportunity in Canada...unlimited.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Too Much Affection Found To Bore Girl's Fiance

DEAR MISS DIX: Did you ever hear of a girl being too nice to a young man? I have been engaged for two years to one whom I love better than life itself. Hence it was natural for me to mother him and call him all sorts of pet names. So it was like a slap in the face the other night to have him tell me it was sickening for me to be so sugary. From now on I am going to be as cool, calm and collected as they come. Next I suppose he will tell me that I must have fallen out of love.—TWO YEARS TOO MANY.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Yes, my dear, I have not only heard of girls being too nice to young men, I've seen them do it and lose out by so doing. For there is no way really by which a woman can make a man lose his taste for her more quickly and effectually than by being too sweet and gooey to him.

It is one of the unfortunate laws of Nature that we judge other people by ourselves and expect their reactions to be similar to our own. Thus, when a woman is in love she treats the man as she would like to have him treat her. So she showers caresses upon the man in season and out of season, clinging to his arm or leaning up against his shoulder in an automobile or holding his hand in the movies.

Points To Remember

One thing that every girl should bear in mind is that love talk bores a man. The second is that no man wants to make love upon compulsion. And the third is that in the love chase the man always wants to be the pursuer and not the pursued, and that he is very apt to lose interest in a girl after he has captured her. Especially if the capture is too easy and he is too certain that he couldn't lose her if he tried.

If you look over the married women of your acquaintance, you will find that the most devoted wives never have the most devoted husbands. The wives who make slaves of themselves to their husbands are servants and not Lady Loves. The wives who do the kissing have the back of an ear or the top of a head presented to their lips.

It is the wives who keep their husbands guessing, the wives who demand a lot of attention from their husbands, the wives who make their caresses rare enough to be treats instead of daily chores who keep their husbands lovers.

All of which must mean something or other.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a most unhappy girl of 18 and my unhappiness is caused by the constant quarreling between my mother and father. There is never a day that there isn't a fight between them over the silliest of trifles and the most unimportant things. Then they make up and all is fogotten by them, but not by me. Their quarrels have made me lose all interest in life. I have got so nervous that things fall from my hands and I am on the verge of a breakdown. I sometimes think of taking my own life to be out of it all. My parents say that their quarrels are between them and have nothing to do with me, but they are ruining my life. What can I do?—A DAUGHTER.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: A great many parents besides yours think that their quarrels are their private affairs and that if they get any fun out of a cat-and-dog fight they have a right to take their pleasure as they find it. So they do not hesitate to stage the most disgraceful scenes before their children.

Apparently they have no conception of the suffering they are inflicting upon their children and the injury they are doing them. They do not seem to realize how it tears a child's heart to tatters to see the mother and father it loves hurting each other so cruelly. They do not seem to sense the shame and degradation that fills a child's soul at having the reverence it feels for its parents torn from it and having them degraded before it.

But any neurologist will tell you that no misfortune can happen to a child worse than being brought up in a quarrelsome home. It wrecks them in body and mind and as long as they live they suffer from the shocks that their parents gave them when they were young.

Inasmuch as children have to pay not only with their happiness but with their health and with the failure of their lives for their parents' quarreling, it does seem that fathers and mothers might deny themselves the kick they get out of fighting for the sake of the helpless little creature they have brought into the world.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What do you consider the obligations that an engaged couple owe to each other?—ENGAGED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I should say politeness and consideration of each other's feelings and such attentions as their hearts prompt. I do not think that an engaged couple have a right to enslave each other or police each other. An engagement should be an option rather than a closed contract.

"How dare you!—I'm no odd date I'm his wife!"

Mothers-to-be Now Shown Colorful Togs

By MURIEL NARROWAY

LONDON —(CP)— Britain is getting away from old ideas and producing colorful, fashionable clothes for the would-be mother.

Many large stores have opened special departments for maternity styles and some houses undertake to refashion the clothes after the birth.

One Bayswater shop (Holler) has its own designers turning out styles with a Parisian flair.

An example is a blue wool tunic of hip length, with shoulder-wide cape collar of white silk and big, elbow-length bell sleeves edged with white. The wide straight tunic has a white belt and a back which falls in fashionable swing panels.

Some of the tunics are a little fantastic but there are simple shirt-waisted blouse-jackets with open neck and bishop sleeves.

Medieval Touch

Many designs have medieval or renaissance interest. For instance there is one with the huge sleeves of a renaissance dandy and wide, graceful regency cloaks with big collars and wide sleeves.

In cotton dresses, one style has the simplicity of a choirboy's surplice. A white cotton with broderie anglaise collar costs less than £3 ($9.30).

Chinese coolie jackets are another popular choice for maternity wear, as are the huge, white Quaker collars, wide swagger and kidder coats and buttoned skirts.

A store which specializes in hand-smocking has "kangaroo" skirts for wear beneath their smocks. These hang from braces and have a cicular cut-out at the waist.

Maternity underwear is more expensive and hard to find. Many corset-makers ignore this line and some women complain they must have maternity corsets especially made.

Jurymen Told Of Drowning

BLIND RIVER, July 6—(CP)—A coroner's jury enquiring into the death last week of Edward Gouette, of Sudbury, was told of the victim's futile attempt to swim ashore after the small boat had become swamped in rough water.

A verdict of "accidental death by drowning with no blame attached to anyone" was returned Wednesday.

The main testimony given at the inquest was that of Gwette's companion, Ted Beaudry, of Sudbury, who managed to cling to the boat until help came.

Beaudry testified that at the time of the accident late Friday night he and Gouette were within 100 yards of their destination when the 11-foot craft became swamped in water and turned over.

Beaudry told the jury Gouette left him to attempt to swim to shore. That was the last he saw of him. Beaudry hung to the boat for an hour and a half before his shouts brought residents of the Spanish Indian reserve to his rescue.

Hints On Horticulture

CHOOSING ROSES

Choose roses for your garden which are budded if longevity is desired. Roses propagated from cuttings and thus grown on their own roots are not satisfactory for all localities. Budded roses apparently endure longer than those of the same variety but unbudded. This is due to the fact that root stock upon which the rose proper is budded is hardier and able to withstand the extremely cold soil conditions during winter. The hardy root stocks are the English Brier, of which there is none better, the Rugosa and the Multiflora. Roses on their own roots appear to do fairly well in the milder localities and on well-drained soils. In all cold weather localities, however, only budded ones should be planted.

The kinds of roses which do best in Southern Canada and the Northern United States are Baby Polyanthus, Hqbrid Teas, Hybrid Perpetuals, Climbers, and the standard Weeping Roses which are really Climbers budded on the Rugosa or Brier stocks.

POSITIONING ROSES:

Upon the choice of the position in which to plant the roses may depend the success of their culture. It is best to plant them in a somewhat sheltered position, but also open to full sunshine. The plants must have abundant light, but should be protected somewhat from the prevailing winds of winter; also of summer, for that matter, so that the blooms will not be destroyed before fully serving their purpose. More especially is it necessary to protect the position from north and east, in our colder and more northern localities.

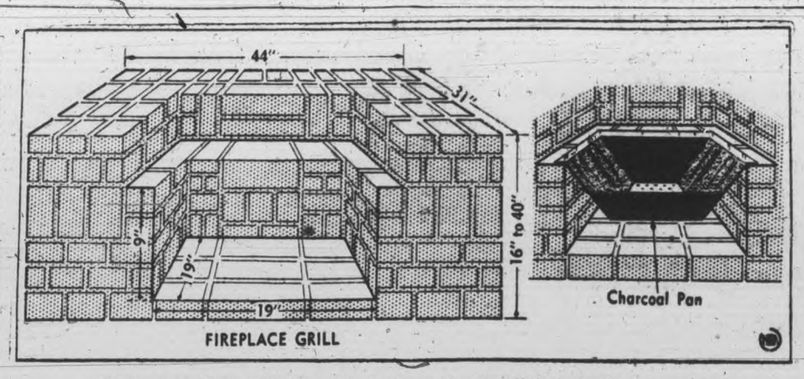
In all other respects the position should be fully open to favor atmospheric coolness during summer. Masses of low - growing shrubs or hedges may be planted or advantage be taken of existing structures to afford protection. The position should be such that water will not stand in the soil; good drainage is as essential to success as any other factor. Roses will not endure in badly drained soils and in such may die during the first winter. Thus, the position should not be in a depression, but rather a slight elevation from which water will freely drain.

SOIL FOR ROSES

A fairly heavy clay loam is the best soil for roses. Such a soil is cool in summer, an ideal condition for root growth of the subjects, and being also retentive of moisture is ideal for the production of strong flowering growth. Dark colored humic soils, because they absorb and retain more of the sun's heat than do the light colored clays, are not the best for rose culture. It is, however, true that roses can be grown on some of the lighter soils.

As pure clays are too heavy and lack fertility, they should, where existent, be lightened somewhat by the addition of organic matter of which manure from the cow stables is best, this being a cool manure, not heating much in fermentation. Also being watery in composition, it adds to the coolness and moisture content of the soil. Ordinary stable manure, however, may be employed when cow manure cannot be obtained. If the soil is too light and sandy it may be improved by the addition of loam and of cow manure or of leaf soil so as to make it fertile and retentive of moisture.

The beds or borders to receive the rose bushes may be prepared during late autumn for either autumn or spring planting. They may, however, also be prepared during April and as the roses do best when their roots are able to penetrate deeply it is well to dig the soil two spades deep at the same time working the manure therein. If the soil is prepared in late autumn fresh strawy manure may be employed, but if in spring, only that which it at least half-rotted. Deep digging is essential when preparing the soil to receive roses.



With an outdoor grill like this back yard entertaining should be a picnic.

Fireplace In The Garden Helps At Informal Parties

By BOB SCHARFF
Written for NEA Service

An outdoor grill in the garden makes an excellent center for informal parties and entertaining. Building one isn't so difficult if you follow these simple design and construction facts.

For most purposes, the type of grill illustrated here will prove quite adequate. It can be built of a variety of materials—common brick, field stones or cobblestones.

Before starting the grill, give the location much consideration. Select a dry spot having good drainage where water does not collect and where heavy frost wouldn't damage the foundation walls.

It should face prevailing winds so full advantage is taken of the draft and so the smoke will blow away from people gathered before it. Also, in order to avoid interference with the draft, a grill should not be located under a tree or near a high wall.

The first step in building the grill is to make an excavation 10 or 12 inches deep and of the proper outside dimensions. Fill the bottom of the excavation with a six-inch layer of cinders and tamp them down to form a solid level base for the bottom of the pit.

Then make a 1-2-3 concrete mixture and pour the thoroughly mixed cement on top of the layer of cinders. Spread it out evenly letting the cement run between the cinders. The concrete slab should be six or eight inches thick and reinforced with iron rods and pipes. The top of the slab should extend a few inches above the ground level so water will not collect in the ashpit. For the same reason, the floor of an ashpit should always slope to drain out water.

The wood-burning fireplace illustrated has a firebox 19 inches square and nine inches high. The height and depth of any wood-burning fireplace should not vary from these dimensions.

The length of the firebox and the outside dimensions can vary with the size of the available grates and according to the desire of the owner. The shelves on each side of the grate should be large enough to set dishes and food near the cooking surface. The firebox is built first and then the shelf space.

Charcoal makes the best fire for cooking. A charcoal shelf or grate may be bent to fit a wood-burning fireplace. This may be made from a sheet of metal (28 inches by 18 inches).

Lightweight metal can be supported from underneath with bricks to prevent warping or bending. The depth of this adaptor, or grate, should be about five inches, and the sides should slope as shown in the illustration. The bottom level is about eight inches wide. The front edge should have a low siding to keep the coals from falling on the hearth.

To start the brickwork, lay the entire outside row of bricks in place, allowing about one-half inch space between the bricks. Mark the position of each joint on the foundation and then remove the bricks. Thoroughly wet the bricks and apply a mortar of one part cement and three parts sand so when the bricks are pressed down firmly they will be raised about one-half inch. Continue laying the bricks in this manner, being sure to keep corners and walls plumb.

New Zealand Eases Curbs On Immigration Program

By J. C. GRAHAM

WELLINGTON, New Zealand —(CP)—Faced with a decline in the flow of unmarried migrants from Britain and a continued acute labor shortage, New Zealand has widened the scope of its assisted migration scheme in a bid to get the cream of Britons wishing to settle abroad in Commonwealth countries.

Because of the housing shortage, New Zealand has so far limited its post-war immigration scheme to single men and women under 35 and skilled in various occupations for which there is an unsatisfied labor market in the Dominion. Most of them have had to pay part of their fares.

Now the upper age limit has been extended to 45 and married workers with up to two children can qualify for passage. In addition, all those selected will have the whole cost of their fares paid by the New Zealand government. New Zealand will also seek unmarried skilled workers in Europe.

Will Step Up Numbers

At present, only about 2,500 immigrants a year are being brought to the country under government schemes. It is hoped to step up the number to 10,000, but transport and housing problems will not make it possible for this target to be reached for a year or more. Married workers at first will be limited to those recruited for hydro-electric construction schemes and workers for building and similar industries.

In spite of its accommodation problems, however, New Zealand will again accept from the international refugee organization this year 1,000 displaced persons, including a proportion of elderly people beyond the age to be of economic value to the country. The Dominion made a similar gesture last year as a contribution of the refugee problem.

The decision to include elderly people, banned from drafts accepted by most countries, was hailed as a fine humanitarian action by families in camps throughout Europe last year who faced disruption on account of age limits.

Add Two Rooms To Rural School

The Otonabee School Area Board have submitted plans to the Department of Education for the erection of two extra classrooms at Coldsprings school.

At present the school consists of one room. Should the Board receive permission to go ahead the two new rooms will be classrooms and the old one will be turned into a playroom.

During this past term about 32 of the children took their lessons in the basement of Coldsprings United Church. It was understood that this would be a temporary measure ending with the completion of the additions.

About 75 schoolchildren are expected to enrol for the fall term—five more than were attending when the holidays began.

100 Children Register For Swimming Classes

Swimming instruction has started at Inverlea Park beach More than 100 children have registered for the classes which will continue daily through the nine-week program under the direction of Lynn Davidson, Mary Rutherford and Lorraine Derry.

The splashers, the non-swimmers, will be instructed twice a day. This class has more than 50 pupils. The beginners class children who have advanced into the early stages of swimming, 12 in number, swim each day at 11 p.m.

Lifesaving classes for senior Red Cross swimmers will be held twice a day at 11 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Alex Sinclair, recreation director, suggested today that since there is no instruction at Riverside Beach, the children in that area should attend the Lions' club's lessons during the morning at the pool. Only lifeguards and playground supervisors are working at Riverside park, under the Recreation Commission.

Garson Announces Judicial Appointments

OTTAWA, July 6—(CP)—Justice Minister Garson announced today four judicial appointments to court in Ontario, British Columbia and the Yukon territory.

John V. Cline of Vancouver, chairman of the Canadian Maritime Commission, was appointed a justice of the British Columbia Supreme Court while J. E. Gibben of Dawson, Yukon territory, was named a Judge of the Yukon Territorial Court.

J. M. Cooper, Sudbury, Ont., and Albert St. Aubin, Kirkland Lake, Ont., were appointed to Sudbury District Court.

Court Dismisses Liquor Charge

A charge of having liquor illegally against Earl Turner, 76 Robinson St., was dismissed today by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

His Worship found Turner had offered a "reasonable explanation" for the liquor which was found in his car.

PC Victor McConnell, testified he stopped the cab Turner was driving and found a case of beer and a bottle of brandy in it.

Arguing the case, J. C. N. Currelly, defence counsel, said "The case which is supposed to contain beer has not been opened. It is a sealed carton which might contain sand, dead chickens, or stones and pine needles."

Open Beer Case?

Crown counsel John Bradshaw suggested it was not only the magistrate's right "but your duty, to open this case, examine and taste whatever is in it."

Mr. Currelly said that could not be done without the consent and help of both parties. His Worship decided the case contained beer with inspecting or sampling.

Turner testified he had finished work for the night (June 9) when he was arrested, and had planned to go to his father's home near Keene. He said he was going to take the case of beer and the bottle with him.

Evidence of Joseph Gaskell, LCBO employee, showed the seal on the brandy bottle had been tampered with. Mr. Currelly said there was no evidence as to what the bottle contained; it was "just amber liquid."

Plumbing Inspector

But in 1939, when most people consider the depression had passed, $145,073.29 was paid out to families on relief. Last year this total had slipped to $50,818.78, almost all paid out by cheque instead of the cumbersome voucher system formerly used.

"It was sure a headache during the depression," Mr. Metheral recalled. Peterborough may not have been so badly off as some other cities, but there were on an average 789 families comprising 3,800 people on relief in the city. They had to be fed and clothed, housed, kept warm in winter, and looked after by doctors and dentists.

Then there are the Peterborough citizens who have been committed to asylums, taken to hospital, sentenced to boys' training schools. All the records of these people go through Mr. Metheral's hands as Welfare Administrator.

He must investigate all their backgrounds, to find out whether because the people cannot afford hospital bills or because they are really Peterborough citizens, the city must pay their expenses.

Mr. Metheral's own background is closely associated with Peterborough. An ancestor on his mother's side, James McKibbon, settled on a government grant on what is now the fourth line of Smith township in 1818. At that time, said Mr. Metheral, the only other white people for miles around were four surveyors. On his father's side his forebears were latecomers of the 1840s.

Although Mr. Metheral has been on the job 30 years and he is the father of a married son and daughter, there is no hint of retiring in his talking. He is still enthusiastic about his work. He's a man who likes his job.

Political Era Dawning Now For Samoa

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, NZ — (CP) — Western Samoa, a Pacific island group administered by New Zealand, may become the first League of Nations mandate, or United Nations trusteeship ever to attain complete self-government. It has recently been making remarkable strides in developing its own institutions.

Captured from the Germans by New Zealand troops at the beginning of the First World War, Samoa went through a period of strife and unrest early in the New Zealand administration, but for years now it has made steady economic and political progress.

Minister of Island Territories F. W. Doidge declared after visiting the islands recently: "The Samoan people are surely the happiest in the world. They are so unspoiled, so lovable, so carefree and yet so well-mannered and on occasion, so dignified."

Born Orators

As Doidge has pointed out, the Samoans are not as politically immature as many native people. They now have a legislative assembly and are working towards full self-government. To attain this, however, further progress in education is necessary. More schools are needed and many more teachers will have to be trained.

Doidge sees the islands as on the threshold of a new political era. Sweeping reforms and the destruction of outmoded customs and culture seems to be inevitable. Doidge has urged the people to retain the best of their old way of life and amalgamate it with what is necessary from western life to be able to maintain an independent existence in the modern world.

Peterborough Horse Wins At Thorncliffe

Merton Storey's Canada Direct was the first Peterborough horse to win any money in the newly opened Thorncliffe Raceway in Toronto which started a 42-day meet Monday.

Wednesday, Canada Direct, making his first appearance on the track, won the eighth race and placed second in the sixth race, both of which carried $600 purses.

Monday, Charlie Quinlan's Peter G. Lee placed fourth in the third race. Hugh Davis raced his Redstone II in the fifth race and was sixth. In the seventh race, Redstone was fifth.

In the eighth race, Stan Blewett's Vivian McKiney was fifth.

Tuesday, Hugh Davis raced his Parsons, but the horse was not placed. It was the only Peterborough horse racing that day.

Street Dance To Aid Apsley Centre

APSLEY, July 6—(ENS)—An event of great importance in the annals of Apsley took place Monday night when a street dance was held by the Apsley Recreation Centre.

Friends from Coe Hill, Bancroft, Gilmour, The Ridge, L'Amble, Warsaw, Hastings, Lakefield, Peterborough, Young's Point, Buckhorn, Wilberforce, Highland Grove, Ennismore, Millbrook, Burleigh Falls and Norwood were in attendance as well as many summer visitors from the various lakes.

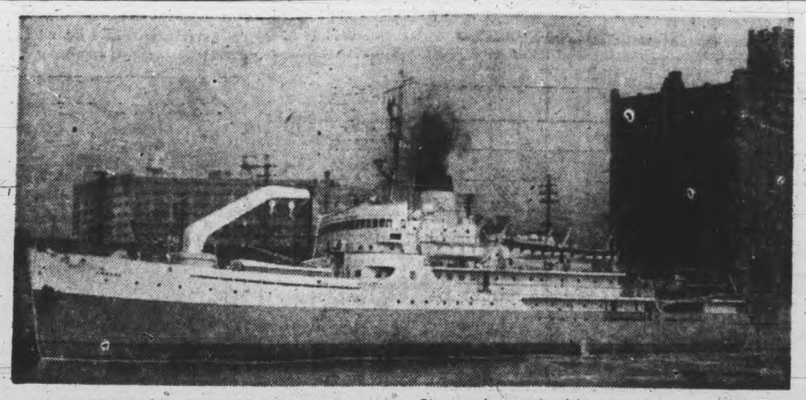
Excellent music for dancing was supplied by George Wade and his Cornhuskers.

All the refreshments and other booths did a good business all evening. A crowd of 900 persons were in attendance and gate receipts were very satisfying.

The lucky ticket which was drawn by Percy Thompson, Cedar Lake, was held by Mr. Floyd Carr, Sherbrooke St., Peterborough, which entitled him to the $50.00 Victory Bond.

FORTUNATE WRECK

Bermuda was uninhabited until 1609, when Admiral Sir George Somer's ship Sea Venture was wrecked on a sunken reef and a colony was established on the island.



THE NEWEST THING IN ARCTIC patrol ships, the trim Department of Transport vessel, C. D. Howe, is shown on her arrival in Montreal from drydock in Lauzon, Que. She replaces the Nascopie, sunk three years ago. The photo shows the helicopter, situated on the ship's stern, that will be used as "eyes" for the ship as well as a means of bringing patients to the vessel's hospital.

Docking Improvement Planned In Essex

LEAMINGTON, July 6 (CP)—Improvements to navigation and docking facilities are planned, or under way, at four points on the Lake Erie shore of Essex county.

Dredging operations to remove 70,000 cubic yards of sand and silt are being carried out in Leamington harbor at a cost of about $70,000.

Improvements to the southeast shoal lighthouse between Pelee Island and Point Pelee, at a cost of $60,000, will begin soon and a contract is still to be let for about $75,000 in rebuilding the west dock on Pelee Island.

At Wheatley, the third crib for a breakwater is nearly finished and a fourth crib is still to be built. Dredging of the harbor is expected to be completed by October to provide inner protection for fishing boats berthed at Wheatley.

RCAF Vets Ready

OTTAWA, July 6 (CP) — The war in Korea has brought an increasing number of offers to serve again from RCAF veterans of the Second World War, officials said Wednesday. Since the outbreak of the Korean war, the number of letters has been averaging about 25 a day.

Treaty Failure Serious Problem

TORONTO, July 6.—(CP). — Failure of the United States Government to enter into a treaty with Canada for the diversion of additional water from the Niagara River would be a serious setback to future power requirements, Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario said Wednesday.

The premier was commenting on reported opposition to the proposed treaty led by Senator Tom Connally (Dem.-Texas) in the U.S. capital.

"Senator Connally may have felt that the Niagara treaty might jeopardize the St. Lawrence development, for he is in favor of that," the premier said. "The two developments are entirely separate, and it would have no effect on the St. Lawrence plan."

"The additional development at Niagara is one of the utmost importance to America," Premier Frost added. "It is important because of the industrial area that it serves on both sides of the border. Anything that will add to our power resources is of tremendous value to both countries."

Engineers estimate that the proposed Niagara diversion would add 800,000 horsepower to Ontario's production.

U.S. TROOPS MAKE 10-MILE COMEBACK

Say Strachey On Carpet For Speech

Has Second Interview With Attlee Within One Week

LONDON, July 7—(Reuters)—Prime Minister Attlee today summoned War Minister Strachey to 10 Downing Street for a second interview on his week-end "plot against Socialism" speech—on which the opposition may move a vote of censure in parliament Tuesday.

This second interview strengthened anti-Government speculation that Strachey was "on the carpet."

The Prime Minister, in two parliamentary rows this week, has defended Strachey's own explanation that his use of the word "plot" in a speech at Colchester referred to parliamentary opposition manoeuvres and not to the Schuman Plan, as critics have alleged.

Strachey is understood to have assured Attlee that he prefaced the criticized part of his remarks by saying, "I now turn to events in the House of Commons last week."

Make Comment

The Times, the Daily Telegraph, and the Daily Mail all made editorial comment on the Strachey case today and all suggested he was unsuited to hold office as a minister of cabinet rank.

The Times said Strachey's speech last week-end had been "sectarian outburst" which had renewed doubts about "the government's honesty in the coal and steel transactions.'

"There may be room for doubt about the stress and phrasing of what Mr. Strachey actually said: There can be no question about his gist and intention,' the Times added.

"The Schuman plan was a 'capitalist' plot: So too was the 'bogus federation' sought by the French.

Natural Doubts

"When Mr. Strachey went to the war office, many natural doubts about both his politics and his record might have been much more widely voiced had they not been drowned in a crudely exaggerated and even malignant outcry about his discarded communism.

COWED INVADERS UNDER POLICE GUARD — Apparently discouraged and spiritless these Red troops squat in Suwon, captives of the South Korea fighters. But this was before the Red armor knifed into the southern democracy, captured Suwon, and put U.S. and South Korea troops to rout. The retreat from Suwon was reported to be so rapid that there is every possibility these prisoners were freed.

Have $60,000 In Gramaphone

MONTREAL, July 7 — (CP) — A west-end Montreal resident has been warned to remove $60,000 hidden in a playroom record player before it is stolen, police said today.

The citizen, one of several in the district, was warned by police following the arrest three weeks ago of seven expert American safecrackers.

Police said the burglars showed them their burglary list compiled after "casing" several homes. The information listed was minute and amazingly accurate, police said.

The seven, who had no charges against them in Canada, have been sent back to the U.S.

Bus Strike Ended In Buffalo Area

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 7—(AP) bus strike that has tied up public transportation in the Buffalo-Niagara Falls area since Wednesday, ended today.

Settlement came as drivers, mechanics and clerks of the Niagara Frontier Transit Corporation ratified a proposal featuring an immediate $1.50 an hour wage scale.

Officials of the NFT, the striking AFL union and the city drew up the proposal at a three-hour conference late Thursday. Union leaders recommend ratification by the members.

Clayton Stephenson, president of Local 1342 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America, said partial bus service could be resumed almost immediately.

Britain Decides Spend Money Improve Hotels

LONDON, July 7 (Reuters).—A dollar-conscious government Thursday announced it will spend public money over the next nine months to improve hotel accommodation for American and Canadian visitors to Britain.

An independent advisory committee will allocate government funds to hotels judged to be in a good position for dollar tourists. The money will be spent in equipping these hotels.

The government board of trade, which will be in charge of the operation, has yet to work out details, but hotel men said today they think most aid will go to bring plumbing and heating systems up to transatlantic standards.

Hotels needing help in replacement expenditure will be judged on their past performances in attracting and holding American and Canadian tourist traffic.

Harold Wilson, president of the board of trade, announced the scheme Thursday in the House of Commons. He said the government made its plans especially with the idea of providing more and better hotel accommodation during 1951, year of the festival of Britain. The scheme ends on March 31, 1951.

Officials of the British Travel Association will consult with the government and hotel keepers about the best way to allocate assistance.

Arrested At Border

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 7 (Reuters)—Walter Baels, 40-year-old brother-in-law of exiled King Leopold, was arrested early today on the Franco-Belgian border to serve a three-year sentence imposed in 1946 for desertion from the army. Baels, a brother of Leopold's commoner wife, Princess De Rethy, had been sentenced in absentia.

Soviet Steps Up Exercises To Give Allies Jitters

BERLIN, July 7—(AP)—United States intelligence agents reported today that the Russians have stepped up normal summer manoeuvres in East Germany. These informants said that in East Germany eight Soviet divisions are going through special exercises. Some involve tank-supported river crossings.

Experts said this increased Red troop activity could be a normal step—designed to let the Germans know who is boss and possibly to give Western Allies a dose of jitters.

A senior American officer said Allied military leaders aren't too concerned.

Take No Chances

Intelligence agents have been told to watch the Russian moves closely, however, on the chance that the Soviets may be planning to stage something similar to the Korean action over here.

The informants said five Soviet divisions are training between Berlin and the Elbe River. They reported another three north of Berlin in the Mecklenberg area, trying to illustrate the best ways of encircling the fortified position.

Between now and the end of August, Allied experts believe the Russians will stage at least a half-dozen manoeuvres to sharpen the training of their East German armies. The people's police, who have been expanded into what amounts to an infantry force, will be used for odd jobs in these manoeuvres, commented:

"The Soviet army in East Germany was 20 divisions in 1946. It is 20 divisions in 1950. It is no bigger than before and certainly a lot less effective than it was in the past. The total number of Red soldiers is pegged at about 20,000. The Korean outburst did not affect it in the least."

Observers estimate that the Russians have 2,000 tanks in the East zone — far more than the combined Western armored forces can muster.

New Weapons Likely Tried Out

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—The Korean war front may become a testing ground for new and improved American weapons.

Right now United States forces, locked in a bitter land battle with a surprisingly-powerful enemy, are using whatever they had handy when they were rushed into what started as a mere "police action."

As the fighting goes on, additional weapons will be brought in—possibly including many new ones.

On the basis of the type of warfare now under way in Korea, speculation at army headquarters here is that ground-force weapons likely will be the first to undergo any battle-testing.

However, the possibility was discounted that weapons of mass destruction, such as atomic bombs, might be given field trials. For one thing, there are no logical Korean targets for A-bombs, designed for strategic destruction of industrial points and cities.

But such arms as the new "super bazooka" and the light, accurate recoilless gun may eventually be tried out against the North Koreans' powerful tanks and artillery positions.

As for the air, officials here incline to the view that if the war continues with only North Korean planes and pilots, any testing of new American aviation equipment probably will be limited.

Attorney-General Conference Set

OTTAWA, July 7 (CP)—The Attorneys-General of Canada's 11 governments will meet here Aug. 21 to consider suggestions of provincial governments on procedures to be followed in making constitutional amendments, it was announced today by Justice Minister Garson.

The meeting will be the first since the Dominion-Provincial constitutional conference last January.

At that meeting, it was agreed that there were certain sections of the constitution that could be amended by parliament without the consent of the provinces.

The provincial governments were asked to prepare briefs outlining their views on the classification of different sections of the constitution.

If the committee of Attorneys-General can reach some measure of agreement, the Dominion-Provincial conference likely will be reconvened to see if it can complete the job.

Says Bad Newfoundland Fire Result of Enemy Action

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 7 (CP)—A statement that a fire which took 100 lives here in wartime was the result of "enemy action" was contained in a brief to the Massey Commission today.

The reference was to the blaze that destroyed the Knights of Columbus hostel Dec. 14, 1942. It appeared without elaboration in the brief of J. L. Butler, managing director of the Colonial Broadcasting System, which operates station VOCM.

In recounting the station's work in entertaining serviecmen during the war, the brief referred to a program from the hostel the night of the fire, and said: "As a result of enemy action the hostel was burned to the ground one Saturday night and 99 persons lost their lives. Two of them were members of the VOCM cast who were on the stage broadcasting at the time."

Questioned about the reference to enemy action, Mr. Butler said the official report of the investigation by Mr. Justice Dunfield had suggested the fire was of incendiary origin. Also, in connection with another fire—at the Old Colony Club, Jan. 12, 1943—Mr. Butler said it had been known that Canadian and United States "brass" had been scheduled to be present. "This forms the grounds for belief that these fires were the result of enemy action," he said.

New Attack Shaping Up Reports Say

Recapture Two Towns South Declares, Face Strong Divisions

TOKYO, July 8—(Saturday)—(AP)—General MacArthur reported today the North Korean Communists were continuing to press their enveloping movement deep in South Korea, but fresh field dispatches credited the American and South Korean defenders with a 10-mile comeback in at least one sector.

The Tokyo headquarters communique said the front reached from a point north of Chonan—which is 60 miles south of Seoul—northeast of Mugung, Chungju and the east coast.

It said the North Koreans were pressing their enveloping movement with two divisions in the Pyongtaek area, which is 14 miles north of Chonan.

However, Tom Lambert, AP correspondent reporting from the South Korean front by telephone, said an American combat patrol had moved about 10 miles north Friday against meagre opposition. He said the only planes visible in the clear sky were American.

Earlier a South Korean colonel said the defenders had recaptured Pyongtaek and Chungju, 40 miles ast of Pyongtak.

MacArthur's communique said the envelopment threat by the Reds in the Pyongtaek area was being pressed by the Third and Fourth Divisions. The enemy First Division was reported farther west, near the west coast, while the Fifth Division was probing south and west from Wonju, which is 60 miles northeast of Plongtaek.

Strong Divisions

North Korean divisions have an estimated combat strength of 5,000 to 60,000 each.

(The communiquqe in effect confirmed field dispatches of 24 hours earlier. Tokyo headquarters matter has been running consistently later than field reports, a fact which lends credence to field news of an American comeback.)

MacArthur's communique also reported widespread American air blows, ranging from close front support for the troops to a B-29 raid on an oil refinery at Wonsan, 70 miles inside North Korea.

It added that naval patrols bombarded enemy oil tanks, bridges, and shipping along the east coast at undisclosed places.

Guerrilla activity was reported on the east coast near Yongdok, 100 miles south of the 38th parallel, the communique said.

Early Report

Earlier in Korea, a South Korean source had reported the recapture of Pyongtaek and Chungju from the Reds in an apparent counter-move by the American and South Korean forces.

A South Korean colonel, considered reliable, said the report of the recapture of the two towns from North Korean Reds was made to the South Korean army. American headquarters in Korea had not reported recapture of the towns. Both were taken by the Communists Thursday.

Princess, Philip Save $4,650 On New Car

LONDON, July 7 — (AP). — By waiting for Britain's new budget, Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip saved £1,500 ($4,650) on a new Rolls-Royce delivered today.

The Treasury cut the sales tax on automobiles costing more than £1,000 from 66 to 33 per cent in the budget laid down April 1.

At the old rate the car would have cost £8,000. At the new, it stood the Royal pair about £6,400.

Prince Philip picked out the sedan months ago, before he went on active duty with the Fleet in the Mediterranean.

It can seat seven. It has step lights which flash on when the doors are opened, a radio controlled from the back seat, and three heaters. The paint job is green and the upholstery grey.

Beer Output Down

OTTAWA, July 7—(CP)—May output of beer and spirits was down from May of last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday. Beer production was 687,500 barrels, compared with 692,300 in May of 1949. Output of spirits was 1,830,000 proof gallons, compared with 1,940,000.

Bobby Locke Wins Open For Second Time

TROON, Scotland, July 7 — (CP)—Bobby Locke of South Africa, who never wastes a stroke, won his second straight British open golf crown today with a fourth-round 68 that lifted his total to 279—four strokes less than anyone had used to win the title before.

The pudgy putting master put together rounds of 69-72-70-68 for his record total.

Locke started the day's double-barrelled round in third place, two strokes off the pace. But his par 70 in the morning 18 lifted into a three-way tie with Roberto De Vicenzo of Argentina and Dai Rees of Wales at 211 for 54 holes.

In the final round, during which locke was over par on only one hole, De Vicenzo needed a 70 for 281 while Rees zoomed to a 71 that gave him 282.

Max Faulkner of Britain took 71 on the final round for a 283 total.

Jim McHale, Philadelphia amateur, finished with a 290 on his rounds over the Troon course where the fairways of the 6,583-yard layout are mere alleys among the sand dunes.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., who had hoped to add the British open crown to the British amateur laurels he won several weeks ago, finished with 285. John Bulla of Pittsburgh, twice previously a runner up in the open, had 288.

Stranahan's 66 is an amateur record for the purpose.

Patty Captures Tennis Crown

WIMBLEDAN, England, July 7—(CP). — Budge Patty, the 26-year-old giant killer of the courts, won the all-England tennis championship today by upsetting Australia's Frank Sedgman 6-1, 8-10, 6-2, 6-3.

Thus the Los Angeles player completed his sweep of the tourney's two top-rated players.

Earlier in the meet, the fifth-seeded Californian ousted Billy Talbert, the second-seeded New Yorker. Sedgman, 22-year-old Australian champion, was top-seeded in this tourney, the most important one in the tennis world.

Patty did not waste too much time to polish off the Aussie Davis Cup star with a 6-3 victory in the fourth set to win 3-1.

Strikers Win Out

LONDON, July 7 Reuters) — Britain's state-run railways today capitulated to 200 strikers—because of the threat of widespread disorganization which might prevent 50,000 holiday-makers travelling this week-end. The 200 men stopped work a week ago to protest a change in their pensions scheme. Today the railway executive conceded the locomotive men's claim, "in the interests of the public."

New Civil Defence Course Strictly Secret Students Will Be Screened

Small Numbers of Civilians Permitted To Take 3-Weeks Course, Plan To Have Nucleus of Experts in Canada

OTTAWA, July 7—(CP)—Defence officials said today the course they are giving in human defence against atomic and bacterial attack is secret and civilians who take it apparently will have to be screened for security purposes. Details of the course have been on the classified or secret list for almost a year. Defence Minister Claxton announced Wednesday that "relatively small" numbers of civilians, including health and fire officials, will be taking the course, starting in the immediate future.

The action marks a first step to build up a nucleus of experts for later expansion of civil defence groups in emergency.

Defence officials said they have been instructing members of the three forces in what they call ABC warfare—atomic, bacteriological and chemical—since last September but the whole project has been on the classified or secret list, both the course itself and its syllabus.

Three Weeks' Course

Officials declined to say much in elaboration of Mr. Claxton's statement but these facts were made clear:

The only course so far established is a wing of the Army Medical Corps school at Camp Borden. Each course lasts about three weeks and "provides a general indoctrination in the potentialities and limitations. . . of atomic, biological and chemical warfare."

One of its main purposes is to bring those subjects down to earth to remove some of the distorted thinking that has arisen from "dissemination of faulty information."

Mr. Claxton said a group of officials expert in civil defence has been built up in Ottawa to guide others who may want guidance. Officials said officers have been going to the United States for brief, intensive courses to get such knowledge.

5 Prisoners Escape Speeding Police Van

BOMBAY, July 7 (Reuters).—The entire police force in Bombay was mobilized in one of the biggest manhunts in the city's history last night in an attempt to recapture five prisoners who jumped out of a speeding police van and disappeared among the crowds in the shopping district.

All police on leave were hurriedly summoned back to duty, and scores of radio cars joined in a 10-hour hunt.

Fire At Lighthouse

LEAMINGTON, July 7 (CP)—Two men were seriously burned today in a gasoline fire that demolished the south east shoal lighthouse between Point Pelee and Pelee Island.

Bill Moore, Leamington, the lighthouse keeper, and Dowsley Kingston, Prescott, a fog horn inspector for the Department of Marine Services, were admitted to hospital here with severe burns about the hands and face.

Moore and Kingston were supervising the transfer of drums of gas from the Grenville to a storage shed in the lighthouse. Suddenly there was a terrific explosion and a sheet of flame sprang up.

Plan To Seize Formosa Chou Tells UN

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., July 7 (AP) — Red China has served notice on the United Nations that it is determined to seize Formosa despite any military measures the United States may take.

Foreign Minister Chou En-lai outlined the Peiping regime's position in a cable Thursday to U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie. It accused the U.S. of an "act of open aggression" in assigning American naval units to protect the Chinese Nationalist island bastion.

Meanwhile, the Security Council called a session at 3 p.m. EDT today to take final action on a resolution asking the United States to name Gen. MacArthur as the first supreme commander of a U.N. military force in battle. Passage of the measure appeared certain.

"Acting As Tool"

Chou En-lai's message accused the U.N. of acting as a tool of the United States by countenancing President Truman's action in sending American naval vessels to guard Formosa. It said:

"By keeping silent of this act of open aggression of the United States government, the Security Council and the Secretary-General of the United Nations have foregone their functions and duties of upholding world peace, and thereby became pliant instruments of the policy of the United States government. . . .

"Despite any military steps of obstruction taken by the United States government, the Chinese people are irrevocably determined to liberate Taiwan (Formosa) without fail."

Judge Delays Appeal Ruling

OTTAWA, July 7 — (CP): — Mr. Justice J. W. Estey of the Supreme Court of Canada today reserved decision on an application for leave to appeal the murder conviction of Frederick Ducharme, under sentence to be hanged July 14 for a sex killing in Vancouver.

Ducharme was found guilty of killing Blanche Fisher, 45-year-old spinster, whose nude body was found last November 9 in False Creek, near downtown Vancouver.

Mr. Justice Estey promised a decision "as soon as possible" on whether Ducharme's counsel, Dugald McAlpin of Vancouver, would be permitted to carry an appeal to the full court.

Truman Asks 260 Million To Push H-Bomb Work

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—President Truman today asked Congress for $260,000,000 to speed development of atomic bombs and push experiments on the hydrogen bomb.

Truman said the money would be used to enable the Atomic Energy Commission "to build additional and more efficient plants" to carry out his directive of Jan. 31 ordering work on the H-bomb.

The President said the fundamental objective is to use atomic energy for peace, but he added:

"Until this objective is achieved, however, we must strengthen our own defences by providing the necessary atomic energy capacity."

"Advanced Design"

Truman said the plants to be built would be "of advanced design" and their operation will "provide new knowledge that will speed the progress of the atomic energy program."

"The expansion in the scope of our atomic energy program gives added emphasis to the fact that atomic energy has great potentialities both for destruction and for benefit of mankind."

Trades His Pennies For Dog Biscuits

MARKHAM, July 7.—Skippy, pet spaniel of service station operator H. S. Powers knows the value of money. He even has his own bank.

When friendly customers give Skippy a penny, he trots over to the pop stand beside the garage and gives it to the proprietor in return for a biscuit. But if he doesn't get a biscuit, the proprietor doesn't get the penny.

Sometimes Skippy isn't hungry. Then he runs behind the garage and buries the penny in a special sandpile.

Nehru Prepared Act As Mediator

NEW DELHI, July 7 —(AP)— Premier Jawaharlal Nehru of India said today that the return of Russia to the United Nations and admission to the U.N. of Communist China are "necessary prerequisites to ending the Korean hostilities."

Nehru told a press conference that both he and his government stand ready to mediate in the Korean conflict but "only if requested by the parties concerned."

The Security Council, he declared, had no alternative except to ask for a cease fire, to call North Korea the aggressor and ultimately to use force. India had supported the council action because she felt it was the only way to avoid an extension of the conflict.

Four Railway Unions Cancel Wage-Hour Strike in U.S.

CHICAGO, July 7—(AP)—The AFL Switchmen's Union Thursday called off its wage-hour strike against four western railroads but directed that it remain in effect against the fifth —the 8,000-mile Rock Island system. Arthur J. Glover, union president said the action was taken because of the threat of direct government intervention.

The strike against the Rock Island will continue" in effect, the union said "while the union attempts to negotiate a settlement of the issue in dispute."

A union spokesman said the Rock Island was singled out for a continuation of the strike because its lines are parallelled by other rail systems and a work stoppage would create no emergency problems for shippers.

The union's strike-ending order applies to the Great Northern, Chicago Great Western, Denver and Rio Grande Western, and Western Pacific.

The union acted after President Truman said in Washington that he would take drastic action, if necessary, to end the strike. He termed the walkout unjustified.

The union demands a 40-hour week with the same pay now received for 48 hours. An emergency presidential board recommended a 40-hour week and an increase of 18 cents an hour.. The union claimed this was only half of the demand.

Truman said the strike was brought about by a small minority and that it had tied up railroad facilities which are needed to move the wheat crop to market and cattle to pasture lands.

He noted that the National (Railway) Mediation Board had asked the men to return to work while negotiations continue in Chicago.

Leopold Opponents Plan Large Parade

BRUSSELS, July 7 —(AP)— Anti-Leopold Socialists prepared new manoeuvres today in their fight to keep Belgium's exiled monarch from the throne the Social Christian government is preparing for him.

The Socialists, most bitter opponents to the return from Switzerland of King Leopold III, completed plans for a giant parade tomorrow. They called it a "popular demonstration of tribute" to Regent Prince Charles, who has served during the exile of his brother Leopold.

As the pro-Leopold Catholic government began its parliamentary battle to recall the King, Socialist-inspired token strikes swept Belgian industry Thursday.

Protesting the proposed return of the monarch who surrendered to the Germans in 1940, every shift of coal miners stopped work for 30 minutes. Metal plants, Antwerp dock workers, streetcar men and ship-construction and repair workers all halted for short periods.

Aussie Cost-of-Living Figures Said Misleading

By LOUIS L. LECK

SYDNEY, Australia —(CP)— As in Canada, the cost of living nowadays is uppermost in the minds of most Australians.

Official statistics say that living costs increased about 60% between September, 1939, and December 1949. Economists and housewives, however, claim that prices generally have doubled.

The reason for this discrepancy are fairly simple. The government statistics cover only basic items for a comparatively low living standard. Luxury items have increased more than the 60 per cent and, in many cases, the quality of goods has deteriorated. Goods are often in short supply and high-priced sustitutes have to be purchased.

In addition, rent prices, which the government claims have changed insignificantly, have been boosted by various devices to defeat controls and stand at about a 100-per-cent increase.

In 1939, for instance, it was possible to rent a two-bedroom cottage in a Sydney suburb for £1.10.0 ($4.65) a week. Nominal rent for the same cottage today is unchanged, but "extras" would bring the real price to about £3.10.0. With an average wage in the area of £10 to £11, this is slightly more than the accepted North American figure of 25 per cent of income for rent.

Fruit Prices Trebled

Official figures show approximately a 53-per-cent increase in food costs. Housewives, however, say the figures are based on basic items subsidized by the government or subject to a price control more theoretical than real. They say the figures take no account of the failure of the price control on meat, nor of the prices of fruit and vegetables, which trebled.

Representatives of the increased food costs are butter, which now costs 2s.2d. (34 cents) per pound compared with 1s.8½d. prewar; peas and beans, 5d. per pound in 1939, now costs 1s.3d.; six pounds of potatoes have gone from 6d. to 2s.

Four Times as High

Government statistics on clothing show almost 200 per cent increase, but shoppers say it costs nearer four times the 1939 price to dress nowadays, due to inferior quality.

Official figures also allow for a 50-per-cent increase in miscellaneous items—transportation, entertainment, medical bills, etc. Australians again are dubious as to their practicality. Theatre prices have more than doubled, from 1s.3d. in a suburban cinema to 2s.9d.; cheap restaurant meals are up to 6s from 2s.6d.; for a permanent wave, a woman now pays £3.3.0 for what she paid £1.5.6 10 years ago.

Wages have also gone up, but no-one is quite sure as to the situation of the standard of living, because of their sceptical views of official cost-of-living statistics.

Unskilled laborers have had their wages doubled to about £9 workers have increased salaries by about 60 per cent. Wages of from £6.10.0 to £14 now are roughly £10 to £20

Reporter Finds American Lines

TOKYO, July 7 (AP) — Peter Kalischer, United Press correspondent in Korea, returned safely to American headquarters today after being cut off from American forces 2½ days.

The United Press in Tokyo said Kalischer declared he had not been captured. The Red Pyongyang radio yesterday claimed that he had been taken prisoner.

New Attack

An unconfirmed South Korean report said a Red column headed by two tanks and two armored cars threatened the southeastern Pusan area. The east coast force was reported 80 miles north of the important port and supply base where the first American seaborne troops were landed in Korea.

The Korean colonel said "It took a big fight" to wrest Chungju from the Reds. U.S. troops have been fighting alongside South Koreans around both towns.

Heavy Defeat?

The Red radio in Pyongyang, Northern capital, said tonight Communist troops had captured Ansong. It is a road village 10 miles east of Pyongtaek and on the highway to Chungju. The Red radio also said the Americans and South Koreans had suffered heavy defeat and were fleeing in disorder.

Pilots returning to a Southern Japan air base reported 10 extremely large Communist tanks lined up on the highway north of Pyongtaek. They said the tanks were larger than any seen before in the North Korean force.

Meanwhile ,both sides rushed men and supplies into the muddy, clay area along the winding Kum River for what apeared to be an immient battle involving upwards of 90,000 Korean Reds and a small American force.

The rugged river country just north of Taejon is likely to become the battleground.

U.S. Line Holds

The American commanding general said earlier today that the northerners had failed to push their tank-led column southward on the Pyongtaek-Chonan route after American defenders withdrew to a rear defence line Thursday.

Pyongtaek lies 23 miles south of Suwon on the main highway south of Osan where a gallant detachment of 500 Americans fought against 40 Red tanks Thursday.

Chungju is a highway junction centre 50 miles southeast of Suwon and is almost due east of Pyongtaek on the 37th parallel.

Earlier, unconfirmed reports said a Communist column led by two tanks and two armored cars had raced down the east coast to within 80 miles of Pusan.

The column was said to have reached Byongkok, a fishing village between Yonghae and Yongdok.

South Korean troops were reported holding Yongdok, 25 miles up the coast from Pohang.

Important Port

Pusan is the most important southtastern Korean deep-water port. Its facilities were used to disembark some of the first seaborne United States troops landed in South Korea at the outbreak of war.

Last official reports placed the South Korean forces just north of Utchin, some 40 miles north of Yongdok. The Utchin sector was the eastern anchor of the defence line.

From Tokyo, it was reported a major battle between 90,000 Korean Red troops and a smaller American force was in the offing today. The battle scene is expected to be the rugged, winding Kum river country of western South Korea.

Both sides in the Korean civil war shoved men and supplies into the rain-swept red clay area just north of Taejon and south of Communist-captured Suwon.

15 Red Divisions

The American commander in Korea estimated the northern invaders' strength. He said the Reds how thrown 15 divisions and 150 tanks into South Korea. He estimated the Communist forces at between 75,000 and 90,000. Some divisions, he said, were at brigade strength.

So fast were the Communists pouring in it was a question whether the Americans would have time to check the powerful thrust. Thursday a handful of them — possibly no more than 500—stopped cold for six hours the best division the Russian-trained Koreans threw at them.

The grim news of the huge Red reinforcements came as American and Australian airmen pounded the enemy. They recorted 16 tanks knocked out.

U.S. B-29s hit a North Korean port, the pilots bombing what appeared to be four submarines in Chinnampo harbor. The northerners are not known to have any subs. But Russia, from whose huge arms larder the North Koreans are drawing great stores, has an estimated 75 submarines in the Pacific.

No Big Fight

The top United States commander in Korea said no big fight had yet occurred between the Americans and North Koreans. So far, he said, "half a battalion" had tasted action. It did a good job and pulled out after suffering about 10 per cent casualties.

Although outnumbered eight to one and facing 40 tanks, he said they halted North Korea's best division for a while. Gen. MacArthur said the Americans retreated only after a well-executed frontal attack and a flanking envelopment.

The Americans and South Koreans have no tanks in action as yet.

American forces today frantically built up their forces by air and sea from Japan. Three Red divisions moved southward behind their armor toward what appeared to be the largest engagement yet of the young Korean War.

Each side has lost 22 planes in the air war, a Far East air force communique said. Heavier American blows appear imminent MacArthur predicted that the effect of Allied bombing would soon be felt at the battle front as the Red supply line lengthens.

The commander in Korea said no North Korean armor was south of the River Kum at Pyongtaek. A bridge had been destroyed near Pyongtaek by American ground forces and planes.

Holding Own

The commander said South Korean troops "seem to be holding their own on the east coast, but communications are difficult."

Tax Appeals Heard On Time

OTTAWA, July 7 —(CP)—The income tax appeal board plans to see that its cases are heard on schedule, unless there is good reason for granting a postponement.

W. S. Fisher, a member of the board, said today the board plans to enforce its rules strictly. Appellants will be expected to proceed with their appeals unless they ask an adjournment on proper grounds as soon as possible after receipt of notice of hearing.

He made the statement in a judgment in which the board allowed the appeal of the Dauntless Company Limited of Charlottetown and reduced its 1948 income tax assessment by $1,202.

Mr. Fisher said the company had applied for postponement of its hearing but, as the request had not been made as soon as possible after the notice of hearing was received, the board ordered that it be proceeded with immediately.

The Daily Mail said "this is not the first time he has been concerned in a quibble of this kind or has had to be defended in the House. The country is getting a bit tired of Mr. Strachey"

Youth Drowns In 6-In. Puddle

HAILEYBURY, July 7.—A 17-year-old boy was drowned in a puddle six inches deep here Wednesday night.

Noel Bouffard of Rouyn and formerly of Haileybury was fishing in a stream running from Lake Temiskaming, which passed through Haileybury. Police believe he fainted and fell into the water. Depth of the puddle was sufficient to cover his face. No inquest will be held.

Bouffard's drowning was yesterday's second in this district. At Latchford, Gail Carter, 4, died earlier in the afternoon when she slipped into the Montreal River. Gail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Carter of Latchford, was swept away by a swift current only a few feet from her home. She was found in three feet of water by her mother and an older brother, James, who first noticed her disappearance.

UK Refuses To Limit Oil Shipments To Reds

LONDON, July 7 — (AP) — Britain has turned down an American suggestion to limit her oil shipments to Red China because of the Korean war, a foreign office spokesman disclosed today.

He said the United States had "informally" asked Britain "whether it would be possible to limit oil shipments to China in the light of the Korean situation".

The spokesman reported the British answer was that the quantities of oil being shipped to China by British oil companies "is sufficient only for civilian consumption" in China.

General Hoxha Forms New Albanian Gov't

PRAGUE, July 7 (AP)—Gen. Enver Hoxha has formed a new Albanian government in which he remains as prime minister, the Albanian Telegraph Agency said in a dispatch published here today.

The communist general is also foreign minister and minister of national defence. The old government resigned after parliament changed the constitution.

Changes were made, the dispatch said, in a constitutional clause that read, "Albania is a peoples republic." The clause was altered to read: "The Albanian people's republic is a state of workers and working farmers."

Freighter Remains Aground On Beach

SARNIA, July 7.—(CP). — The freighter T. W. Robinson remained aground on a beach at nearby Point Edward this morning, more than 24 hours after she had swerved to avoid hitting a small craft near the mouth of the St. Clair River.

Plans for refloating the 566-foot ship from Rogers City, Mich., were continuing today, but marine officials refused to comment on how long it would take.

A sister ship was expected to arrive today to remove part of the Robinson's cargo of 1,300 tons of crushed stone.

The Robinson is under command of Captain Donald Nauts.

Sault Appoints Defence Head

SAULT STE. MARIE, July 7—(CP)—Col. Harry S. Hamilton has been named as civilian defense director for Sault Ste. Marie, Mayor Herb Smale said Thursday.

Military preparations for the defense of the vital Sault locks area announced from Ottawa by Defense Minister Claxton prompted city council to prepare for civilian defenses, Mayor Smale added.

Col. Hamilton, director of the Sault's civilian defenses during the Second World War, was in Toronto Thursday conferring with provincial defense officials and with representatives of Eastern Ontario cities which already have begun preparations for civilian defenses.

Col. Hamilton is expected to go on to Lansing, Mich., where Michigan civilian defenses are being co-ordinated.

Runs Own Case Wins Acquittal

WINDSOR, July 7—(CP)—Milton Benoit, charged with forging a cheque for $44, had his defense well organized when he appeared in court Thursday.

Benoit handled his own case so well that it won him an acquittal and grudging praise from Magistrate Hanrahan, who termed his arguments very effective.

A Detroit handwriting expert, Det.-Sgt. Albert Mareydt, testified that the writing on the cheque had been disguised and had been done by Benoit. In cross-examination by the accused, the officer was forced to admit that some one else could have written the cheque.

Boy Hit By Bullet At Summer Camp

OWEN SOUND, July 7—(CP)—Peter Moon, nine-year-old son of Elmer Moon, Toronto, is in the hospital here with a .22 bullet lodged deep in the left side of his neck. He was struck by the bullet while standing outside his family's summer home at Oliphant on the Bruce peninsula. The bullet was fired by two boys on an island 2/3 of a mile away.

Hospital officials said the bullet did no damage although it is located near the jugular vein. They said removing it without causing damage would be difficult and it will be allowed to remain in Peter's neck.

Ask Exclusive Use Of Cobourg Park

COBOURG, July 7—(ENS)—In order to continue the civic holiday weekend celebration, which this year will not be held under the auspices of the committee which held it in 1948 and 1949, the chamber of commerce council wrote the parks board to secure exclusive use of the park for the civic holiday weekend in 1951. The parks board received and filed the letter but whether the request will be granted for next year, is a matter of conjecture.

The Kiwanis Club has had the use of the park for some years past in order to hold their summer carnival there on civic holiday.. After consultations with the Kiwanis Club last month, the civic holiday committee abandoned the celebration for this summer and instead, the Kiwanis Club will stage the civic holiday program. The committee this year was unable to raise enough money to put on the weekend program.

Ordered To Return Gun To Police Chief

CAMPBELLFORD, July 7 — (ENS)—Robert Robertson was fined $15 and $5 costs in police court Thursday after Magistrate R. B. Baxter convicted him of creating a disturbance last month at the home of Don Corey in town. Robertson, in company with two other youths, had apparently gone to the Corey home to attempt to get a gun which Robertson had loaned Corey. When Corey could not produce the gun, Robertson allegedly threatened the other man, and used abusive language.

Two others, Wes Mecetuk and Gerald Collins, who were charged jointly with Robertson, were acquitted, as there was no evidence that the latter two men caused any undue commotion.

Corey was told by the Crown to return the gun by Saturday in good condition to Chief George H. Hardy. Magistrate Baxter said, "I don't want you to call at Corey's home for the gun in case you get into another argument."

Wheel Truck Blamed For Train Smash

MONICA, Ill., July 7 (AP) — Nine persons died and about 75 were injured yesterday as two high speed Santa Fe streamliners, zooming eastward along parallel tracks, smashed into each other in a freak accident.

The tangled wreckage of the 70-mile-an-hour Kansas City Chief and the all-coach 90-mile-an-hour El Capitan had been cleared from one track by this morning.

The crash came at 4:40 a.m. The trains were bound for Chicago, 148 miles northeast of here. The Chief was on the regular westbound track under automatic train control.

This means that signal light ordinarily seen on block signals on the right-of-way flash in the engineer's cab. A dispatcher in the train terminal sets the train course.

As the El Capitan speeded ahead of the Chief— a pullman-and-coach train— it mail car swayed left the tracks and whipped into the first car and side of the Kansas City's trains locomotive.

Eighteen of the gleaming stainless steel cars from both trains jumbled together, but none turned over.

R. J. Yost, railway division superintendent at Chillicothe, Ill. said that possibly a wheel truck of the El Capitan mail car came loose.

Thirty-eight persons were taken to hospitals in Peoria, 20 miles south of Monica, and to Galesburg, 30 miles west. Some of the victims were in critical condition.

Second Derailment.

Less than 18 hours after the tragic pile-up Thursday, the El Capitan's sister westbound train also was delayed by a derailment.

But in the second mishap no one was injured. The passengers were not even shaken as three of the trains four diesel units dropped to the ground from a transfer track at nearby Galesburg.

The second derailment occurred as the California-bound train was being transferred from the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy tracks to the Santa Fe. Because of the wreck here, the Santa Fe had been running its trains over the other rails from Chicago to its own line at Galesburg.

As the train was slowly rounding a curve in the yards Thursday night, the three diesel units climbed the rails and dropped to the ground.

After about a three-hour delay another engine took the train on to ort Madison, Iowa, and it was switched to Santa Fe tracks there.

Huge Foreign Trade

The Annual Report of the Department of Trade (for 1949) has now been issued in booklet form. (Copies may be had for 25c from the King's Printer.) It is both a picture and an explanation of Canada's chief instrument of work and wealth: trade. The growth and magnitude of Canada's external trade is shown by the following table:

	Imports	Exports	Total trade
	(Millions of Dollars)
1939	$ 751	$ 936	$1,687
1940	1,082	1,193	2,275
1941	1,449	1,640	3,089
1942	1,644	2,385	4,029
1943	1,735	3,001	4,736
1944	1,759	3,483	5,242
1945	1,586	3,267	4,853
1946	1.927	2,339	4,266
1947	2,574	2,812	5,386
1948	2,637	3,110	5,747
1949	2,761	3,023	5,784

It will be noted that an all-time peak was reached last year in the over-all trade, despite a slight falling-off in exports—which was countered by an increase in imports. The total trade works out to $425 a person in Canada.

* * *

The chief sustaining factor in the high export level was the maintainence of sales at 1948 levels. Last year, for the first time in nearly eighty years, sales to the U.S.A. accounted for more than half of Canada's total exports. E.C.A. made available $420 million in U.S. funds for the purchase of Canadian goods. This was a strong and helpful element in our external trade.

* * *

Since E.C.A. is not a continuing thing—Marshall Plan aid is due to end within two years—the Canadian economy cannot become too reliant on this form of indirect support, any more than can European countries. There is another challenging aspect of our foreign trade: the continuing dependence of Canadian exports on a comparatively few products. The Department of Trade notes that wheat and wheat flour exports totalled $530 million; newsprint exports $435 million, and the value of foreign sales of base metals and minerals, more than $500 million. These few items made up almost half the total value of Canada's export trade.

* * *

Thus, while 1949 was a booming trade year for Canada, our export-import business was not altogether healthy; too many eggs were in one basket, as usual, and there were artificial supports for the basket. But what country under post-war tortured trade conditions can boast of a healthier trade?

American Guns For Orchestra

The war in Korea has not yet called for complete mobilization of all the American army's resources. In fact, the army has just lent the National Symphony Orchestra of Washington four cannon, and the necessary men to fire them, for a performance of Tschaikowskys' "1812" Overture. The Russian Tchaikowsky, in favourinf loud noise as an adjunct to his score (its first performance a hundred years ago was assisted by a battery of Russia artillery), is not thereby to be called a Communist, or a near-Communist, even if his requirements result in four cannon from the U.S. being detached from the army at this time of its fight against the Korean Reds. Indeed, the blast of the four cannon to the strains of "1812" in Washington will no doubt stir the patriotism of the listeners, and not deafen their ears to the reverberations of the Korean war.

Canada's Most Expensive Export

The United States has been fairly generous in its acceptance of Canadian products, as well it might, for Canada is the U.S.A.'s best customer, and pays cash. But from time to time import barriers, usually in the form of prohibitive tariffs, have been imposed against Canadian goods, to keep them out of the U.S.A. There is one product that has never been banned: Canadians themselves.

The States have welcomed Canadians of all kinds and occupations, and hundreds of thousands of Canadians have gone to work and live in the United States, taking with them their skills, their intelligence, and their educational qualifications. It is a statistical fact that fourteen of every hundred persons born in Canada and now alive are living in the United States. The U.S.A. has shown great good will towards Canadian emigrants. But the good-neighbour policy has not been one-sided. Canada has never put up any barriers to prevent its citizens from going to the United States. This country has lost, and continues to lose, to the United States every year, thousands of its more able people. It is a most expensive export, a real loss to Canada, and judging from the careers Canadians make for themselves across the border, a definite gain to the U.S.A.

We do not suggest that any barriers be put in the way of Canadians who want to emigrate to the U.S.A. It is possible, and perhaps increasingly so, for this country to offer such attractive opportunities to its own energetic and able people that they will not want, or need to migrate in order to find scope for their talents and the good life they seek.

A Stamp For A Great Humourist

We are happy to see that the French Republic has brought out a new twelve-franc stamp bearing a picture of Francois Rabelais, the great humourist who was born (so far as we know) in 1495 and who died in 1553. He was a wonderful exemplar of much that is finest in the French spirit, but he was universal, as well, and in the popular translation by Urquhart and Motteux he has been familiar to generations of English-speaking readers.

The first thing that is likely to strike the reader of Rabelais is the astonishing coarseness of his language; he never called a spade a spade if he could think of a dirtier word. But this fault is a trivial one; Rabelais wrote coarsely, but he did not think dirtily. There is much in his works which surprises and shocks, but nothing which corrupts. His principal book is one with a long name, which is generally shortened to Gargantua and Pantagruel; it is a story about the improbable adventures of a giant and his witty son.

Some books should be read slowly. Gargantua and Pantagruel needs to be read as fast as you can go. Linger, and you may find it dull; hurry, and the wild improbabilities and the huge, uproarious jokes will carry you over many an obscure passage. Scholars have debated for centuries as to what Rabelais really meant in this story; some think that it is a very deep satire, designed to reform the Church of Rabelais' own day, for he was a monk during his early life, and a priest all his adult years; others maintain that he was essentially anti-religious, and sought to harm religion by his writings; still others hold that he was moved by a large and merry spirit which sought neither reform nor destruction, but merely enjoyment. We cannot pretend to choose among these theories. But we agree thoroughly with the judgement that he "felt often in earnest, thought almost always in jest". And to read Rabelais, however superficially, is to be in touch with a great spirit.

A curious factor in Rabelais is his strong belief in the goodness of uncorrupted nature—a belief which gave him singular ideas about education. One of his characters founds a great Abbey called Thelema, for both sexes, where the only rule is "Do as you like". Under such circumstances he asserts that mankind would show itself at its best, and produce many great things. In our hag-ridden, over-ruled, over-dogmatized, suspicious, meagre-souled age we cannot tell whether he really believed it, or if this was the most stupendous of all his jokes. But when we lose ourselves in the pages of his book we are, for the time, in Thelema.

NOTE AND COMMENT

What we don't understand about self-made men is why they usually make themselves so plain.

A clothing authority says that Stalin is the worst-dressed man in the world. So that's what keeps him behind the Iron Curtain!

In Detroit several owls invaded a house where a party was going on. Wanted to get in on the fun, we suppose, and didn't give a hoot!

The Brantford Expositor mentions a kid who, when asked to define a cynic, said, "It's vot you wash the saucers in." Presumably this is the same bright lad who said that a stoic was a boid dat brung babies.

Said Bulwer Lytton, in his fine old play Richelieu:

Beneath the rule of men entirely great
The pen is mightier than the sword.
Beneath the rule of a large number of others, however, the pen is less legible than the typewriter.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

SIR: Why has the Canadian Chamber of Commerce the gall to use the Canadian coat-of-arms along with its scroll bearing the name "Chamber of Commerce"? I'd bet there would be a row if the Canadian Trades and Labour Congress or the Canadian U.E. used the coat-of-arms. Why should a commercial outfit like that give itself prestige of that kind? Isn't it illegal for private organizations like companies, labour unions, unions of businessmen (e.g. the Chamber of Commerce), and other such to use the coat-of-arms?

ANSWER: The Canadian Armorial Bearings cannot be used except by government and royal Canadian offices without special permission. The Canadian Chamber of Commerce asked for, and received permission to use them from the Secretary of State in August 1927. It is to be hoped that permission for use of the armorial bearings will not be widely given. Merely because an organization calls itself Canadian and has branches across the country is no reason for its being allowed to display the royal Canadian insignia.

ALPHA OLD SWEAT: What do the letters D.H.O. stand for? You see them very much along and near roads. On a sort of wooden fence (Don't Hop Over?); on a truck (Driver Has Omniscience?); on a roadside garbage can (Dump Hootch Overboard?). These versions are admittedly fanciful, but I really do not know what D.H.O. stands for.

ANSWER: Department of Highways of Ontario. The fences, made of red wooden slats, are snow fences, put up in the autumn to cause snow to drift at the fences, and not over the roads. Fewer of these fences are now being used, as wire replaces rail fences along highways. The Department contributes largely toward the cost of a wire fence, if the farmer will put it up, for wire fences do not stop drifting snow and rail fences do and thus tend to render roads snow-bound.

The D.H.O. has done a splendid by-products job in recent years. When a highway is being remodelled, old turns are removed. Instead of letting the segment of land between the old and new roads go to seed, the Department plants pleasant trees, and if the area is large enough, provides lunch tables. Along the widened borders of new highways it has set out Norwegian pines, maples, and even here and there, flower beds. It has attempted to make our highways things of beauty as well as utility.

By the way, the progress of road-making in this province is shown at the turn just as one drives south into Springville (Highway 28, six miles distant). Originally, the road went straight up over the hill, though probably before that there was a cattle trail around it. The old straight road way can still be seen. When the Gravel Road was improved, the road was diverted around the hill, so that the earliest Fords would not labour too much. When the road was paved, the bend was kept, but when in the future it becomes a really modern road, the path will be straight over the hill—no dangerous curves for speeding cars. The hill will of course be cut down.

The other week in Montreal I met a road engineer from Chile who had been sent here by his government to inspect and profit by the road-making methods in Ontario and Quebec. Our highways are universally admired.

ASSORTED QUESTIONS, answered on the run: A.L.C.: Murder stories are as widely read by high-brows as by middle-brows or low-brows. "Trent's Last Case", by E. C. Bentley (it is available in cheap pocket editions) is one of the best I've read. Dorothy Sayers is good, e.g. her "Nine Tailors" and "Murder Must Advertise".... B.D.: Right to say: "Between you and me" (not "you and I"), "He kept thinking of John and her" (not "of John and she"). After prepositions (little words like of, by, for, to, between,) use the accusative not the nominative form.... H.C.: The elevation of Peterborough, down town, is exactly 673.097 feet above sea level. The fact is recorded on a stone in Confederation Park by the Geodetic Survey of Canada. The stone is near the Brown memorial at the McDonnel Street side of the park.... L.: The commonest cocktails are a Martini (vermouth and gin with an olive), an Old Fashioned (rye or scotch with a little soda water and sugar, ice, a slice of orange, lemon and cherry); a Manhattan (vermouth and rye, with a cherry), and a Tom Collins (gin, lemon juice, soda water). A John Collins is made with rye instead of gin. A rum Collins with rum. Collins are long (more liquid) drinks. They are all about the same strength, though Martinis may be the strongest, being all spirits. Martinis are among the cheaper to buy (45 to 55 cents) and cleanest to the palate.... S.T.S.: Men have not gone around naked in public with public approval in civilized countries since classical Greek times, as far as I know. The youthful Alcibiades (450-404 B.C.) ceremoniously rode naked through the streets of Athens during the Festival of the Virgins. Your scheme for reform of manners and morals will come to nought, I expect. Anyway, this country is either too hot or too cold for naked comfort.

ANSWER: To the correspondent asking the irreverent question about churches: Be a little more respectful, and ask some of the local theologians, not me. Dr. Semple of George St. would be a good person to consult, but you will have to do it soon. He is leaving the city, I am sorry to report. A good churchman lost to Peterborough.

About the Church of England: ask Archdeacon Robertson, who is, I venture to assume, as good a theologian as an actor. (He was once associated with the famed Abbey Theatre of Dublin.) There are three types of service indulged in the Church of England: High church (with incense, confessional, genuflections, nuns, etc.—very Catholic); the low, where seldom are the services choral, and the uninitiated might hardly distinguish them from a Methodist meeting; and the "liberal", where a rationalist who has any kind of belief in a Deity can worship without torturing his soul and intelligence. Low and lazy, broad and hazy, high and crazy. (The definition is not my own; the late celebrated and venerated Dean of Montreal, Dr. Henry Symonds, propounded it. He was once rector of St. Luke's of this city—about the turn of the century.)

ANSWER: To the ghoulish letter signed by S. O. and C. Go drown yourselves. And I'd gladly be an active pallbearer. I'd pall bear you, pals... Go peddle your nonsense to the devil, not to Alpha.

SUMMER SOLSTICE: My desk is now clear of questions; all that remained are either given above, or deposited in the garbage. As I forewarned readers and questioners last Friday, Alpha is herewith laying down the pen, closing the mouth, shuttering the brain, answering no questions and telling no lies until the first Friday in September. Please restrain your questioning until then, and then do let it gush!

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S historic decision—to commit American armed forces to action in South Korea, send naval protection to Formosa and bolster the defenses of the Philippines and Indo-China—closed the final gap in a "Red-quarantine" line extending around the Soviet-dominated world. The long-range, Cold War strategy to create "situations of strength" and oppose Red aggression wherever it threatened has had many facets, ranging from the Marshall Plan to the show of Allied determination that kept Red youths from "capturing" Berlin. Its major dramatic peak—before Korea—was the victory of the airlift and Russian easing of the Berlin blockade. Informed military observers believe that the Red invasion of Korea was merely the kick-on for stepped-up Communist conquests of Formosa, Southeast Asia and Central Europe. As a major turning point in the Cold War, the 38th parallel in Korea could go down in history as "the place where World War III began," or as one of the great landmarks on the road to world peace.

Who Said Tomcats?

(BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR)

This, from T.D.F., amiable columnist of The Ottawa Citizen, provokes reflection (if reflection can be said to be capable of being provoked): "Those disputatious rascals, The Peterborough Examiner and the Brantford Expositor have gone to the mat again, this time over certain phases of the British political situation, but it's all comparatively good-natured, so far, in the manner of a couple of tomcats-tuning up on a back fence."

As a matter of fact The Examiner and The Expositor have traded paw swipes, now and then, over a rather stimulating period of years and, from the Brantford end at least, look forward to a long succession of friendly-enemy wrangles.

And why not, indeed? If confession is good for the soul, is not discussion good for the mind or controversy an antidote for lethargy?

When, for instance, The Examiner and The Expositor exchange what are (to them anyway) some softly arousing wise-cracks, and the staid Ottawa Journal (The Citizen's home-town rival) becomes so interested as to ejaculate a lusty, "Whee, a fight!", a certain amount of satisfaction is felt by the principals.

Actually, however, the Peterborough and Brantford newspapers do find some common ground once in a while and, on suitably rare occasions, even lie down together like the proverbial but zoologically improbable lion and lamb. (In such cases, it should be observed, The Expositor does up its mane in an innocent-looking hair-net.) On the last occasion of agreement, for instance, we supported The Examiner's sound position relative to the spelling of Peterborough, which the crassly ignorant (including some railway people) keep trying to reduce to "Peterboro'".

The truth of the matter is that The Expositor has the greatest respect for The Examiner, which not only serves its public well in the matter of news but also produces what is, by long odds, and consistently, one of the best and most important editorial pages in Canada.

But that's enough of that, or the onlookers will be thinking that we're losing our punch.

As for The Citizen's inept allusion to tomcats, a purring suggestion is that it might do well to inform itself more adequately on the back fence technique of the feline tribe.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called Didymus, and Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two other of his disciples. Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. They went forth, and entered into a ship immediately; and that night they caught nothing.

But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus. Then Jesus saith unto them, Children, have ye any meat? They answered him, No. And he said unto them, Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes....

As soon as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread. Jesus saith unto them, Come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who art thou? knowing that it was the Lord....

This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead. (John 21: 2-6, 9, 12, 14.)

Discharge On Suspicion

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

Discharge on the barest suspicion of disloyalty may seem harsh. In some instances, it might prove unduly harsh punishment; the capacity for human error being what it is, suspicion might prove unwarranted. But is there any other feasible alternative, in the case of civil servants who are dealing with matters affecting the security of the entire nation?

We do not think there is. It is common knowledge that members of the Communist Party are conducting a vast campaign against the democracies, and that they have managed to make converts among persons engaged in work which should be kept secret. In short, Communism has created traitors, and will do so again, for the individual who gives his loyalty to the Cominform is at least potentially disloyal to his own country, if it is a democracy.

50,000 Tourists to Visit Calgary's Annual Stampede

By JACK SCOTT

CALGARY, Alta.—Come Monday Calgary begins its annual summer madness known wide and far simply as "The Stampede."

Since, at that time, we'll be somewhere on the lone Saskatchewan prairie I've been loping around the town getting a sort of preview of the particular week of hell that's going to bust loose in these parts.

The wheels are already beginning to turn. First of some fifty thousand tourists have begun streaming in from the United States, Bolivia, Australia, Honolulu, Bermuda and other unlikely points and including Liaquat Ali Khan, of Pakistan, Prime Minister St. Laurent, Gorgeous George Drew (who should look pretty sweet in the 10-gallon lid they've reserved for him), a bevy of cuties from Hollywood to carry on the bareback tradition established in former years by Sally Rand and Gypsy Rose Lee, and less flamboyant visitors who will wear a little sign saying "I Am a Visitor," thus ensuring them of the greeting, "Howdy, Stranger."

About 450,000 customers, a good percentage of them wearing bright silk shirts, will ogle a 23-year-old, brown-eyed Junior Farmer named Eileen Beckner, of Carstairs, this year's Stampede queen, and the world's top bronc riders, calf ropers, steer decorators, chuck-wagon drivers, wild steer riders and wild cow milkers, most of whom look undernourished and spend their spare time reading western stories or comic magazines.

Also on view over 77 flat acres on Calgary's south side, entered through gates of imported spruce, will be 10 tepees full of Black Feet, eight of Sarcees and three of interpreters, daily horse racing with pari-mutuels, a display of Alberta's agricultural wealth and Alberta housewives' preserves, dancing girls and the famous chuckwagon races.

It is a week in which a great number of Calgarians decide to slip away for a quiet holiday some place else.

The Classic

Yesterday I went out to the Stampede grounds to have a talk with J. Charles Yule, the taciturn old gentleman who runs the spread and we talked mostly about the chuckwagon classic, or the Rangeland Derby as it is formally caled.

If we weren't so far behind schedule in our cross-country trip, we'd surely stay to see this event. Even those un-Calgarian Calgarians, who assure you that when you've seen one broncobuster you've seen 'em all, admit that the careening chuckwagons never pale.

They've changed a lot since the first race in 1923. Lloyd Lewis, who drove in that original race, says the top prize money then was $15. Now it comes up to $7,500, second only to the King's Plate in Canadian stakes.

Recalling the first of the races, lean, leathery Lewis says, "I'm like the old-timer of 1880. He can take you down the Bow River and show you where he swam the river that spring and the bush he grabbed to get out of the water. But ask what he did with this afternoon's paper and he doesn't know.

"Still, that day I won't forget. Pete LeGrande was driving the team against me. We made a good getaway from the infield and came down the stretch in front of the sand with mud flying 30 feet in the air. And did the stand respond! That was my first real thrill in a chuckwagon race, when the stand all come on to their feet at once."

A more recent devotee of the mayhem put it this way: "The chuckwagon race? It's more intense than sex."

Plus Thrills

Charlie Yule says the idea originally came from the chuckwagons that drew up in front of the grandstand to serve barbecued sandwiches from the cook stoves. One day a couple of the boys had an impromptu race to a choice location. An institution was born.

The original race was from a standing start, once around the track, then into the infield to unhitch the four horses and start a fire in the stove. First outfit to show smoke won the money. Today it's considerably more complicated and with a set of Marquis of Queensbury rules.

Way it works now, four wagons take part in each heat. They're lined up beside a set of two barrels with the cook's stove on the ground at the rear of the wagon and the fly and poles set up as a shelter. A horn blows and everything explodes in action. Four outriders load the gear aboard the wagon, the driver whips his team into a figure-eight turn through barrels and through a narrow gap into the track.

They say that when the outfits come down the stretch with the hooves pounding and the wagons bucking and bouncing, the drivers up on their feet fighting the reins, and the dust foaming back into the faces of the hard-riding outriders and everybody whoopin' and holerin' it acts like a double vodka.

You'd think everyone would be exhausted by this kind of thing, but Charlie Yule says there's always one final exciting moment as the big show closes: They announce the dates for next year's show.

East City Gets A 9-7 Win Over Orphans

East City staved off a late drive by the Orphans to win 9-7 at the Bowl last night and crowd up with UEW in the City Softball League standing. A slim and shivery crowd saw the Orphans finish strong to almost sew it up having the tying and winning runs aboard at the finish. East City took a big early lead but were blanked in the last half as Bill Lewis pitched steady ball. Terry Woods went good till near the end for the victors and he got credit for the win, but Doris had to put out the fire in the ninth.

Cournyea, Wade, Sullivan, O'Heron and Woods all hit well for the winners, with Spencer clouting a triple as Cournyea, Wade, Woods and Sullivan included doubles in their bag. Griffin topped the Orphans at bat with four for five, as Richardson hit a double and single. A pick-up by Riches and catches by Willshaw and Spencer were fielding features of an interesting joust.

Mutuals Trim UEW Boys As Fans Freeze

Mutuals whammed the what-is-it out of UEW at the Bowl last night for a 19-4 men's softball verdict before a few frigid fans to stay away in front of the pack. They nicked three twirlers, Hall, Birch and Gordon, for 21 safe hits including Leether's homer, triple and double, Foster's three-bagger and doubles by Greenlaw and Giardino. The losers kicked the ball around and they could get but six hits off Greenlaw, though Bob had wild streaks at times. It wasn't much of a game the last half.

Leether, Giardino, Dalton and Crowe led the winners at bat with Greenlaw, Foster and Menzies also getting in a few safe punches. Byrnes was the only one of the losers with more than one bingle, but Mackness and Legrow conked doubles. Blair Thomson had to leave in the fourth when accidentally spiked on the wrist on a close play at the plate. Giardino had a couple of nice catches in left field.

Mt. Pleasant Winners Over Woollens In 10th

Mount Pleasant nosed out Dominion Woollens 10-9 in the 10th inning of a nifty fastball number last night. After the Woollens shoved over a run in the 10th, Woollens got two across with one out in their half of the overtime frame for the verdict. Woollens earlier had scored one in the fourth and seven in a big sixth heat. The winners tallied one in the third, three in the fifth and four more in the sixth. Mitchell fanned three and Parker two for Mt. Pleasant, as Coughlin and Dorris each whiffed three for Woollens.

Sullivan hit a grand-slam homer—a towering thump over the 12ft. field wall—during the big third inning when they counted seven runs, getting one each in the second, sixth and seventh heats. The losers tallied one each in the first and fourth, with three in the fifth and two more in the sixth of a neat scrap. They proved well-matched teams, their previous game being a close one in favor of southend.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The senior "A" diamondeers of the Viaduct League provide the week-end attraction for ball fans tomorrow aft at three in Riverside. It's Toronto Aces against the Petes in an important struggle as Oshawa, New Toronto, the Aces and the men o' Murphy battle it out around the top in this speedy six-team circuit. And a right rousing tussle it should be. Manager Ed is undecided yet as to his pitching choice, and it might be Lefty Johnny Baumgardner, the Chicago college import—if he's ready. And he should be by now. Plunkett, Edger and Whitehill are also available, and the veteran Gunner was really in top form last start in Toronto. It should pack in a big crowd.

* * * * * *

Prexy Hugh McLean of the Viaduct Loop is quite pleased with the setup which added three out-of-town teams to the Toronto circuit. They are New Toronto, Oshawa and Peterborough. He tells the Star that attendance figures are up 35 per cent this year, stating that rivalries are really developing. "Oshawa and Peterborough play every game as it it were a world series contest and Dovers and New Toronto aren't far behind." He also points out that Doug Plunkett pitched a no-hitter in an 8-0 shutout of Staffords, and that Al Menzies is hitting over .400 for the Petes. Yes, it's a good senior baseball league.

Minors Don't Get Much

As mentioned yesterday, the Phillies have a baseball school in Belleville, a four-day one opening on July 17 for chaps 16 to 22. The coaches aren't interested in boys who might make minor pro ball—no, they want them promising enough to eventually make Triple-A or the majors. Minimum salary in the big time is $5,000 a season, while the AAA player averages about $800 a month. It can go up to $1,300 for four weeks. When you get down to Class "C" ball, a guy gets only about $150 a month, and might better be working at home and learning a trade or something. You should shoot for the majors or stick to amateur ball.

* * * * * *

Minor ball will benefit financially from the Saturday men's softball exhibition at the Bowl at 8.30 p.m. The PMBA gets the proceeds after the Toronto Tip Tops get travelling expenses when they play Johnny Russelle's All-Stars. It'll be mostly the Mutuals (with the Tip Tops' first battery working for 'em) but a few other starry local players will be added to the home lineup. After all, Mutuals are away out in front of the race here and shouldn't need too much help, apart from the Toronto twirler (Charlie Justice) and a receiver. The world's senior softball champs no doubt will make for the biggest crowd of the season in the Bowl.

Winner Was Jack Frost

East City men softballers beat the Orphans at the Bowl last gloaming but they were plenty worried ere 'twas o'er. Score ended at 9-7 with three Orphans scampering around the bases on a long fly that Skeeter O'Heron roped in as it sailed toward the fence. An interesting tussle and it puts the Ashburnham-and-eggers (it's a joke, son) right up there around the second slot again. The other game was 19-4 for Mutuals over UEW, but let's not talk about that. Suppose we discuss the weather. It got pretty dark and threatening during the second tilt, but the snow held off and, shortly after 10.30, the few survivors were defrosted enough to grumble their way homeward.

Gary Robinson and Bob Batley are two of the junior Petes OLA squad who have seen action this semester with the senior squad. The juniors are playing Mimico at 8.30 tonight in Miller Bowl and hope to get their third win before a big crowd. Children going with adults get in free. Bill Nicholls or Joe Hickson will be in the home goal, others being the Robinson brothers, Batley, Harry Russelle, Joe Whitnell, Jim Heffernan, John Vincent, Bob Wyatt, Bill Killingbeck, Gerald O'Reilly, Al Beavis, Jim Shearer, Grant Burns and Steve Morrissey. All are PMLA products but Killingbeck who is going good in his first lacrosse year. A right promising gutted-stick crew.

Konstanty Saves the Day As Phillies Edge New York

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Jim Konstanty of the Phillies is the Joe Page of 1950.

Day after day, the righthander with the specs bailed out Philadelphia starting pitchers. He has done it 34 times in 70 ball games.

Good control and a baffling sinker are Jim's main props. Once in a while he zips through a fast ball. In 65 innings he has walked only 17 men.

Eddie Sawyer brought Konstanty to the Phils from Toronto in 1948, a couple of months after he moved up from the International League to become Phil manager.

Konstanty developed fast last season. Now Sawyer thinks he is the best relief pitcher in baseball.

When the going is roughest, Sawyer calls for Konstanty. Curt Simmons has nine victories, but Konstanty finished four of them. Rookie Bob Miller has a brilliant 8-0 record, but Jim saved him three times. Only Robin Roberts does not seem to need Konstanty. All of Robin's 10 victories have been complete games.

Saves the Day

Miller needed help from Konstanty again Thursday to preserve his eighth straight, a 9-6 edge over New York. The sensational freshman was knocked out in the sixth. In came Konstanty to save the day.

St. Louis protected its one-game lead in the National League by knocking out Ewell Blackwell in a 10-run first inning to crush Cincinnati 13-1. It was the Cards' seventh straight and their 12th in a row at Sportsman's Park.

Sixteen went to the plate in the big inning in which Bill Howerton doubled twice, driving in three runs. There wasn't a homer in the game, but Tommy Glaviano had four hits.

Brooklyn clouted 16 hits in an 8-3 decision over Boston. Homers by Eddie Kimsis and Gil Hodges, each with a man on, showed the way.

Has Knee Injury

Jackie Robinson missed his first game since June 2, 1948, breaking a string of 340 consecutive games. Hobbled by a knee injury, Jackie was available for pinch-hitting duty, but was not needed.

Chicago kicked up a fuss in the eighth to score three runs, knock out Bill Werle and whip Pittsburgh 4-2. The only previous Cub run was Hank Sauer's 16th homer.

Half the American League took the day off, but both New York and Cleveland chipped away at idle Detroit's lead. The Yanks' 5-4 edge over Philadelphia left them only 3½ games back of the Tigers. Cleveland downed Chicago 5-2 to trail Detroit by 4½.

Sauer Of Cubs Dropped From All-Stars

CHICAGO, July 7 (AP) — Hank Sauer of Chicago Cubs today was the man Shotton has forgotten as far as next Tuesday's major league all-star baseball game is concerned.

Burt Shotton's revelations of his all-star game choices, beyond the people's choices; has stirred up some of the good folks here and elsewhere.

Shotton, pilot of the National League's all-star assemblage, is not the only one having difficulty with his 25-player cast. Casey Stengel, the American League all-star manager, must do without the services of Detroit's Art Houtteman.

Sauer, the Cubs' home-run clouting (16) left-fielder, was elected by the fans to a starting position in the National League's line-up. Yesterday, however, Shotton, the Brooklyn mentor, replaced Sauer with Duke Snider of his own club. Enos Slaughter, Ralph Kiner and Sauer led the ballotting among the outfielders.

Had To Change

Shotton said the fans had voted him two left fielders and a right fielder for his starting team but nary a centrefielder. So, with President Ford Frick's permission, Shotton got Snider and Sauer was forgotten.

Cub Manager Frankie Frisch declared:

"I consider Mr. Shotton's statement a deep insult to a young fellow who has played hard and given his best efforts in all games played by the Chicago Club . . .

"Shotton says he wants to win, huh! That Snider certainly looked wonderful in the world series last fall. He couldn't hit a ball past the pitcher. It is the first time Sauer has been on the all-star team. He was voted in by the fans. That ought to be enough."

The exclusion of shortstop Granville Hamner of the Phils from the National's squad drew protests from Philadelphia. The people's choice for shortstop was the Cardinals' Marty Marion. Shotton's only other shortstop on his list is Pee Wee Reese of the Dodgers. Hamner is one of baseball's great shortstops this season and he has been sounder of limb than either Marion or Reese.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

United States professional football teams may begin raiding Canadian clubs in retaliation for the wholesale import of U.S. players into Canada, Paul Brown, general manager and coach of Cleveland Browns of the National Professional League, said Thursday night.

In a telephone interview with Bob Moran, president of Toronto argonauts of the Big Four, Brown was reported to have said:

"We'll move into your country and offer tremendous salaries to your best players and take them away from you."

Brown mentioned as specific cases of "raiding," the signing by Ottawa Rough Riders of two former Villanova College players, tackle John Sandusky and fullback Tom Clavin.

"I was very surprised at the feeling he put into his words, but I was more surprised that he should finally see fit to recognize Canadian football," Mr. Moran said.

Steve Karrys, speedy Toronto half back, is seeking his release from Ottawa Rough Riders in the Interprovincial Rugby Football League.

E. K. (Eddie) Emerson, president of the Rough Riders, said Karrys will go to Ottawa today to confer with the club executive. He has advised Emerson that his work will not permit him to leave Toronto this fall.

Top flight rowing crews from Ottawa, Lachine, St. Catharines and Toronto began arriving today to compete in the Eastern Rowing Association's 30th annual regatta Saturday on the Brockville Rowing Club's upper St. Lawrence River course.

Top attraction of this year's regatta is the entry of four crack St. Catharines crews in the events open to visiting clubs.

Interrupted by national holidays—Dominion Day and Independence Day—and badgered by bad weather, the Philadelphia Phillies four-day baseball clinic held at Sarnia attracted a smaller class than originally estimated. Forty attended from various Ontario centres.

Only one young player was considered. He was sixteen-year-old Bill Slack of Sarnia, brother of London Major's hurler Stan Slack of the Intercounty League.

Chief scout Pat Colgan ruled Slack out because of his size.

From here the Phillie scouts swing on to Kirkland Lake where a four-day school will be conducted July 10 to 13, and to Belleville July 17 to 20. A school will be held in Toronto Aug. 15-18.

Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League announced on Thursday night that they had sent Ed Wright, veteran right-handed pitcher to Minneapolis Millers of the American Association in exchange for Don Robertson, a 22-year-old righthander.

2 MPP's Stage Night Race At Thorncliffe

TORONTO, July 7 — (CP) — Politically, the Conservatives and Liberals may be streets apart, but put them on a harness racing track and they make not-so-strange bed-fellows.

Hon. Earl Rowe, Conservative member of parliament for Dufferin-Simcoe, Thursday night rode wheel to wheel with Hugh Proudfoot, Liberal M.P. for Pontiac-Temiscamingue, around flood-lit Thorncliffe Raceway, before 4,000 persons who forgot their political prejudices and gave both a big hand.

It was a stunt but the crowd, largest since the raceway opened its 42-day meet last Monday—in the sunshine—appeared to like it. The M.P.s were out there to show the city slickers just what the sulky drivers look like under the lights.

The tote board was lit up, the Queen's Own Rifle Band played popular tunes and the two sulky drivers paced their horses around the half-mile track just for the fun of it..

Prove A Point

Promoters of the raceway wanted to prove a point: that the fans will go for night harness racing, despite a directive by the Ontario Racing Commission that no trots will be held on the big Ontario tracks after 7 p.m. EDT There was no wagering.

After the 45-minute exhibition, Conservative Rowe and Liberal Proudfoot agreed that racing under the lights was needed to promote the breeding of standard-bred horses in Canada.

"I've raced under the lights in Quebec, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and I see no reason why it shouldn't be allowed here," Proudfoot said.

Rowe, former Conservative leader in Ontario, said night trots "would do more to promote the breeding of standard-breds than anything else."

Orioles Down Jersey City In 3-2 Triumph

By The Associated Press.

Ed Pellagrini, 31-year-old shortstop with Baltimore Orioles, is performing so well that it appears a cinch that he will be back in the major leagues come 1951.

Pellagrini, who at first debated whether to report to Baltimore after his sale to the Orioles by St. Louis Browns, is enjoying his best year at the plate batting .324.

Pellagrini, always known as a slick fielder, helped the Orioles down the second-place Jersey City Giants 3-2 Thursday night. He banged his ninth homer of the season in the third inning off Tony West in his only official trip to the plate.

Despite the loss, the Giants remained 2½ gamess behind the pace-setting Rochester Red Wings, who dropped a 7-3 decision to the seventh-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

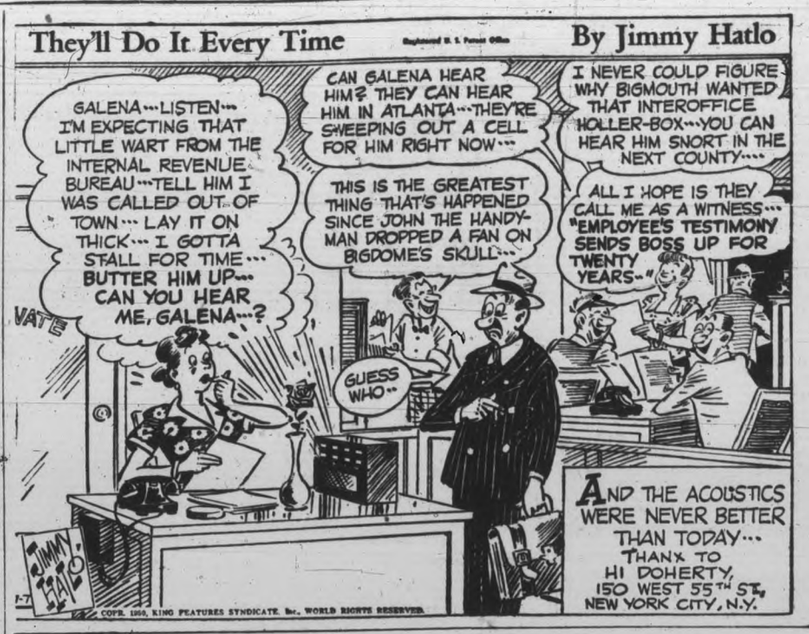
Leads Leafs

Scrappy Bobby Rhawn paced the Leafs to victory by driving in four runs on a pair of homers to tag Johnny Wittig with his first loss of the year, following five victories.

Jack Brittin scattered 11 Red Wing hits, including rookie first baseman Don Bollweg's fourth home run, to hand up his fifth victory.

Buffalo's tail-end Bisons upset the fourth-place Montreal Royals 7-4. The Bisons pounded five Montreal pitchers for 17 hits Gene Markland and Marty Tabacheck leading the way with three blows each.

Syracuse Chiefs wrested fifth place from Springfield by outslugging the Cubs 14-12. The Chiefs piled up an early 10-3 lead, survived a six-run Springfield blast in the sixth, then clinched the game with four in the seventh. Frankie Drews drove home three runs and scored three on a homer and single to lead the Syracuse attack.



Stengel Sees No Evidence Baseballs Any Different

By TED SMITS.

NEW YORK, July 7 (AP) — Says Casey Stengel, manager of New York Yankees:

"I've got a new name for the game. Let's call it heliumball instead of baseball."

Something certainly has happened to the game. Home runs are being hit in the majors at a clip which if maintained will bring the season's total for each league to more than 1,000. The American League record is 883 in 1940; the National League mark is 936 in 1949.

Already hitting and scoring records have been set. Boston Red Sox ran up 29 runs in one game for a high and teamed with the Athletics in another to make 36, highest combined total in the American League.

Home run records set this season are:

1. Most homers by both leagues one day, 16 games—40.
2. Most homers by both leagues one day, eight games—30.
3. Most homers by National League, one day—24.
4. Most home runs hit in one game, both teams (Detroit-New York)—11.

Too Much Blame

The president of the A. C. Spalding Company, maker of major league baseballs, says:

"There has been altogether too much blame placed on the baseball during this home-run epidemic."

"In the old days when the hit-and-run and the sacrifice had so much to do with the result of many close games, and the pitchers had so many liberties, home runs were scarce. But now the players go up to the plate, get a toe hold and swing.

"The so-called lively ball is a myth. . ."

Timely words? But the man who made these remarks was president of Spalding all right, but years ago. But now he is dead.

The home-run epidemic he is talking about was in 1925. The statement was made by Julian Curtiss.

Nothing New

This suggests that arguments over home runs and the lively baseball are nothing new.

How about settling the argument by making some tests?

Emil Bossard, Cleveland Indians groundskeeper, climbed to the roof of the Cleveland Stadium and dropped a 1949 and a 1950 baseball about 120 feet to the concrete runway. The 1949 baseball bounced a foot higher than the 1950 ball. Then he dropped anotner pair. This time the 1950 ball bounced a few inches higher.

Tests by Spalding show that the baseball of 1932 is just the same as the 1950 ball.

Summing it up: there is more long-range hitting now than formerly, but good pitching shows itself regularly and the day by day hitting appears no more violent now than 10, 20 or 30 years ago.

Briton Wants Zing Put Back In Sports

LONDON, July 7 (AP) — A sorrowing legislator called today for the establishment of a ministry of sports to put the old zing back in British athletes.

To this end Labor member John Haire said he will ask Prime Minister Attlee next week for "a Ministry of Sport and Physical Culture for the purpose of stimulating and encouraging training in organized games at home and maintaining our national prestige abroad."

He referred to England's recent shellacking in an international cricket competition with the West Indies; its defeat in an international rugby match with New Zealand; the fact that British tennis stars were promptly knocked out of the Wimbledon championships; England's elimination from the world champion soccer test in Rio de Janeiro and Britain's first-round ouster in Davis Cup play.

Bring New Hope To Sufferers Heart Disease

New advances in anaesthesia and in surgery of the chest, are bringing new hope to sufferers from heart disease, states a report from Great Britain.

Dr. R. C. Brock, of Guy's Hospital, who two years ago made medical history by demonstrating techniques for operation on heart conditions normally considered incurable, has now, with two colleagues, Dr. Charles Baker and Dr. Maurice Campbell, extended his work to an operation for the relief of mitral stenosis. This in familiar language, is a blocking of the valve which connects the two left-hand chambers of the heart.

Ten Per Cent Fatal

Blocking of the valve often follows rheumatic fever, and the results can be very serious. Gradually the circulation of the blood, especially to the lungs, is so impaired that the slightest effort leaves the patient exhausted and breathless. Normal life becomes impossible and complete rest is essential. Even then the condition generally proves fatal. About one-tenth of all cases of heart disease are due to mitral stenosis.

The team of surgeons at Guy's Hospital are not alone in their efforts to relieve mitral stenosis by operation; others are at work elsewhere, especially in the United States. The outstanding success of the Guy's surgeons, measured by a comparatively low mortality for the operation, is due to two main factors. First, they have approached the valves by a surgical route different from that normally employed. Secondly, they have enlarged the flaps of the valves, once reached by merely slitting them instead of by punching a small hole as others have recommended.

Finger Instrument

A very interesting feature of this remarkable new operation is that, although elaborate equipment and instruments are required before the valves themselves can be reached for operatoin, the only instrument required for the final operation is the simplest of all, the finger of the surgeon. A special knife was developed for the purpose but it has in fact, been used on only two occasions. The valves are distended simply by insertion of the surgeon's finger. This process takes altogether about ten minutes, though care is taken that the flow of blood is never interrupted for more than two or three heart-beats.

So far nine patients, very carefully selected after study of their medical histories, have been operated upon by the new technique. All but two have made excellent recoveries.

In the seven successful cases the results were spectacular. From being helpless invalids, unable to walk any distance, exhausted by the least exertion, unable even to sleep without being propped up in bed, they were transformed, almost overnight, into normal human beings able to take and enjoy their full share of life.

Guard Thrown Around Navy Installations

OSWEGO, N.Y., July 7 (AP)—A 24-hour guard has been thrown about naval-militia installations at this Lake Ontario city, and civilian activities, including visits, have been halted, it was disclosed Thursday.

Lieut. Samuel G. Castaldo, of the New York Naval Militia, said the action was taken on orders received from Naval Militia headquarters at New York City.

The ban on civilians extends to visits at both shore and ship installations at this port, the officer stated.

U.S. Committee Called Fraud

COCHRANE, July 7—(CP)—W. J. Grummett, CCF member of the Ontario legislature for Cochrane North, said Thursday night that the actual purpose of the United States committee investigating an alleged newsprint cartel in Canada is to frustrate Ontario legislation governing export of raw pulpwood to the United States.

He said in an interview that the committee is "a fraud, a fake and a front" for interests which now face discontinuance of pulpwood supplies because they refused to build mills in Canada.

"Everybody knows I am a Socialist and I say there is no cartel in the Canadian newsprint industry. If there was one, I would be the first to object to it."

The chief complaint of the U.S. committee had been that Canada was not producing enough paper to meet demands. The committee had professed to see something sinister in this.

"To me, the sinister part of the situation is the complete disregard of the future of Canadian forests shown by the committee," Mr. Grummett said. "It seems to think every tree in Canada should be chopped down at once, much in the same manner in which their own American forest vanished.

"I know personally that Canadian newsprint mills are working at top capacity day and night. The suggestion that they are stalling production is ridiculous."

Damage to the two cars was estimated at $500.

"She wasn't alone—there was a fellow with her," Varty said.

Strikes Threaten Car Industry In United States

DETROIT, July 7 — (AP) — Strikes and threats of strikes hit the American automobile industry Thursday.

In quick succession these were the developments:

Some 8,500 Dodge workers were made idle by an unauthorized walkout of 80 men who drive finished cars off the assembly line. However, the second shift reported for work at its normal time.

Kaiser - Frazer announced it would be forced to halt production this morning because of a supplier strike at the Warner Gear division of Borg-Arner Corporation in Muncie, Ind. About 10,000 workers will be made idle there.

The United Auto Workers (CIO) said a strike of 6,000 employees of Dana Corporation's Spicer manufacturing division would be called at midnight Friday unless a contract dispute is settled by then.

Chrysler said the walkout of its Dodge main plant followed the reprimanding of one of the drivers by his foreman for "loafing on the job." This walkout, the company said, forced it to send the thousands home. There was no comment from the UAW, which did not sanction the stoppage.

Kaiser-Frazer attributed its impending shutdown to a continuing strike at the Warner Gear division of Borg-Arner Corporation in Muncie. That company makes transmissions and overdrives for K-F. The UAW has been on strike at Warner Gear since Friday night, demanding a union shop, higher vacation pay and other benefits.

CAREER WOMAN AND HOUSEWIFE—Combining marriage with a career shouldn't be a problem for any woman as long as she has co-operation in the family, says Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, only woman member of the House of Commons. For the last 15 years she has been doing double duty as career woman and housewife. Mrs. Fairclough says much of her success is due to her husband, Gordon, and son, Howard. They particularly helped her, she said, when she won the by-election in Hamilton West for the Progressive Conservatives.

Nfld. Receives Cod Orders Of Six Million

OTTAWA, July 7 (CP) — Financial arrangements with the United Kingdom and four other countries for the sale in Europe of some of this year's catch of Newfoundland salt cod were announced Thursday by Fisheries Minister Mayhew.

The arrangements were expected to cover the sale of about $6,000,000 worth of cod, fisheries department officials said.

The fish will go to Spain, Portugal, Italy and Greece under a one-year continuance of a system set up before confederation to enable the island to sell in these soft-currency countries.

Under the plan, the four countries will pay for the fish in sterling. This money will be applied against Newfoundland's debt to the U.K. which Canada took over last year. The federal government will reimburse the Newfoundlanders in dollars.

$500,000 Order

As part of the same plan, the Italian Government also has agreed to set aside $500,000 in dollars for the purchase of cured cod from Gaspe, Que. This is a high-grade product which for some years has been going to Italy, especially the Milan area.

Mr. Mayhew said the arrangements should do much to relieve the uncertainty which has prevailed in Newfoundland.

"This, and other negotiations now taking place to ease trade restrictions, should make it possible for the Newfoundland exporters to proceed to make contracts for the 1950 production as well as to dispose of the carryover from 1949," he said.

The government recently announced that the fisheries prices support board would buy 1949 salt cod still in the hands of fishermen, but not that portion of the caach held by processors and distributors.

Farm Income Shows Increase Garson Says

EDMONTON, July 7—(CP)—Canada has no reason to be concerned over the export outlook while it is disposing of staple farm products, Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner said Thursday in an interview.

Canada is consuming more bacon than ever before he said. Bacon exports to Brit[illegible] are far less than had been expected, no doubt due to domestic consumption.

There also is a great demand for beef and consumption had increased, he added.

Speaking of farm economy, Mr. Gardiner said that in 1943, during the height of wartime demand, the gross cash income of farmers was $1,438,000,000. In 1948, the total was $2,474,000,000 and it is expected that the total for 1950 will be about the same.

Taking the net income from farm operations Mr. Gardiner said this amounted to $900,000,000 in 1943 compared fith $1,681,000,000 in 1948 and approximately the same in 1949.

Speaking generally of the crop outlook in the West, Mr. Gardiner said in Saskatchewan he had never seen the croop look better.

He had noted some poor crop indications in certain sections of the Edmonton area.

No Longer Contemptuous Of North Korean Soldiers

By TOM LAMBERT

AT AN ADVANCED OUTPOST, South Korea, July 7—(AP)—"I've been a little contemptuous of them (North Koreans). Not any more."

A senior American officer dropped this remark Thursday night after watching his artillerymen duelling point-blank with North Korean tanks.

Some fights were at 100 yards range.

The Americans "ducked, raised up, and fired again," said the officer.

In the last week Red tanks have raced about 50 miles against crumbling South Korean opposition and have overrun several American position.

In a rail station, a senior American commander told reporters that possibly 40 Red tanks, supported by a very strong force of infantry, had staged a small-scale blitzkrieg.

The tanks rolled out of Sojong before dawn, about six miles north of Pyontaek. Several dynamited bridges didn't stop them. They reached Pynotaek by daybreak.

Keep Coming

The officer said one Red tank was hit by an American artillery burst. The crew leaped out, their clothes flaming. The Americans called to them to surrender. They refused. The joined other units and came on again the American positions.

As artillerymen abandoned their positions and guns, they took off breech blocks and sights to make the weapons useless.

The onrushing Reds apparently were not hit by American planes Thursday, he said, because of bad weather. He hadn't seen an Allied plane attacking the Reds all day.

Man Falls 130 Feet To Ground, Lives

MOUNT FOREST, July 7 (CP)—William Blair, 44, of Ayton, Ont., had a miraculous escape from death or serious injury Thursday when he fel 130 feet to the ground and got up and walked away.

Blair, doing repair work on the steep, was pulled on a rope attached to a pulley when he lost his footing and fell. His 130-foot tumble was partially broken when he struck part of the roof of the church lower down.

Two doctors examined Blair and he was taken to hospital where X-rays failed to disclose any breaks or fractures.

Bank Studies Vexing Sterling Balance

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor.

The vexed question of "sterling balances" is studied in the current monthly review of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Sterling balances are, in effect, debts which Britain ran up in various countries during the war—the sort of thing that was done away with in North America by United States lend-lease and Canadian mutual aid.

They amounted at the end of 1949 to £2,350,000,000 (more than $10,000,000,000 Canadian) and are regarded as one of the greatest barriers to re-establishment of currencies and multilateral (many-sided) trade.

India is the largest holder of the balances and other large holders include Egypt, Ireland, and Australia, with many other countries holding substantial amounts.

SMASHED BY PUNT—This is what happened when a punt broke loose from its moorings three miles up the flooded Macleay River recently and was swept into the town of Kempsey, New South Wales. Before the vessel smashed against the Kempsey Methodist Church it extensively damaged a railway viaduct. This photo shows the damage to the church after flood waters receded.

Set Navy Day On October 7

OTTAWA, July 7 — (CP) — From now on, the first Saturday in each October will be marked as Canada's "Navy Day", Defence Minister Claxton announced today. It falls this year on Oct. 7.

The day following Navy Day will be marked as "Battle-of-the-Atlantic Sunday" in honor of the naval and merchant seamen who fought and who perished in that prolonged battle in the Second World War.

In line with Air Force Day celebrations, Navy Day will see an "open house" held where possible at naval stations and on naval ships with the public being given a chance o see what Canada's seamen do and to get to know them better.

Displays and demonstrations will be staged.

On Battle-of-the-Atlantic Sunday, church parades will be held in the various localities in which there are naval bases, training establishments and divisions.

Special services will be conducted in church across Canada in commemoration of the party played by the Navy and by Canada's merchant navy in the struggle to preserve the vital ocean lifeline to Britain, and tribute will be paid to the naval and merchant seamen who lost their lives in the war at sea.

When the fund was organized some weeks ago, $1,200 was set as an objective. But as contributions quickly began to roll in, the target was boosted to $2,000.

Newfoundland Asks Aid For Educational Costs

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 7 (CP) —Newfoundland suggested today that the federal government give financial assistance to aid the province in solving its education problems.

In a brief submitted to the Massey Commission, Education Minister S. J. Hefferton said he was not suggesting that federal aid "should be used as a reason for decreasing the provincial expenditure, but rather as a supplement."

The province's briet was the first submitted as the commission opened a two-day hearing here. The St. John's sessions will be the commission's last.

Mr. Hefferton pointed out that Newfoundland schools were denominational and that the province never has had taxation for school purposes. Government grants and public subscription maintained the schools.

Can't Continue

In 1948, he said, the government spent $3,662,959 on education of a total revenue of $40,993,790.

"Under our provincial status," he said, "it appears doubtful if we can continue our present rate of expenditure. . ."

The province had about 75,000 children attending school but only 20 per cent of them reached grade X and less than two per cent graduated from grade XI.

Heavy expenditure and a "radical change in our school system," he said, are needed "for children living in remote areas . . . to receive the proper counselling and guidance."

"A federal grant . . should be allocated not on the usual 50-50 basis, but rather on the more realistic basis of greatest help where most urgently needed."

Rescued By Firemen

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., July 7 (AP)—A fireman swung down a rope Thursday night to rescue two youthful fishermen who had been stranded for five hours on a ledge beside the Lower Niagara gorge. Fellow firemen hauled all three to safety. Hollis Parker, 20, and Robert Pay, 21, both of Niagara Falls, N.Y., got stuck while climbing the steep bank about a quarter of a mile below the falls.

Expect Long War In Korea

WASHINGTON, July 7—(AP) —The United States government is beginning to assess the Korean war as a long, difficult and costly struggle.

This development of a less optimistic outlook about an early end to the conflict apparently means a steady build-up of American forces in the war area—with increasing requirements for money, men and munitions.

In addition, the United States is confronted with the need to (1) kep up a flow of arms to Western Europe, the Middle East, and Southeast Asia and (2) keep its own forces prepared to deal with any further moves by the Russian - controlled Communist bloc.

The administration thus far has withheld any indication of what measures it may eventually take. But some highly-place informants now believe that a degree of industrial mobilization may be essential.

Inquiries among informed officials today brought out that fundamental estimates of the Korean situation have changed considerably under the impact of events in the two weeks since the Communists set out to conquer South Korea.

Initial calculations here were that:

1. The South Koreans would put up a tough, effective resistance.

2. The North Korean army would not prove overwhelmingly powerful.

3. Determined action by the United States, with the blessings of the United Nations Security Council and the co-opration of other UN members, might rapidly discourage the Korean Communists.

The powerful southward thrusts of the Communist armies, even against the opposition of such limited American forces as have been quickly thrown into combat, have knocked the props from under those estimates.

Need More Dietitians

TORONTO, July 7 (CP)—Canada needs more dietitians, Wing Cmdr. Margaret Clark, president of the Canadian Dietetic Association, said Thursday. She said in an interview that, with 800 qualified dietitians now working in Canada, along with 128 who graduated from universities this year, "the country could use 400 more at a minimum."

Drunk Driving Case Dismissed

A charge of drunk driving against Leslie Burnley, 176 Charlotte St., was today dismissed by Magistrate R. B. Baxter of Port Hope who said there was insufficient evidence for a conviction.

Burnley was charged the night of June 24, after PC William Scott saw him driving in a manner the officer described today as "erratic."

The officer testified he found a partly empty mickey of gin in Burnley's pocket. Burnley pleaded guilty to illegal possession of liquor and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs. He pleaded not guilty to drunk driving.

Non-Swimmers Learn Fast At Boys' Camp

Non-swimmers learn fast at Camp Kawartha on Clear Lake.

Of 21 non-swimmers who came to camp last Saturday, 13 now have received YMCA cards indicating they can swim 50 yards. At present there are 61 boys and 16 staff members at the summer camp for boys sponsored by the Peterborough Y's Men's Club.

By the time the six-week summer season is over probably 200 boys will have had a taste of the outdoor life.

Today the special event is a regatta. The boys will compete in swimming and boating events for the Camp Kawartha Shield.

The hard-working Y's Men have completed a new cabin giving accommodation for eight boys and a counsellor. This is the fifth cabin completed in the last two years. All are now occupied.

Also new at the camp this year is dishwashing equipment and a set of dishes.

Following are the names of the 13 who received their 50-yard cards: Neil Finney, Don McIlraith, Don Caswell, George Carver, Kenneth Kent, Keith Chapman, Jim Heron, Robert Little, Ralph Curtis, Ken Thompson, Fred Tomkins, Paul Emery and Douglas Oke.

Tourists Throng At All Resorts

A district survey of the Kawartha tourist accommodation shows that most places are filled, some of them to overflowing. Requests for space have tapered off somewhat since the first part of the week but is perking up again for the weekend. It is not unusual to meet some elderly visitors that have been coming to the Kawarthas for the past 30 years.

Fishing has been so excellent all over, that it is rare to hear any complaints on that score. There have been one or two from Lovesick Lake but the fault there lay with the individuals rather than the general condition.

There is some main lodge space available as well as cabins. Housekeeping cottages are at a premium. The Peterborough Tourist Bureau is handling four times the inquiry business this year, operator Bill Duignan says. He attributes this not only to their new location but to the popularity of the district.

Three-Year Sentence For Garage Break-in

OSHAWA, July 7 — (CP). — Stanley W. Jones, about 28, of Toronto, was sentenced today to three years for breaking into a garage at Manchester, 14 miles north of here, and stealing goods valued at $150.

The term is consecutive with four months remaining from a previous conviction for breaking and entering. Jones was on parole at the time of the Manchester break-in.

Harvey Foreman of Toronto, also charged, was freed. Crown counsel said there was insufficient evidence for prosecution.

Resorts Get Free Movies, On Canada Life

A free film service for the circuit consisting of McCracken's Crowe's Landing, Lovesick Lake and Buckhorn has been set up for the summer months. Through the efforts of Ronald Ward, Eastern Ontario representative for the National Film Board and James Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, movies will be shown at a resort at each of these places one night a week until September.

The National Film Board, in conjunction with the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, has for some time been sponsoring the showing of Canadian travel and wildlife films in Ontario summer resorts. This is the first time this service has been extended to the Kawartha area.

The films are free. Each resort supplies an operator for the projector, who has been instructed by the Board. The projector is also supplied freely to the resorts.

Two-Hour Show

Average attendance at the first showings this week has been 70. At Buckhorn Lodge more than 80 tourists attended the two-hour show. The operators have invited cottagers and guests from other tourist resorts to the shows for a community effort.

The weekly circuit includes: Sunday, Wantasa, McCracken's Landing; Monday, Viamede Hotel, Mount Julian; Tuesday, Scotsman Point, Buckhorn; Wednesday, at Buckhorn Lodge; Thursday, Forest Hill Lodge, Lovesick Lake; Friday and Saturday nights are still open on the circuit.

Some of the films to be presented are: Rocky Mountain Trout Family Outing; Ski Holiday; Canoe Country; Canadian Cruise; The Road to Gaspe; Winter Carnival; Famous Fish I Have Met; Holiday Island.

Rock Endangers Child's Eye

A five-year-old Peterborough girl may lose the sight of one eye after being struck by a stray rock Thursday night.

Carolyn Yeo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin H. Yeo, 768 New Romaine St., is in the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, after an operation late Thursday night.

Chances of sight being restored to the eye are considered slim.

Carolyn was visiting the home of her aunt, Mrs. Paul Keliy of Oshawa, when the accident occurred. She was playing in the back yard with another friend when a rock sailed through the air—apparently hurled by some other child—and struck her in the eye.

After receiving medical attention at Oshawa General Hospital she was rushed to Toronto for the operation.

The injured girl is a kindergarten pupil at May's school.

Objective Obtained

VANCOUVER —(CP)— The "Conquer Cancer" campaign in British Columbia has raised $165,000 objective set when the campaign opened in April. Campaign officials said it was the most successful drive ever held by the BC division of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Comfort Curtis Rebel Leader Of 1838 in Percy Township

Percy township, stirred like the rest of Upper Canada in 1837 over responsible government, had its own rebellion led by Comfort Curtis, granduncle of C. H. Curtis who lives in the 110-year-old homestead on Lot 17, Concession 12. Two factions, the Radicals or Reformers and the Tories, had been spoiling for a fight for some time.

The Radicals were the men and their sons who had settled the southern part of the township as early as 1775. Some of them were United Empire Loyalists.

The Tories had come directly from the British Isles and settled at Percy Mills, now Warkworth. Before long, bitter enmity sprang up between the two over the question of Responsible Government and loyalty to the Family Compact.

Raised Red Flag

It hit the boiling point in June 1838 when word reached the men of the Percy township division of the Northumberland militia assembled for annual training at Percy Mills that the United Empire Loyalists had raised the red flag of insurrection over Stone's Tavern at Norham, a small hamlet one mile south.

This was too much for the militia. Under the command of Major David Campbell, a veteran of the Peninsular War, they marched in full battle dress to the tavern.

A short distance from it they met Comfort Curtis and his Radicals standing under a red flag inscribed with "Lord Durham and Reform."

They were armed with whiffletrees, iron bars, pitch forks and other crude weapons which they had taken from a nearby blacksmith shop.

Wanted a Battle

The Tory soldiers urged their commander to charge with fixed bayonets immediately, but Major Campbell, as a British Officer, would not show disrespect to Lord Durham an English nobleman.

There was considerable argument from the ranks and suddenly a heavy downpour of rain drenched the men. The Major, using this as an excuse, ordered his men to withdraw to an old barn on a neighboring farm.

Command Ignored

However, a number of old soldiers who had fought in Europe ignored the command and stayed behind.

A young lad came from behind the tavern flaunting a piece of white cotton on which he had painted an American eagle and the word Liberty. This infuriated one old sergeant who had been mentioned in dispatches at Waterloo. He rushed forward and tried to seize the flag, but the young man knocked him down and he was trampled on.

Suddenly a shot rang out. A massacre seemed inevitable. But Major Campbell restrained his men in the barn. He told them, "I know you only as soldiers, and as such you can assemble only under the flag of your nation. The red flag was brought here to stir up angry feelings and to cause political strife. Disappoint the mischief makers, by dispersing quietly to your homes."

Seized Rebels' Flag

Most of the men obeyed him. But a dozen big-fisted hardheads decided to teach the Radicals a lesson. Two brothers named Cameron from Glengarry charged the rebels and seized their flag.

A one-sided fight started. There were only 12 Loyalists against some 80 Radicals. Led by the Cameron brothers screaming an old Highland war cry the Tories charged, scattering Radicals like ten pins. The brothers alone laid low a dozen men.

Before the savage onslaught, the Radicals wavered. But spurred on by Comfort Curtis, they stiffened and with the sheer weight of their number began to crush their enemy.

At sunset the little band, heads and bodies bruised and bloody withdrew. The elder Cameron was dragged unconscious from the field. None of the injuries, however, were fatal.

Staged Victory Parade

The rebels of Norham hoisted their flag, chaired Curtis and staged a victory parade.

In the winter of 1839 a court was set up to review the affair and the young man who had hit the sergeant was fined a small amount.

Curtis however escaped to Kingston hidden in an empty crate. From Kingston he crossed the ice to the United States where he remained until the storm blew over.

When he returned, he lived with his brother John, grandfather of C. H. Curtis. They built a brick house, the first in Percy township, with bricks made on their farm. Comfort never married.

Driver Suffers Skull Injuries

Skull injuries were received by Donald Edwards, of Lang, when his car was involved in a three-car accident Thursday evening at George and Lansdowne Sts. The accident happened at the Exhibition gate just prior to the Lucky Lott dare-devil drivers' show.

Hospital authorities say his condition is fair, but that the extent of head injuries will not be known until X-rays have been studied. Edwards also has a badly bruised left hip.

Harry Lemoire, 406 Sheridan St., was driving south on George St., stopped at Lansdowne, and pulled away, colliding with a west-bound auto driven by George Faulkner, 966 Logan Ave., Toronto.

Edwards' car, which was eastbound, collided with Faulkner's auto and was completely wrecked. Neither of the other two drivers was hurt, although Faulkner's wife suffered slight shock.

Lemoire was driving on a temporary permit.

Reciprocal Exchange Of Gas Discussed

WINDSOR, July 7 (CP) — The question of reciprocal exchange of natural gas between Canada and the United States was raised today by Mayor Arthur J. Reaume of Windsor.

Mayor Reaume said he will visit Calgary officials next week to get information on a possible export of western Canada gas to western states in exchange for imports of gas to southwestern Ontario.

The mayor said he hopes the Calgary talks will provide information which will enable him to approach officials in Washington and Ottawa to seek higher imports of gas at Windsor from the Texas fields.

He said there has been "much agitation" in Michigan to prevent sale of gas to southwestern Ontario until Michigan gas customers have been provided for.

Popular Head Draftsman Feted By CGE Associates

About 150 friends, work associates and company officials turned out Thursday night to mark the official retirement of one of the most popular men at the Peterborough CGE works—Frank Bowness, the chief draftsman.

Mr. Bowness, known to everybody in the department as "Bownie," has been with the Peterborough works since 1910, and for the past 23 years was head draftsman.

A bulging wallet was presented to him on behalf of his many friends and associates by G. E. Girven, assistant works manager. Harold Foster, welding engineer, made a second presentation on behalf of the drafting department.

The farewell dinner and brief ceremony were held in the Kawartha Room of the Empress Hotel. A committee under the direction of Max Metherel, assistant chief draftsman, organized the evening's entertainment.

Among the speakers were Alex Kennedy, divisional manager of the foundry, Davenport works; Gordon Myles, President of the foremen's association, and Edward Hardie, general foreman of the swithgear division.

Now that he is retired, Mr. Bowness will be able to relax and just loaf and fish at "Beau Nez," his summer home on Lake Chemong.

He received his early education in England and came to Canada in 1910. That year he joined the Peterborough works and he has remained there since. For some time he was also chairman of the pattern and casting committee for a number of years.

Pleads Guilty To Assaulting Young Woman

Two years' suspended sentence was given John Hill, 97 Robinson St., by Magistrate R. B. Baxter of Port Hope today when Hill pleaded guilty to assaulting Doris Carveth.

Miss Carveth, who appeared in court with two black eyes, said she and Hill, who is a married man, had "broken up" at the start of this week. Thursday night, she said, Hill called for her after work, and offered to drive her home.

"He didn't drive me home; he took me out into the country and was telling me off and hitting me as he drove. He wanted to know why we had broken up. I told him why earlier this week, but he still wanted to know," she testified.

Threatened Her

"Did he threaten you at all?" asked crown counsel John Bradshaw. "Yes. He said he'd get rid of me and my boyfriend if I didn't go back with him. I finally told him I'd go back with him when he took me home."

Magistrate Baxter asked her if she had said she'd go back with him only because of the pressure he put on her, and Miss Carveth said yes.

Hill told court he "hadn't slept all week" because he and Miss Carveth had broken up. He said they had broken up because they hadn't saved any money to get married.

"I suggested she turn me in, but she said she wouldn't," Hill said.

Mr. Bradshaw said he thought the court "can take cognizance of lovers' jealousy" and asked for suspended sentence.

His Worship put Hill on suspended sentence for two years on a bond of $100 not to bother Miss Carveth or her boyfriend.

Find No Push To Get Cars, Tires, Batteries

Car dealers and car parts sellers today spiked war scare rumors that people were buying up cars, tires and batteries because a shortage was on the way.

"It's just a lot of talk," said one used car salesman.

A car parts dealer said, "People are talking about it, they're not doing any buying."

One of the biggest sellers of car parts in town, including tires and batteries, said "There's been nothing above normal at all."

Many people in the city, with tire and gas rationing and car scarcity fresh in their minds from the last war apparently were beginning to panic when headlines once again screamed war news from Korea.

But there was no evidence that car and car parts dealers were deliberately starting rumors to stir up sales.

One car dealer said there had been the usual seasonal increase in car sales because of vacation time, but that was all.

The only sign that the war news was having an effect came from one of the city's largest dealers in used cars. He said he was finding it more difficult to buy cars for resale, both from private owners and from other car dealers.

"People seem to be hanging on for better prices because of the war news," he said.

But apparently, so far at least, it's all mostly talk.

Scientists Visit Magnetic Pole On Arctic Survey

OTTAWA, July 7 — CP) — A lumbering RCAF Canso aircraft will head northward from here today, carrying a crew of seven and two scientists on the fourth annual aerial expedition to the North Magnetic Pole.

The scientists—Ralph D. Hutchinson and Kenneth Whithan, of Toronto—said in an interview they will resume studies of the vagaries of the constantly shifting magnetic pole.

On the basis of information gathered since the expeditions began in 1947, the pole is moving at a rate of about 10 miles a year in a north-northwesterly direction.

The Magnetic Pole is an area rather than a precise point and is located on Prince of Wales Island, roughly centred at latitude 74 degrees north, longitude 96 west. This is almost directly north of Churchill, Man., about 1,000 miles from the true North Pole.

The polar area wanders during the day in about a 25 mile radius. During severe magnetic storms it may move erratically in 100-mile jumps around the rough location.

Affects Compasses

Any change in the position of the pole affects the reliability of compasses.

The expedition will rely on the sun and FO. D. L. Munroe, of Aylmer, Que., and Vancouver, to reach its various destinations. FO. Munroe, on his first trip into the north country, will serve as observer on the amphibious aircraft. Others in the crew are FO. A. G. Carswell, of Ottawa and Toronto, pilot; FO. F. W. Baril, of Ottawa, co-pilot; FO. G. O. Paynter, of Ottawa, radio officer; Sgt. A. B. Hillman, of Ottawa and Belleville, flight engineer; LAC. R. A. McClean, of Cyrville, Ont., and Moncton, N.B., flight mechanic; and LAC. W. E. Southcombe, of Ottawa and Sarnia, crewman.

Veterans of such trips are Sgt. Hillman and LAC. Southcombe, with three and two expeditions, respectively.

They will be gone for about six weeks and will fly an estimated 37,500 miles, putting down mainly on uncharted lakes far from civilization. The plane will be refuelled at various northern settlements.

PROF. CARLOS DELGADO DE CARVALHO of the University of Brazil, Rio de Janeiro, (CENTRE) was welcomed to Montreal recently when he was the guest of the University of Montreal and UNESCO officials in the Cercle Universitaire. He will direct the UNESCO seminar in geography at Macdonald College. LEFT to RIGHT are Dr. Leon Lortie of the University of Montreal, who is acting as administrative officer of the seminar, Professor de Carvelho, and Prof. Benoit Brouillette, University of Montreal geographer on loan to UNESCO, who flew from Paris to assist in arrangements.

700 Different Taxes Hanging Over Heads Of Poor Italian Folk

By ALEX VALENTINE

ROME, July 7 —(Reuters)—The Italian people are today saddled with an out-of-date system of taxation which in some cases demands payment of more money than is earned.

A visiting American businessman recently described its fiscal system as "exclusive, inequitable and foolish."

His words find echoes of agreement not only among taxpayers and the government opposition but from Finance Minister Ezio Vanoni himself. Vanoni said recently that he was working on an overhaul of the tax system which would demand more of the wealthy while easing the burden on the lower-bracket wage earners.

Excessive taxation has brought with it excessive tax evasion. Today the exceptional citizen of Italy is the man who pays all his taxes.

The present-day situation is the result of an haphazardly constructed taxation system. Fresh demands on the exchequer have been met by the imposition of fresh taxes. Since these are mainly indirect levies, the brunt, proportionately, has fallen mainly on the small wage earner.

There are some 700 different taxes hanging over the head of the Italian citizen. They include a tax for having crested silverware in the house, another for having servants and yet another for having a piano.

Every commercial transaction carried a four-per-cent government tax, every receipted bill demands three per cent.

By the calculations of one tax expert here, if a man of moderate income were to pay all his taxes, he would hand over 108 per cent of his income to the state.

The Italian businessmen, particularly the smaller ones, now indulge in a frantic whirl of underhand transactions and falsified tax returns to avoid the law.

The banks, too, are deprived of the use of an incalculable number of millions of lire through money being held in cash to avoid production of bank statements.

Another result of this excessive taxation liability is that it produces less than a more moderate system because there is so much evasion. Rich people often live in poor houses to avoid giving the tax inspectors any clue as to their real wealth.

Britain Refuses To Buy More Sugar

LONDON, July 7—(Reuters)—Britain has rejected a request from the West Indies and British Guiana to buy more sugar from them, the government announced Thursday night.

A joint statement from the Colonial Office and the Ministry of Food, giving this answer to the recent demands of a delegation from the West Indies and British Guiana, declared it has already been agreed to review the position in 1953.

The delegation had asked Britain to raise by 85,000 tons her offer to buy 640,000 tons of sugar between 1953 and 1957. The West Indies exports a total of 900,000 tons.

53 Forest Fires Burning In B.C.

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., July 7 —(CP)—Tinder-dry forests were ablaze in several British Columbia districts Thursday endangering timber stands.

Major fires were in north-central B.C., in the Prince George and Prince Rupert areas, 500 miles north of Vancouver.

Flames already have wiped out seven small sawmills, causing thousands of dollars damage in equipment and lumber stock piles near the forest village of Perow, 130 miles west of here. The fires forced evacuation of women and children from the village.

The forest service reported the Perow fires under control, but high winds threatened new danger.

There was a total of 53 fires burning in the province and 350 men were employed on fire lines.

One of the major blazes covered 600 acres near Punchaw Lake in the Prince George district. Fifty men were fighting the flames.

Nelson had 15 fires, several of which were started Wednesday by a lightning storm.

Weather Forecasting Complicated Many Things Govern "Probs"

By CAMERON JAMES.

TORONTO, July 7 —(CP)—A belief persists among Canadians that weather forecasts aren't as accurate now as they used to be.

Officials of the meteorological division of the Department of Transport say they are aware of the feeling. And they add that there's a logical explanation for complaints about their forecasts.

The explanation is linked with the expansion in the public weather service since the Second World War. Before the war, forecasts were phrased in general terms and covered areas as large as half a province. Now they are specific and sometimes cover areas no larger than a few square miles.

"The weatherman sticks his neck out every time he issues a forecast," says P. D. McTaggart-Cowan of Toronto, assistant controller of the meteorological division. "Today we forecast temperatures within a degree and predict rain for an area no larger than Toronto. There's nothing quite so wrong as the weather. When you call it close you're bound to be wrong occasionally."

Mr. McTaggart-Cowan says people are inclined to remember the mistakes and forget "the 80-per-cent or more of the time we forecast correctly."

A lot of training and experience goes into making a weather forecast.

Four times a day, seven days a week, 52 weeks a year, men step out of more than 1,000 reporting stations which dot Canada's 3,500,000 square miles and record the state of the weather.

Fast Work

In a few minutes their findings are speeding over 21,000 miles of teletype lines to clatter a cryptic series of figures on teleprinters in public weather offices in Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, Halifax and Gander, Nfld. In some outlying posts, observations are telephoned or telegraphed to the nearest transmission point on the teletype hook-up. Reports are received from ships hundreds of miles off shore in the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans.

As the reports appear on the teleprinter in each of the seven public weather offices, an observer seated before a blank map begins to plot the coded reports. At the end of an hour the map is covered with a mass of figures and symbols—the "shorthand" from which the forecast is finally made.

When the map is completed, the forecaster—usually a master of arts in physics—takes the map from the plotter. With deft pencil movements he traces in lines joining points of equal pressure. These curves which show the general pattern of high and low pressure are known as isobars.

Locates Fronts

From a study of these isobars he locates the fronts—the boundaries of various air masses on the map. Highs and lows are labelled, areas of rainfall shaded in and other notations made. About an hour after receiving the map the forecaster is about ready to forecast.

Before he begins, he must consult previous maps which tell him how fast and far the main pressure systems have moved during the last six, 12 or 24 hours. Is the air warmer or colder? Is it more, or less, moist? How is the air behaving at 20,000 feet.

His final move is to draw a prognostic chart—a map which indicates what the weather picture will look like at a given time in the future. Fronts are drawn in, so are isobars. Eventually a complete weather map begins to emerge—a map of the weather future of all North America.

Accuracy of this map depends largely on the skill of the weather forecaster and the period it covers. On short range forecasts he is right more than 90 per cent of the time; over longer periods his accuracy diminishes until at the end of a three-day period his forecast is little better than a scientifically-weighed guess.

Grenada Council Approves Federation

ST. GEORGE'S Grenada, Windward Islands, July 7 (AP)—By an 8-to-3 vote, the Grenada Legislative Council has become the first to approve a scheme for a British Caribbean federation which has the blessing of the British government.

T. A. Marryshow, known as "the father of Confederation," urged rejection of the plan because it did not include a recommendation for self-government. He termed the plan an "insulting form of colonialism outgrown by the West Indies—the oldest cluster of jewels in the British crown."

The federation would include British Guiana, Barbados, British Honduras, Jamaica, Antigua, St. Kitts-Nevis, Montserrat, Trinidad, Grenada, St. Vincent, St. Lucia and Dominica.

This would give the federation a population of more than 2,500,000.

Rain Repellent Works

FOREMAN RISKS ELECTROCUTION TO SAVE POWER WORKER'S LIFE

William L. Teare, of Desbarats, Ont., near Sault Ste. Marie, risks life after wire kills one man

1. A line crew of the Great Lakes Power Company was installing new power line conductors, near a line carrying 4600 volts. One conductor had been fastened and another was being pulled to position when something caused it to flip around into the live 4600 volt line! Foreman Teare shouted his men a warning.

2. But one man had already grabbed the line and was instantly paralyzed. Another headed towards him, and Teare, farther away, frantically yelled at him to stop. But he had already grabbed the first victim by the arm — and received such a severe shock that he couldn't let go! When Teare arrived, the first man had become unconscious, horribly burned.

3. With a quick blow to the shoulder, Teare knocked the second man free. At the same time he grabbed a dry glove and pulled the first man clear. Although suffering from bad burns himself, he applied artificial respiration until he knew there was no hope. Thanks to the cool courage of William L. Teare, one life at least was saved. He is fully deserving of The Dow Award.

CBC Sunday Hour Well-Planned Worship Period

By GLENNE CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

..."All people that on earth do dwell..."

For six months that familiar and well-loved hymn has been an invitation to many Canadians each Sunday to "...come before Him and rejoice"—to participate in what is one of the most polished and workmanlike religious programs on the airways today, the CBC's National Sunday Evening Hour.

For three-quarters of an hour each Sunday night, from 7.00 to 7.45, listeners on the Trans-Canada network have heard about the varied trends of thought of present-day religion, treated with dignity and "giving expression and new emphasis to values that human experience has proved to be ageless and fundamental."

The project was first proposed during a series of meetings some 18 months ago with the National Religious Advisory Council.

In spite of the co-operation of the council, church bodies and other groups, there was doubtless some trepidation as the CBC decided to sponsor this undenominated program of worship, centred around addresses by distinguished clergy and laymen.

Filled Need

Now that it has weathered its first season, there is little doubt that the program has filled a definite need in Canadian homes.

Although intended for everybody, the program has had its best results in the more remote areas of the Dominion, where many persons have little opportunity to attend regular services. That it has succeeded is reflected by the many letters of congratulations and praise received, many from these isolated places and individuals.

Choice Radio Spot

The importance that the CBC placed on the program can be seen in the bare fact that it has allocated one of the choicest of radio times to it—that time after the big Sunday family dinner when everybody is at peace with the world.

Infinite care has been taken to make the service dignified, correlating hymns and scripture-readings with prayers and addresses. Great care is also taken in selecting speakers for the 20-minute inspirational addresses by and for Canadians of all faiths.

That "all faiths" is no empty term. In its first season, the program included clergy and laymen of the United, Presbyterian, Anglican, Baptist, Roman Catholic, Jewish, Lutheran and Christian Science churches, the Salvation Army and one undenominational speaker.

Have Rehearsal

The program is broadcast from Stewarton United Church in Ottawa and has a regular congregation. A choir of 40 voices, including 20 professional singers, takes part each week. That polished result is given the program by a regular split-second rehearsal the afternoon preceding each broadcast.

During the summer the addresses are being discontinued. But that much-covered 7.00 p.m. radio spot isn't looking for a second-rate comedy show to pep up Sunday evenings. For the months of July and August, the program is continuing, presenting familiar hymns and choral presentations by the choir. If possible, there will be the occasional visiting speaker.

Ernest Morgan a well-known light opera producer and narrator, planned and organized the series on behalf of the religious broadcasting department of the CBC.

May Lose Tails

GUELPH, July 7 (CP)—Bobtailed mink may become the fashion on fur farms as a result of research at the Ontario Veterinary College here. Breeders reported that many animals had become nervous and were biting their tails. Dr. R. Kennedy found that the tails of all the ailing mink had been accidentally broken, causing a small deformity which irritated the animals. He amputated the tails above the break and the mink calmed down and started to eat again.

Stewart Film Gives Feud Another Push

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 7 (AP)—The longtime feud between the movies and radio gets another push by a new picture starring Jimmy Stewart.

The flicker is called "The Jackpot" and it concerns an unhappy gent who wins one of those grand prizes on a radio giveaway show. Let Stewart tell about him:

"Oh, he's a miserable guy. The poor fellow lifts the phone one evening and supplies the correct answer for the jackpot. That's when his trouble begins.

"The prize is worth $24,000, but it's all in merchandise. The guy gets 1,000 fruit trees, thousands of cans of soup, a whole side of beef and a deep-freeze to put it in, a pony, a portable swimming pool, the use of a French maid for two weeks, Alan Mowbray to redecorate his house and Patricia Medina to paint his portrait.

Income Tax

"Then the sad character finds out he's got to pay income tax on the stuff, amounting to $7,000. He's working at a midwest department store for $4,500 a year, so he's got to raise the money. He tries to sell the stuff at the store and loses his job.

"He tries to fence a diamond ring in Chicago and gets himself arrested. And his wife leaves him because she thinks he's playing around with Patricia Medina. I'm telling you, the poor mug is in trouble."

Naturally, all turns out well in the end, but only after a number of laughs at radio's expense.

Vast Expansion In Sarnia's Chemical Valley

SARNIA — Expansion of Sarnia's chemical valley within the next few years will total close to 80 million dollars, it was revealed today with disclosure that both Polymer Corporation and Imperial Oil Company have purchased substantial blocks of the south Sarnia properties.

Expansion Linked

Expansion by the two firms is said to be linked closely with the completion of the interprovincial pipe line from Leduc to Superior, Wisconsin, and the Susquehanna pipe line from just south of Toledo to Froomfield.

The latter will pipe crude into Sun Oil's proposed new $20,000,000 refinery to be erected on a site acquired several years ago occupied by the old Dominion Alloy and Steel Corporation.

Canadian terminal of the pipe line is in the vicinity where Canadian Oil Companies of Petrolia have options of some 400 acres for the purpose of building a huge new refinery valued at around $20,000,000.

Polymer Corporation for some time past has been unable to meet demands of its export and domestic trade due to a shortage of raw materials and extended facilities to manufacture rubber products.

Several of its experts have been studying conditions in Europe as well as methods. Included are some of its top engineers who are expected to make reports to their Crown company upon their return this week.

Polymer gets its present raw material "light ends" or a liquid gas from Imperial Oil, and by tank car from Sun Oil's plant in Toledo.

Huge Refinery

Establishment of a huge refinery in the Sarnia area would make possible direct supply of light ends to Polymer. Canadian Oil Companies would also be in a position to meet the demand.

In order to meet competition and also have a market for its excess light ends, Imperial Oil has apparently found it necessary to expand.

Foulkes Doesn't Expect Third War

MONTREAL, July 7—(CP)—Lieut.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, chief of the General Staff of the Canadian Army, said Thursday the present Korean incident is unlikely to lead to third world war unless Soviet Russia planned the incident purposely to start a war.

Speaking before a Richelieu Club luncheon, Gen. Foulkes said there is yet, however, no evidence of Russia's determination to start a war with the invasion of South Korea.

"This incident is more likely a good try to call the bluff of the United Nations to see what reaction it would have to Russian methods of expansion."

He said Russia was careful not to use Soviet troops directly in the operation, and, if it fails, would not lose face and could proclaim Russia had no part in the affair.

Gen. Foulkes said it was his opinion that since the attack came when the weather usually precludes intense air operations, the aggressor thought South Korea "would have been completely overrun within a week and they could have faced the United Nations with a fait accompli."

But he thought the immediate united action of the United Nations will serve as a serious deterrent to any additional Soviet-inspired incidents aimed at furthering Soviet expansion.

Bricklayers Get Wage Demand, Strike Averted

TORONTO, July 7. — Under pressure from a group of members who declined to face a shutdown of their construction projects, the Toronto Builders' Exchange Thursday conceded the wage demands of the AFL Bricklayers' Union, thus averting a city-wide construction strike scheduled for this morning.

The 11th-hour settlement made in the presence of Labor Minister Daley and Chief Conciliation Officer Louis Fine give the bricklayers a 15-cent increase this year and an addition five cents next year. The two-year agreement, which will bring the final rate to $2 an hour, also provides cost-of-living protection on the basis of a five-cents-an-hour increase in pay for every five-point rise in the index above 165.

T. F. Beattie, chairman of the exchange's labor relations committee, said Thursday night the increase to the bricklayers, and subsequent increases for other trades, will wipe out any profit, and in some cases may mean a loss to contractors and sub-contractors with projects under way.

Defections In Ranks

After firmly resisting union demands for wage boosts of more than 10 cents an hour—the figure which the exchange had offered—the exchange was forced to give in because of defections within its own ranks.

The exchange made a last minute proposition of 10 cents this year and an additional ten next year, but that this had been rejected Mr. Beattie said.

The boost of 15 cents an hour is retroactive to May 1 and will give an average of $50 in back pay to each of the bricklayers under agreement.

Union Business Agent William Jenovese issued a call to all bricklayers to remain at their job this morning in view of the settlement. He also expressed his appreciation to Mr. Daley and Mr. Fine for their efforts at setting the dispute.

Seek Health Insurance Plan To Please All Australians

By LOUIS L. LECK

SYDNEY, Australia —(CP)— Australia is still seeking a medical benefits scheme which will satisfy everybody, or nearly everybody.

The scheme proposed by the Labor government last year was boycotted by the British Medical Association in Australia. Certain clauses were held unconstitutional by the high court and the plan died a natural death.

Now Health Minister Sir Earle Page of the Coalition government has outlined another scheme. With only the briefest explanation of it, several sections of the public and the pharmacists are strongly opposed.

Accepts Principles

The BMA, however, has accepted the main principles.

Briefly, they are:

1. Free provision of "life-saving" drugs (undefined, but probably including penicillin, the sulfa-drugs and insulin.)

2. A government subsidy for medical attention insurance.

3, Administration of the scheme through fraternal societies and medical insurance organizations.

Must Join Society

Few details of the proposal have been disclosed, but it is believed a person wishing to participate will have to join a society or insurance organization, paying about 3s. (45 cents) a week.

The society, with the help of the government subsidy, will pay up to 90 per cent of the member's medical bills. The remainder will be paid by the member, to avoid a certain amount of abuse and waste.

In addition to his weekly payment to the society, the individual will continue to pay his social service tax, originally intended for the Labor party plan and continued when the plan folded.

Most public protests to the new scheme are based on the idea that the social service tax should be enough to secure the benefits without the need of a weekly insurance payment as well. There also appears to be an aversion to disclosing details of medical attention to fraternal organizations.

The pharmacists are greatly opposed to the plan because, they say, it will give dispensaries run by the fraternal societies an unfair advantage.

Sir Earl Page defends the scheme on two grounds. He says it is assured the support of the medical association. It also emphasizes self-help by forcing the individual to assume part of the cost.

He says his plan will emphasize preventive steps, such as diet and X-ray examinations for the early detection of tuberculosis.

He claims these are more important than pills and potions.

But as it stands now, the scheme is not going to be accepted unopposed.

Fashion Flashes

GAINING MOMENTUM in popularity is the velveteen topper for wear with the sheers this summer. A short-flared topper with wide-cuffed, push-up sleeves and slanting double-breasted closing below a club collar, looks good in navy blue or dark red velveteen as well as in black.

✧ ✧ ✧

FIRMLY ENTRENCHED in popular favor is the bare-top, strapless dress with its cover-up agent, generally a brief bolero. Silk tussah in deep marine blue with a hand-blocked design of flying birds, leaves and flowers in black, white and green, has a crushed midriff and a halter top in white. The printed tussah bolero is curved and has short sleeves with wide cuffs.

✧ ✧ ✧

ALMOST ANYTHING goes with navy, which helps to make it so popular. Navy and yellow is a particularly bright and fresh color scheme. Bright yellow candy straw for a high-crowned sailor, and wide navy velvet crown band studded with tiny violets, yellow buds and sequined butterflies.

✧ ✧ ✧

INCREASING in importance is the black and white theme for summer wear. A very open lacy straw bonnet with a curvey, forward-posed brim is in dazzling white set off by a black velvet band and long back streamers. Nice with black or white sheers.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE RIGHT BAG is a big aid when assembling an outfit. Softly handled silk bags are good with afternoon clothes, a bag such as a new draped faille pouch, black or navy, with a frame top of big white enamel daisies with yellow centers. One daisy makes the hanging clasp.

✧ ✧ ✧

DOUBLE DUTY costumes are a boon for budgets and for travel wear. Black and brown silk in a tiny check make a street-length dress with deep scoop neckline and brief sleeves. With it a rippled peplum jacket, rhinestone buttoned up to a high neckline, with a little flat white pique collar.

✧ ✧ ✧

DON'T SNOOT the tailored rayon suit just because it is so reasonably priced. It is a grand traveler, splendid for general daytime wear, cool, sag-and-wrinkle resistant and dresses up or down beautifully with the right complements. Nice in monotones, checks, shadowy pleats, stripes—a nice variety from which to choose.

✧ ✧ ✧

COMING IN strong is the low-necked suit, following its acceptance at the Paris showings. Navy worsted for a softly tailored suit with scooped neckline flanged by narrow folds of the suit fabric. With it a rhinestone-buttoned shirtwaist blouse of white pique.

✧ ✧ ✧

WINNING WAYS of the bright red straw hat make it a favorite. Bright red smooth straw for a nice little hat with a cuff brim that ends in a side flange. Brim is piped in navy velvet and the flange is finished with scroll piping and little navy silk tassels.

✧ ✧ ✧

A NEWCOMER to the cardigan group is the embroidered version. Nice for evening is a cardigan of black boucle yarn with embroidered motifs in gold thread outlined with tiny rhinestones.

Brides Approve Faint Color Tints

NEW YORK.—A smart ankle-length wedding dress for an informal wedding is quite like a two-piece evening dress with a jacket. Imported French Chantilly lace is stretched smoothly over a satin base-fitted strapless bodice, flared skirt and fitted jacket. This ensemble can be worn with a half-hat or Juliet cap with sheer tulle shoulder veil. The dress comes in white, ivory, in ice blue, and in the palest bluish pink—and the satin slippers and tulle veil reflect the color.

The introduction of these faint, faint color tints in bridal costumes appears to be meeting with approval, particularly for evening weddings, when a little color seems to give added vibrancy to the bride, yet in no way interferes with the gay colors of the bridesmaids' gowns.

Marmora Couple Celebrate 55th Anniversary

MARMORA, July 7 (ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Potts Monday celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary at the residence of their daughter, Mrs. T. E. Pritchard, in Peterborough.

The event they were celebrating took place on July 3rd, 1895, at the home of Mrs. Potts' parents Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Walker in Gilmour. Rev. J. M. White who was stationed at St. Ola as Methodist minister at that time performed the ceremony.

Their attendants were Richard Hinchcliffe still residing at Gilmour and Tillie Danford now living in retirement at Madoc following many years in the mission field of the Standard Church in China.

Mr. Potts was born at Harold in Rawdon Township, son of William Potts and Anne Barnum, who came to Canada from Aberdeen. He is descended from two captains in the British Army who came to Canada to take part in the American war. His paternal grandfather was Capt. Thomas Potts and his maternal grandfather Capt. Ephraim Barnum. He was named after both of them.

Mr. Potts' life has been active and varied. He worked for the Pearce Co. for 13 years and then six years for the Deloro Smelting and Refining Co. Ltd. The next three years he managed their boarding house.

Until his retirement a few years ago, he was the proprietor of four hotels He owned the St. James Hotel, Marmora and the Royal Hotel, Marmora for nine years each.

He then took over the Tipperary Hotel, Crowe Lake, for five years and finally Huycke's Hotel in Tweed for six years.

He served four years on Marmora village council and four years on the Public School Board. He also helped promote the Marmora Continuation School, forerunner of the present school. He is one of the senior members of St. Andrews' United Church and the oldest member of LOL 319 which he joined July 11, 1896. He was Worshipful Master of the Lodge in 1908 and later, District Master for many years. He has also been an Oddfellow.

Mrs. Potts as Ada Walker came to Gilmour with her parents from Sheffield, England, as a girl. She is not only known for her ability as a cook but inherited her mother's talent at needlework. She still has an example of her mother's work. On a sampler, Mrs. Walker worked out the pattern of a picture in which Laban is promising the hand of his daughter Rachel to Jacob.

Some pictures of Mrs. Potts work are hung in the living room of their home. Mrs. Potts has been a member of St. Andrew's Women's Association for many years. When the Glee Club was formed a few years ago, she became a member.

She was the first Worshipful Mistress of Harmony L.O.B.A. 600, and is a member of the Tweed Rebecca Lodge.

Among the prized family heirlooms is a copper ash tray beautifully engraved on which is inscribed the picture of a ship and these words: "This article is warranted to be made of copper from the ship Foudroyant." The history of this ship is not known.

An old Bible with an inscription "John Fould's, 1802," is another prized possession.

Of seven children born to Mr. and Mrs. Potts, five are living today: Mrs. Wilbert Bedore (Mary), Marmora; Gerald, Cobourg; Mrs. Thomas E. Pritchard (Gertie), Peterborough; Clayton, Marmora and Mrs. Thomas Dickson (Myrtle), Picton. There are also 14 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Potts celebrated their 55th anniversary quietly with a three-day visit to their daughter in Peterborough.

Sets New Style

LONDON, July 7 (AP)—Princess Margaret set the smart set a-talking today with a revival of the old fashioned posy. At last night's English folks song and dance ball, the Princess carried a small posy of flower petals edged with rows of lace. It was just like the ones grandma used to wear on Sundays.

DOROTHY DIX

Stepfathers Often Unsung Heroes of Small Families

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Why does no one ever give any praise to stepfathers? All that they do is taken for granted. No one ever gives them any thanks or appreciation, not even their wives. I was 15 years old when my father died. Four years later my mother married again. There were still a couple of young children to raise and an invalid sister to be taken care of. My stepfather took over another man's burden like the good sport he was. Never complained. It was just like Heaven to have a home again after being knocked around the world for four years.

Dorothy Dix

He has been dead for five years now but there is not a day that goes by that I do not think about him with love and gratitude. Thank God for stepfathers.—B. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I am glad to print this tribute to a Forgotten Man who has never received his just meed of praise. For if there is a he-angel in the world, it is surely the good stepfather.

Step-Parent's Job Difficult

It is a difficult job to be a stepparent of either sex. But it has always seemed to me that the stepfather had a harder lot and one that called for more self-sacrifice and self-abnegation than the stepmother. For the woman who marries a widower with children at least improves her condition to the extent of getting a home and a husband to support her, whereas the stepfather simply sells himself into slavery to the woman he marries and her children. Also in any dispute between the in-laws and the children the stepmother is pretty sure to have the sympathy and support of her husband, while, on the contrary, the mother is certain to side with the children against the stepfather and resent his every effort to control them.

About the most superlative proof of love that any human being is capable of giving is exemplified in a man's marrying a widow with children. For he knows that he is letting himself in for every one of the drawbacks of family life, with few, if any, of the ameliorations. He knows that he will always run a poor second to the children in his wife's affection, and while he might not resent t[illegible] if they were his own children [illegible] superman not to be jealous of rivals who are a perpetual reminder of their father to his wife.

DEAR MISS DIX: What are the advantages of marriage? I am contemplating the step, but find only discouragement from almost every one. Should a girl of 26 marry a man a few months younger? I don't want to be considered a cradle-snatcher. The young man in question is very considerate and thoughtful and has every indication of making a good husband. WORRIED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The fact that the young man is a few months younger than you are certainly wouldn't put you in the cradle-snatcher class. If he were twenty or thirty years younger, that would be something else again.

The principal advantage for a woman in marriage is that unless she tries it once, at least, she is never satisfied and she goes through life thinking that she has missed the best thing in it. Men can rejoice in being old bachelors and thank heaven for their single blessedness, but I doubt if there ever was a really happy and contented old maid.

Another advantage of marriage is that the average married woman is better off financially than the average single woman. But the greatest adventure of all in marriage is that it gives a meaning and object in life to women. It is the fulfilling of the career for which they were destined. It gives work for their hands, interest for their minds, an outlet for their affections.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have been disputing about which a husband should love the more, his wife or his mother. What do you say? S. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Why don't you argue about which you like better, roast beef or ice cream? The one taste no more conflicts with the other than the love a man has for his wife and his mother. You can comfort yourself, however, with this thought: That if your husband hadn't loved you in a different way from the way he loved his mother he never would have married you.

Canadian Red Cross Society Has New Home Nursing Book

By KAY REX

The Canadian Red Cross Society's new home nursing manual is a "must" for every household—particularly where there are children.

What to do in case of accidents—everything from treatment for frostbites to how to bathe baby is contained in this 200-page volume which the Red Cross says will have real meaning only if studied in conjunction with a course of instruction which consists largely of demonstration and practice.

The society's first reference book came out in 1923 at the time of the organization's plan to provide elementary instruction for homemakers in the care of the sick in the home.

Since then the book has been revised several times and in this latest revision it has been completely rewritten.

Mention is made in the preface of the Red Cross nursing services department which has gradually evolved a flexible program of home nursing instruction designed to meet the needs of both urban and rural communities in Canada.

Loan Cupboards

To further promote home care for the sick, equipment also has been made available to home nurses and other members of the public by the establishment of sickroom supply loan cupboards in Red Cross branches throughout the country.

While the value of expert care given by professionally trained workers cannot be over-estimated, instruction of lay workers in home nursing develops volunteer service which greatly aids the professional worker, Helen G. McArthur, director of nursing services for the society, says in the preface to the book.

Voluntary Aid

Instruction of lay workers in home nursing also encourages the understanding and development of public health programs in the community. Thus many nurses through Red Cross, voluntarily have given of their time and skill to teach Canadian women how to become more resourceful in caring for the sick, handicapped and aged in their own families.

Care of the sick and the aged is dealt with in this book which is made the more interesting through introduction of the activities of the hypothetical Harper family at the beginning of each chapter.

Four-year-old Linda Harper awakens during the night with the tummy-ache and her mother after checking Linda's temperature calls the doctor.

Instructions continue from there: "The signs of an oncoming illness are not always readily noticeable...it is unfair...to telephone the doctor for every little ache and pain, but it is also unfair to wait to call him until the illness has progressed far beyond its normal degree of severity."

Discusses Symptoms

This particular chapter deals with symptoms of illness and how to read a thermometer.

One of the brightest bits in the book is Mrs. Harper's special recipe for health:

"Take one individual any age, add daily, three balanced meals; six to eight hours restful sleep.

Garnish with good measures of purposeful exercise; pleasurable recreation; wholesome thinking; fresh air and sunshine.

Flavor with soap, water and toothpaste.

Safeguard by: regular medical examinations; immunization against preventable diseases; cooperation with health department to provide healthful environment."

Spanish Child Musical Prodigy

MADRID —(Reuters)— A 7-year-old Catalan girl, named Leonora Mila, is being hailed in Spain as a child musical prodigy and, in the words of the newspaper "ABC," "perhaps the most precocious composer since Mozart."

Leonora, after barely a year's training in music and piano-playing, played piano works by Mozart, Bach, Schubert and Beethoven at a concert in the Palacio de la Musica at Barcelona early this year. She concluded the program with some of her own compositions.

"ABC" commenting recently on her performance, stated: "The ease with which she produces her musical works is amazing. She has a really artistic temperament and her compositions have earned the enthusiasm of the public and the critics.

"The famous musical authority, Father Donostia, asked Leonora if she could improvise something on the call of the cuckoo. She went straight to the piano and played a composition which she has repeated exactly many times since then.

"Father Donostia was so moved that he exclaimed: 'It is a miracle.'

Follows Own Style

"Now at the age of seven, she is having a solid education in piano playing, harmony and composition. But she still has her own system of writing music which is quite incomprehensible to other people."

The story of how her musical career began was summed up by the "ABC" as follows:

"When she was six and had no musical training whatever, Leonora told her parents after listening to a piano recital one day: 'I have a little tune in my head.'

"With practice, she was able to play the tune on the piano. So her career began."

That episode took place in 1949. Then the conductor of the Barcelona Municipal Orchestra, Maestro Eduardo Toldra, interested himself in the child and her musical career began in earnest. His orchestra was the first to play one of her compositions.

Fathers-to-be Get Course In Fathercraft

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, NZ —(CP)— New Zealand's Plunket Society, which has long given courses in mothercraft for prospective mothers, has now started courses in fathercraft for fathers-to-be.

New Zealand has the lowest infant mortality rate in the world and much of the credit is officially given to the Plunket Society. Its work for the care of infants and its pre-natal and post-natal guidance to a large proportion of all the mothers in the country, have made it known throughout the world. Its principles have been widely adopted in many countries.

But fathercraft is a new departure.

Starts It Off

It started when a young naval officer became so interested in the instruction being given to his wife before their baby came that he asked if he could go along to the lectures too. Other fathers showed an equal interest and eventually Sister Nancy Clayton, who was conducting the course of lessons, decided to hold a class at the end of each session for mothers-to-be for the husbands of those attending.

A further step came when a father who had attended a course consented to act as demonstrator. What is more he brought his own baby alone to demonstrate on, though he modestly informed the prospective fathers that neither he nor his son had "any technical proficiency." He said he had come along because he wanted to show other young men what fun it could be to bathe one's own baby.

The lectures include instruction on clothing for babies, preparation of food, handling of babies and other information on subjects with which young fathers are likely to be called upon to cope.

South Koreans Wanted To Invade North

By NEA Service.

CHICAGO (NEA). — To three young missionaries, just back from South Korea, the key to the Republic's early withdrawals is the armored forces used by the North Korean Reds.

Before the outbreak of the fighting, says Youth for Christ missionary Bob Finley, the South Koreans were confident of superiority over the North.

"In fact," he adds, "they wanted to invade North Korea, but the U.S. wouldn't let them."

The invasion itself opened the eyes of the South Koreans, because the Communists used Russian tanks.

"They didn't expect the tanks—that's something new in Korea," Finley says.

• • •

He and two other missionaries Bob Pierce and ex-track star Gil Dodds, toured the Orient. Finley just finished a two-month speaking trip through South Korea before his return.

"I'm afraid there's no backing out," he says. "Even if the South Koreans retake what they've lost, they'll want to invade North Korea."

He points out that the Korean likes to fight, and especially in defense of his newly-born liberty. They have become passionately fond of freedom, he says, since their first taste of it.

The three missionaries found South Korea a fertile ground for their teachings. They claim to have found a greater spiritual response in South Korea than could be found anywhere else in the world. In Seoul, for example, the churches have a daily prayer meeting at five in the morning. These meetings draw crowds in the thousands.

• • •

But the key point that the situation in North Korea is quite different.

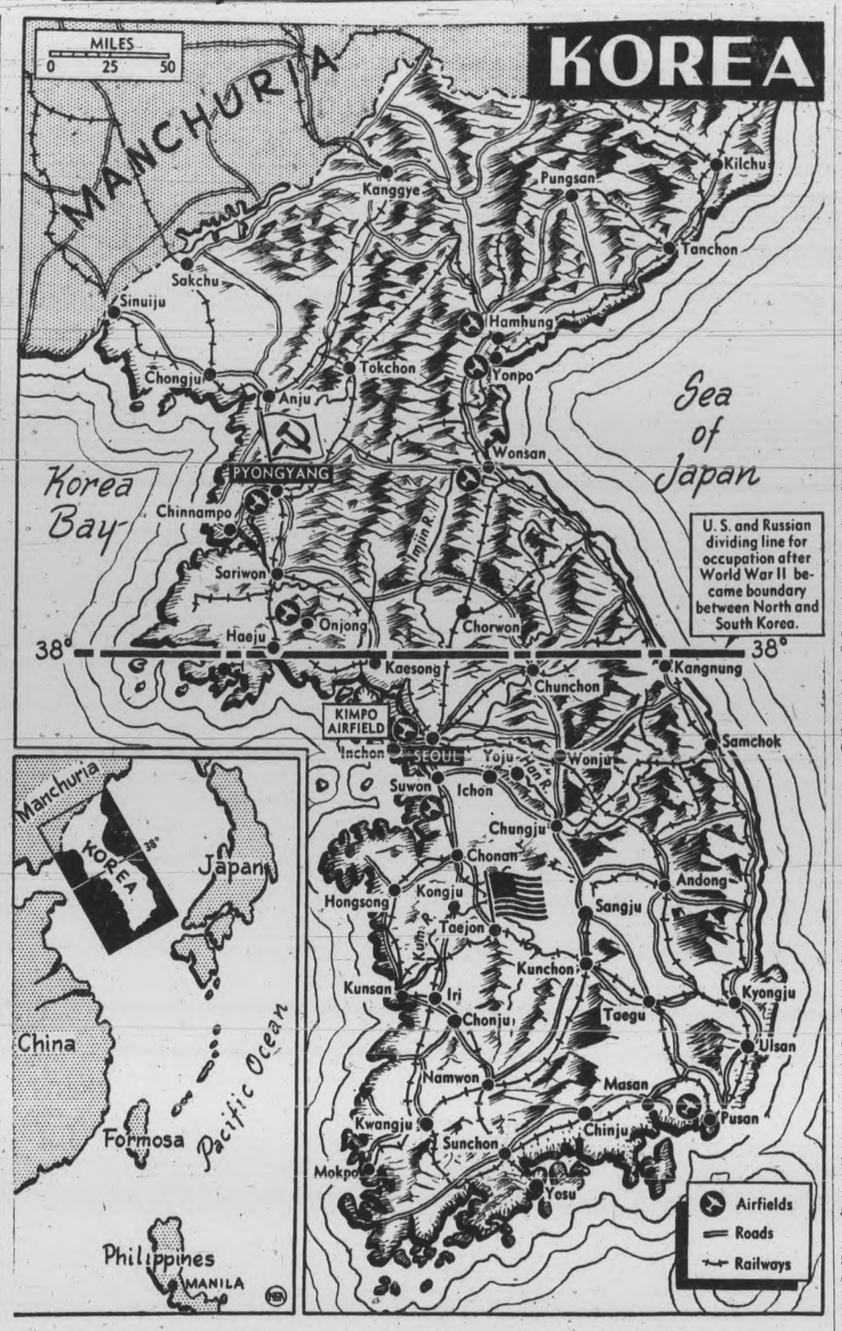
Before World War II ended, North Korea was becoming Christianized. But, says Finley, "Then the pastors were pressed and fled to the south."

South Korea, of course, benefitted from the migration of the pastors.

"Then came a great upsurge of Christianity in South Korea. There has never been anything like it in the history of Korea.

"Now there is a strong pro-American feeling everywhere in South Korea. Just two years ago the students were more than 90 per cent Communist," Finley says.

With his colleagues, Finley conducted revival meetings throughout South Korea. In the largest cities, schools were dismissed so the pupils could attend. At one, a crowd of 60,000 came out. President Syngman Rhee gave the meetings his support.



RUGGED BATTLEGROUND—The Newsmap ABOVE points up the extremely mountainous nature of the Korean battleground where American troops are fighting Communist invaders. Its vast tracts of craggy wilderness, ideal for guerrilla activity, make the former "Hermit Kingdom" one of the toughest spots on the globe for a modern war. Clip this map and use it to follow news of the action in Korea.

Windsor Will Discuss Civil Defence Body

WINDSOR, July 7 —(CP)—A civil defence organization to operate in Windsor in the event of a wartime emergency will be discussed at a meeting of civic officials, business and industrial leaders and military officers.

Mayor Arthur J. Reaume said some precautionary measures should be taken to ensure protection of the city's industrial strength.

Mayor Reaume said he has written a letter to Health Minister Martin, member of parliament for Essex East, asking for "all the information possible" on the question of defence.

Commission Approves Passenger Fare Hike

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission today approved new increases in railroad passenger commutation fares for four eastern railroads.

The increases, averaging 21 to 25 per cent, will apply to interstate commutation travel in six states.

Under the order, the rate boosts may be made effective July 15. They are estimated to involve $1,500,000 a year in increased fares in the area involved.

The authority for upward revisions was issued to the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Reading Company, the Baltimore and Ohio, and the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines on commutation services in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Ohio and West Virginia.

Four Detroit Boats Enter Trophy Contest

WINDSOR, July 7 (CP)—The field entered in tomorrow's powerboat race for the Maple Leaf International Trophy has been narrowed to four definite contenders.

All are Detroit boats and all are considered to have a good chance of winning the second running of the Maple Leaf, a three-heat 45-mile grind on the Detroit River in front of the Windsor Yacht Club, sponsor of the race.

The boats are Such Crust I, Such Crust II, My Sweetie and Delphine X.

The Such Crust boats are owned by Jack Schaefer of Detroit. Horace E. Dodge, of the Detroit auto family, owns the other two. Both men said their boats are definite starters.

Hotel Strikers Vote To Return To Work

CORNWALL, July 7—(CP)—Striking members of Cornwall Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union (CIO) voted Thursday to return to work today, ending their 17-week-old walk-out against eight city hotels. Basis of a settlement was not announced in the joint statement issued following a meeting of union members and hotel officials.

The strike was called last March 9 in a dispute over wages and union recognition. Picket lines have been maintained since then around hotels.

Establish New Record In Car Output, Sales

WINDSOR, July 7 (CP) — A six-month record for output and sales of its cars and trucks was announced today by the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited.

The company said it made and sold more vehicles in the first six months of 1950 than in any previous half-year in its history.

Rhys M. Sale, company president, said production in the six months was 28 per cent greater than in the same period of 1949. The company has turned out 72,553 vehicles, he said, as against last year's record total for 12 months of 112,130 vehicles.

Cavan Arranges Fire Protection

MILLBROOK, July 7—(ENS)—The Cavan township council will pay the Millbrook Fire Department's bills for fighting fires in the township only when the township clerk or some member of the township council has ordered the fire truck out, the council decided Tuesday.

There had been trouble in the past, said members of the council, in finding out just who had called out the Millbrook fire department for any particular fire.

The township council okayed a request by Roy Lough and Herb Seeney, representatives of St. John's Church, Ida, for a culvert in front of the church. The council said it would support the church when it asked the County Road Commission for the culvert because the church is on a county road.

Two bylaws, one setting the public school rates and the other fixing a bonus for wire fences, were introduced and given three readings, making them law.

A motion by Deputy Reeve Olan, seconded by Councillor McKnight authorized the Road Superintendent and the County Weed Inspector to spray $250 worth of weedkiller along the township roadsides.

The road superintendent was also authorized to arrange with William Dean to cut down roadside weeds.

The following accounts were ordered paid: Docon Telephones Ltd., $3.75; Dr. G. M. Longfield, $30; Mirror - Reporter, second quarter printing, $47.25; W. A. Reid, metallic ceiling, $1.50; T. G. Shield, half expenses to convention, $20.25; town hall account, six months, $112.20; four relief payments amounting to $80; P. I. Bentley, salary, $50; C. D. Sanderson, paint, plastering and labor $76.35; Council fees, $28; A. J. Strange, pictures, $15; treasurer of roads, pay sheet and voucher, $1,630.25.

The next meeting of the council will be Aug. 2.

Delivery Man Dead In Overturned Car

STRATFORD, July 7—(CP)—Roy Cook of nearby Nithburg, delivery man for a bread company, was found dead today in his overturned automobile in Trout Creek a few miles south of here. Death was believed due to drowning.

Police said marks on the ground indicated he missed a narrow bridge over the creek, driven over the abutment and into the water.

A post-mortem will be held today.

Immigrant Killed

WINDSOR, July 7. — (CP). — John Byrne, 38-year-old Irish immigrant, was killed Thursday night when the car in which he was riding struck a hydrant following a collision with another car. Byrne was thrown from the car and landed on his head on a curb. He died in hospital shortly after.

RCAF Operates Rescue Service Distressed Ships

OTTAWA, July 7 (CP)—A unified rescue service for distressed ships in waters off Canada has been decided upon by the Federal Government.

Announcement of the new plan, which involves co-ordinating existing government ship services through the RCAF, is expected shortly in a joint statement by Transport Minister Chevier and Defense Minister Claxton.

Adoption of the scheme means the government has ruled definitely against the establishment of a separate coastguard, such as east and west coast members of parliament have been urging for years.

The plan, approved by cabinet recently, calls for the use of all vessels in several government departments and agencies, which will be put under the single command of the RCAF for purposes of search and rescue of ships in trouble.

Ships to be used in the new service are those of the Transport, Resources and Fisheries departments, the navy and RCAF, and the seagoing branch of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Extra Police Guarding Plant

LONDON, Ont., July 7 (CP)—Police reinforcements were placed at the strike-bound Empire Brass plant today to prevent a recurrence of Wednesday's mass demonstration and violence.

An extra squad car and four officers stood by while two regular police constables patrolled the picket lines this morning as non union employees arrived for work.

The picketing, however, has been without incident since Wednesday's stormy demonstration when company officials and non-union workers at the plant were showered with rocks and eggs.

Meanwhile the 450 strikers, members of Local 2699, United Steelworkers (CIO-CCL) face a company ultimatum to return to work by next Wednesday or lose their jobs. The strike now is in its 51st day.

Red-Controlled Union Bans War Shipments

SYDNEY, Australia, July 7 — (AP)—The Communist-controlled Federal executive of the Australian Seamen's Union decided today that Australian merchant seamen will not transport war materials to Korea.

A resolution adopted by the executive, said in part:

"The Seamen's Union condemns the dictatorial decision of (Prime Minister Robert) Menzies ordering Australian naval seamen to submit to orders from the United States in its blatant armed interference in the domestic affairs of the Korean people. They will mobilize opposition to Menzies' aims to make Australia an American colony."

Scientists Study Volcanic Action

AUKLAND, NZ —(CP)— The belief held by some United States scientists that there is a connection between Hawaiian volcanoes and those of New Zealand, more than 4,000 miles away, has been supported following the recent eruption of Mauna Loa on Hawaii Island.

Within a fortnight of the start of the Mauna Loa activity, New Zealand's 7,515-foot volcano Ngauruhoe became active and sent shots of steam and smoke several hundred feet into the sky. A few days late the neighboring volcano, 917-foot Ruapehu, also began sending up shots. Ngauruhoe frequently bursts into minor eruption, with a major display every few years, but Ruapehu only very rarely erupts.

Since then the activity has become more general. Ruapehu has thrown out quantities of black ash, covering the snow on the northern slopes of the mountain, and a new area of steam vents has appeared near the summit of Ngauruhoe. Tongariro, the third volcano in this group, which is in the centre of the north island, has also shown greatly increased activity in several of its small craters and vents.

4 Men Charged With Leaving Nails On Road

LONDON, Ont., July 7 (CP)— Four persons, Vincent Morton, Gerald Osborne, Leonard Lacey, and Rugby Reid, from the picket line at the strike-bound Empire Brass plant have been charged with leaving nails on a thoroughfare. The charge was laid under the Highway Traffic Act, and trial was adjourned to July 12. They are accused of leaving nails on a driveway at the plant on June 22.

Property Legacy Decided By Lot

LONDON —(CP)— Ownership of six houses was decided by lot after the death of Thomas Charles, 79.

Charles had six children and six houses. In his will, he ordered a draw. So the six children—three sons and three daughters—drew folded bits of paper out of a hat.

"We are all satisfied with the results," said Donald Charles, one of the sons.

The houses are worth about £800 (2,480) each.

Red Troops Take Chonan In New Drive

Roll Back Americans After US Planes Knock Out 20 Tanks

WITH AMERICAN FORCES ON KOREAN FRONT, July 8 —(Reuters) — North Korean forces today took Chonan and rolled the Americans back south along the main highway toward Taejon.

In fierce fighting at Chonan the Americans destroyed five tanks with bazooka fire before outflanking Communist infantry forced them to withdraw, abandoning some of their wounded.

Chonan is about 35 miles northwest of Taejon, the provisional South Korean capital.

Tokyo said North Korea's Russian-made armor took its heaviest pounding of the war from American planes with possibly 40 tanks destroyed, front dispatches said today.

A high official at United States headquarters in Korea said most of 40 red tanks hit by planes south of Suwon Friday were knocked out. South Korean sources were even more optimistic, claiming 10 more northern tanks destroyed in the Yongju-Chungju sector to the East.

These reports of tanks destroyed exceeded the most liberal interpretation of U.S. Air Force claims, however. The Air Force in Tokyo listed a total of only 20 tanks probably destroyed.

Gen. MacArthur announced that American troops captured a 60-ton tank—the largest Russian-made armor yet reported in the Korean War. His latest communique also told of the capture of a 33-ton tank.

The communique did not specify the area where the tanks were captured, but it was presumed to be south of Pyongtaek, scene of the heaviest action Friday.

Infiltration Fails

Front-line dispatches said the North Korean infantry made night infiltration attempts on the main western front, but were repulsed.

The South Koreans reported taking "numerous prisoners" in stopping an attack on Yongju, 40 miles east of Chungju, a highway junction reported recaptured by the defenders Friday.

MacArthur's communique said the invaders had three divisions

BRADFORD, Ont., July 8 —(CP)—Three of six persons killed near here in a car-bus crash early today were members of the Davis family of Norwood.

Killed were: Marjory Davis, 21, of Norwood, Robert Davis, 19, of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McClay, 36 and 30, of Toronto, their nine-year-old son, James and Lyle Reddick of Toronto. Mrs. McClay, Robert and Marjory Davis were brothers and sisters.

They were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Davis. Miss Davis was a book-keeper at Stewart's Garage, Norwood, and Robert had been working in Toronto for the past three years. Their father, Alex Davis is a blacksmith. There are two Davis children at home—Carl, 16, and Beverley, 14.

Car Hits Bus

Police said the accident occurred when a truck driven by Ivan Babineau, 29, of Toronto sideswiped an oncoming southbound bus. The bus lurched out of control, struck a soft shoulder and swung into the lefthand side of the road.

The passenger-filled sedan, travelling north, struck the bus head-on at full speed. The bus and car were so tightly jammed together that crowbars were needed to separate them.

Five of the occupants of the car died in the wreckage. The sixth, the nine-year-old boy, was hurled through a window and struck a fence 10 feet away.

Police said the bus contained only one passenger, a man named Applegarth, who escaped with superficial cuts. Driver of the bus, Pat Patterson of Toronto, also suffered minor injuries.

The accident occurred shortly after 1 a.m. EDT at this winding portion of the main highway leading north from Toronto. Police had difficulty in identifying the bodies of the victims.

Haultain Pair Injured In Car Smash-up

TORONTO, July 8—Seven persons were injured last night in a two-car head-on collision on the Queen Elizabeth Highway north of Port Credit. All were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in two ambulances and a panel truck.

The injured are in critical condition. All received face and head injuries. One woman was pinned under a car when it turned on its side.

Provincial police said the cars, one of which was from the United States, collided with such force that they were almost moulded into one, and that they blocked traffic on the highway for nearly an hour.

Of the seven injured are John Hugston, of Windsor, Edward Flateau and his wife, Gertrude, Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Beverly Trustwell and William McMillan, both of Haultain, a village in the Peterborough area.

Others in the Hughson car were Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Englebricht of 208 Market St., Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Flateau and Miss Trustwell and McMillan were in the U.S. car. They were driving west to Niagara Falls. The other car was going east.

Leg Pinned

When the Flateau car turned on its side, one of Mrs. Flateau's legs was pinned in by the door. Provincial police and spectators lifted the vehicle to free the woman.

J. R. Williams, of Oakville, emptied his panel truck of some furniture and hastily converted it into an ambulance. He carried two of the injured to hospital.

Meanwhile two ambulances were brought from Islington to carry the rest of the injured. Provincial Constable Frank Raymond provided a motorcycle escort for the ambulance to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Others investigating the case are Provincial Constables Ronald Gale and Tom Mayne.

Thugs Get $21,000 Loot In Daring Holdup, Police Arrest 2 Suspects

Question Third Man And Seek Fourth As $6,000 Recovered On Tracks; Another Holdup At Haberdashery Failure

TORONTO, July 8—(CP)—Two men will appear in court today on armed-robbery charges in connection with Friday's $21,000 holdup of the Acme Farmers Dairy in west-central Toronto. Police announced their arrest early today—without revealing their names—and said they are questioning a third man and searching for a fourth. At the same time, they continued their hunt for two gunmen who held up Harry Hertzman's haberdashery in the west-central area 90 minutes after the dairy robbery. The would-be robbers fled empty-handed from the store after slugging Hertzman over the head.

Charles Tavignot, 37, an Acme driver, was shot in the foot when he tried to overtake the thugs following the dairy holdup. About $6,000 of the loot was recovered on railway tracks just south of the dairy, where the thieves apparently dropped it during their flight.

2nd Big Holdup

The raid on the dairy was the second major holdup in the Toronto area this week. Two men held up the Dominion Bank branch at Dufferin Street and Glencairn Avenue in northwest Toronto Tuesday and escaped with $2,018.

Four young girl payroll clerks were in the dairy office when the two bandits entered. The holdup men wore dark glasses and white handkerchief masks. The taller of the two carried a long-barrelled revolver.

While the tall bandit growled, "Okay, everybody, shut up and let's have it," the other scooped stacks of bills from a desk into a crocheted shopping bag.

UN Appoints MacArthur As Commander

LAKE SUCCESS, July 8 (AP)—The United Nations Friday cleared the way for appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as first Supreme Commander of the UN forces in Korea. It also authorized him to fly the blue and white UN flag.

The UN asked countries supplying forces in the battle against Communist North Korea to put them under a unified command headed by the United States.

The action was taken by the Security Council by a 7-0 vote. Three members, Egypt, Yugoslavia, and India, abstained, and the 11th member, the Soviet Union, continued its boycott of the Council.

The idea of a supreme war council to co-ordinate political and economic moves at Lake Success was dropped. MacArthur will have free hand to wage war against the Communists without interference from Lake Success and subject only to orders from Washington as an agent of UN.

Thrown Out

A peace demonstrator, who said he was a conscientious objector, was thrown out of the Council chamber just before the meeting began.

Warren R. Austin, chief US delegate, told the Council the United States gladly accepts the responsibilities and obligations placed upon it by the Council.

Appointment of MacArthur is expected to be made soon by Washington.

The Council by its decision on Friday backed up more fully its resolution of June 25 calling for a cease fire in Korea and its resolution of June 27 authorizing the strongest possible peace enforcement action to stop the fighting in South Korea.

Truman Gives Armed Forces Draft Power

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—President Truman today dangled the draft law over the heads of reservists and prospective recruits in an urgent effort to build up United States military manpower for the demands of the war in Korea.

The President gave the armed services power to draft men in a general order Friday designed to lift economy limits imposed on the Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force.

It was apparent that the Defence Department hoped to get by, at least initially, without using the draft authortiy.

No official would say how many men are wanted. However, a comparison of the limits fixed by law against the present strength of the armed forces indicates that the figure could run as high as 547,482.

The officials of the armed forces who made public the President's order said that as far as they knew there has been no decision yet to call up the National Guard or reservists.

Reaction Favorable

Generally, reaction in Congress to the President's decision was favorable.

The President's announcement said:

"To meet the situation in Korea . . . the army and navy and air force have been authorized to exceed the over-all budget ceilings for military personnel . .

"The use of selective service has been authorized. Voluntary enlistments also will be accepted."

The general impression was that this "first step" was taken to spur the return to active duty of as many reservists as the services need—at the outset officers and technicians—and to boost recruiting.

Won't Have Appeasement St. Laurent Backs UN

SASKATOON, July 8—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent took the case for United Nations intervention in Korea to the people Friday night, and told them the government gladly accepted Canada's participation, with confidence that joint intervention will preserve peace. Canada has offered three destroyers.

He firmly rejected appeasement in the face of Communist aggression, and accused Russia of a clumsy and criminal effort at deceit in its attempts to brand South Korea as the aggressor and to distort U.S. interventtion into a violation of the UN charter.

With the detailed precision of a lawyer at his craft, Mr. St. Laurent gave a Liberal party picnic near Saskatoon the background of very grave events that, he said, might easily have spread into general war.

He said events of the last few years have borne a sinister resemblance to the late 1930's, but the West had benefited from the lessons of those years. It had learned that peace and freedom could be secured only if their defenders stood firmly together.

No More Appeasement

The democracies had vowed after 1939, that they would never again travel the futile and humiliating road of appeasement. With that in mind, and with both the desire and confidence that peace can be preserved, Canada had accepted her obligations to help the UN in its police action against aggression.

Trucks Collide Driver Killed

MORRISBURG, July 8 (CP)—James Godfrey, 29, transport driver of Ajax, was killed Friday night and two other men escaped injury when two heavily-loaded transport trucks collided six miles east of here.

Godfrey was driving an eastbound McCallum Transport Company car-transport loaded with three new trucks.

Uninjured were Romeo Proulx of Montreal, driver of a westbound Reliable Transport Company tractor-trailer loaded with 20 tons of steel, and his co-driver, Eugene Paquette, also of Montreal.

Provincial Police said a third heavy transport was west-bound near the two wrecked vehicles at the time of the crash, which occurred on a straight stretch of highway. The driver is being sought for questioning.

The cab of the rig Godfrey was driving burst into flames as it hit the ditch after the crash. The Morrisburg fire department was called out to prevent the blaze from sweeping through both vehicles.

Want New Methods Of Handling Cheese

STRATFORD, July 8 —(CP)—More than 250 cheese producers and dairy farmers, meeting here Friday night, suggested the Dominion Government study some new methods of handling cheese and pay freight charges from western Ontario to the Montreal seaboard.

Chief proposal was that all milk be handled in a provincial pool regardless of its destination.

Alvin Fraser of St. Marys proposed the pool handling of milk, he said it would assure fair allocation to cheese, butter, concentrated or fluid outlets.

Citizens Flee Foul Gas Smell

MOLINE, Ill., July 8—(AP)—A foul-swelling gas routed citizens from their beds here early today and sent them scurrying in the irnight clothes to high ground and fresh air.

Police cars roamed the area trying to find the origin of the odor. Reports here said the smelly, invisible gas cloud spread through east Molnie, Silvis, Rock Island, Ill., and Davenport, Ia.

Engineers for a gas and electric utility company could find no leaky lines.

Several cases of upset stomachs were reported.

Art Schinske, of the Moline dispatch, said:

"The police are being run ragged, calls are coming in from all over the town, and the squad cars are going all over the place.

"People are all heading for the high ground away from the river."

There was no estimate on how many persons left their homes. Moline is a city of about 35,000, some 140 miles west of Chicago.

Calls Shipping Ban Subversive Challenge

CANBERRA, July 8 (Reuters) —Percy Spender, external affairs minister, today called the ban by the executive of the Australian Seamen's Union on transporting war materials to Korea "a subersive, arrogant challenge."

The ban, announced by the Communist-controlled union executive last night, affects nearly all Australian seamen, the majority of whom are members of the Seamen's Union.

Spender said the ban would be placed before the attorney-general who would decide whether it came within the scope of the penal code.

Truck Drivers Staging Strike

LONDON, July 8 (Reuters) — Hundreds of truck drivers in Britain went on strike today in sympathy with Smithfield meat market workers whose wages walkout is completing its second week.

The truck drivers are the first of 30,000 road transport workers in the London area to answer an unofficial call to stop work by Monday morning. The strike has been condemned by their union.

Without waiting for Monday, many drivers today refused to take out their vehicles, curtailing the flow of food and raw materials to London.

Transport groups along the south coast and as far away as the industrial midlands and north of England have pledged their support. A strike of 70,000 road transport drivers throughout the country was possible.

Canadian Ships To Fly UN Flag

OTTAWA, July 8 —(CP)—A diplomatic source said Friday night it is very likely that the three Canadian destroyers now heading for Hawaii will fly the flag of the United Nations along with the blue ensign if they eventually go into action in Korean waters.

He said though the U.N. decree was not mandatory and left it up to a decision by the unified command which is expected to be placed under Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Canada undoubtedly would favor the use of the U.N. flag by any of her forces participating in the Korean fighting.

Zoot Suiter Case Adjourned One Week

CRYSTAL BEACH, July 8 (CP) —A case involving continued invasion of Crystal Beach by zoot suiters and noisy behaviour that disturbed residents at night was adjourned Friday for one week when Rodney J. Kearns, 23, of Buffalo, pleaded not guilty.

Kearns was remanded until sufficient evidence is brought in by police regarding a cottage which Kearns allegedly leased for the summer.

Witnesses complained about gangs of men and women who gathered each weekend at a cottage rented for all night parties. It is alleged that they often journeyed to a nearby beach and returned in scant costumes.

Fleas, One Phone Line Driving War Writers Crazy

By MILTON MARMOR.

TOKYO, July 8 (AP)—Tired, begrimed newspapermen are telling the story of Korea's war in three-minute spurts over a single telephone line.

After bumping over rough terrain most of the day, about 30 correspondents file into the barren room of the Postoffice Building at headquarters of the United States army forces in Korea.

They draw lots for the telephone to Tokyo. A correspondent must be ready. Then he dictates rapidly for three minutes—and tries to squeeze in a frantic plea for clothing, flea powder and coffee.

Then ensues a long wait for his next chance at the telephone. Military priority calls often block the correspondents off the wire.

Fortunately the lone wire is in excellent condition. It is maintained by the U.S. Army Signal Corps.

The Korean conflict broke so suddenly that the first reporters who went to the invaded republic did not have time to get army clothes and heavy shoes, needed for movement over mountainous and water-bogged land. So many of them are wearing sports shirts.

There are now more than 100 reporters in Japan and Korea. Originally there were only five western correspondents in Korea and all represented news agencies.

In Korea the nearest telegraph communications to the newspapermen are 10 hours away by train.

Because of the crush on the signal corps telephone, special correspondents who lack offices in Tokyo fly back there to make sure their copy gets filed.

Photographers give their negatives to anybody flying to Japan and trust to luck.

Korean War Slows Soo Tourist Business

TORONTO, July 8—The war in Korea has hurt the tourist business in Sault Ste. Marit, Ont., the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity reported Friday that its reception centre at the Sault had seen a drop of tourist registrations from 1,697 to 1,091 in three days.

False reports have gone abroad that the port is closed to visitors, according to the department. The fact of the situation is that he Sault is still welcoming tourists with open arms. Only the American locks are out-of-bounds to visitors.

Almost Take Pledge As Rattler Visits Bars

AKRON, O., July 8 —(AP)—Have another beer, boys. It was a real snake, honest.

This was the advice of two Akron bartenders today after their customers saw a three-foot diamondback rattler on the barroom floors last night.

The snake first appeared in the Holland Mill Cafe and sent the customers screaming for the table tops.

Then it showed up across the street at the Eastern Taproom and again the patrons took the pledge and lit out yelling.

When Patrolman Robert Shaffer arrived he found Charles H. Barker in a corner of the bar with the snake.

Arrested for intoxication, Barker explained: "I bought him for a pet for my three-year-old son, Henry."

Husband for Princess British Guessing Game

LONDON, July 8 (CP)—Who is eligible to marry Princess Margaret?

"Any one she falls in love with," says a spokesman close to the Royal family. He added that he was speaking unofficially.

The question is—who will it be?

There were brand new guesses today because the Princess has danced with a couple of other fellows.

A few days ago it seemed to be settled, except by the persons most intimately concerned. Gossip said the ultimate youth is the 26-year-old Earl of Dalkeith, farmer, forester and heir to Scottish estates. He had been seen a lot in the Princess' company.

Then the Prince threw all guesswork into confusion by showing an interest in two other young men. One is 26-year-old Lord Ogilvy, son of the Earl of Airlie.

She went to a lot of pains last night at a ball at the Dorchester Hotel to teach the youthful lord the steps of an intricate Scottish dance.

An awkward moment came at the ball when the master of ceremonies announced the Scottish folk dance Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh—written in honor of Princess Elizabeth, for her wedding to Prince Philip three years ago.

Quickly sizing up the situation Princess Margaret volunteered a demonstration and proceeded to coach the guests.

Competence on the dance floor, said guessers, would certainly need to be a high-priority qualification of any one aspiring to be husband of the Princess, who likes parties and rhythm.

A second young man entered the lists, after having been eliminated by guessers some months ago. He is 25-year-old Peter Alistair Ward, second son of the Earl of Dudley and a former member of the RCAF. The Princess danced him back into the running at a party at Buckingham Palace Wdenesday night.

BBC SCRIPT WRITER—Six months ago Eric Nicol was studying for his master's degree at Sorbonne University in Paris. Now the 30-year-old Vancouver writer does the script for the BBC's Canadian-angled comedy program, "Leave Your Name and Number," with Vancouver's Bernard Braden and Barbara Kelly. The program is doing so well that Nicol may never get back to Paris—and that master's degree.

Just Wanted His Degree But Radio Won't Let Him

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON — (CP) — Script writer Eric Nicol of Vancouver has a serious slant on life—"A man with a message, you might say"—But the radio boys just wont leave him alone.

He's so busy writing gags for a Canadian comedy team that his plans for more purposeful literature are on the shelf, temporarily at least.

Six months ago Eric, a 30-year-old bachelor, was leading a fairly cloistered life in Paris, studying at the Sorbonne on a French government scholarship. He lived with other Canadians at the cite universitaire and spent most of his time working for his master's degree.

His income, largely from Canada's Department of Veterans Affairs, came to about $60 a month. He saved money even at that, and had a good, austere, highbrow time.

London Summons

Then came a summons from London. Bernard Braden, an old Vancouver buddy, needed a script for a new BBC program, "Leave Your Name and Number." Nicol came, started writing and hasn't had a free moment since.

The program clicked. Now Eric works from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily except Thursday, grinding out gags for the weekly-half-hour spot starring Braden and his actress wife, Barbara Kelly.

Canada gets a lot of free publicity on "Leave Your Name and Number." Braden and Miss Kelly play a couple of Canadians trying to get a job in show business in London. Barbara forms an actors' agency and if she gets any offers, sends herself along.

The script is sprinkled with Canadian references, including a fictional character named Hardpan Hennessy of Hogpen, Alta. English audiences seem to like it

No Easy Job

But it's hard work writing 28 minutes of script, with no time out for commercials.

"The program is recorded Thursday," Nicols secretary told The Canadian Press, "and believe it or not thats the only night Eric ever goes out."

Nicol admits it's "absurd"—but theres the money problem.

Hes negotiating now with the BBC on a new program, "Bedtime With Braden." If the price is right he'll probably stay indefinitely; if not, his forthcoming holiday in Canada may last longer than anticipated.

"I hope you won't give anybody the impression that I'm succumbing to the lure of the guinea," he said in an interview. "I really do want to do some serious—seriously-intended, anyway—work."

A Little Remote

Meanwhile, Paris and that master's degree look a little remote. His thesis on the late Jean Giraudoux, author of "La Folle de Chaillot' and other plays, stays in the drawer half-finished.

Unless there's a sudden dip in his radio popularity, Nicol's only cultural contribution to Canadian letters this year will be a book called "The Roving Eye" a collection of impressions on Europe scheduled for publication (Ryerson) in September.

RedSpeakersQuashed By Toronto Police

An outdoor meeting called to agitate against the "imperialistic" war in Korea ended unexpectedly yesterday when police walked off with the meeting's two main Communist speakers and dispersed about 400 people who were blocking the sidewalk at Spadina Ave. and Camden St.

Taken to Claremont St. station for questioning and released 20 minutes later were Stewart Smith local chairman of the Labor-Progressive Party, and Communist school trustee Sam Walsh. PS Arthur Glover said he removed them when they refused to stop talking long enough to answer his questions.

Police said their action was not part of an attempt to crack down on the city's Communists. The crowd was blocking the sidewalks they said, and removal of the two speakers was the quickest way to disperse the gathering. By the time Smith and Walsh were released the crowd was gone.

Bear Hunt

ST. LEONARD DE PORT MAURICE, Que. (CP).—Residents here are organizing a posse to go after a black bear that has been scaring children and others in a nearby wooded section. Provincial police have been ordered to take part in the search.

Barbless Hooks

CRANBERRY PORTAGE, Man. (CP).—Guides here advocate the removal of barbs from fish hooks and both Canadian and American tourists seem to be enthusiastic about the idea. Main reason is to simplify the return of undersized fish without undue damage. Catches are not affected greatly.

Rapid Movie Camera Gets 40,000,000 Shots a Second

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE.

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP). — Motion pictures taken at the rate of 40,000,000 a second were announced in the Review of Scientific Instruments Friday.

Three are shown, each a step in the explosion of a bit of fine gold wire when it vaporizes in a flash of intense heat.

In the first picture the wire is glowing. In the second the wire has swelled, but is still undistorted. In the third, the wire is three to four times its normal size but still in perfect form. Later, incandescent rings form around the wire like barber-pole stripes.

The report is by A. M. Barem and F. R. Marshall of the U.S. naval ordnance test station, Pasadena, Cal., and the Stanford Research Institute.

The trick is the shutter. This is a further development of the same shutter, known as a Kerr cell, on which they have done several years' work. Nearly two years ago this shutter was fast enough—at 10,000,000 a second — to photograph a ray of light travelling only 10 feet. Light's speed is 186,000 miles a second.

The shutter is a glass jar, filled with a crystal-clear liquid, nitrobenzene. On each side of the jar is a round window, of polarizing glass. The jar and its contents are perfectly transparent. The light enters through one polarizing window and goes out at the other.

One of these windows is turned opposite the other, so that it shuts out all light, the same as can be done by turning one of the lenses in polarizing eyeglasses. To open the shutter, an electric shot is sent into the liquid between the two windows. The shot twists the light in the liquid.

The twist is just enough to let the light pass out of the second window. In this shuter nothing moves but the light itself.

The photography is used for military and scientific studies.

Spaniel Whizz At Solving Mathematics

MONTREAL, (CP). — A hairy mathematical genius with a tail and a weakness for card tricks was guest of honor here at a meeting of the Canadian Progress Club.

"Dinghy," the seven-year-old genius, startled guests by solving square and cube root problems, multiplying, dividing and adding. Then he named cards selected by the audience when his back was turned.

This was quite an accomplishment, for "Dinghy" is a coal-black cocker spaniel, the property of Dr. A. F. Jones of Montreal.

He started his performance by barking his age and the days in the week. Then guests called out addition questions.

"Two plus two," called one. Dinghy curtly barked four times.

"One plus nothing," said another. Dinghy barked once and yawned.

He breezed effortlessly through multiplication and division and nearly yawned again at the square roots.

Identifies Cards

Then, without looking, he identified cards chosen by the audience. First he identified the suit and then barked the number.

He only made one mistake. After correctly telling the audience he had four feet and two ears, he was asked how many tails he had. Dinghy enthusiastically barked twice.

Dinghy was born in Scotland in 1943 and went overseas with the RCAF as a mascot until 1945. When Dr. Jones returned to Montreal he brought him with him and continued his training begun in Scotland.

However, despite all his training and practice, Dinghy still has trouble with his tails. Dr. Jones, a surgeon and general practitioner, says he suspects it's wishful thinking.

in the western front salient in the Pyongtaek-Ansong area.

The Northerners' probing of the American-South Korean lines continued as far south as Chonan, about 15 miles south-west of Pyongtaek. An American patrol moved through Chonan Friday, before being flanked and forced to retreat.

A new or regrouped northern division was reported operating in the Mugung area, 25 miles east of Pyongtaek.

Eastward from Mugung, South Korean forces have held their lines and in some places have gained ground.

240 Casualties

MacArthur estimated American combat casualties at 240 of which 192 were missing.

In the east-coast area of Samchok where the Reds made early amphibious landings, the northerners were observed to have truck transport and possibly some tanks.

One Australian and two American planes were lost Friday, during which spotty weather prevented effective attacks on northern ground positions.

The U.S. Air Force in its score for the day listed hits by B-29s on Wonsan Port, naval base and oil refinery; destruction of 22 trucks, one tank and one-half track; damage to 20 trucks, three tanks by jets and Mustang propellor fighters; 50 to 100 North Korean soldiers killed by strafers.

Washable Newspapers

BRAIDWOOD, Australia (CP) Founded in 1855, the Braidwood Despatch, a country newspaper has some notable achievements to its credit. When ox-teams failed to bring in newsprint because of floods some issues were printed on brown paper and others on sugar-bag material. Then calico was used, the issue called in, the calico washed and then used again.

Veteran Officer Once Told King To Get Hair-Cut

EDMONTON (CP).—A well-known Edmonton soldier of two wars, who once ordered King George VI to get a hair-cut, has retired from active life.

He is 62-year-old Col. Louis Scott, until recently district supervisor of small holdings for the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

It was in 1918 when he was on loan to the Royal Air Force that he had his encounter with the King, then Prince Albert. Col. Scott was a supervisor in the RAF Cadet Training Brigade at Hastings.

One day during inspection Prince Albert's hair was noticeably long. The Edmontonian ordered him to appear next day with a hair-cut. The Prince did.

Popular With Men

"Prince Albert was popular with the men, obedient to the officers, but often found routine of the ranks irksome," Col. Scott recalled. He remembered the time the future king broke ranks during a particularly trying parade and sought the shade of a tree. Rebuked by the colonel and ordered to return, the Prince obeyed and completed the parade.

Born in England, Col. Scott came to Canada at the age of 21 and was one of the first white settlers in the Athabasca Landing district of Northern Alberta. He rose to the rank of colonel after starting his army career as a buck private in Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Between wars, Col. Scott organized the Legion of Frontiersmen in Canada and in 1930 was Dominion Commandant. He was Commandant of Military District 13, with headquarters at Calgary, during most of the Second World War.

KitchenerEmployment Hits Peaks For Year

KITCHENER, July 8—(CP)—Employment in the Kitchener district hit a peak at the end of June with a total of 733 persons idle six months ago, all back at work.

Figures for the end of June showed a total of 472 unplaced applicants, 309 men and 163 women. Most of the women are married.

National Employment Service officials said Friday there has been a month-to-month rise in employment levels with the big increase registering since the opening of the construction season.

It is estimated that of the 733 returning to work 85 per cent were in the construction trades.

"HARVEY" THE PCVS MOUSE

Harvey, The Great Big Rabbit Comes To Life At The PCVS, But Only In Form Of Tiny Mouse

By DON GRANT

PCVS is as quiet as a mouse. Yes, even as quiet as Harvey, the mouse.

Unlike his namesake, Harvey, the six-foot rabbit who failed to appear in the auditorium last week, Harvey, an inch-long mouse, is making a personal appearance at PCVS this week and for the remainder of the summer.

Harvey's performance at PCVS is not valuntary but it has been dramatic. His antics and desires have distorted the summer program of the school staff and the maintenance crews.

The snowy white little fellow has reason to believe that he has been cornered into his performance. For a week ago his life of leisure romping through the empty corridors of PCVS ended with a thud at a dead end, the toe of a shoe.

His present manager, Sam Castle, head of the maintenance staff, spotted Harvey at the east entrance of the school a week ago. After several short trips across the floor Harvey was cornered. Like a fugitive Harvey made his last fling for freedom into a dark hole. But alas, it was the toe of an old shoe carried by Mr. Castle.

Harvey's next appearance was in a milk bottle in the main office of the school but according to the maintenance men he didn't like his new abode because "he gave everybody a glassy stare."

After a day of the bottle R. G. Corneil, a teacher in the Industrial Arts department, heard of Harvey's predicament. The result was that Harvey was presented with his present castle, prison and stage, a wired box with wooden shavings and a bowl for water.

King Harvey, his popularity has risen in the school to the extent where the staff visit him at least once a day, is now on top of the educational world. Each day he is presented with fresh water, oats, cheese (he doesn't have to rob traps any more) and the delicacy, potato chips.

Unfortunately Harvey is not like Frances, the talking mule. His past, believe the maintenance men, must have been quite shady. For when he was taken into custody he was a grimy grey. Happily after one week at PCVS in his castle he is pure white with sparkling pinky eyes which show he is inclined to be mischievious.

Harvey's future at PCVS is a constant worry to the staff. Should he manage to survive the summer "holiday" what course should he take in the fall? Mr. Corneil has claimed Harvey for the Industrial Arts school but at present he is situated in the English classroom on the Academic side. Whatever course he should decide, Bev. Goulding's football team will have one player that will be able to slip through the smallest of holes.

Calgary Bulges at Seams Stampede Starts Monday

CALGARY, July 8 (CP)—Calgary will tip its 10-gallon hat to thousands of Canadians and Americans over the weekend as they stream into the city for the annual Calgary Exhibition and Stampede and Calgary's 75th birthday celebrations.

Civic and Stampede officials, preparing for the big western welcome, have laid down a full week of entertainment. Hotels have been turning down reservations for months, but the tourist bureau is finding accommodation in thousands of homes throughout the city.

And should the visitors fail to find a bed for the night, there's always the big feed-boxes filled with hay that line the streets.

The big show will open early Monday with a parade. The Stampede will be officially opened by Prime Minister St. Laurent. Many government officials, including Reconstruction Minister Robert Winters, Rt. Hon. F. M. Forde, Australian High Commissioner to Canada, and George Drew, leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, will be in attendance.

Stampede officials expect last year's attendance record of 407,954 to be broken during the six days. Grandstand tickets have been on sale since February. The world's top cowboys are competing for the more than $24,500 prize-money.

THIS FOR CANADA'S NATIONAL FLAG has been adopted by No. 118 branch, (6th Hussars) Canadian Legion, and will be submitted for approval at the biennial Dominion convention in Winnipeg this September. Drawn by George J. McMurdo, 640 Brault avenue, Verdun, Que., it shows a Union Jack in the first quarter (UPPER LEFT), colored maple leaf, the whole on a white background.

Judgment Held In Charge Of Hitting Cop

COBOURG, July 8—(ENS)—Judgment was reserved until July 27th in connection with a charge against Albert Scriver of Hastings who is alleged to have assaulted Provincial Constable D W. Coffey of Hastings on April 29. All the evidence was taken at Hastings with the exception of the last witness, Dr. W. E. Wilkins, whose testimony was taken Friday at Cobourg.

Dr. Wilkins said that on April 29 he examined Albert Scriver who had been brought to his office by Constable Coffey and he gave Scriver a number of tests for alcohol. Scriver had a contused wound on the left temple with a minor laceration of the skin at that point. There were no other visible injuries, he said.

Dr. Wilkins testified that Coffey had a small incised wound on his left hand about one and a half inch below the knuckle of the ring finger. It looked like a cut such as would be received from glass, the doctor said.

To defence counsel J. C. M. German, witness said that the mark on Coffey's hand and the location did not appear to be due to his hitting the accused.

Defence counsel told the court that the evidence had been that Scriver had been backing up from Constable Coffey and was not resisting arrest.

Still Shuddering

READING, Pa., July 8 (AP) — A driverless tractor-trailer loaded with 28,000 pounds of dynamite rolled down a hill Friday and crashed into a house. The dynamite didn't explode. (The house was damaged to the extent of about $2,000).

GET SAFE AND $10

Thieves broke into the CNR station at Woodville, about 12 miles northwest of Lindsay, early Friday morning and made off with the safe containing $10 in cash and seven blank money order forms. There were also some personal papers belonging to Station Master David Nunn. The front door of the station was forced open, and the safe was loaded into a motor vehicle, Lindsay provincial police are investigating.

Wheat Prospects For 1950 Said Excellent

OTTAWA, July 8 — (CP). — Prospects for the 1950 world wheat crops generally are bright, the Bureau of Statistics said on Friday.

It reported that wheat supplies remaining in the four major exporting countries — the United States, Canada, Australia, and Argentina — continue to be substantially above last year.

Estimated supplies remaining at June 1 this year in the four countries totalled 781,000,000 bushels, compared with 657,000,000 a year ago.

Supplies were as follows, with last year's figures in brackets:

United States 470,000,000 (345,000,000), Canada 144,000,000 (155,000,000), Australia 98,000,000 (78,000,000), Argentina 69,000,000 (79,000,000).

Europe Optimistic

Reports on European wheat crops are optimistic and crops this year may exceed those of 1949. There are no indications of failure in any part of the continent.

France is expected to have a surplus and good crops may be expected to reduce import requirements in other European countries.

The Indian crop is apparently turning out better than last year.

The US wheat crop, while below that of recent years, will still approach 1,000,000,000 bushels, well above the pre-war average.

Rains have improved the Canadian outlook and if favorable conditions continue a good crop may be harvested.

First There Were Four Then Presto–Only One

BARRIE, July 8 (CP) — First there were four kittens, joined together by a growth at the hindquarters.

The next time Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Money looked into their barn at nearby Vespra, there was one kitten, looking just like any other kitten.

The Moneys figure that the mother, being a privacy-loving cat rather than publicity-hound, lost no time in transforming her brood into a normal family. She chewed through the webbing that held them together and transported them one by one to parts unknown.

The Siamese quadruplets weren't her first claim to fame. Last year, three of her kittens had no tails.

EYES AND EXPLORATION

The world is about to enter upon a new era of exploration. To study intensively the little-known regions where armies have fought; to reveal the history of their making and of the people who live there; to learn what they can give for education, culture and human welfare—that is the exploration of the future!

Before the war, quite a number of people were commercial explorers. Some were employed by chemical and drug companies. Others travelled to the ends of the earth searching for oil, rubber, gold, diamonds, tin, manganese, platinum and a score of lesser known natural products. Still others were plant hunters, sent out by our Dept. of Agriculture and by arboretums and great florist companies in England, France and America. Their job was to find new fruits, edible plants, grains, grasses, trees and flowers, to give us cheaper and more varied food or enrich our gardens with the blooms of foreign lands. Their number will be increased a hundred fold in the post war world.

Scientific exploration, also, will have a great rebirth. Every museum has extensive plans. Primitive people must be studied before they have had too long contact with white man's civilization. Animals, birds, insects, and reptiles must be collected ere they become as extinct as the Dodo bird.

It is the job of keen eyed explorers to solve these problems. And with flawless eyesight, we will discovered that a whole new world of happier living opens up for us—happier living, healthier living, more successful living. For the world is ours through our eyes.

Edmonton Bank Operating In Quonset Hut

By GRAHAM TROTTER.

EDMONTON, July 8 (CP). — Edmonton's newest bank, substituting fibre board for the conventionable marble and with an outside appearance of a giant tin can halved from end to end, opens Monday.

Believed to be the first Canadian bank to operate from a quonset hut, it will serve as temporary quarters for the main Edmonton branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada on downtown Jasper Avenue.

Erected in the last 1½ months for an estimated $50,000, the gleaming metal hut will be razed in 18 months when a permanent building is expected to be completed across the street on the site of the old main branch.

Going up alongside the quonset hut is a 15-storey addition to the Macdonald Hotel, Edmonton's largest.

Heavy Doors Familiar

About the only resemblance the hut bears to a bank are the heavy oak doors that customers of the main branch have passed through for 42 years.

The staff of 60 will transact business on 6,600 square feet of floor space, comparable to the bank's former quarters. The building was set on a cement slab 114 by 41 feet with galvanized iron sheets laid over curving girders. The hut is only 26 feet high.

Burglars will need more than a can opener to break in. The large concrete vault is independent of any wall. Even the scratching of a match on its sides will touch off an alarm.

Pressed for room, the builders placed the boiler of the steam heating unit on top of the vault.

The quonset hut has been the favorite of Edmonton's construction-conscious "sidewalk superintendents."

"The policy . . . in the past has been to be exceptionally lenient in the hope that the addict would give up the habit, but experience has taught us that policy is not succeeding," he said.

Russians Show Film Version Of War's End

BERLIN, July 8 (AP) — The Russians showed Friday night their film version of the last days of Berlin without attempting to portray what happened to Hitler.

It was the second part of "The Fall of Berlin," made by the Soviet government and given a premiere before a selected audience of 800 East German Communist party wheelhorses. The first part of the film was shown June 23.

Last night's two-hour show dealt with the events beginning with the final launching of the Russian offensive that moved from the Oder river to Berlin in the last two weeks of April, 1945.

Hitler is portrayed as a gibbering idiot during his last hours in the air raid bunker beneath the Reichschancellory. His death is not explained, but Stalin is shown in the Kremlin receiving a telephone report of the event, then turning to Molotov and others to exclaim:

"Just like a gangster."

The film toys with a few historical facts. For instance, Stalin is shown landing in his plane at Berlin immediately after the victory of the Soviet troops. Actually, he came to the wrecked German capital secretly from the Potsdam conference, more than two months after the shooting had stopped.

RichFergusonSmashes Senior 2-Mile Record

TORONTO, July 8 (CP)—The experts who called Toronto's 19-year-old Rich Ferguson the outstanding junior distance runner in North America can come up with an "I-told-you-so" chant today. The kid is slightly terrific.

Just returned from an invasion of British and continental tracks, the blonde youngster with the close-cropped hair stood out like a beacon in the opening program of the Canadian junior track and field championships Friday, shattering the Canadian native senior record for the two-mile event. His time of 9:31.6 made the old time of 9:49.2 set by Mervin Gale of Montreal 19 years ago look like a walk.

Clifford Howe from the Community Sports Association of St. Lambert came up with two firsts —a record-breaking nine feet, 9½-nich height to take the midget pole vault and a first in the midget high jump- giving his club a big boost in the point standings, 35, good for third spot.

Campbelford Wins

MARMORA, July 8.—(ENS).—Marmora juvenile baseball team were unable to subdue their Campbellford opponents in a scheduled home game on Friday evening and lost by the score of 15-10. Possibly it was because the major portion of the team were playing their fourth game of the week that several fielding errors occurred at a time that proved costly, to give the visitors a comfortable lead in the third. However, Marmora played hard for the remainder of the game to reduce the margin. Best hitters for the winners were Jeffs, Ibey and Darran; and for Marmora, hitting honors went to Auger, Dikun and Killian, the latter also starring in stealing bases. Drummond, while have 11 strikeouts, was not quite up to his usual form. McNaughton had nine strikeouts, and his offerings proved difficult to connect with until the seventh. It was Marmora's second loss of the season, the first half of which is now completed.

New Zealand Now Experimenting With Steam Holes For Power

By J. C. GRAHAM.

ROTORUA, N. C. (CP). — To the many geysers, blowholes, boiling pools and other strange sights in New Zealand's thermal regions has been added an artificial one——a roaring, belching jet of steam from a reservoir many hundreds of feet below ground.

This is the first of dozens of bores being driven in the Wairakei geyser valley in the centre of the north island in an effort to harness New Zealand's thermal activity as a new source of electricity.

The investigation is being tackled on a major scale, for if the scheme proves practicable it could change the industrial future of New Zealand. The whole of the north island of New Zealand, which is developing far more rapidly than the south island, is suffering from an acute power shortage.

New Zealand has not enough coal to depend on coal-fueled stations for electricity. Its development until now has been with hydro-electric stations. But these take time to construct and so far have not been able to catch up with time lost during the war. Furthermore, the hydro-electric resources of the north island are likely to be fully utilized in from 10 to 15 years.

Make Study

New Zealand government engineers have made a study of the successful use of geothermal power at Lardarello, in Italy. There, some 150 bores are delivering steam to power stations producing 350,000 kilowatts and plans are being made for expansion to 1,000,000 kilowatts—equal to the total capacity of 10 power stations being developed along New eZaland's biggest river, the Waikato.

If New Zealand's thermal activity can be tapped for electricity it should produce power far more cheaply than by present methods.

The steam will be supplied from natural sources and the construction work necessary will be much smaller. So extensive are the thermal regions and so great the activity that there are prospects of a vast supply of cheap electricity which could open the way for large-scale operation of many new industries in the dominion.

Many Problems

But there are many problems to be solved first. The present work is divided into two parts. Test drilling is being carried out to gain practical experience of how to tackle the major task and to determine what ort of steam supply is available at various depths. A long-term scientific survey is also being carried out by geophysicists, volcanologists and other experts.

Italian engineers will be brought to the dominion later to advise on new problems as they arise. For instance, it is expected that steam from the New Zealand bores will be more corrosive than that in Italy and special alloys will be necessary.

The investigation will cost millions of dollars, but the results, if they can be pressed to a successful conclusion, will open up the prospect of vast and spectacular development in New Zealand's future.

We Must Expect Bad News

The news from Korea has not been, so far, particularly encouraging. The American forces have retreated, or at best they have held their own. But we must not allow these early reports to depress us. The American forces in Korea are still small, and they lack heavy equipment; they are standing against troops who have tanks and, apparently, some heavy artillery and who are numerous. When American troops and equipment on a larger scale are at work in Korea we shall hear a different story.

• • •

Even then, however, we must not hope for quick results. If there is a sudden decision it will be lucky, but we dare not expect it. July in Korea is a rainy month, and fighting on soggy ground in wet weather does not permit much in the way of sudden and brilliant strategical strokes. It may be a long fight, and it may be some time before the American forces can establish and hold a line.

• • •

It is important that we should not give way to easy pessimism. It is particularly important that we should not think that it was a mistake to go into Korea—that the Communist advance there should have been ignored and a better opportunity to come to grips with a Communist invasion should have been waited for. We saw what happened when, before the last war, chances to check aggression were passed over. There is a strong likelihood that Russia planned the Korean advance simply in order to see what the attitude of the democracies would be. Well, now Russia knows.

• • •

In most warfare the aggressor has the advantage for a considerable time, and the North Korean troops are doing well now. But war is a slow business, and we know enough by this time, surely, not to expect sudden or easy success.

Good Small Houses

The post-war housing "problem" is most blatantly said to be the shortage of houses but there is another aspect of the problem which becomes more obvious as the shortage decreases: the kind of houses being built. Long after the shortage is forgotten, the dwellings put up in the last decade will not be. We venture to prophesy that this decade will go down in history as among the worst in domestic building.

A majority of the new small houses are unhandsome boxes. Seen collectively on new streets and reaching out into suburbia, they are ugly blotches, a dreadful commentary on the architectural efforts and street planning of an age that should know better.

This decade has built poorly. Why? It may be said that the shortage was great and houses were needed quickly and in tremendous quantities. That has not been the basic difficulty. The trouble is, and has been, that architects, builders and homebuyers were unprepared not only to deal with the shortage but also to adapt themselves to the new conditions. These new conditions were: the great increase in building costs and the necessity of building and living in small houses. One is related to the other. Small houses or apartments are now generally inevitable. People cannot afford to buy, rent or run big houses. Further, families are small.

Small houses have been put up by hundreds of thousands but owing to restrictive building trade practices, lack of money and conservative tastes, new techniques of construction and new materials have been widely ignored. Some of the new houses have a few of the trade marks of modern architecture, such as large windows and dual-purpose rooms, but the old styles and methods still dominate. Fine small houses, in good modern architectural design pictured in magazine articles are built at great expense for private purses. They have not been put up in thousands by government agencies or speculative builders. The reason may be that people think the new designs in houses are not home-like and comfortable: they have not been brought up in such houses, nor brought up to them. They have only read about them. Another reason is the cost: until they are mass-produced and contractors given greater freedom from union rules and outdated civic building regulations, they will not be available to people of average incomes.

The Museum of Modern Art in New York city has on display now a complete one-storey house erected in the Museum garden. It has been put up to show that good modern architectural design is possible in the field of speculative building and to show visitors that such a house is convenient, comfortable, pleasant to look on and live in, and can be remarkably spacious. It has been designed by a young Californian architect, Gregory Ain, who has made a notable contribution to modern housing in the Mar Vista section of Los Angeles, where he has built a whole street of such houses as the one in the Museum garden.

The house is suitable to most parts of this continent. A special characteristic is its spatial flexibility. Sliding walls and panels are used, so that the livingroom, dining area, parents' bedroom and kitchen can be all thrown together to form one living area, or can be sub-divided for privacy. The children's part of the house is similarly adaptable.

It is really a small house, but the feeling of spaciousness is achieved by the design. That spaciousness can be lost if the furnishings and equipment are not proper to it. Overstuffed sofas and tall-backed chairs, heavy colour-schemes or cumbersome lighting could clutter it. (The furnishings of most small houses in this country have the unfortunate effect of making them seem smaller than they are). The Museum house is completely furnished and decorated, and it is this, as much as the architectural design, which make the house livable, even gracious. As public and builders have clung stubbornly to old architectural styles, trying to adapt them to small houses, so furniture makers and interior decorators have not quickly enough adapted themselves to the requirements of the small house.

When many people can see for themselves how such houses look, can wander through them and sit in the new chairs, under newly designed lights and at tables suitable to the houses, modern architecture may come to the small-income family. When builders and architects see a whole row of such houses that can be put up, at prices within average rental range, they may cease to propagate the boxes of the last decade. And a reassuring note is this: the furnishings for modern good small houses are slowly becoming available in stores. Production methods can reduce the price of the new chairs from $60 to $15 when there is sufficient demand for them. It is to be hoped that the next decade will build better small houses than the last. They are now possible.

What Do They Do In The U.S.A.?

In the current issue of Life there is a series of four pictures depicting a state of affairs which gives Life pain. The largest is of a Canadian regiment, the Princess Pat's Light Infantry, on the march; an infantryman has fallen down, presumably from heat-stroke, and his comrades are stepping over him. The other three show similar incidents in British regiments, and in one of them Princess Elizabeth is shown walking past a W.A.A.F. girl who has fainted.

Life demands, rather indignantly, why such inhumanity is tolerated? Does nobody care whether these unfortunate people live or die?

Our own experience of such matters has been slight. However, we have seen soldiers faint on parade, and in a couple of minutes a couple of men appeared with a stretcher and carried him away to a tent where he was given appropriate treatment. Indeed, we once did a job of this kind. And our belief is that such provision is usually made, and that it is not the job of a man's comrades in the ranks to pick him up if he falls during inspection. We are open to correction by military men if we are wrong.

Why is Life so indignant? What is the usual procedure in the U.S. Army? Do the West Point cadets break formation when a man falls on parade? We doubt it. Does the inspecting officer rush to the fallen man crying "Stop the parade! My poor boy, let me loosen your collar!" We think not. There are ambulance groups who do this work, and do it very well, while the parade goes on. Life has a tender heart, but also, it appears, a soft head.

John Ruskin: Critic and Moralist

By WILFRID BLUNT

IT is difficult, if not impossible, for us to appreciate today the veneration in which Ruskin was held in England during most of the latter half of the nineteenth century. A few of the older generation do, indeed, remember with what bated breath his name was once spoken; how his most casual utterances carried the weight of an "ex cathedra" pronouncement. One who knew him personally, and who accompanied him on his last visit to France, has told me of the suspense and eager anticipation which preceded the publication of each new number of "Fors Clavigera". How are the mighty fallen! For if Ruskin has latterly regained some measure of popular flavour, it is no more as a social reformer or a dictator of art; it is Ruskin the Man who commands our interest and attention when Ruskin the Prophet is without honour.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN May, 1843, a "Graduate of Oxford" published anonymously the first volume of a long work which was one day to make his name famous throughout Europe. The author was a young man of twenty-four named John Ruskin; the book was Modern Painters; the main purpose of the first volume was the championship, the rehabilitation rather, of the painter, Turner, Turner had been a Royal Academician for more than forty years; he was not a "discovery" of Ruskin's, in the sense that certain Italian painters were to be. But the recent works of Turner had estranged him from his earlier admirers. Ruskin's service, not too graciously accepted by the cantankerous old artist, was to win recognition for the splendid, glowing compositions of Turner's so-called "third period".

◇ ◇ ◇

THE first volume of Modern Painters, its author tells us, was written "in great haste and indignation"; its successor, which appeared in 1846, differed from it in tone and in subject matter. Among its heroes were Fra Angelico, Giotto, and Tintoretto. Ruskin's championships of the Italian Primitives was of immense importance. In the days before photography, the general public was in the main familiar with works of art only through engravings. With the best will in the world, the engraver could give little more than the general composition of a picture; texture of paint, colour (or at any rate finesse of coloring) and subtlety of draughtsmanship were alike sacrificed. Ruskin's enthusiasm aroused interest in the works of many Italian painters little known in Britain. It was due largely to his propaganda that the National Gallery acquired many important works. Travellers to Italy visited the galleries with new eyes and fresh ideas. The Arundel Society, founded in 1849 for the reproduction in colour of paintings, largely Italian, by the best processes available at the time, was one of the many results of his tireless enthusiasm; though these prints were still very imperfect (they had to be made from water-colour copies), they introduced many works wholly unknown in Britain.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE art of Venice, and that of Tintoretto in particular, had never suffered the full eclipse that had overtaken the Primitives of Florence and Siena. But though artists such as Sir Thomas Lawrence, Turner and Etty warmly admired Tintoretto, the general public lagged behind; Tintoretto was still a "painter's painter": it was Ruskin who exposed the false doctrines of critics such as Kugler (Handbook of Painting) and opened the eyes of travellers to the splendour of the high Renaissance in Venice.

◇ ◇ ◇

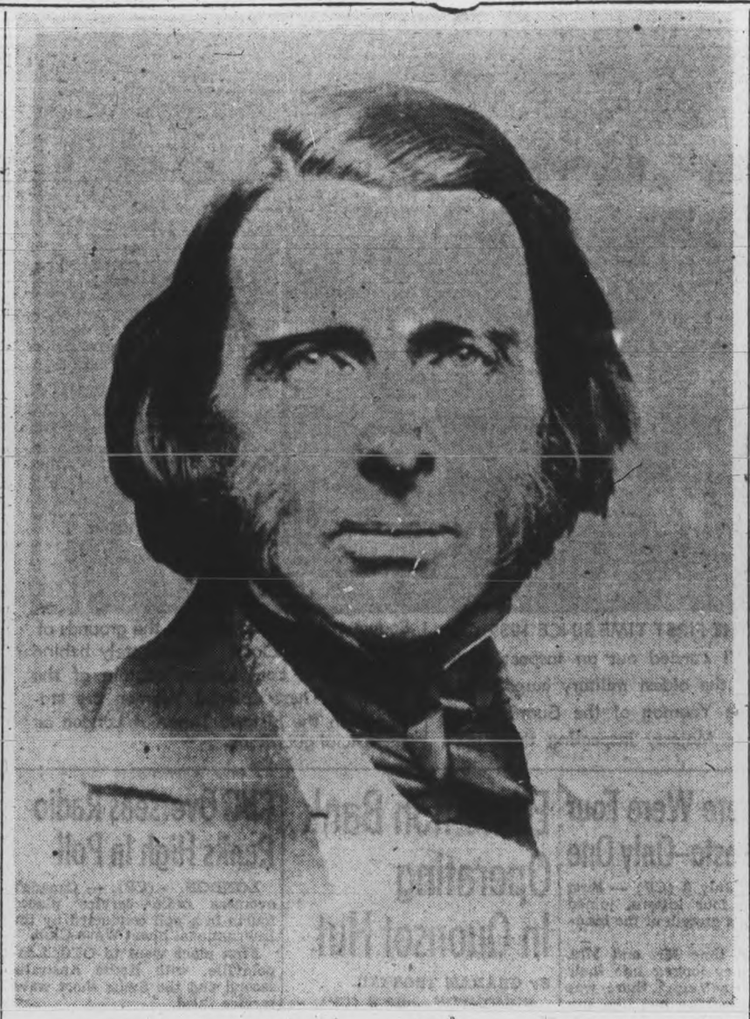
BUT Ruskin did not only rescue certain Old Masters from oblivion and one of his older contemporaries from misunderstanding; the timely support which he gave to the Pre-Raphaelites enabled these young men—for we must never forget how very young they were—to weather the storm that broke over their heads in 1850. Ruskin was not, as has sometimes been said, instrumental in any way in the foundation of the Brotherood in 1848; indeed, he at first reacted unfavourably to its work, having, at the Royal Academy Exhibition of 1850, to be "literally dragged up to the Millais picture of 'The Carpenter's Shop', which I had passed disdainfully". But no sooner had he espoused its cause than he became a powerful ally. Letters to "The Times", pamphlets and lectures were rushed to the aid of the Brotherhood, whose fortunes turned with the warm advocacy of the acknowledged censor of the arts. Pre-Raphaelitism, we must admit, is no more than a backwater of English art; it is, however, a very pleasant backwater, as many are finding today, and we cannot but be grateful to Ruskin for his help in preserving it for us.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT is probably in the field of architecture that Ruskin's influence has been most baneful. He opened his campaign with the publication in 1849 of "The Seven Lamps of Architecture", the book in which he first revealed the identity of the "Graduate of Oxford". It has been described as "the first treatise in English to teach us the significance of architecture as national autobiography". Of the closing passage of "the Lamp of Sacrifice", Frederick Harrison wrote: "No man of feeling, who has in him the echoes of this funeral sermon, can stand before a great medieval cathedral without being conscious that it has gained for him a new meaning, a sublimer pathos". Yet in this book we encounter again Ruskin's refusal to submit to the accepted boundaries between morals and aeesthetics. "Was the carver happy while he was about it?" he asks respecting ornament; if not, it will lack life. "The condition is absolute", he adds. But it was after the publication of "The Stones of Venice" (1851-53) that the disastrous effects of certain of Ruskin's architectural views first began to be felt; for whatever benefits were bestowed by the attention drawn to Venetian Byzantine and Gothic, they were more than offset by the unfortunate influence of the latter style on English architecture in the second half of the nineteenth century. Venetian Gothic, superimposed upon the Gothic Revival, grew and spread till its ubiquity became nauseating even to its greatest admirer: "I have had indirect influence", he laments, "on nearly every cheap villa-builder between this and Bromley; and there is scarcely a public-house near the Crystal Palace but sells its gin and bitters under pseudo-Venetian capitals copied from the Church of the Madonna of Health or of Miracles. And one of my principal notions for leaving my present house is that it is surrounded everywhere by the accursed Frankenstein monsters of, indirectly, my own making."

◇ ◇ ◇

"THE Seven Lamps", however, was the starting-point for a movement which has had a widespread and an admirable influence on Britain's national life. I refer, of course, to the famous passage on "restoration", beginning "Do not let us talk then of restoration. The thing is a Lie from beginning to end...." The Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings (Morris's "Anti-Scrape"), adumbrated by Ruskin in 1854 and realized by Morris in 1877, and Ruskin's own St. George's Guild, were the inspirations which lay behind the foundation by Octavia Hill of the National Trust. (Morris always acknowledged that Ruskin was "the first-comer, the inventor" whom he was proud to follow). Whenever we are tempted to feel that some aspect of Ruskin's influence on art or architecture has been unfortunate, let us remember with gratitude this enduring legacy.



JOHN RUSKIN was perhaps the most influential art critic and writer on aesthetics of the nineteenth century. As a social reformer he was keenly interested in the earliest labour union movements, and it was his hope that better wages and conditions of work would persuade working men and women to enrich their lives through an intelligent interest in the arts. The policy on art of the present British Labour Government would have delighted him; his ideas have not, however, had any effect as yet upon the labour movements on this continent. The Windsor Autobiography

(LONDON SPECTATOR)

There is something just a little pathetic about the autobiographical articles by the Duke of Windsor which the Sunday Express is publishing. There are few people who will not regret that a former King of England should see fit to figure with this prominence in the colums of the popular Sunday press. His motive for doing it must be a matter of speculation.

He explained last Sunday that "as the years went by, and error and supposition multiplied, it became more and more plain that it was my duty to put down the facts as I know them". It may have been his duty to put them down; it was certainly no part of his duty to publish them in the Sunday Express. If he had put them in book form any publisher would have welcomed them, and salient passages would have been quoted by every paper in the Kingdom.

But in fact there is no case for the correction of alleged errors and suppositions. The Duke of Windsor is not a subject of public discussion today. The unhappy events of 1936 belong to history, and no responsible person wants to disinter them. An ill situation turned out unbelievably well, and there it may be left. Nothing could be more deplorable than that the whole story of the abdication should be dragged up again after many of the persons, like Lord Baldwin and Archbishop Lang, principally concerned in it, are dead and silent. But we are apparently to have it all.

BABY PLAY

A four-year-old and a three-year-old were playing together. Bored by their sandbox they began clicking popguns at each other. In a piping baby voice the four-year-old demanded:

"Thick 'em u-u-up!"

The three-year-old made no response. More insistently came: "Thick 'em u-u-up!"

"Huh?" was the three-year-old's response.

Came a wail from the four-year-old.

"Mommy, Bobby wont thick em up!"

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version).

Be ye therefore followers of God, as dear children; and walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given himself for us an offering and a sacrifice to God for a sweet-smelling savour....

See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the time, because the days are evil....Speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord; giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ....

Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it; that he might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water by the word, that he might present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot, or wrinkle or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish. (Eph. 5: 1, 2, 15, 16, 19, 20, 25-27.)

Peace be to the brethren, and love with faith, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. (Eph. 6: 23.)

Inadequate Sentence

(Edmonton Journal)

One of the most inexplicable sentences we can remember in Alberta was that passed in the Supreme Court Wednesday on two young men convicted of robbery with violence.

This was a case of a type which has fortunately been rare in Canada. The accused broke into the home of an elderly farmer, attacking him with the utmost brutality and stealing all the money they could find in the house.

In the course of the proceedings they tortured their victim by slashing him with a saw to make him tell where his wallet was hidden; "perhaps 100" cuts were found on the unfortunate man's legs. The only excuse the pair could offer was that they had been drinking. Yet the trial judge, who admitted that this was "a very grave offence," let them off with only six months hard labour.

This is a wholly inadequate sentence. Robbery with violence is one of the most serious crimes in the Criminal Code — a maximum penalty of life imprisonment, plus lashes, is provided—and this was a particularly aggravated case. A more cowardly and brutal outrage could hardly be imagined. It would seem to call for a stiff penitentiary sentence and a good flogging. In a similar case in Manitoba a few years ago, the accused were given 10 years.

A BRITISH OPINION

Local Star of a Dozen Sports for 25 Years

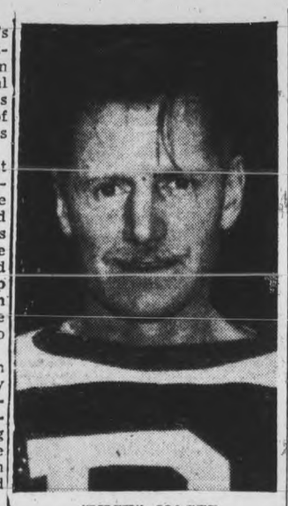
By DON GRANT

A stellar player in Canada's roughest sports, lacrosse and football, for the past 25 years, Clinton (Mick) Magee captain of the local senior "A" lacrosse team, has never lost a tooth. Very few of Magee's co-stars of both games can make this claim.

He has preserved his teeth, but Magee's nose has taken the beating. It has been broken five times, three times in football and twice in lacrosse. Amongst his other broken bones during the years have been a broken leg and shoulder. He has been stiched up many times, but nearly always on his head. During one lacrosse season he received 22 stitches to his face and head.

Old stitches and mended broken bones are soon forgotten by Magee when he views his collections of mementos. These include three scrap books dating back to his first days in collegiate football in 1925 and more than 15 windbreakers of all colors and types.

Two of his most prized possessions, a sweater-coat and a football, bring back his playing days with the Hamilton Tigers and Wildcats. The black and yellow sweafer and crest can be worn only by players of the club present and past. Even the executive members of the club cannot wear the sweater and crests.



"MICK" MAGEE

The football, bearing the names of all the players of the Hamilton Wildcats and the Ottawa Roughriders who played in 1941, was awarded to Magee at the Eastern Canada final game. He was the last player to have the ball.

Besides starring at lacrosse and football Magee has performed in basketball, swimming, jumping and wrestling. In every sport he has accomplished some feat which has placed him amongst the best.

Football at Collegiate

His football career started under C. S. Browne, now principal at the collegiate. On the halfline he will be remembered for his daring leaps for yards which took the PCVS teams to district championships.

Without pads, wearing running shoes Magee with other football enthusiasts formed the intermediate football team in 1935 with the help of Lou Brooks. They went through to the finals, to be beaten by St. Thomas. In 1938 he was with the Orfuns on the halfline.

Under Jim Palmer Peterborough's product jumped to the Hamilton Tigers backfield. In 1940 he was quarterback with the team. As an outside he played with the Hamilton Wildcats in 1941-42, once reaching the Eastern finals.

During the war he played with the RCAF club at Hagersville losing out to Annis Stukus' navy team in 1944. In the fall of 1945 he returned to the Hamilton Tigers as an outside for the last four games. His football career ended in 1948 when he was quarterback with the Peterborough Panthers.

Magee's early lacrosse was played in city and inter-county leagues from 1932 to 1937. Then the senior B team was formed playing their games in the box on George St. The team went to the finals that year but lost. In 1938 they were senior "B" champions.

Hamilton Tigers boxla team picked up Magee in 1939 to play with the famous Bill Isaacs as a forward for three years. His games with Isaacs are tops in Magee's memories. With the RCAF Hagersville squad Magee shared the honors when it won the Command championship.

Top Lacrosse Leagues

After the war Magee signed with the Brampton Excelsiors in the senior "A" bracket, which lost that year to St. Catharines in the finals. He returned to Peterborough in 1946 to help bolster the sport once again in his home town.

Summer is the mother of the poor.
ITALIAN PROVERB

With other top lacrosse players the Petes won the senior "B" Ontario championship two years in a row, first defeating Fergus in 1947 and then Huntsville in 1948. Magee was captain both years. Once again in 1949 he returned to the senior "A" battles but this time for the local team. This year he is captain.

In hockey Magee played with the Miami Clippers in the four-team Florida league in 1938. Both he and Jim Ellis won places on the all-star team. He returned to Canada to play hockey for Hamilton and the RCAF. When the Legion team was organized in the fall of 1946 Magee was with the team. He played until 1949 when he became manager of the championship squad.

His outstanding feat in the other sports is a 73-foot dive from the Cobourg lighthouse tower. With Jack Gardiner and Carlos Routley, Magee dove twice from that height. The tower is 10 feet higher than Hunter St. bridge.

Such feats as at Cobourg combined with his amazing play in football and lacrosse across Ontario have placed Mick Magee among the top all-round athletes during the past 25 years, a position which he can be expected to hold for several years to come, even if he has had a quarter-century on the big tough games' fields.

Hints On Horticulture

PRUNING ROSES

The principles of rose pruning though simple, are not so well understood as they should be. The different kinds of roses require different treatment as far as pruning is concerned. Prune those of vigorous growth lightly, those of weak growth severely. Climbing roses are very vigorous and do not require the hard pruning of the hybrid perpetuals, or the more severe treatment of the Hybrid Teas.

Severe pruning and thinning of the stems of Roses will encourage vigorous basal growth from the stems which remain. That is the reason we prune Hybrid Teas severely. They are usually of weaker growth than the hybrid perpetuals or the stronger growing climbers.

When pruning Hybrid Teas select and retain three or four of the strongest stems, preferably those which are well distributed over the plant. Thin out the remaining weaker growths. This will favour a more bushy form than where careful thinning is not done. Cut the stems which remain back to two buds or so from the old wood, always, when possible, leaving the bud which points in an outward direction. When these buds form woody growth, it will grow from the centre of the bush which consequently will be left quite open. Air, light, and moisture will thus have freer circulation around the stems. Thus they will grow vigorously and produce better leaves and flowers. The wood will ripen more satisfactorily, will more likely survive the winter and from its buds better and stronger growths will appear after pruning the following spring. Remember that when you prune Hybrid Teas, the more weak growth you remove, the more you will encourage the growth of the strong.

Hybrid perpetuals usually do not require extreme measures when pruning. Select five or six or as many strong growths as you think necessary to retain. See that they are well distributed and remove the remaining weaker growths. Cut the selected stems back to an outward bud six or eight inches from the base of the stem which bears it. Do not cut all stems at the same height, otherwise an inartistic, chopped-off appearance will result.

In the case of Climbing Roses a different treatment is necessary. Prune away the flowering growths as soon as the flowers fade. Do not wait until spring. Remove the old and dead canes and train strong young ones to replace these. Canes more than three years old may be removed if younger ones have been produced to replace them. Do not cut away any strong canes which are likely to reproduce flowers unless it is possible to fill the gap. Remove the thin and straggling canes which grow from the root completely. Shorten back the young growths which are tied to the supports at points where they are weak and not likely to ripen before winter, and the old ones only when they reach the desired height or occupy conveniently their allotted space. In cold localities it is best to allow all of the strong young canes to remain until spring.

ROSE PESTS

Green Aphides and bugs or Chafers are the worst insect pests of the Rose, black spot and mildew the worst fungoid pests. To eradicate Aphides spray with a nicotine soap solution. Hand pick the Chafers.

To eradicate black spot, dust the foliage on both under and upper sides and stems with a mixture of seven parts flowers of sulphur and two parts arsenate of lead. Burn all fallen leaves. For mildew spray with a solution of potassium sulphide, one ounce to one gallon of water.

The two great organizations which are spreading the gospel of the rose in North America are the Rose Society of Ontario and the American Rose Society. May each have a successful year. Through their efforts thousands now grow and love the "Queen of Flowers." She is worthy of the love of all.

"Red as the wine of forgotten ages,
Yellow as gold of the sunbeams spun,
Pink as the gowns of Aurora's pages,
White as the robe of the Sinless One,
Sweeter than Araby's winds that blow,
Roses, roses, I love you so."

Nowhere in Southern Ontario did the fishing spotlight shine more brightly than on the Kawarthas. It is still burning with a strong white light. Everyone everywhere is as happy as can be. First of all our American visitors; they came to us off the strength of this being the fishingest district in the Province. And they are having unbelievable luck, all of it good. Resort owners' places are jammed to the eaves and good solid backlogs of future reservations. Boat liveries are renting out anything that will float, any motor that will cough—a short gasp at the most. Merchants in Peterborough and surrounding villages are playing merry tunes on their cash registers. Even cold storage operators are busy filling lockers with game fish; ugly rumour has it they are accepting many undersized specimens. Yes sir, the Kawarthas are more than living up to their name "Happy Lands and Bright Waters."

• • • •

Happiest of all, I'm sure, are the DLF boys in Queen's Park. After waging a battle with the sporting public for the past several years in an endeavour to bring back the Kawarthas to their rightful place in the sun as a top fishing country, they have finally proved their point admirably. The waters are now filled with millions of undersized fish, black bass and 'lunge, which is proof that their long planning, study, experiments and enforcements laws have paid off. How right they are to make it possible for us to be fishing into well-populated waters with generations of fish sliding over the size-limit line each season. You can imagine what would have happened if only large fish were taken. The Kawarthas would have been dried up long since, financially and fishwise.

Lamprey Malarkey; It's All Bosh

However, with all this feeling of well being, there comes a sour note. It was reported by Globe and Mailster Bob Turnbull that members of the East York Fish and Game Club took bass and pickerel at Burleigh lately which bore evidence of attacks by lampreys. Another member took a five-foot emaciated muskie near Hastings that weighed a measly 11 pounds instead of the well-rounded 40's. "Possibly the result of eels," writes Bob. Now before I get fightin' mad at this stigma, let me count 10 and give you some facts, Robert.

• • • •

Biologists state very definitely that there have never been reports of lampreys or evidence of their dastardly work in the Trent. A lot of publicity given to lampreys lately in other parts of the Province, has made for many misinformed fishermen, who, upon seeing a strange mark of any kind on a fish cry, "A lamprey's been at it." All pure bosh. And now about the skeleton 'lunge at Hastings. The obvious reason for this creature's condition was that a partly-digested catfish or plug had become lodged in its craw. Result, starvation; could happen to humans, even. So, when you say "lamprey" again, and under your breath, we beg you, don't call them "lamprey eels." They are two different things, entirely.

• • • •

We are not hiding the fact that some muskies taken down here have ugly sores on them. This is neither the result of lampreys or poachers spear marks but a disease called Sarcoma which is characteristic to the pike family. Biologists have made extensive studies of this condition and are still at it. They say it is not contagious to humans or other fish, the sore itself and the surrounding flesh is not malignant and that it may be a hereditary thing.

Fish Flushes; Snorting Good Trio

The newsroom is being swamped with fishing stories this week in the early flushes of fishing successes. It is not possible for me to find a secluded spot where some sport will not ferret me out with tall tales. There have been some dandies for all of the run-of-the-mill yarns. Two outstanding ones come to mind. Three American fathers, Steve Chinci, John De Ferrari and H. A. Cartwright, with three sons, Bernard, Frank and Anthony, respectively, fished on Pigeon with three guides Ray, Jack and Kevin Perdue, all brothers. Within half an hour, and one-quarter of a mile of each other, they snagged a muskie in each boat; the fish weighed 15¼, 15½ and 15¾ pounds. If this isn't an all round triple play, what is?

• • • •

The story that tickled my fancy more than any other was when Roy Cameron of Katchewanooka Lake phoned in the story of a 25-pound 'lunge which was robbing strings of bass parked by resort guests at his wharf. And all the details of Joe Strocit of Wheeling, W. Va., bringing the bruiser to shore only to lose it. Just then, Mrs. Cameron called out that guest Bon Musch of Medina, O., had another on his line. Roy passed the phone to his wife and yelled a blow-by-blow play to her from the dock while she relayed it to me by phone. You couldn't come much nearer to being at the battle than this, unless you had television, or something.

• • • •

Of course there were the big babies to see and photograph. South Beach Hotel guest Mr. Blewett of Cleveland, O., hooked a 28-pounder in front of the resort on Monday. Another fish, one-half pound larger, taken by Henry Reese of Salem, O., off Brisban Camp, near Roseneath on Rice Lake. And two small fish taken within the city limits off Langton St., in the Otonabee; Mrs. Edna Fairbairn, 1-14, and Nick Harkley, 1-12. Another large pickerel from Jack's Lake, 10 pounds, was boated by John Dykstra, proprietor of Jack's Lake Lodge.

In order to list the better catches of the surrounding district, we are going to run a KAWARTHA SCORE BOARD each Tuesday for a while. It will be made up in concise statistical form and of general interest to all fishermen, we hope.

For What Is Life

For what is life, if measured by the space
Not by the act?
Or masked man, if valued by his face,
Above his fact?
Here's one outlived his peers,
And told forth fourscore years;
He vexed time, and busied the whole state;
Troubled both foes and friends;
But ever to no ends:
What did this stirrer but die late?
How well at twenty had he fallen or stood
For three of his fourscore he did no good.

It is not growing like a tree
In bulk doth make man better be;
Or standing long an oak, three hundred year,
To fall a log at last, dry, bald and sear:
A lily of a day
Is fairer far in May
Although it fall and die that night:
It was the plant and flower of light.
In small proportions we just beauties see:
And in short measures life may perfect be.

Progress of Peterborough: XXV

British Gentry Lured to Kawartha Wilds Lakefield Cradle of Upper Canada Writers

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

When the wars with France and United States ended in 1815, the British government and its colonial officials determined to establish in Canada a ruling class firmly loyal to the King and the Church of England, and hostile to republicans, democrats, radicals, reformers, dissenters and other "subversive elements." In Upper Canada, the Family Compact gave attractive land grants to retired officers, minor gentry and others with capital, who would give leadership among the settlements of respectful peasants and industrious artisans, a kind of colonial feudalism which they thought could defy military and ideological conquest from the United States. Some carried these views to extremes, like Colonel Talbot who frequently denounced "Methodists, total abstainers and all other disloyal persons," and the Toronto Patriot, Family Compact newspaper, which on July 15, 1836, said pompously: "A cricketer as a matter of course detests democracy and is staunch in allegiance to his King."

In 1831 the system of large free grants to retired officers was finally stopped, although they were still given a rebate on land prices, and other privileges. One result was a vast increase in land speculation, of which we have seen some earlier signs in the Kawartha district. The British Isles were flooded with pamphlets to lure gentry with some capital to Upper Canada, where they could become "landed gentlemen" for a few hundred pounds. Bannister, Rubidge, and others in the Kawartha district wrote "Emigrant Guides" to divert the newcomers to this area. One pamphlet stated: "JUST FANCY YOURSELF POSSESSED OF REAL PROPERTY UPON SUCH TERMS—no yearly tenancy, no interminable leases to breed interminable jealousies—but pure fee simple—no rent to pay—LANDED PROPRIETORS, ESTATED GENTLEMEN! ONE THOUSAND ACRES FOR HALF THE NUMBER OF POUNDS!" Burnham Boswell, Bethune, Rubidge Stewart, McDonell, and others were in the business of selling choice lands. Robert Reid told Peter Robinson in 1830 that he was going to Ireland "to bring out a better description of emigrants . . small farmers with capital." Mrs. Stewart mentioned his return in 1831: "Mr. Reid after a business trip to Ireland brought back some young gentlemen who came to learn farming in the backwoods."

Land Sale Centre

Cobourg, Port Hope and Peterborough were the centres for Kawartha land-sales. Later, Mrs. Moodie wrote bitterly: "Here a number of landjobbers were established who made a profitable trade of buying from private individuals or at govenment sales of wild land, and selling them again to settlers from the old country . . . As soon as a new batch of settlers arrived on the lakeshore, there was a keen contest between the landjobbers of Cobourg and those of the backwoods to draw the newcomers into their nets." The most successful of these had close ties to the Family Compact and had large blocks of uncleared land and Loyalist land-scrip. In 1839 after Peter Robinson's retirement as Commissioner of Crown lands (and subsequent death) and the Rebellion, a Royal Commission of Investigation into the land system found "a system of partiality, favoritism and corruption, begun at an early date and continued with few interruptions up to the present time," thus proving the charges of Mackenzie's Assembly Committee set forth in the 'Seventh Report on Grievences 1835," against the Family Compact.

As the gentry flocked to the Kawarthas during the 1830's, the result was "a society . . . the most polished and aristocratic in Canada," as one traveller commented in 1833. They were drawn mostly from the younger sons and cousins of the aristocracy and the upper-middle class, very conscious of their class origins and unable to live "in their proper station" in the period of industrialization and reform that was sweeping over the United Kingdom as the Victorian Age began. Among them was a group of talented writers who made the Kawarthas famous throughout the British Isles, and have a unique pioneering role in Canadian literature. An authoritative analysis of the literary works of the Strickland family, the Langtons, and the lesser lights of this Kawartha school is overdue, but we have space here to mention them only briefly.

Thomas and Frances Stewart came in 1822, and by 1830 were well-established, as already mentioned. Like the other woman writers of the Kawarthas, Mrs. Stewart's letters and diaries were not at the time intended for publication, since "ladies" did not write for commercial gain; "Our Forest Home" was first published in 1889, seventeen years after her death. In December 1834 she wrote "Mr. Stewart is very anxious to sell some land, but no one has the money to purchase or give even what he requires, which is $12 per acre for uncleared land within 1½ miles of Peterborough. Admiral Vansittart and Sir Charles Grey and others are purchasing land about 50 miles from here in another township. They have taken a large tract of wild land. Admiral Vansittart has already 50 men at work . . ."

Samuel Strickland came in 1825, as noted, and settled nearby in Otonabee, at the age of twenty, but left within a year or two to work for the Canada Company. In 1831 he was attracted back by "flattering accounts from my Douro friends of the fast increasing prosperity of Peterborough and its neighborhood," when he sold his Otonabee farm for 200 acres ten miles north of Peterborough in Douro plus $600 in cash. With him were two other young men, Copping and Rowlandson. His story of how the little settlement of Lakefield was carved out of the bush is very interesting reading. In 1851, stricken by the deaths in one year of his son, son-in-law, granddaughter, wife and youngest daughter, Strickland left Douro,

Were I to choose a religion, I would probably become a worshipper of the sun. It gives life and fertility to all things. It is the true God of the earth.
NAPOLEON at St. Helena (1815-1818)

and two years later published his book "Twenty-Seven Years in Canada West." Looking back with the experience of twenty-five years, he was critical of "settlers" like those in Harvey township. "The spot chosen by them was one of great natural beauty, but it possessed no other advantages, except an abundance of game, which was no small inducement. They spent several thousand pounds building fancy log houses and making large clearings which they had neither the ability nor industry to cultivate; but even if they had possessed sufficient perseverance, their great distance from a market, bad roads, want of knowledge, lack of bridges and poor soil would have been a great drawback. In a few years not a settler remained of this little colony. Some stayed till their means were thoroughly exhausted; others, wiser, purchased ready-cleared farms in the settlements, or followed some profession more congenial to their taste or suited to their abilities." Strickland went back to Lakefield in later years, and died there in 1867.

Catherine Parr Traill, Strickland's sister, came to Canada as a bride of twenty, when Lieutenant Thomas Traill retired on half-pay. They reached Peterborough in September, 1832, and paid $5.50 per acre for wild land near Strickland: "but the situation was good, and has a water frontage for which my husband was willing to pay something more than if the lot had been inland further." Mrs. Traill's letters to her mother were published in London, in 1836, under the title "The Backwoods of Canada;" an expanded edition came out in 1846 and was widely read. In 1839 the Traills gave up the backwoods life and moved to Ashburnham, opposite Peterborough, thence in 1846 to Gore's Landing on Rice Lake, where Mr. Traill again tried farming. Three books were written there: "Canadian Crusoes, or Lost in the Backwoods," published in 1852, "The Female Emigrants' Guide" in 1854, and "The Canadian Settler' Guide" in 1857. At her husband's death in 1879, Mrs. Traill moved back to Lakefield and built a new home on a British government pension; she published a couple of books on nature lore, and in 1894 her autobiography, "Pearls and Pebbles," five years before her death. Many in Lakefield still remember her.

Mrs. Traill's literary fame is due to the vivid and interesting pictures her books reveal of pioneer life in the Kawartha district. Unlike some of the other gentry who wrote about backwoods, her class prejudices were mellowed by much commonsense. Like them, she divided all her neighbours into "the highly respectable society" with whom she could trade social calls, and "the lower orders;" but by 1834 she could write: "We bush settlers are more independent . . . we are totally without the fear of any Mrs. Grundy . . . It is considered by no means derogatory to the wife of an officer or gentleman to assist in the work of the house, or to perform its entire duties, if occasion demands it . . . Our husbands adopt a similar line of conduct . . . If he be seen ploughing among the stumps or chopping trees on his own land, no one thinks the less of his dignity, or considers him less of a gentleman . . . Our servants are as respectable or nearly so as those at home; nor are they admitted to our tables, or placed on an equality with us, except at "Bees" and such kinds of public meetings; when they usually conduct themselves with a propriety that would afford an example to some that call themselves gentlemen . . . Intemperance is too prevailing a vice among all ranks of people in this country; but I blush to say it belongs most decidedly to those that consider themselves among the better class of emigrants . . . If the sons of gentlemen lower themselves, no wonder if the sons of poor men endeavour to exalt themselves above him in a country where they all meet on equal grounds, and good conduct is the distinguishing mark between the classes." In another field also she made a shrewd observation, only a year after the Traills arrived, something that many gentry never found out: "The soil is generally less productive in the immediate vicinity of the lakes and rivers than a little farther back . . . the backlots are generally much finer in quality." Her books are still among the most readable on Upper Canada a century ago.

Susanna Moodie, along with her husband, Major J. W. Moodie, another half-pay officer, came out in 1834, with her sister Catherine Traill. The Moodies stayed at Cobourg until February 1834, when they too moved to the new Strickland settlement. Moodie got a small grant and bought 200 acres of clergy-reserve land for £1 an acre, and another 100 acres for £1½ an acre, "a compact farm of 360 acres on the sloping banks of a beautiful lake . . ." In 1839 Moodie

Marines Divide Twin Bill In Girls' Loop

Outboard Marines split a twin bill in the Girls' Softball League at the Bowl last night before a slim crowd. They were beaten by CGE 8-2 in the opener, but took the nightcap against the Dominion Woollens 13-5. With the schedule nearing the finish, it will be CGE vs. Woollens on Monday, followed by Ashby's vs. Marines.

Ruth Boyce pitched five-hit ball for CGE and fanned 10 in a nifty showing, as both sides fielded well in a good opening game. P. Williams ran into trouble in a few frames but was generally steady and whiffed seven. M. Batley, E. Boyce, V. Page and M. Behan were probably the pick of the fielders for both sides in the neat struggle. Marines are hustling but need more hitting, while CGE are going strong, too, and got the hitting in this fray. R. Boyce led her side at bat with four singles, as M. Batley got three and E. Boyce a triple and single. M. Behan had two of the five Marines hits, one a triple.

Marines—B. Ayotte 2b, V. Page 3b, M. Hill cf, M. Behan ss, M. Cheel rf, R. Richards rf, L. Rowan 1b, M. Walling lf, S. Wakeford c, P. Williams p.

CGE—M. Batley cf, T. DeCarlo lf, E. Boyce ss, R. Boyce p, M. Owens 3b, D. Jackson 2b, J. Hart c, G. Atkins rf, B. McMahon 1b.

A Big Innings

Marines had one big innings, the first, when they racked up 10 runs, and that spoiled an otherwise neat number. They added three after that but Woollens finished strong to tally five in the last three heats of a fair tilt. Their errors hurt but the Marines got some solid hitting in this game to earn the duke handily. V. Page, L. Rowan, R. McInroy and L. Derry fielded well on both teams, with all Marines good defensively over most of the route. L. Rowan had a homer and three singles for the winners, while J. McIlwain topped the lsing side with three singles. Carol Ferguson belted a homer, continuing her hard hitting attack since the season opened, having a dozen four-ply clouts so far. I. Whittaker had eight strikeouts.

Woollens—J. McIlwain cf, R. McInroy 2b, J. Walling 3b, L. Derry p, C. Ferguson lf, S. Dafoe rf, S. Harris ss, J. Lawson c, R. Naylor 1b.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Finland is asking amateur athletes of the whole world to compete in 1952 in Helsinki and despite war clouds is making ambitious plans to stage the biggest of all Olympic games.

"We have asked the International Olympic Committee for the right to send invitations to all countries without discrimination and the committee has decided we have the right in principal," said Erik Von Frenckell, president of the Finnish Olympic Committee.

To participate, athletes would need to meet the Olympic requirements. That means the amateur governing body for each sport in each country needs international recognition. In addition, each country's national Olympic committee must be recognized. Russia has membership in most of the international sports organizations but has no Olympic committee.

Von Frenckell, here today on an Olympic mission, declined a direct answer to the question whether he thought Russia would compete.

"The fact we are preparing to take care of 7,000 athletes should be answer enough," he said.

The Jethroe-won't-make-it-society can adjourn. Sam, of the former Montreal Royals, has arrived as a stand out rookie of the year candidate.

Jethroe is a sure thing to dethrone another former Royals star, Jackie Robinson, as base-stealing champion in the National League. Already the lean Negro with the pipe-stem legs has stolen 21 bases. Closest to him is Brooklyn's Pee Wee Reese with seven. Robinson trails with five.

"He can steal 45 or 50," said Johnny Cooney, Boston Braves coach, "he's as fast as anybody around going from first to third, a throw-back to the old days when base stealing was important."

Canada's 1950 Bisley Team perfected arrangements for final shoots before the 12-day Commonwealth shooting festival gets under way Monday at Bisley Camp, Sussex.

Commanded by Major D. MacRae of Montreal, the 18-man squad has been on the ranges daily for the last two weeks, firing in all changes of the drizzly, windy and even chilly weather that has opened England's summer.

President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League, came out with a blast recently against excessive salaries paid by certain teams in the Quebec Senior Hockey League, it was learned today.

Campbell, in an interview also deplored deficits which most clubs incur annually saying that a league that handles as much money as the QSHL should at least come out even.

He said that certain teams in the league paid excessive salaries to certain players whose popularity overshadowed their real value.

Ottawa Rough Riders got the word that they won't have the services of two potential stars in the 1950 Big Four Football League season.

Alex Saunders and William (Buck) Rogers, both members of the RCAF, have been posted to Summerside, PEI, and won't be around when the Riders start practices later this month.

Saunders had a good season with Rough Riders last year prior to enlisting in the RCAF and was down to play again this year.

Rogers, who played for Riders in 1948 and with Regina in the Western Conference last year, also was an Ottawa prospect for 1950.

Crescents Whip Athletics 10-7 Weight Helps

(By The Canadian Press)

Owen Sound Crescents Friday night showed why they are pacing the Ontario Lacrosse Association's senior circuit.

In defeating St. Catharines Athletics 10-7 at St. Catharines, they held an advantage in weight and experience and made good use of a fan-out style of play that left openings for quick breaks. At the same time, Mimico Mountaineers were overcoming Toronto Riverdales 22-6.

St. Catharines took an early lead and was ahead 3-2 when the first quarter ended. Half time found the score 5-5. In the third, the Owen Sounders' size and bulk enabled them to push past the slighter St. Catharines crew and stretch the score to 8-5. Both teams added two final-quarter tallies.

With two goals apiece, Foote, Slater and A. Smith led the way to victory for Owen Sound, while team-mates Kazarian, Mason, Campbell and Allen added singles. Smith scored three times for St. Catharines and Frick and McMahon got doubles.

The winless Riverdales provided little competition for Mimico, as Johnny Rankin and Bill Horwood fired home four goals apiece and Denny Peterson and Don McPhail added three each.
